FOREWORD

This book is made of the stuff that Life is made of; this book is made of You.

"Beauty is truth; truth beauty." Between the covers of this book, discover that; between the covers of this book, perceive a realistic record of a college year. Some day to you this book will be but one among the chronicles of time. In looking at it then, recall your own, your fellow's, and your school's events of 1931 and 1932. And as you read, remember our purpose: to give a time picture of college life at a great institution backed by a greater state.

DEDICATION

---

TO PROFESSOR C. J. McINTOSH

---

To a lover and leader of college youth

To a man whose loyalty and devotion to our college wins our gratitude

To one whose personal interest in each of us has imbued us with his own enthusiasm

To him whose widespread unselfish service has benefited newspaper men, and through them the people of Oregon

To a man whose keen and creative mind is a challenge and an inspiration

To a man whose ideal is service, who puts his creed into his deed

To a miner, a rural school teacher, a county superintendent of schools, a high school teacher and principal, a newspaper editor and a college professor

To Charles Jarvis McIntosh, professor of industrial journalism, in sincere appreciation—we dedicate this volume.

THE LIBRARY

The Oregon State library is situated in the center of the campus and forms the nucleus of the educational endeavors of nearly all persons enrolled in college. The general reading room and technical departments of the building are filled each night with students working out some phase of their course.

Equipped with a large staff that has many full-time employes, as well as students working for money to defray expenses, the library handles thousands of volumes daily and keeps all records and books so that students may have easy access to them. Being one of the largest in the state, the library fills a great need on the campus.

The State Board of Higher Education was established in 1929 by an act of legislature and replaced the former board of regents. The state board controls the actions of all institutions of higher education in Oregon and takes the place of the individual governing boards of these schools. The State Board of Higher Education is composed of nine members and the executive secretary.

The board has authority to reorganize any phase of higher education in Oregon that it deems proper and it is striving to eliminate course duplication and unnecessary expenditure of state funds for education.

Dr. W. J. Kerr, President of the College

We are passing through a period that is testing the mettle of men in much the same way as did the World war. Lacking the spectacular elements of the war, the widespread business depression, with its consequent unemployment and human distress, is making its appeal to us as directly as did the dire necessities of the war.

As members of a state and national college, we cannot, if we have a sound philosophy of life, be oblivious to foreclosed mortgages and abandoned farms, to inactive sawmills and silent foundries, and above all, to bread lines and famished children. We can do something, both directly and indirectly, in response to the sympathy and comradeship the situation demands of us.

We can share from day to day what we have, however limited it may be, with others who have less; and we can make resolute preparation, here and now, to master those principles of science and economics that will enable us in the future to help solve problems of production, plant and animal diseases, pest control, nutrition, engineering, and human health.

Just as during the early period of the war, youths were admonished to continue in college as a patriotic duty, in preparation for improved service, so in the present situation, they are advised to pursue their studies to as advanced a stage as possible. By the efforts of penetrating and consecrated students of today, will the burdens of tomorrow be lightened and the benefits enriched and broadcast.

W. J. KERR

Dr. Kate W. Jameson

DEAN OF WOMEN

To students and alumni, a college annual holds in tangible form many memories of college days. Pictures of the campus and its buildings, of faculty members, group and individual pictures of classmates afford pleasure at commencement and revive memories later.

The thing so important today will often disappear as a triviality tomorrow; while the little thing today may assume gigantic proportions as an element in making a fine character or its opposite.

It is my wish for the class of 1932 that Volume XXVI of the Oregon State college Beaver may be filled to repletion with happy memories.

(Mrs.) K. W. Jameson

DEAN OF MEN

The appearance of the college yearbook marks the end of college life for the majority of another senior class. Big questions force themselves on these seniors.

Some of them are: Has college equipped me to make a living? Has college experience prepared me to live? Have I learned to work with others? Have I made myself familiar with the better things in life, as art and music? Have I been able to win lifelong friends?

Most of all, have I learned to know myself and to meet the trials of life without self-pity, and to use these experiences to help others? If so, college has been very much worth while.

DEANS

Dr. James H. Hance, dean of mining, came to Oregon State in 1928 from Illinois where he had been the state consulting geologist and engineer. Mining has been offered as a four-year course since 1902.

Dr. James R. Jewell, dean of vocational education, came to the institution as dean in 1927. The school developed from the department of industrial pedagogy after the enactment of the Smith-Hughes act in 1918.

Dr. Clair V. Langton assumed the duties of dean of health and physical education in 1928 when the health service and physical education departments were united into one school. Before the new school was originated Dr. Langton had been head of the men's physical education department.

Ava B. Milam has been dean of the school of home economics since 1911. Oregon State was the first college west of the Mississippi to offer training in this field. The work was started by Dr. Margaret Snell in 1889.

Colonel William H. Patterson has served as commandant of the school's cadets since 1930. Military training at Oregon State began in 1872. The Reserve Officers' Training Corps was established on its present basis in 1919, and it is now the largest in the Pacific Northwest.

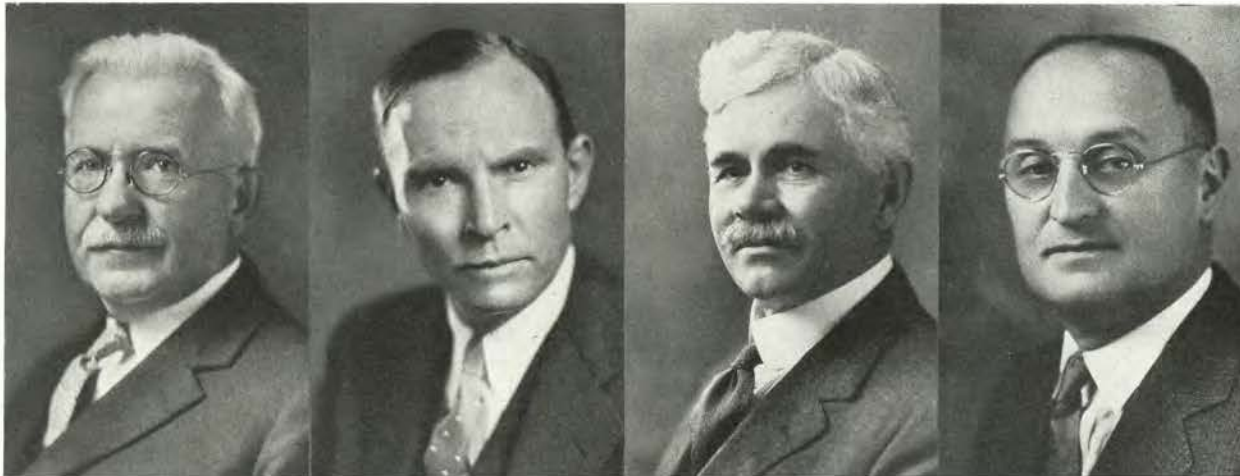

George W. Peavy has been dean of forestry since the school was first organized in 1910. Courses had been offered in the subject during the four years before the department became a school.

Harry S. Rogers, after having served for seven years as head of the department of civil engineering, became dean of the school of engineering in 1927. Dean Rogers directed the engineering experiment station in 1920 and 1927.

Dr. M. Ellwood Smith has been dean of the school of basic arts and sciences since it was organized in 1918. He also serves as director of the summer sessions. Dean Smith joined the staff in 1915.

Dr. Adolph Zieffe became affiliated with the college in 1914 and was made dean of the school of pharmacy in 1917. A department of pharmacy had been organized since 1898 although regular four-year work was not established until 1917.

Many changes are contemplated in the deanship of the various schools of the campus, but as the Board of Higher Education is not definite on the movements at the time this book goes to press, it is not possible to record the new arrangements. Some of the schools will also be taken from the campus and others brought here to replace them.

DEAN OF COMMERCE

Dr. Harrison V. Hoyt, dean of commerce, came to Oregon State this year filling the vacancy left by Dean J. A. Bexell, with a foundation of academic, practical business and school administration experiences. He graduated from Purdue university.

After his graduation from Harvard Graduate School of Business he was associated with a New York firm of industrial and production engineers. He holds the distinction of having the first and only doctorate awarded by the Stanford Graduate School of Business. He was connected with several other large industrial concerns before coming to the college.

Dean Hoyt has served in various capacities for these firms including such positions as business organization specialist, personnel director and counselor, systems and accounting advisor and administrative supervisor. This type of experience fits him admirably for his position here as dean of the school of commerce since he is head of the department of business organization and management as well as administrator of the other departments including economics and sociology, secretarial training, political science and commercial education.

The new dean comes to the college with the highest recommendations from his former associates, with special commendation from Dean W. E. Hotchkiss of Stanford university.

DEAN OF AGRICULTURE

Dr. William A. Schoenfeld, dean of agriculture and director of the agricultural experiment station, came to the college in 1931, taking the place left by Dean A. B. Cordley. His past training and experience began in 1910, including teaching, research and extension service work with emphasis on the economic or business side of agriculture.

At the University of Wisconsin he obtained his bachelor of science degree in agriculture in 1914. His master's and doctor's degrees were obtained at the Harvard Graduate School of Business. He also spent some time as a student at the University of Berlin.

Dr. Schoenfeld has a varied experience in the many phases of the nation-wide agricultural situation. He was for two years western representative of the federal farm board and for five years northwest representative of the United States department of agriculture, with headquarters at Portland. Thus he is able to combine a national point of view with an intimate knowledge of conditions and problems in Oregon.

The office of director of the experiment station was combined with that of head of the school of agriculture for the first time this year, as a result of the resignation of Director James T. Jardine, who is now chief of the office of experiment stations at Washington, D. C.

Maris      Lemon      Reed      Lewis      Smith

DEPARTMENT HEADS

William A. Jensen was executive secretary to President Kerr of Oregon State when the latter was president of Utah State college until 1907. When the president came to this college Mr. Jensen accompanied him and continued to serve in his former capacity as executive secretary.

Erwin B. Lemon was made registrar in 1921. Before he had obtained his former position he had previously been instructor in the department of business administration in the school of commerce. Mr. Lemon graduated from Oregon State college in the school of commerce in the year of 1911.

Lucy M. Lewis, head librarian of the Oregon State library, has held that position since 1920. When she first came to the college she took over the work as a cataloguer in the year of 1911. It was not long until she was advanced to assistant librarian, then to reference librarian, and from there she reached her present occupation in the library.

Paul V. Maris, director of the extension service of the college, received his appointment in 1920. Before he took over this work he had previously been the state county agent leader for the state of Oregon. The extension department gives available information to every portion of the state, and to those persons, who for any reason are unable to come to the college, who desire knowledge of work offered by the college or by the United States department of agriculture.

W. A. JENSEN
Executive Secretary

Edwin T. Reed established the department of publications in 1912 at Oregon State and is its present editor. Before he came to the college as organizer of the department of publications, he was head of the English department at Moorhead Teachers' college in Minnesota. On the campus, Mr. Reed has been active on publication boards and has been in direct contact with the students through this work. His office is a general clearing house for all cuts and photographs used in campus publications.

Edwin M. Smith was recently made manager of the business office of Oregon State college. In the year 1915 he had started working in the office as a purchasing agent, and from this capacity he rose to a higher occupation as chief clerk. Not long after, he reached the position of assistant manager and from there to his present status in the business office.

Alumni Headquarters

ALUMNI ORGANIZATION

The Oregon State Alumni association consists of approximately 7700 graduates, and also includes all ex-students retaining contact with Oregon State college. The main office of the association is in the Memorial Union building, to which alumni business is directed from all parts of the world.

The organization is divided into 35 alumni clubs, whose function it is to further the interests of the Alma Mater and to keep the Beaver spirit growing. These clubs are formed merely as social organizations and through parties, meetings and programs help the alumni to keep their contact with the campus, make new alumni friends, renew friendships with their fellow class mates and gain contacts with alumni of every generation. Other clubs have the purpose of interesting prospective students for Oregon State college, and still others carry out an educational program that affords the alumnus an opportunity to be informed of many new achievements both in science and art.

The Oregon State Monthly, official alumni publication, serves as the link between the "grads" and the students. It now has a large subscription list which includes many far corners of the world. Since its formation in 1875, five years after the first graduating class, the association has advanced steadily to its present position of unquestioned value and accomplishment until, in fact, it has become one of the real, potent factors in educational circles of Oregon and the west.

Each spring the members of the senior class take a greater interest in this organization and benefits of the alumni membership, and a large per cent declare themselves as active alumni members.

A cross section of Oregon State alumni reveals them in leading roles in the fields of home economics, engineering, forestry, mining, teaching, agriculture, and as businessmen, physicians, public officials, bankers, journalists, athletes, attorneys, managers, manufacturers and the like. The ratio of men and women among the graduates is two to one.

For those graduates unable to attend Homecoming and other special events of the campus, efforts are made to give opportunity to keep in contact with the organization through radio broadcasts. Programs are prepared with the special view of informing friends of the college about alumni and campus events.

Alumni Banquet

ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

Homecoming in the fall and the class reunion in the spring are the two highlights in the year's schedule of alumni activities. Homecoming is extensively prepared for by advance letters, program arrangements and luncheons. Meetings of the alumni board are held at these times and at other dates to determine general policies for the association and to act on all business affecting the budget. Alumni whose dues are paid have a special reserved alumni section at the Homecoming football game.

This year, under the direction of Charles Stidd, ex-'17 in commerce, alumni member, and Robert MacCloskey, '32 in commerce, student member, an elaborate banquet in the Memorial Union ballroom in "Coffee Dan" style was arranged for Homecoming, an entertaining program was furnished for the enthusiastic alumni, and a dance afterward completed the most successful Homecoming in the history of Oregon State.

As far as it is possible, spring class reunions are made equally as valuable and memorable to the alumni as Homecoming. The association follows the Dix plan, whereby classes of consecutive years gather on the campus. This makes it much more convenient for fathers, mothers, sons, daughters, relatives and friends to come back together. The reunion classes this year are '21, '20, '19, '18, '07, '02, '01, '00, '89, '83, '82, '81 and '80. Elaborate plans are made each spring for the entertainment of the "grads" who come back to renew old acquaintances, including a luncheon on the lower campus, an alumni dance in the Memorial Union building and breakfasts by the various organizations.

The Alumni association also sponsors KOAC football game broadcasts in the fall and rally programs for those who are unable to attend as well as other special events on the campus. Alumni are and have been proving themselves to be of invaluable aid to the college in helping to bring to their Alma Mater the leading students in the high schools of their respective localities.

Information regarding all alumni with whom it is possible to keep in contact is obtainable in the files in the offices of the Alumni association, the main office being located in the Memorial Union building. The files hold definite information regarding married name, class, school, business and residence address and occupation. They also include class lists. Departments of the college make use of these files in sending out information concerning graduates.

ALUMNI ADMINISTRATION

A new alumni group was created at a meeting of the board of directors of the Alumni association in August, 1931, namely, the Orange council. This group includes a band of Beavers whose activities are particularly for the advancement of the interests of Oregon State college. Its purpose in the capacity of a special alumni fund organization, is to take charge of the alumni donations outside of the regular dues.

The Alumni association board of directors handles the administration of the Orange council. Although no member in the group is required to pay a regular amount, the alumni on the council plan to donate an annual gift in appreciation of what the college has done for them.

Cooperation of other alumni with the Orange council will increase the funds donated and will add greatly to the service that this body is giving to the Alma Mater. The council has a valuable foundation, based on the needs for additional funds to expand the games broadcasting program, improve the alumni magazine, and further the undertakings of the Alumni association. An annual meeting is held during Homecoming to probe its projects, discuss present problems and lend all possible assistance to the betterment of Oregon State.

Alumni administration is localized under the secretary of the association, E. C. Allworth, who is also manager of the Memorial Union building. Allworth has been the guiding force behind the inception, erecting and maintaining of this magnificent student and alumni center of which the campus and all its friends are so justly proud. He was chosen manager of the Memorial Union in 1925 and secretary of the association the following year. It is fitting that he should be so intimately connected with this project in honor of the soldier dead of the World war, for he was given international recognition for his valor, holding the rank of major in the United States army and having received six decorations for distinguished service.

A board of directors, consisting of five members, one elected each year for a term of five years, is the governing body of the Alumni association. Members of the board are Jeannette P. Cramer, '22, Portland; C. A. Dunn, '11, Klamath Falls; Charles Reynolds, '13, La Grande; Don W. Holgate, '97, Portland; and David A. Wright, '08, Salem. The board holds its meetings during the spring reunion weekend and at Homecoming in the fall.

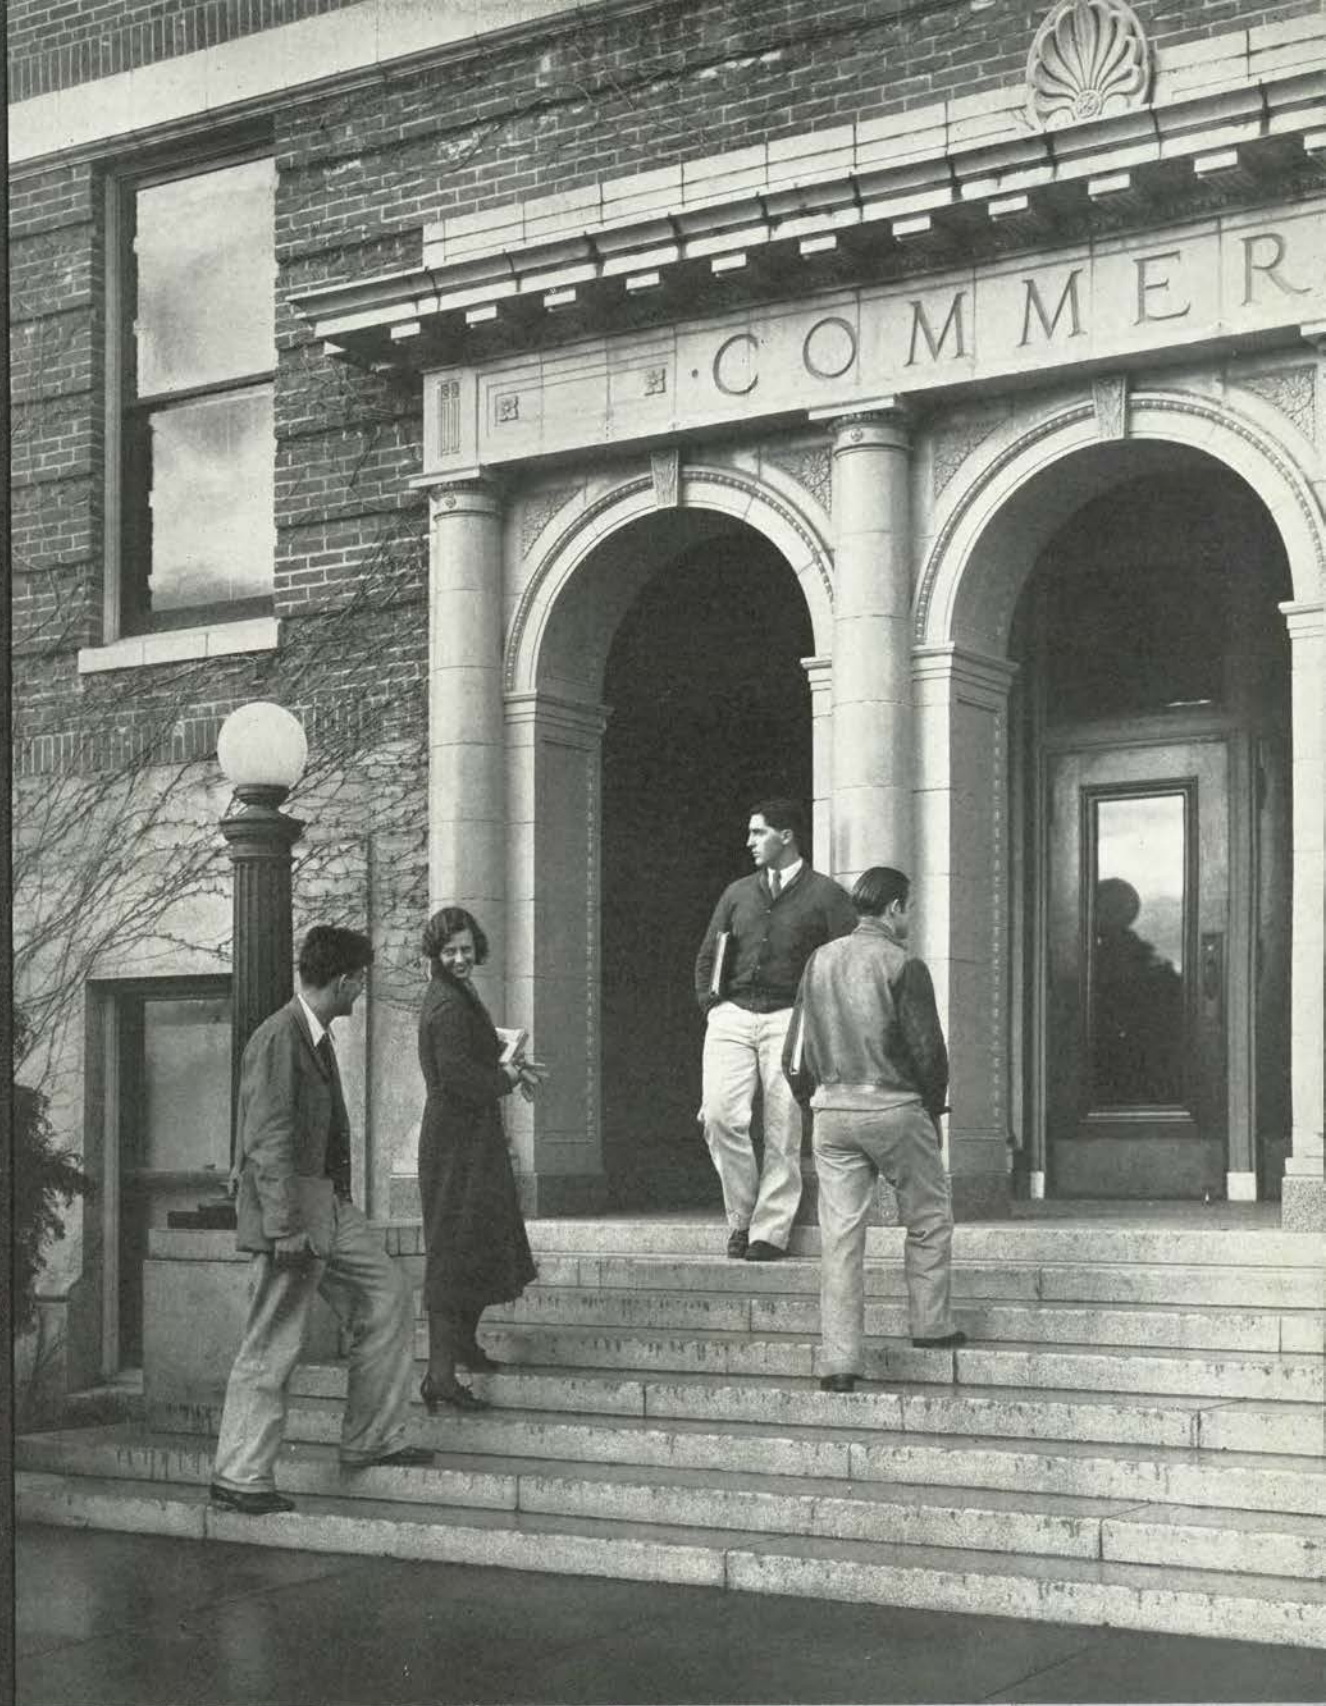

CLIFFORD DUNN
Vice-president

COMMERCE

Housing the largest school of the college, the commerce building makes contact with more students each day than any other campus structure. The needs of the industries of the community, state and nation are the essential part of the motive for a wider education in commerce. The Oregon State school of commerce, as one of a group of technical schools, is especially well situated to give training for a business career.

Students pursuing such training at the college are associated with other students preparing for professional work in nearly all branches of industry and in view of the close interdependence of business with all these vocations, the curricula of the college have been constructed to meet this need.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

The class of '32 made its debut on the Oregon State campus September 29, 1928, and occupied seats of honor at their first convocation, while they were pledged one and all in loyalty to the "college on the hill."

As sophomores this class furnished good material for football, while the varsity basketball squad picked the majority of players from its members. Committeemen headed by Amby Fredericks put across the sophomore cotillion. Upon organization the following officers were elected: Edward Efteland, president; Dorothy Nicholson, vice-president; Margaret Metcalf, secretary, and Bert Taylor, treasurer.

Their year as freshmen stands as a noble monument to the freshman pledge. Starting with the traditional rook bonfire and following with the rook-sophomore olympics the class was initiated into college life. The freshman dance was given in the Memorial Union ballroom, January 12. Tom Bruce headed the bonfire committee and John Poorman was chairman of the dance committee.

Clark Henkle was elected president spring term to hold office the next year. Other officers elected were Helen Reid, vice-president; Marjorie Reynolds, secretary; George Reese, treasurer; Gilbert Bergerson, sergeant-at-arms, and Robert Burke, yell leader.

Second term of the junior year opened with all interest centered on the prom. The class instituted a new feature of electing a Prom Queen, who was Alice Fisher, and the idea has been followed by other classes. Decorations in lattice work gave a touch of open air and garden solitude. Milton Leishman was chairman of the prom and credit for its success is given to him. Programs were blue and silver, flaunted with a silhouette of a dancing girl.

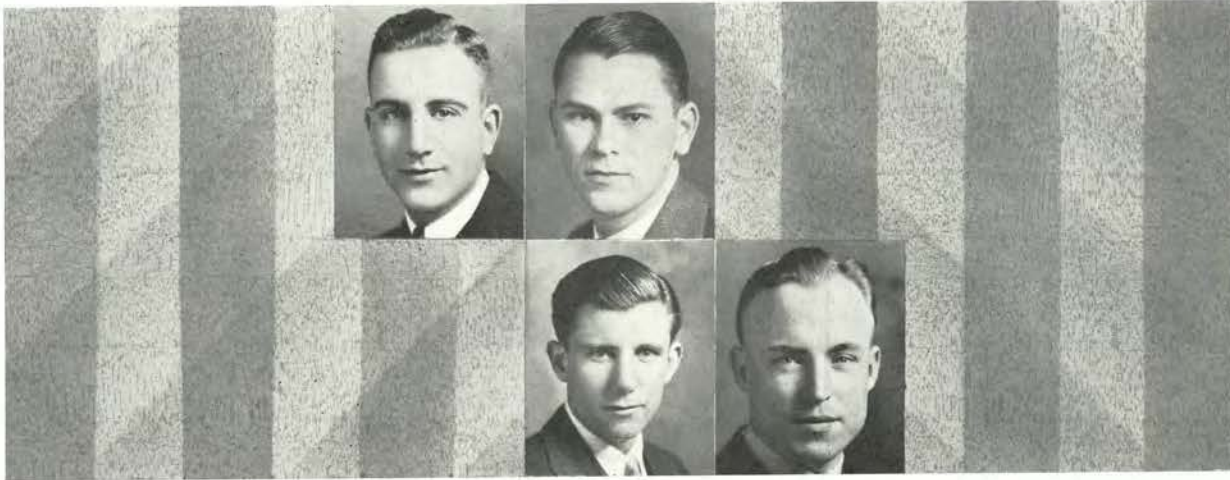

Henkle

Taylor

Efteland

In the senior year, Kenneth Fagans was elected president and under him were Harriett Beall, vice-president; Rachael Williams, secretary; and Williams Mullins, treasurer. The main event of the year was the senior ball, headed by Edward Efteland, and was considered the foremost dance of the spring term. Most of the leading positions in campus activities were held by students of this class and credit is given to them for many of the progressive movements that have taken place during this time, always working for a greater Oregon State.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

With both satisfaction and regret the class of '33 is ending its third year on the campus—satisfaction at having accomplished many worthwhile things, and regret at having only one more year. The first opportunity to show the Beaver spirit to which members of the class pledged themselves was the rook dance. Jack Byrne, chairman, helped make this dance an indication of what the class could do.

In building the rook bonfire they were directed by Lyle Foster, president. Bea Moeller was named vice-president; Amy Aldrich, secretary; Darwin Woodcock, treasurer; James London, sergeant-at-arms, and Curnow Slater, yell leader. The rooks offered keen competition in the rook-sophomore olympics and tug-of-war.

With their return in '30 as sophomores, members of the class were full of enthusiasm. George Hanselman was chosen president; Estora Ricks, vice-president; Wesley Heise, treasurer; Ellen Stebbinger, secretary; Vincent Woods, sergeant-at-arms, and John Allen, member of the student council. The olympics during Homecoming started off the year's activities.

The sophomore cotillion January 24, was the big event of the year. A Mardi Gras idea was featured and a gay time was enjoyed, due to the excellent work of Merritt Nash, chairman, and his committee.

This year started with Merritt Nash, president; Lois Balzer, vice-president; Doris Buck, secretary; and Howard Stevens, treasurer. Uppermost in the mind of every junior, with the beginning of winter term, was the coming prom. Dick Dunn, general chairman, deserves credit for arranging a prom that will be remembered by all who attended. The theme of the decorations was a queen's court, and Queen Ruth Whepley lent an air of royalty to the occasion. The ballroom was transformed into an old English castle, with knights guarding the doors.

The junior cord dance, with George Hanselman as chairman, was held early spring term. The traditional Campus weekend contained a full schedule. The junior follies managed by Lynn Russell, met with unusual success. The junior breakfast on the lower campus was planned by Edna Karhuvaara.

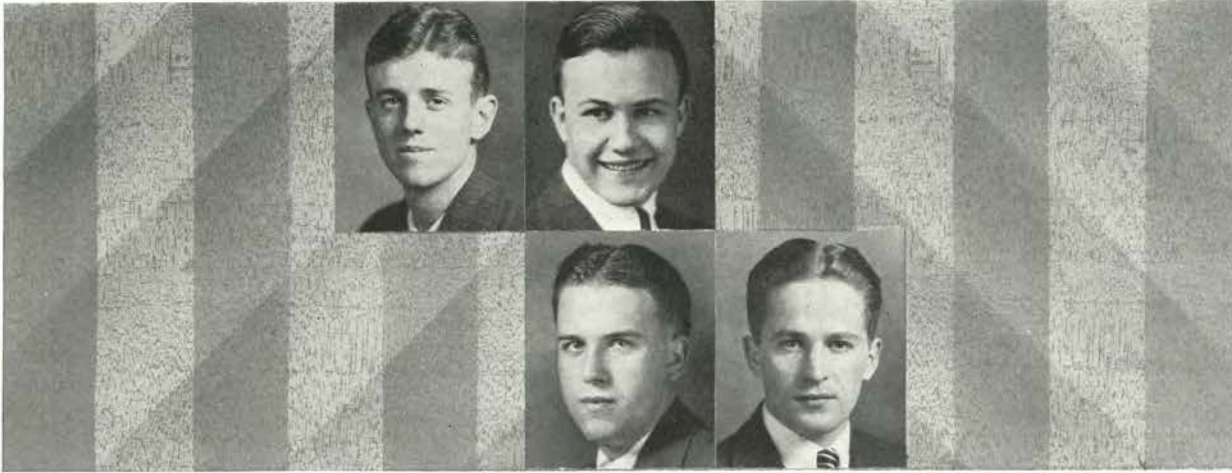

During its career the class has furnished much valuable material for athletic teams of every kind. Its members have also been active in dramatics, journalism and other campus activities.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

The class of '34 looks with satisfaction on its last two years and looks forward with anticipation to its remaining two. As freshmen, the class was guided by Milton Carlson, president; Gail Burnett, vice-president; Velva May Jeffries, secretary; Marshall Harrison, treasurer, and Ben McElroy, sergeant-at-arms.

After formally pledging themselves to Oregon State, the class set November 7 for the rook dance, which was the first chance for many of the freshmen to become acquainted. The class then plunged into the rook-sophomore olympics under the guidance of Kermit Linstedt, and emerged victorious. Led by Jess Forrester, head of the bonfire committee, and Vera McClintock, chairman of the service committee, the freshmen took part in Homecoming by building a huge bonfire and guarding the campus from an intrusion of the U. of O. ducks. After the burning of the green, the freshmen changed their names to sophomores and thus ended their first college year.

When school again opened the first thing on the sophomore program was the rook-sophomore olympics. Clifford Joy, chairman, and his various helpers worked hard that the reputation as fighters would not be lost.

The culmination of the year was the sophomore cotillion, February 13, the first all-school formal. The Memorial Union ballroom, patterned after a pirate scene, was draped in black and a cleverly arranged ship at the end of the ballroom on which Jimmy Whippo's orchestra played, lent reality to the setting. Marshall Harrison was the efficient general chairman. Singing and fancy dancing furnished amusement, but the main feature of the evening was the announcement of the winner of the popularity contest. The secret was kept until intermission, when it was announced that Helen Dorothy Haynes had been elected queen of the class.

HELEN HAYNES
Secretary

The members have contributed to every activity on the campus including athletics, Beaver and Barometer staffs, debate, dramatics and music. An attendance committee composed of Forrest Lindsay, chairman, Vera Weber and George Lage, notified members of class meetings, which led to better representation.

The officers for this year were Fred Saling, president; Frances Marshall, vice-president; Helen Haynes, secretary; Norman Green, treasurer, and Tex Burroughs, member of the student council.

FRESHMAN CLASS

Members of the class of '35 capped off the busy pleasures of freshman week with their first official get-together September 26 and elected the following officers to guide their destiny for the rest of the year: Robert Lucas, president; Marian Selberg, vice-president; Catherine Boon, secretary; and Merwin Miller, treasurer. The day before the newcomers had been formally pledged to Oregon State and all that the name Beaver implies.

Refusing to be handicapped by a reduction in numbers over previous years, the class, instilled with "pep" by their new president, elected Bob Lowry as yell leader to mould their typical rook fervor into true Beaver spirit.

With class athletics well organized by Charles Fyock and his aids, the Beaver babes soon got a chance to show their abilities, and the "sophs" met defeat in three out of four events in the annual rook-sophomore Olympics.

Toiling through a drenching rain, several hundred loyal freshmen raised a huge bonfire which was allowed to disappear in flames as one of the chief attractions of this year's Homecoming celebration. The damp labors were considerably lightened when rookesses under Marian Selberg served hot dogs and coffee early in the day. Credit for the unusually efficient management of the preparation of the big stack went to Dean Dubach, class advisor, President Lucas and Chairman Howard Lowe.

On January 8 rooks and rookesses made a success of their first social venture, the traditional non-fussing rook dance. Miss Selberg took the responsibility for the affair, and her chief assistant was Wilson Dockery, music chairman. Class cooperation, tasteful decoration of "35" numerals and green fir trees put up by Richard Warrington and his committee, Betty Steele's green punch, and a happy atmosphere made the dance one of the outstanding social achievements of the season. Jane Sears and Milton Campbell took care of social details.

Material for varsity athletic competition proved to be rather generously distributed throughout the class of '35; and music, public speaking and other activities drew strong reinforcements from their ranks.

These Beaver youngsters made their final gesture during the festivities of Campus Weekend, and when the "green" was discarded, they became full-fledged Oregon Staters.

MEMORIAL UNION

The Memorial Union is a center of student life constructed from funds subscribed by students, alumni, faculty members and other friends of the college as a memorial to the men and women of the institution who gave their lives in service to their country during the Spanish-American and World wars. Erected in 1928 the building occupies a central location in the West Quadrangle, facing north.

The main entrance is into the great memorial hall, under the central dome, leading across the main corridor to the general lounge, with a men's lounge to the east and a women's lounge to the west. Student activities have offices in the building and the social life of the campus radiates from this center.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

The Associated Students is the major organization of the Oregon State student body. Its purpose is not only to develop student self-government but to further the renown of the college. To this end individual effort must necessarily be merged with those of the group. In this way alone is collegiate achievement made possible. Nearly all phases of student activity come within its scope of influence. Student discipline, all-school enterprises and relations with other colleges and universities throughout the country are matters with which it deals.

The executive committee of the student body is composed of a president, three vice-presidents and a secretary. The president and secretary must be elected from the senior class. One vice-president is chosen from each of the senior, junior and sophomore classes, respectively. Custom has resulted in the secretary and second vice-president being chosen from the women students, and the president and first and third vice-presidents from the men students.

Officers of this year were Milton Leischman, president; Harvey Pease, first vice-president; Alice Fisher, secretary; Helen Lund, second vice-president, and Donald Reed, third vice-president. These officers are elected in the spring, and hold office for one year. Around this committee are centered the various functions of student government. Questions of policy affecting the students, changes in the constitution and presentation of student rallies and convocations require its approval. Its responsibility is to the college administration as well as to the students.

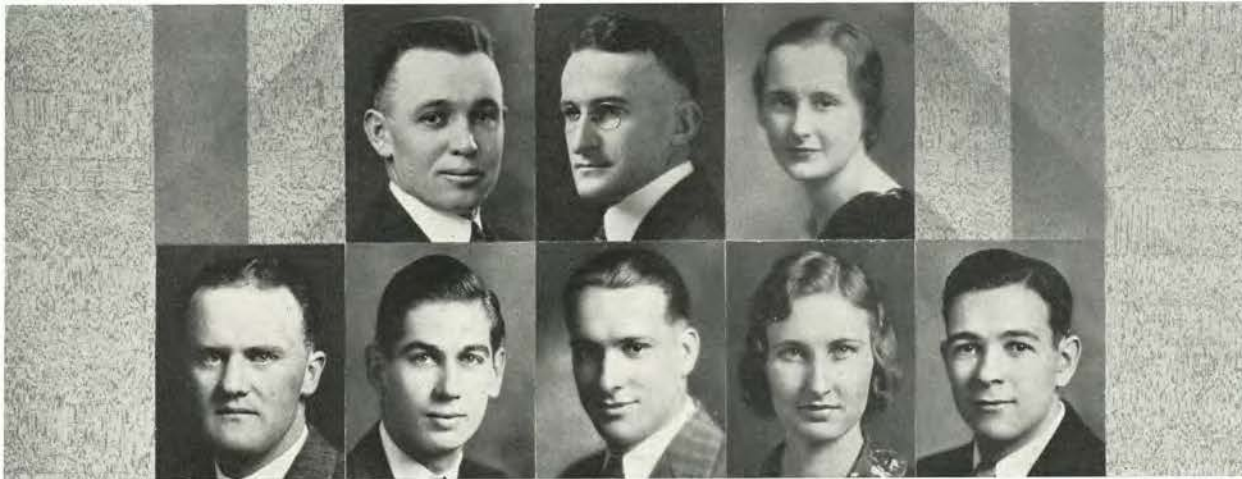

ALICE FISHER
Secretary

Besides the members of the executive committee there are four other officers of the Associated Students: editor and manager of the Barometer; and editor and manager of the Beaver. By an amendment to the constitution last year, the editor of the Barometer is no longer chosen by popular vote, but is appointed by a board composed of four students and three members of the faculty. The editor of the Beaver is still elected by the students themselves at an election held during the last 15 days of January. The managers of both publications are appointed by the board of control.

Closest cooperation is required between the editors, managers and the graduate manager. Resting upon the good judgment of the members of the executive committee and upon the editors and managers of the Beaver and Barometer are the activities for a large part of the student body.

BOARD OF CONTROL

To the board of control is entrusted the expenditure and safe keeping of all funds of the Associated Students. Composed of students, faculty and alumni, the board has the objective of promoting the welfare of the students by carefully scrutinizing all budgets, schedules and items of expense. Members of the board are the president of the Associated Students, first vice-president, secretary, one man and one woman member chosen from the junior class, and one man member chosen from the sophomore class. The election is held during the last 15 days of January.

Three faculty members, appointed by the president of the college, and one alumnus, appointed by the Alumni association, complete the committee. This year's board members are Milton Leishman, Harvey Pease, Alice Fisher, Alice Fish, Donovan Kuhl, Burton Wood, Dean H. S. Rogers, chairman, W. L. Kadderly, D. C. Reynolds, Chas. L. Johnson and C. A. Lodell, advisor and graduate manager. Newly elected board members to serve next year are Jean Freeborn and Donald Hood, senior representatives, and Kermit Linstedt, junior representative.

An amendment to the constitution this year provides for the appointment of the chairman of the board by the president of the college. The secretary of the Associated Students is also secretary of the board. The board serves in an advisory capacity and does not attempt the functional discharge of details. Execution of the board's decisions and disposition of financial matters is vested in a general manager who is appointed by the board.

Funds of the Associated Students can be appropriated only upon requisition and signature of the general manager. He is responsible for his acts both to the board of control and to the Associated Students. Student managers of extra-curricular activities who are appointed by the board of control must submit budgets of expenses and incomes. All budgets, schedules and trips of student organizations must receive the approval of the board prior to the time of the activity. An expert audit of accounts of each division of student activities is provided semi-annually by the board.

Influential as the board of control is, through its wide scope of authority, it yet remains subject to the will of the Associated Students. An act of the board may be modified or rejected by a majority vote of the student body. The board of control occupies a position of keen trust and responsibility.

MEMORIAL UNION DIRECTORS

The Memorial Union is supervised by a board of eight directors vested with both administrative and judicial powers. Its administrative functions consist of filling vacancies in offices of the Memorial Union held by students, appointing all standing committees and submitting a budget to the board of governors for its approval. As a judicial body it is empowered to pass rules and regulations governing members and guests of the building.

The directors this year are Frank Miller, president; Milton Leishman, Alice Fisher, Marion Chandler, G. V. Copson, Jack F. Porter, Carl Lodell, and E. C. Allworth, general manager.

CO-OP BOOK STORE

The Co-op book store in the Memorial Union building provides students with necessary school equipment. It is a profit-sharing, student-owned organization. Questions of policy are determined by a board of seven students and two faculty members who are elected during the spring term and installed with the student body officers. A manager is appointed by the board to operate the store.

This year's directors are Lloyd Baker, president; Margaret Metcalf, secretary; Rex Wilson, Marvin Davidson, William Perrin, Donald Black, Sidney Lathrop. Faculty members were Dean George W. Peavy and Prof. W. H. Comish, and C. Paul Irvine, manager.

BAROMETER EDITORS

The Oregon State Daily Barometer, the official organ of the student body, is published each day except Sunday and Monday. The purpose of the publication is to inform students of the events on the campus and to give student opinion and outlet. Any student may express his likes or dislikes in the Student Comment column that runs on the feature page.

Headed by Marion Chandler, the Barometer this year celebrated its thirty-sixth birthday March 17, the last paper of the winter term. Assisted by a staff of nearly seventy, Chandler steers the destinies of the Barometer and is responsible for its editorial policies and whatever stories the paper may carry. George Howie, associate editor, aids in the handling of the editorials and each day writes a column that appears on the front page. Howie substitutes for Chandler whenever the latter is away from the office, and in this way the publication is assured of its success.

Margaret Metcalf is the assistant editor and her position calls for the instruction and supervising of editing the copy that is used for publication. Each week she holds class for copy readers and explains the methods used in copy reading. Edwin McKeen, executive news editor, is responsible for an assignment sheet that lists stories for the day and names a reporter for each story. It is his duty to get the follow-ups on each story that is published.

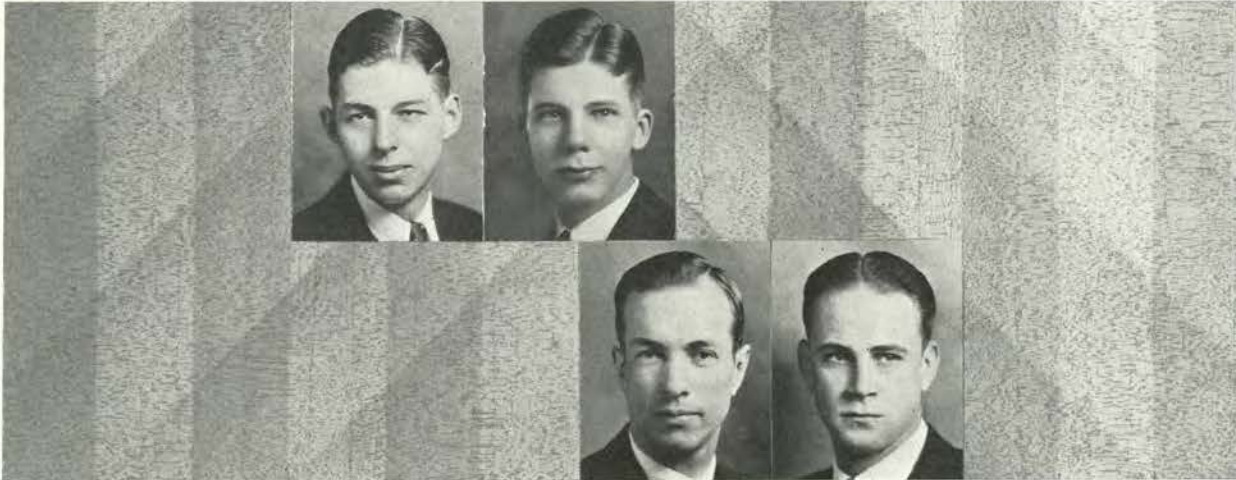

The sports section of the Barometer is edited by Ralph Marley and gives the results, dope, standings, and all other sports material that can be gathered around the campus and from other institutions. Each day Marley writes a column for his page and it is often quoted by leading metropolitan papers of the coast.

MARION CHANDLER
Editor

Five night editors—Waldo Taylor, Fred Rucker, Ernest Bauer, William Schwabe and Dale Altman—who are directly responsible for the issuance of the edition that they work on. The night editor works one night each week and is assisted by a day editor who edits the copy and supervises head writing. Day editors are Alice Ingalls, Alice Fisher, Gayle Duff, Rebecca Brown and Amy Aldrich.

The feature editor for this year is Merle Lowden, who edits all stories turned in to this department and who writes the leading stories that may be classed under the feature heading. Bart McMath handles the humor section of the Barometer and his column is run each day. Mary Bennett is the Barometer's dramatic critic and covers all stories on campus productions.

BAROMETER MANAGERIAL STAFF

To the Barometer manager and his staff of assistants goes the responsibility of the entire business administration, which includes advertising—national and local, collections, distribution and financing of the newspaper. The managerial staff is required to keep the publication within a definite budget of income and expense for the year. Unless this is accomplished, the Barometer is not entirely successful, regardless of the editorial progress during that time.

This task of conducting the business transactions of the newspaper, consequently, is far from an easy one, and calls for the full cooperation of all connected with this department of the daily. Because of subnormal business activity due to the economic conditions of the past year, the Barometer has had rather a difficult time attempting to "pay for itself"; but despite this handicap, Bert Taylor, manager, has come through the year in a highly satisfactory manner.

Not being content to use out-of-date and inefficient systems of organization, accounting, records and service work, the business staff is constantly working to improve its methods of handling these items. As a result, the manager's office has attained a high measure of efficiency in handling records and other routine work.

The business manager gains his position through appointment by the student board of control, and the department heads and other assistants are appointed by him. Staff promotions are made on the basis of efficiency and length of service. This year department managers are: Julius Wilson, national advertising; John Deifell, local advertising; Barton Sawyer, circulation, and George Reese, collections. Staff assistants are Dick Brown, Phil Mansur, Dillard Burroughs, Boyce Stannard and Leonard Wascher.

A unique service rendered by the staff is the practice of sending marked copies of the paper to the parents of students whose achievements in scholarship and activities have been featured. These items are also forwarded to the student's home town newspaper. This service, which has been carried on gratuitously for several years, is a courtesy that has been much appreciated. Circulation of the Barometer includes many of the alumni as well as the entire student body. Each Oregon Stater pays a portion of his student-body fee toward the support of the daily. The Barometer is printed at the Corvallis Gazette-Times, local daily newspaper, under the supervision of members of the staff.

BEAVER EDITORS

Printed in modernistic trends of typography, the Volume XXVI Beaver is a cross-cut of campus life in 1931-32. Headed by Ray Moe, the yearbook has a staff of fifty, divided into departments and sections. Mary Bennett and Marvin Davidson are associate editors.

Elaine Anderson is editor of the administration section of the Beaver and under her supervision come the board of higher education, deans, department heads and other divisions of the college administrative body.

Classes are headed by Fred Rucker who assumed the duties of editor of this section when Marvin Davidson was made associate editor. Rucker filled Davidson's position as head of this department and supervised the mounting of pictures for the book. He checked activity lists and other material falling in this section.

Alice Fisher edited the campus activity section and had a large staff working under her, as this department of the book is the largest and most difficult to manage.

Alice Ingalls was editor of the organizations and supervised checking of names for each group that was represented in the Beaver. Her duties called for many hours of time in order to get an accurate check on the living group pictures.

Bud Forrester acted as sports editor and was assisted by a large staff. As not sufficient pictures were taken last spring term, Forrester had difficulty in finding suitable poses for his section, but managed to gather and create enough to fill his section.

Maxine Peterson had charge of the popularity section of the yearbook and conducted the elections and supervised having the pictures taken of the winning candidates that are represented in this part of the book.

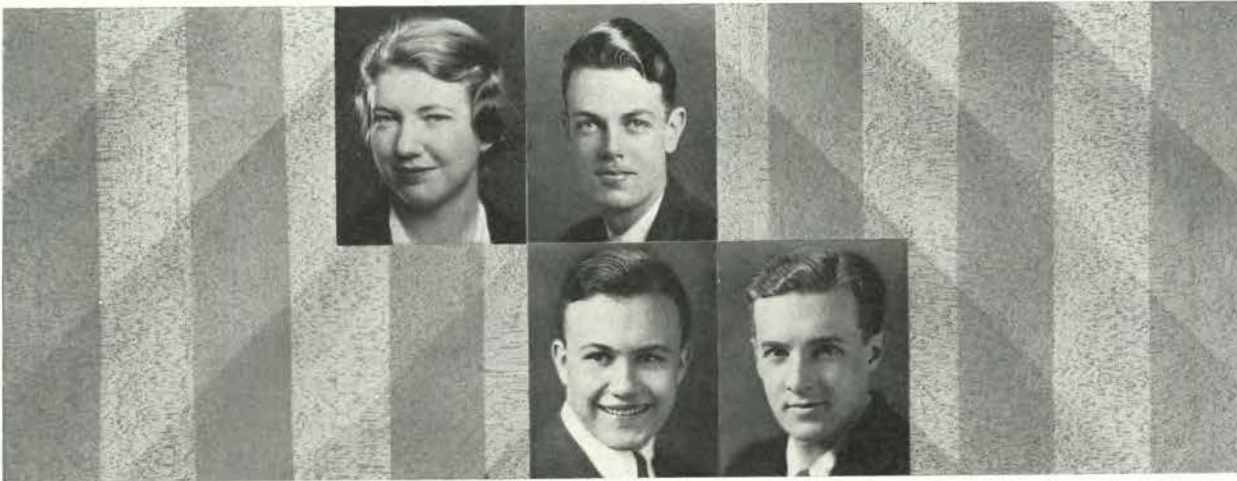

Campus life was edited by Fred Eldridge and although no special portion of the publication was allotted to his department, several pages of campus life are scattered throughout the volume. He also had charge of the senior and junior "Who's Who" sections.

Ralph Coleman furnished the satire for the Beaver and assisted on the general staff. He was also responsible for the page of satire at the close of the senior section.

Many changes had to be made in the staff as students did not return to school and it was often difficult for the new editor to reorganize his department so that the work could continue.

BEAVER MANAGERIAL

Under the direction of Martin Howard, general manager, the Volume XXVI Beaver maintained, despite the depression, the same standard of financial success as has been set by previous editions. Gayle Duff, assistant manager, ably helped Howard in the organization of the business for the yearbook.

The advance sales campaign was conducted under the direction of George Hanselman, circulation manager. Salesmen were classified into three leagues, the Red, White and Blue teams. Each of these leagues canvassed their given sections, the White, headed by Marie Penland, all women's houses and organizations; the Blue, captained by Thorvald Fransen, a portion of the fraternities; and the Red, led by Harold Thompson, the remainder of the fraternities and the downtown men's organizations. Outstanding salesmen during the campaign were Joe Wright, Harold Bondeson, Robert Riggs, Richard Dunn, Robert Fuller, Elizabeth Field, Jane Sears, Barbara Adams, Leona Daubenspeck, Helen Fisher, Daisy Williamson, and Artha Olin.

To Bart McMath, advertising, is due all credit for the successful advertising campaign conducted. His assistants in the campaign were Rex Wilson, Edmund Jordan, and Darwin Woodcock. Collections were made 100 percent by the end of winter quarter under Gordon Patton, collection manager, assisted by John Harrington. National advertising was headed by Harold Bondeson.

Secretaries for the staff were Lois Irving, Mary Elliott, Jean Baird, Kay Sheldon, Margaret Dale, Daisy Williamson, Jane Sears, Ruth Forrester, and Judy Hyslop.

The Beaver manager is appointed by the board of control and is directly responsible to that body for the financial end of the book and with the assistance and guidance that the board lends to the manager, the book is printed.

Each spring three or four candidates are recommended to the board of control for the manager position for the following year and the board makes its selection after the recommendations and credentials of each candidate have been thoroughly considered. In this way, the Beaver is assured each year of a capable manager and one who knows the turns of the managership. The manager is usually a person who has had previous service on the publication.

OREGON STATE MONTHLY

The Oregon State Monthly, official alumni organ of the college, has been edited this year by Rex Robinson, '31, who has added several new features in order that the magazine will have appeal among the undergraduates as well as the alumni. The Monthly has evolved from a publication devoted entirely to alumni activities to an all-school periodical of approximately 36 pages issued every month. The publication offers opportunity for all interested in writing news, features, humor, sports and literary articles.

Each month the editor takes for his central theme some one of the campus departments, such as commerce, agriculture, pharmacy, home economics and other phases of the college curriculum. Articles are published by alumni of the college who have become successful in the work of these schools featured. Interviews with the deans serve to point out the scope of the work offered in these fields. This policy is intended to inform Monthly readers of the possibilities of various fields of life work. The magazine also features six prominent alumni each issue under the heading "Oregon Staters Who Are Gaining Renown."

Campus news is gathered by students in industrial journalism and others, under the supervision of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic fraternity. A special women's section is handled by members of Theta Sigma Phi, journalistic society for women. Approximately 75 students each term are given an opportunity to contribute to the Monthly.

Alumni information is collected by Eunice Courtright, '25, and is published under the heading "Beaver Tales". Sports discussion is contributed by Art Taaffe. The Monthly includes the "Oregon Countryman," for 22 years the official publication of the school of agriculture. Selections of a literary nature known as "Manuscripts" are contributed by the English department.

Ed Allworth, secretary of the alumni association, is manager of the Monthly. He is assisted by Marshall Harrison, '34, in obtaining advertising contracts and preparing copy. The Monthly holds membership in "Graduate Magazines, Ltd." and the "Graduate Group, Inc.", both national associations of alumni magazines.

A new feature of the Monthly's service to alumni activities is its contribution of material for the alumni radio program, "College Night". Feature stories, class news, and information concerning individuals of particular interest are presented on this program.

OREGON STATE MONTHLY MANAGERS

Before 1927 the managerial staff of the Oregon State Monthly was practically nil as it has been only since then that any advertising has been sold for the book. However, since that year advertising has been built up from nothing until now the annual receipts from this source amount to more than $2,300, and are about one-half of the total income of the magazine. General rates per month are: 13-em agate line 15 cents, which is the highest rate charged, the rate gradually growing less until a full page can be bought for $35.

Some of the preferred positions are the second and third page covers which cost $40 and the fourth page cover which brings $50. Some of the rules which E. C. Allworth, manager, has drawn up in regard to advertisements might be mentioned. The deadline for receiving ads is the fifth of the month preceding date of issue; for example, October issue closes September 5. No allowances or rebates are made for errors in key numbers, and no proofs can be furnished in advance east of the Rocky mountains unless plates are received one month in advance of deadline.

The magazine accepts only such advertisements as it is willing to endorse. Until recently no tobacco ads were taken but this rule has been changed. The other half of the managerial staff's task is to secure subscriptions, see that they are paid and that the subscribers receive the publication.

The average monthly circulation is more than 3,300. Of this, 75 per cent is among college graduates, and students and faculty account for the other 25 per cent. Also 75 per cent of the subscribers live in Oregon. A subscription to the Oregon State Monthly costs $3 a year or 25 cents per copy. However, the bulk of the circulation goes to members of the alumni association who pay $3 per year, which includes both membership in the association and subscription to the magazine. Life members or those paying on their life memberships are exempt from annual dues.

The book is a member of the American Alumni Council. It is an association of men and women in charge of alumni work at the colleges of the United States and Canada. The success of the Monthly is due in a large measure to the efforts of E. C. Allworth, alumni secretary and manager of the Monthly. He has served in these capacities since 1926.

Annual Cruise Staff

ANNUAL CRUISE

The Annual Cruise, published every year by the Forest club, endeavors to portray the year's events of the forestry school in pictures, poems and prose contributed by students, instructors, alumni, professional foresters and logging operators. The yearbook contains a varied number of articles on logging, lumbering and technical forestry written by men who have gained recognition and distinction in their respective fields. Last year the annual received national recognition, being classed by critics as the best forestry yearbook in the United States.

The book contains sections for school, alumni, seniors, feature articles and humor. A complete forestry school and alumni directory is included. The entire staff is composed of forestry students who in this manner are given an opportunity in publication work.

The Annual Cruise has a two-fold purpose: it gives a place for professional articles prepared by undergraduates, graduates and professional foresters which do not normally find a place in other campus or professional publications; and it promotes a closer relationship among the lumbermen, the alumni, students and friends, with respect to the welfare and interest of the lumber industry.

This year's annual will be the thirteenth issue, the first of which appeared in 1920. About 500 copies are printed each year with the circulation general throughout the northwest.

Senior Ball

SENIOR BALL

The Memorial Union ballroom was transformed into a spring garden blossoming with flowers of pastel shades, when the class of 1932 presented the annual senior ball April 30. Both the decorations and the suede programs elaborated on the spring motif.

Patrons and patronesses for the affair were Major and Mrs. E. C. Allworth and Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Ordeman. Guests of honor included Governor and Mrs. Julius Meier, Hon. and Mrs. F. E. Callister, Hon. and Mrs. E. C. Pease, Hon. and Mrs. Albert Burch, Hon. and Mrs. E. C. Sammons, Hon. C. L. Starr, Hon. and Mrs. B. F. Irvine, Hon. and Mrs. C. C. Colt, Hon. and Mrs. Herman Oliver, President and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, Dean and Mrs. U. G. Dubach, Dr. Kate Jameson, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Schoenfeld, Dean H. V. Hoyt, Dean and Mrs. G. W. Peavy, Dean and Mrs. Adolph Ziefle, Dean and Mrs. M. Ellwood Smith, Dean and Mrs. J. R. Jewell, Dean and Mrs. H. S. Rogers, Dean and Mrs. J. H. Hance, Dean and Mrs. C. V. Langton and Col. and Mrs. W. H. Patterson.

Edward Efteland was general chairman for the ball. Bill Schwabe was chairman of the publicity committee. He was assisted by Ernest Bauer, Ernest Sears and Paul Ryan. The programs were chosen by Emory Strong, chairman; George Stone, Elizabeth Spurlin, Hazel Packer and Glenn Dolan. The decoration committee was composed of Ace Arnsberg, chairman; Clifford Payne, George Eldon, George Beebe and Rachel Williams.

Elmer Crump was chairman of the feature committee. His assistants were John Gerrish, Edith Parsons and Jessie McCready. The floor committee was Ralph Horn, chairman; Veldon Parker and Webber Doughton, assistants. Music was arranged by Tom Bruce, chairman, assisted by Merle Lowden, Rex Wilson, Marie Cummings and Randall Burns. Dorothy van Groos was chairman of the guest committee. Her assistants were Harriet Beall, Doris Rutherford and Robert Williams. The refreshment committee was composed of Dorothy Nicholson, chairman; Rose Winkler, Haarby Bechen, Frank Miller and Bessie Skaale, assistants.

During the intermission, a male quartet provided the feature in the main lounge of the Memorial Union. A college orchestra played for the dance. This year's senior ball was a composite of the ideas of all members of the class, as the general chairman sent out questionnaires to obtain the opinion of every member of the class.

Junior Prom

JUNIOR PROM

The Junior Prom, presented by the class of 1933 in the Memorial Union ballroom, March 12, was a scene of medieval pomp and ceremony. Immediately following the third dance, announced by a blast of trumpets and with a retinue of attendants and train bearers, Miss Ruth Whepley ascended the throne and was crowned queen of the prom by J. Lloyd LeMaster.

The ballroom ceiling was hung with blue drapes and the walls with blue and gold. From a stage draped with wine colored velour the Campus Chords orchestra played.

During intermission, Abbie Green's trio of the Fanchon and Marco circuit sang in the lounge room. The programs, which were in the medieval spirit, were of black suede decorated with the figure of a trumpeter in silver. On an inside page two knights of old announced the feature.

Patrons and patronesses for the affair were Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd LeMaster, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dahlberg, Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Parr, and Major and Mrs. E. C. Allworth. Guests of honor included Governor and Mrs. Julius L. Meier, President and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, Dean Kate Jameson, Dean and Mrs. U. G. Dubach, Colonel and Mrs. W. H. Patterson, Dean and Mrs. H. V. Hoyt, Dean and Mrs. W. A. Schoenfeld, Hon. C. L. Starr, Hon. and Mrs. J. K. Weatherford, Hon. and Mrs. P. A. Cupper, Hon. and Mrs. M. D. McCallister and Hon. and Mrs. B. F. Irvine.

The general chairman for the dance was Dick Dunn. Mark Briggs was chairman of the program committee, assisted by Estora Ricks, Jean Freeborn, Walter Pickthall and Gordon Bell. Decorations was composed of Simon Yerkovitch, chairman; Elizabeth MacLean, Amy Aldrich, Ted Koshland and Dick Smillie. Ruth Whepley, chairman of the guest committee, was assisted by Viola Crump and Lloyd Scanlon. Frederica Brommer was chairman of the refreshment committee, other members of her committee being Billie Murray and Barbara Bell. Marvin Davidson, chairman; Carl Jensen and Fred Eldridge handled the publicity. The floor committee was composed of Donald Street, chairman; Lotus Pennel and Julius Wilson. Carl Boswell, chairman; Esther Wood, Bernice Weber and Connie Ayer arranged the music. John Ficklin was chairman of the feature committee. Attendants of the queen were Janet Booth, Marjorie Clayton, Doris Buck, Betty Robertson, Frederica Brommer and Ruth Currin.

SOPHOMORE COTILLION

A nautical motif was the theme of the sophomore cotillion given by the class of 1934 in the Memorial Union ballroom February 13. Decorations featured an old pirate ship with its lanterns, skulls and crossbones. At one end of the room stood a boat which appeared to be riding full sail against a background of sea and sky. Across from it the orchestra played from the fo'castle of another vessel. Four lanterns were suspended from the ceiling.

A pirate ship on frosted celluloid over silver was the cover design of the programs. Inside pages were ornamented with small black silhouettes of ships and anchors. During intermission Helen Dorothy Haynes was formally presented as queen of the sophomore class.

Honored guests were President and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, Governor and Mrs. Julius L. Meier, Hon. and Mrs. Hal E. Hoss, Hon. and Mrs. Rufus C. Holman, Hon. and Mrs. C. L. Starr, Hon. and Mrs. F. E. Callister, Hon. and Mrs. E. C. Pease, Hon. and Mrs. E. C. Sammons, Hon. and Mrs. B. F. Irvine, Hon. and Mrs. C. C. Colt, Hon. and Mrs. Herman Oliver, Hon. and Mrs. Walter M. Pierce, Supt. and Mrs. Charles A. Howard, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Lindsay, Dean and Mrs. U. G. Dubach, Dean Kate W. Jameson, General and Mrs. George A. White.

Patrons and patronesses were Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Peterson, Mrs. Lorna C. Jessup and Major and Mrs. E. C. Allworth. Marshall Harrison was general chairman of the dance. George Lage was in charge of decorations, assisted by William Hoff, Thalia Larson, Karl Jacobsen, Dorothy Ann Sidler, Floyd Smith and Hugh O'Neill. Members of the program committee were Tex Burroughs, chairman; Merrit Truax, Helen McWilliams, Doris Pogue and Lloyd Milholland.

MARSHALL HARRISON
Chairman

Gail Burnett was chairman of the guest committee. She was assisted by Ruby Morrison and Ed Jordan. Publicity was handled by Dick Brown, chairman; Milt Carlson, Margaret Zimmerman, Evelyn Walker and Bud Forrester. Henry Ireland, chairman, Lewis Johnson, Miriam Bleamaster and Vera McClintock arranged the music. Kermit Linstedt was chairman of the floor committee, assisted by James Munford and Jack Dougherty. Vera Weber took charge of refreshments, assisted by Gordon Larson and Kathryn McIntyre. The feature was arranged by James Emmet, chairman; Betty Losse, Beatrice Hall and Donald Reed. The feature consisted of vocal numbers by a male trio from Eugene and dances by Miss Agnes Peterson, a Fanchon and Marco dancer from Portland.

Soldier's Entertainment

MILITARY BALL

Flags, guns, uniforms, bugle calls—all well-known symbols for one of the outstanding social events of the year, the Military ball. It was given under the auspices of Scabbard and Blade, honorary fraternity in military science, at the Memorial Union ball room, April 9. A modern day battle scene was accentuated by flags, guns, and unusual lighting effects. The programs of black leather embossed with a military design further carried out the theme of the dance.

Dances were named after the bugle calls of the army and each dance was announced by bugle. Music was furnished by the Campus Chords. As a special feature, 17 men were formally pledged to Scabbard and Blade in an impressive ceremony. Those pledged as associate members were Major-General George A. White and Major George L. Dutton. Pledges into active membership were Carl Boswell, Lyle Foster, James Hartwell, Keith Loken, Darwin Woodcock, Robert Blasen, Marvin Davidson, Kenneth Baker, Delbert Ball, Charles Branton, James Coleman, Timothy Coleman, Harry Dyhrman, Carlton Richter, and Earl Southworth.

Guests of honor were President and Mrs. W. J. Kerr; Major-General George A. White, Salem; Major George L. Dutton, Portland; and Victor R. Griggs, one of the five founders of Scabbard and Blade.

Other guests included Dean and Mrs. U. G. Dubach, Dean and Mrs. H. V. Hoyt, Dean Kate W. Jameson, Secretary and Mrs. W. R. Jensen, Director and Mrs. P. V. Maris, Dean and Mrs. C. V. Langton, Dean and Mrs. H. S. Rogers, Dean and Mrs. W. A. Schoenfeld, and Dean and Mrs. A. Ziefle.

Patrons and patronesses were Col. and Mrs. W. H. Patterson, Maj. and Mrs. F. W. Bowley, Maj. and Mrs. J. J. Gerhardt, Maj. and Mrs. E. C. Allworth, Capt. and Mrs. F. W. Rase, Capt. and Mrs. N. J. McMahan, Capt. and Mrs. F. E. Ambrose, Capt. and Mrs. M. E. Scott, Lieut. and Mrs. Geo. A. Jones, Lieut. and Mrs. G. W. Marvin, and Lieut. and Mrs. D. C. Hill.

Bart McMath was general chairman of the dance with the following committees assisting: guests, Milton Leishman; music, Champ Harms; decorations, Lloyd Griggs; programs, Stewart Kibbe; refreshments, Barton Sawyer; feature, Loran Stewart; and publicity, Robert Cronin. Coming on the next night after the annual Horse Show, the Military ball made that weekend the outstanding war event of the school year.

Rook Promenade

FRESHMAN DANCE

The Rook dance, which is the social highlight of the year for the freshman class, was held on January 8. This dance is an annual affair sponsored by the first year students for the purpose of becoming better acquainted. To foster this end, the dance is "non-fussing," but each Rook must have a date before leaving the ballroom. Those failing to secure dates are made to spend the balance of the night serenading the women's halls.

As all rooks are required to attend, and as the rookesses are decidedly outnumbered, competition becomes keen as the evening progresses. Spurs and Beaver Knights, in uniform, are on hand to assist bashful yearlings, but other upperclassmen are not welcomed. Those discovered among the dancers are placed upon the stage and made to sing and are then ignominiously ejected. The Memorial Union ballroom for this year's dance was appropriately adorned with the numerals 35 covering the walls and drapes. Music was furnished by Jimmy Whippo and his Campus Chords.

Marian Selberg, vice president of the freshman class, was general chairman of the affair. Committees assisting her were decoration, Rich Warrington, Helen Ewing, Dick Barss, Cliff Gibson, Pauline Leupold, Maxine Rea, Kay Epperson, Shirley Stuart, and Mary Whitelaw; music, Bud Dockery, Helen Fisher and Jack Bearman; chaperone, Jane Sears, Winifred Flower and Tom Wright; refreshment, Betty Steel, Alice Mann, Evelyn Ridell and Spencer Moore; hospitality, Milton Campbell, Merwin Miller, Catherine Boon, Harriet Noltner, Merle Long, Glynn Berg and Marian Selberg.

MARIAN SELBERG
Chairman

At the close of the dance the fun began for the Beaver Knights, which was also the misery of the freshman men who were not able to find a date while dancing. The bachelors marched to Waldo hall and sang several songs. The tunes were dedicated to some outstanding member of the living group and although not so much to the credit of the girl or the musical profession, it was all "fun" for the Beaver Knights and the crowd that followed the procession from one hall to another.

One of the bright spots of the serenade was the proposing of a freshman to one of the women in Waldo. The customary "dust thou or dust thou not" ceremony was put on for the audience and was received in the fashion of grand opera. At approximately 3 o'clock the freshmen were allowed to go home swearing revenge.

News Hound Brawl

TYPE LOUSE CRAWL

Beards of all sizes, colors, kinds, textures and descriptions were to be found at the Type Louse Crawl, Barometer-Beaver annual publications dance, January 22 in the Memorial Union ballroom. Weeks previous to the dance the campus was infested with hairy individuals who looked disreputable—and felt miserable. Fantastic and complex rules to govern the growing of the hirsute adornment were devised and printed in the Barometer and announced at meetings of living groups, each of which backed its champion with high-voiced praise and wagers of "coffee and."

While Corvallis barbers despaired and male students gloried in freedom from the daily shave, co-eds, neat and fastidious, wore looks of disgust and terror. Those who could avoided their hairy comrades and all longed for the end of the contest.

Norton Forsyth emerged the champion beard grower of the contest and was awarded a volume of the 1932 Beaver as grand sweepstakes prize. Carl Boswell won first place in the trimmed class and Douglass Hole took honors in the untrimmed division. Clifford Joy was awarded the prize for the best blond beard, while Joseph Branstutter carried off high honors for the blackest growth. Phi Delta Theta fraternity received a copy of Volume XXVI Beaver for having the largest percentage of its members at the crawl.

Weber Doughton and Irene Ogborn were judged the couple best depicting the depression theme of the dance in their costumes, which were made of burlap. Judges made their decisions and awarded the prizes during intermission. Judges were Dr. D. R. French, J. Lloyd LeMaster and Dr. Joseph Ellison.

The depression idea, as the theme of the dance, was carried out by the decorations, old clothes, beards and the low admission charge. The decorations also depicted the journalistic motif with copies of college newspapers from all over the United States covering the walls. "Beard's Manual," a four-page publication of campus nonsense and scandal, published by Theta Sigma Phi, national honorary society for women in journalism, was distributed to the dancers during intermission. Campus celebrities and members of the faculty came in for gossip and "wise cracks."

A bulletin board placed at one end of the ballroom was used to announce choice "scoops" concerning guests at the crawl. Howard Douglass and Ed McKeen were co-chairmen of the dance.

EDWIN McKEEN
Chairman

"In the Spring—"

INFORMAL DANCES

Leap year comes only once in four years and consequently it is not to be passed up without notice. For once the co-eds came in for a share of the entertaining when the women on the campus were given a chance to ask the men of their choice, or the whisperingly discussed "secret sorrow," for at least one date when a Leap Year dance was held in the Memorial Union ballroom February 27.

Colorful and eventful Homecoming weekend is begun by arousing pep and enthusiasm with the rally dances held on the Thursday night preceding the weekend. This year Pi Kappa Phi fraternity, Kappa Alpha Theta and Pi Beta Phi sororities and the Memorial Union ballroom were open to dancers November 12. Couples danced for a short time at one house and then moved on to the others, making the rounds before the evening was over. A large black "O" illuminated with flood lights was placed in front of the houses where a dance was going on. The committee in charge of the dances consisted of John Davies, chairman; Harlan Hickox, Lyle Smith, Allen Schaeffer and Claude Gerlach.

A scoreboard dance was held the afternoon of October 3 by the Varsity "O" association in the Memorial Union ballroom, featuring the football game being played in Los Angeles between the University of Southern California and Oregon State. Kenneth Fagans and Duane Kirk were in charge. Couples watched the illuminated scoreboard during the playing time of the game and danced before and after the contest and during intermission. This is a comparatively new feature of the social program but is becoming increasingly popular.

A student body victory dance was held January 14 in the Memorial Union ballroom immediately after the Idaho and Oregon State basketball game, culminating in a two-game series between the schools. Sports clothes were worn and a very informal atmosphere prevailed.

The Armistice day holiday gave occasion for an impromptu matinee dance with music furnished by the Campus Chords. It proved to be a "fussing" affair and was pronounced successful in spite of its short notice.

Regular student body dances were given in the Memorial Union ballroom October 10 and April 2. Tom Bruce, student body social chairman, is in charge of all informal dances.

Under the direction of Bruce the hall is arranged for, music for the dances is scheduled and features planned. Often Oregon State students supply some novelty for the intermission which may consist of anything from Hula dancing to singing lullabys. When outside numbers are brought to the dances as features, they are well received by the student body.

Admission to the Oregon State college Madrigal club, women's chorus, is much sought after, and this year enough material was found by Professor Paul Petri, director of music, to organize a group of more than 70 members. Well known modern and classic compositions are rehearsed at the regular practice period twice each week. The group is often in demand at campus functions and over KOAC, the college radio station. The organization was founded in 1909 and has continued to the present time.

Since 1909 the college has had a men's Glee club which has grown steadily in membership and achievement. Keeping in step with the general trend, a better type of music is being studied, making greater demand upon the ability of the singers.

The Glee club this year numbered 40 men who were selected from a large number of applicants. Rehearsals are held regularly twice each week, and appearances at convocation and other campus functions give the members an opportunity to display their talents.

Scene from "Alison's House"

"ALISON'S HOUSE"

"Alison's House," Pulitzer prize-winning play of 1930-31, was the fall production of the Oregon State chapter of National Collegiate Players at the Workshop theater, November 19, 20 and 21. The presenting of this play aroused unusual interest among theater goers on the campus, not only because it was considered the best play of last year but also it was the first amateur performance on the Pacific coast and the Players had to obtain special permission for an advance release date in order to produce it.

The play by Susan Glaspell is a study in character, a composite picture of the different influences wielded by the memory of the gentle poet Alison Stanhope upon the lives of the other members of the family who survived her. A conflict between the traditions of the past and the frankness of the present is represented in the characters of Agatha Stanhope, sister to Alison who guards her secrets until the last day of the nineteenth century, and Elsa, the young niece who defies conventions and flings off the influence of the old home steeped in tradition, to follow the dictates of her heart.

With the fading of Alison's century, Aunt Agatha dies, leaving to Elsa a collection of undiscovered poems which reveals the poet's thwarted love affair and her renunciation. Elsa's father, being of the older generation, shrinks from showing his dead sister's heart to the world and wishes to burn the poems. Elsa and Eben, her brother, himself something of a poet, plead against the destruction and finally father and daughter are reconciled as the bells ring out the new century.

The settings were executed with pleasing dignity and rich simplicity in keeping with the charm and restraint of Alison's house. Acting honors were shared by Carl Johnson, who played the role of the father; Mary Bennett as Elsa, and Don Reed in the part of Eben Stanhope, all of whom displayed unusual histrionic ability. Helen Hayden as Aunt Agatha also did an effective piece of work.

Others in the cast were Billie Cupper playing Ann, the secretary; Lee Sutton as Ted, the younger son; Ruth Howe as Mrs. Eben Stanhope; Bert Evans playing a young reporter; Estora Ricks and Byron Adams as Mrs. and Mr. Hodges, a country couple; and Arline Loughary who played the old housekeeper. Wesley Coutts, instructor in dramatics, directed the production.

Scene from "Hay Fever"

"HAY FEVER"

The Oregon State chapter of National Collegiate Players presented as their winter production, "Hay Fever," by Noel Coward, in the Workshop theater, February 4, 5 and 6. This rollicking English comedy was a pronounced success and was enjoyed by large crowds.

"Hay Fever" is the story of the trials and tribulations of the Blissés, an English family, in which the mother, Judith Bliss, is an ex-actress; the father, David, a novelist; the son, Simon, a promising cartoonist, and Sorel, the daughter, whose great ambition is "to be so poised as to be able to carry off any situation with a lift of the eyebrow;" a family whose artistic temperaments clash incessantly.

The cast included Doris Buck as Judith Bliss, whose performance was the outstanding hit of the show. The skill and ease with which she portrayed the melodramatic scenes in contrast to a few sincere moments displayed her understanding of the technique of acting and her ability at characterization. Don Reed, playing the part of Simon, portrayed his role with his customary excellence. His subtle wit and comic interpretation drew laughs at every line. Billie Cupper, playing Sorel, was charming as the naive daughter of this erratic family. She, too, gave her lines with grace and assurance.

Bert Evans in the part of David, the pessimistic novelist whose main occupation was studying the flapper types, displayed keen ability in characterization. Janet Booth was delightful in the role of Jackie, an unsophisticated and brainless flapper who "simply adored authors." Robin Batchellor as Richard Greatham, a diplomatist who never committed himself, won the hearts of everyone in the audience with his charming manners and ease on the stage. Arline Loughary drew continual laughs as Clara, Judith's dresser and housekeeper.

Lee Sutton in the role of Sammy, a young pugilist with "hot hands," as Simon said, created most of the laughs with his clever facial expressions in pantomime. Ruth Howe as Myra Arundel, a sophisticated woman of the world, was clever in her use of the sarcasm which accompanied her role.

The complications that arise when each member of an eccentric and wilful family secretly invites a guest to the house for the weekend, constitute the framework of the plot. Credit for the success of the play went to Wesley Coutts, instructor in public speaking and dramatics, who directed the production.

JUNIOR FOLLIES

"Oh! Alfred," a musical comedy written by two students, Wesley Coutts and Romney Pearce, was presented at the Majestic theater May 15 and 16 by the class of 1932. This rollicking account of the adventures of the Rover Boys in gangland was the fourth annual Junior Follies, an all-men production and an event of Campus weekend.

The Rover Boys and Professor Snodgrass, who is looking for "criminal element" and a long lost daughter, stumble upon "Scarface" Al Baloney and his gang, who are plotting to do away with Blotto, the Kid, and his henchmen. The Rover Boys all fall in love with girls of Scarface's gang, one of whom, Dora, turns out to be the professor's daughter. In the war between the rival gangs, Scarface is killed. Dora and Dick, Gertie and Tom, Josey and Jerry are to be married—and thus another chapter in the lives of the Rover Boys is closed.

The show was produced under the direction of D. Palmer Young, assisted by David Steel. Members of the cast were Scarface Al Baloney, Wesley Coutts; Dora, Mark Saunders; Josey, Robert Black; Gertie, Bud Nock; Tom, Charles Mulholland; Dick, Wayne Griffin; Jerry, Jerry Knox; Professor Snodgrass, Richard Stalker. Other characters were portrayed by Alexander Atterbury, Kenneth Emery, John Byrne, Bert Wester, John Harrington and George Sense.

A "moll" chorus was composed of Harold Bondeson, Charles Briant, Lenard Davis, Bill Dickson, Heinz Huebner, Delbert Hunter, Tom Kean and Jack Lyons. Ed Jordan, Jack Rhodes, Howard Albert, Edward Teuscher, Orval Locatell, Chris Siegenthaler and Warren Jewell took the part of gangsters. Irene Tomblin directed the dancing; Romney Pearce the music. Virginia Nelson was rehearsal pianist.

KATHLEEN WHEELER
Lead Role

John Diefell was general manager and Frank Miller, business manager. His assistants were Robert Finch and Edward Rowland. Alpha Delta Sigma handled the advertising. Lynne Russell was stage manager. His technical assistants were Gilbert Taylor and Gordon MacKenzie; scenic, Thonette Christensen and Muriel Harper. Florence Schanz handled properties assisted by Lloyd Griggs. Paul Starr and Rudolph Thielemann were the electricians. Costumes were managed by Martha Humphrey, with Hazel Packer, Lucile Skaike and Patricia Watson on her committee. William Schwabe, Ernest Bauer, Alice Ingalls, Clyde Gumpert and Paul Ryan handled the publicity. A sixteen-piece orchestra furnished the music.

MEN'S VARSITY DEBATE

One of the most outstanding debates this season was won from the University of Pittsburgh by a large audience decision February 3. The debate was on the Pi Kappa Delta question, "Resolved, that Congress should enact legislation providing for the centralized control of industry, (Constitutionality waived)." The audience decision debate is a comparatively new device and was the only one held with an eastern team.

The conference season opened with a debate with Northwest Nazarene February 2 on the Pi Kappa Delta question with Rex Robinson and Herbert Ewing participating. Other non-decision debates were held with Spokane university, Stanford university, Utah State college, Wyoming university and University of Nevada. Men on the squad were Norman Rudd, E. E. Allen, Al Jacquot, Rich Jackman, Walter Bowne, Clifford Joy, Kenneth Wood, Otto Panzer, Daniel Bates, Elmer Buckhorn, Carl Boswell, George Hartley, Burton Wood, Herbert Ewing, Rex Robinson and Roger Ball.

On February 19 Willamette university met in a dual debate with Rudd, Hartley, Ball, and Wood debating on the question, "Resolved, that the cutting of wages during the present economic depression has retarded recovery." The negative won 2-1 and the affirmative decision was 3-0. Hartley and Rudd defeated Washington State February 27 in a radio debate on the wage question. The negative, composed of Kenneth Wood and Burton Wood, won from Montana university March 1 and lost to the University of Washington March 8 in cross-question debates.

Ewing and Buckhorn represented Oregon State in the tournament of northwest and Pacific coast schools scheduled for March 17, 18, 19 in California. The Pi Kappa Delta question was used. Schools debated were College of Puget Sound, Pacific college, Redlands college and Glendale college, three of which were won and two were lost. Last year the varsity team won the Pacific coast championship.

From the tournament Ewing and Buckhorn went to the Pacific coast conference of Forensics at Pomona college and March 23 and 24 debated against the University of Southern California and Pasadena college. The season ended with the northern trip during the middle of April, completing a total of 5000 miles.

W. A. Dahlberg completed his fifth year as varsity debate coach.

WOMEN'S VARSITY DEBATE

One of the most outstanding debates of the season, which extended from February 9 to the middle of April, was the one held at Reno, Nev., in which the Oregon State team upheld the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, That the divorce laws of the state of Nevada should be condemned." The contest was held February 22, with Adena Joy and Doris Rutherford participating.

The women's varsity squad won the Pacific coast championship last year, with a percentage of .833. The schools debated ranged from Los Angeles in the south to Seattle in the north. This year's schedule contains 22 debates, with 20 women on the squad. Six letter women returned to school this year.

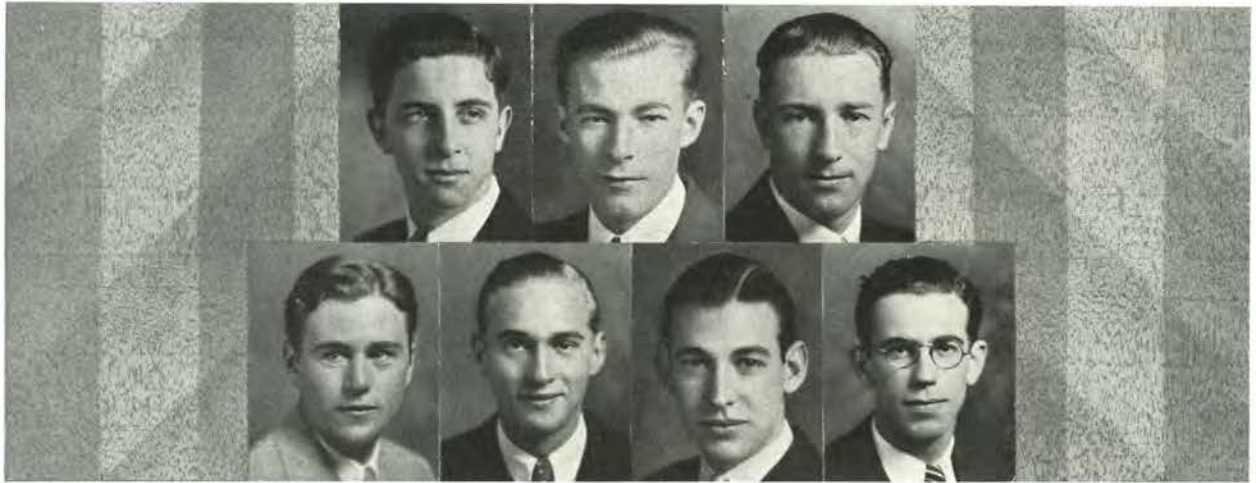

The season opened with a non-decision debate with the University of Idaho. The first long trip was made to California, which included contests with University of Nevada, University of California and Stanford. The trip was taken during the week of February 19 to 26. Dorothy Druschel and Miss Joy debated against Stanford and Miss Rutherford and Miss Joy met the other two schools. All were non-decision contests.

The University of Washington and Washington State college met the Oregon State team here and both were defeated by a 3 to 0 decision. The second trip was taken to the University of Washington March 8, with Eloise Bilyeu and Miss Joy debating. The cross-question system was used for this contest. The third long trip was made north during April to meet Washington State, Idaho and Whitman by Mary Bennett, Adena Joy and Alice Ingalls of Oregon State College. The University of Oregon met O. S. C. teams in a dual debate March 31. Other schools debated were Willamette, Pacific, Oregon Normal and Linfield. Paul X. Knoll is coach of women's debate and to him goes much of the credit for producing a squad which won the championship of the Pacific coast last year. Miss Joy, one of the most outstanding women debaters, has won 37 consecutive contests.

The squad consisted of Miss Joy, Miss Rutherford, Miss Bilyeu, Miss Druschel, Alice Ingalls, Mary Bennett, Irma Babcock, Alison Comish, Betty Field, Evelyn Franzke, Joanne Ganong, Lucille George, Marian Gary, Helen Dorothy Haynes, Edith-Mae Huseeth, Juanita Smith, Jessie Smith, Ruth Sterling, Marie Davis and Grace Workman. Miss Ingalls was women's forensic manager.

ORATORY AND EXTEMPORE SPEAKING

Under the direction of Dr. E. W. Wells, the oratorical and extempore representative of Oregon State college had a very successful year. Bert Evans with his oration, "Here Stood an Oak," won first place and $25 in the state Old Line oratorical contest at Pacific College. His speech was an indictment of present conditions under the prohibition law.

In celebration of the George Washington bicentennial this year, a special oratorical contest was held February 22, at the state House in Salem. This contest was a preliminary one to select the state representative for the national contest. Carl Johnson, Oregon State's orator, placed third, winning $20 and a certificate of merit from the national George Washington bicentennial commission. The Pacific Forensic League held an oratorical contest March 21, at Pomona college at Claremont, California. Walter Pickthall spoke for the school on "The Modern Tower of Babel." His talk was a criticism of our modern industrial, political, educational, and religious life in America. The State Peace Oratorical contest was held April 8, at Albany college, Albany. Elwood McKnight won first place, a prize of $60, and the right to enter the national peace oratorical contest.

"God Bless You, My Children" was the title of the winning talk given by Lewis Johnson in the after-dinner speaking contest at Eugene, December 11. Johnson's speech concerned the religious racket and was a sub-topic of the general subject "American Racketeering." Contestants drew for sub-topics two hours preceding a banquet after which the contest was held.

In the state extempore speaking contest held in Corvallis, George Fletcher, Oregon State's representative, won second place. His topic was "The Political Machine." As in the after-dinner contest, those competing drew for a subject shortly before the contest. Herbert Ewing spoke for Oregon State in the Pacific Forensic league extempore speaking contest at Pomona college.

The oratorical and extempore speaking contests in which Oregon State enters each year are sponsored by two different organizations; the state contests, by the Intercollegiate Forensic association of Oregon, and the coast contests, by the Pacific Forensic league. Oregon State college, University of Oregon, Willamette university, Pacific university, Oregon Normal, Southern Oregon Normal, Linfield college, Pacific college, Albany college, and the Eugene Bible school are members of the state group.

FORENSIC MANAGERS

Under the system of forensics management which was inaugurated here a few years ago the general manager has the direct responsibility for arrangement of both men's and women's debates, including all tours made by each team, in addition to having charge of all finances for forensic work and managing intramural debating, extempore speaking and oratorical contests.

George Hartley was general forensic manager this year and was assisted by Daniel Bates and Carl Boswell. Alice Ingalls, women's forensic manager, had charge of scheduling and arranging all details concerned in women's debate this year. Dorothy Druschel was her assistant.

Each year the department sponsors an intramural debate tournament in which teams representing each living group participate. The subject for this contest was "Resolved, that capitalism has failed." After a long battle in which much keen competition was met, Alpha Gamma Rho represented by James Weatherspoon and Ernest Sears won the championship of the school and the silver loving cup presented each year to the fraternity or organization winning this contest by Delta Sigma Rho, national honor society in forensics. Sears and Weatherspoon upheld the negative of the question. The affirmative was maintained in the final contest by Glen Dolan and Del McClure representing Tau Kappa Epsilon.

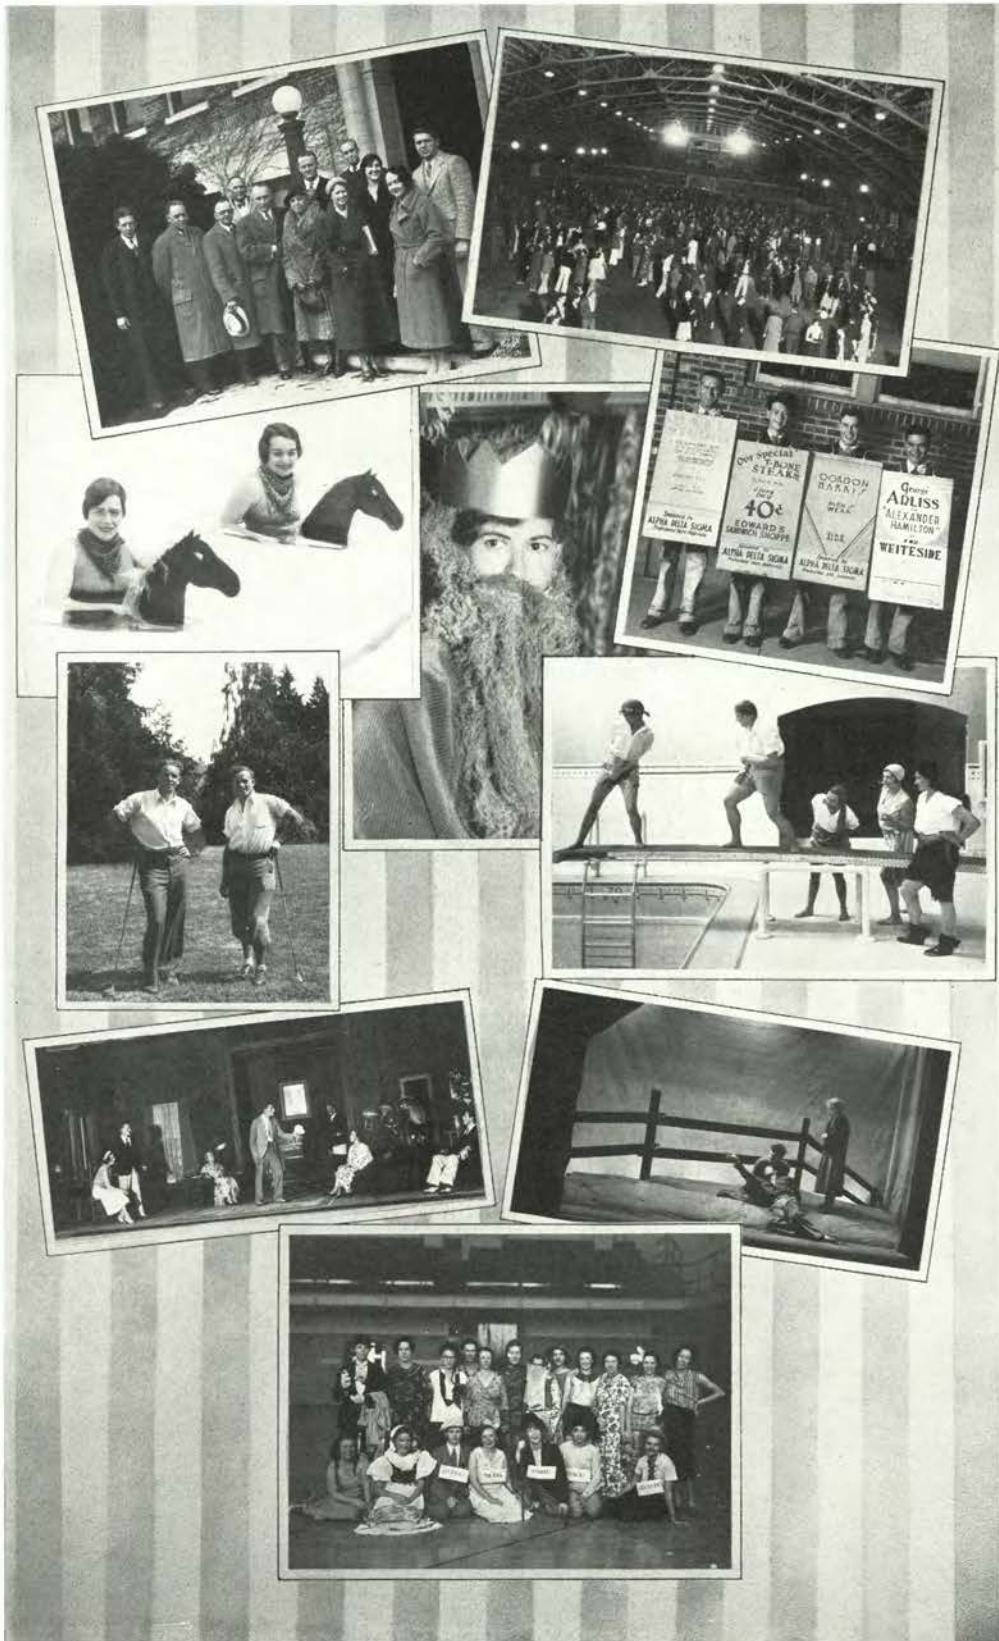

Intramural debate was managed by Otto Panzer and Clifford Joy. Fifty-two fraternity and Independent organizations were represented by teams participating in the contests this year. Last season 47 groups took part. This indicates the increased interest in debating among the men on the campus and an added appreciation of the benefits to be derived from it to the individual.

Forensic managers also have charge of arrangements for the Lions club public speaking contest held each term. The Lions club, composed of Corvallis business men, offers prizes to the winners of the competition. Those who participate are chosen from the regular first term public speaking classes and give 10 minute talks on subjects embracing the aims of the club and topics of public interest. Ace Arnsberg won the contest during fall term and Milton Leishman took high honors in the winter competition.

Gordon Winks, veteran varsity debater and orator, was the 1931 winner of the $25 award presented annually by Hon. Jacob Reichart to the senior showing the greatest ability and interest in forensics.

Commissioned Officers

COMMISSIONED OFFICERS

The R. O. T. C. Corps at O. S. C. consists of three units—infantry, field artillery and engineers. Colonel William H. Patterson, infantry (D. O. L.), is the commandant and is assisted by nine other regular army officers and a detachment of regular army enlisted men. The official rating of each of the units is "excellent," which is the highest attainable. The Corps was rated "distinguished" nine times from 1917 to 1927, inclusive, and received the equivalent rating (excellent) in 1928, 1930 and 1931, as a result of the annual war department training inspections.

It aspires to give the following benefits to each of its students: (a) to prepare him for places of responsibility and leadership; (b) to give a training that makes for alertness, coordination and good health; (c) to teach him cooperation, loyalty, team work, management of men, honor, courage, self-respect, respect for others, sacrifice, duty and love of country and it emphasizes citizenship and develops concentration and the power of observation, builds character and inculcates high standards of personal honor and patriotism. It also teaches good order, neatness and truthfulness.

It provides a means of applying the lessons learned in this and other departments of the college, and gives him a military education that will fit him to efficiently serve the nation in time of emergency. It qualifies him for appointment as second lieutenant, regular army, with exemptions from mental and professional examinations, should vacancies therein exist, and gives him a commission as second lieutenant, officers' reserve corps. It provides a maximum of 29 college credits which count toward a degree.

Armory

Provision is made for attendance at summer R. O. T. C. camps at which the student's expenses are paid, gives him a monetary per diem allowance, a uniform, board, lodging, medical attention and emergency dental treatment and provides him with recreational amusements and diversions, furnishes him an allowance of rifle and pistol ammunition for target practice, with expert instructors, and the use of rifles, pistols and target equipment. It pays him 30 cents per day as a subsistence allowance. At summer camps the federal government pays each R. O. T. C. student 70 cents per day and furnishes him subsistence in kind and transportation from his home to the camp and return.

Cadet Officers

CADET OFFICERS

As military organization is based upon the number of men who can be controlled by a single leader, the infantry is the arm upon which all organization is based. The other arms and services are added to the infantry in proportion to the assistance each can give to it. The first requirement is for a percentage of field artillery for fire support. The support forthcoming from the college unit would meet the requirements of an infantry brigade. An additional requirement for the infantry is the engineers for mapping, obstacles, road signs, bridges, demolitions, and for laying out technical tasks and supervising their execution.

Oregon State's R. O. T. C. rifle team has a reputation that is approached by only one other institution on the Pacific coast. Last year it was second in order of merit in the annual corps area intercollegiate gallery practice rifle competition and, in the William Randolph Hearst matches, in which teams from all over the country and from Hawaii and Porto Rico compete, winning the third place plaque.

The department maintains an excellent polo team. In the Oregon State R. O. T. C. units, which are really preparatory schools for the organized reserves of the United States, full responsibility is placed upon the cadet officers and non-commissioned officers to develop viewpoint, discipline, character, obedience, courtesy, spirit, organization and leadership. Students and the military department function upon the principles of harmonious, full, cooperation and mutual understanding and sympathetic helpfulness.

Training of units is divided into basic and advanced courses. Principles of combat, practice and theory of infantry tactics, machine gun, howitzer and 37 millimeter gun and rifle fire, hygiene, map reading, sketching, scouting, patrolling, all are inculcated into the fibre of the infantry cadet. In the field artillery unit, the basic courses take up subjects pertaining to battery equipment, the duties of cannoners, battery, transport and marching maneuvers, as well as the use of the pistol. Advanced students take gunnery and fire control. Special attention is given to horsemanship and the care of animals. The engineer unit has worked with pontoon bridges, wire entanglements, demolitions, surveying and drafting instruments. Study of infantry combat principles is stressed throughout the basic courses. Each summer the juniors enrolled in the different units of the R. O. T. C. attend a six-weeks camp of instruction.

Rifle Team

RIFLE TEAM

In April each year a military tournament and horse show is held, the proceeds of which are used for the polo team and to supply miscellaneous things not otherwise procurable. The total amount paid by the federal government to the advanced students last year for commutation of subsistence was $12,515.40. Last year 66 graduates from here were commissioned in the organized reserves; this year about 60 will be commissioned therein.

The college armory, one of the most commodious in the country, is used by all three units, by the polo team, football squad, track men, co-ed riding club and for assemblies.

POLO

Under the coaching of Major F. W. Bowley, the Oregon State polo team had a successful season. The Beavers won from many polo teams in the vicinity—only Forrest Hills of Portland holding the Indian sign over the State riders. The team was built around the five lettermen, Kenneth Price, Frank O'Connor, Fred Sugnet, A. J. Penney and Glenn Bohannon.

Brady Dirker, a letterman transfer from the University of Oregon, added much strength to the squad. The team had the best ponies which had been obtained for some time. In the two-game Oregon series, the Beavers routed the Lemon team 14½ to 19½.

Polo Club

Oregon State Band

OREGON STATE BAND

During spring vacation the R. O. T. C. band made its annual concert tour. The state is divided into four sections, one of which is covered each year, so that a man can see the whole state during his four years of band. The southern division, which was the one covered this year, is made up of Medford, Grants Pass, Klamath Falls, Ashland, and Yreka, Weed, Fort Jones, McCloud and Dunsmuir, California.

Next year a trip will be made into the Columbia River district and concerts will be given in Astoria, Seaside, St. Helens, Rainier, and in Longview and Ilwaco, Washington. The following year the men travel into the Coos Bay district and will appear in Roseburg, Myrtle Point, Coquille, Bandon, North Bend, Marshfield and Reedsport. In 1935 the eastern Oregon trip will be made and engagements will be scheduled for Gresham, The Dalles, Arlington, La Grande, Enterprise, Baker, Ontario, Union and North Powder.

The trips are made possible by service clubs such as the American Legion, the Rotary, the Twenty-Thirty, and active organizations in the cities where concerts are given. The tours offer concentrated military training, creates incentive for enthusiastic work in band, and acquaints the men with the state of Oregon. Forty men out of the seventy-five are picked each year to make the trip. Another of the group's activities is the state-wide high school band contest which has been given each year on this campus. However, after this year the University of Oregon will sponsor the contest on alternate years.

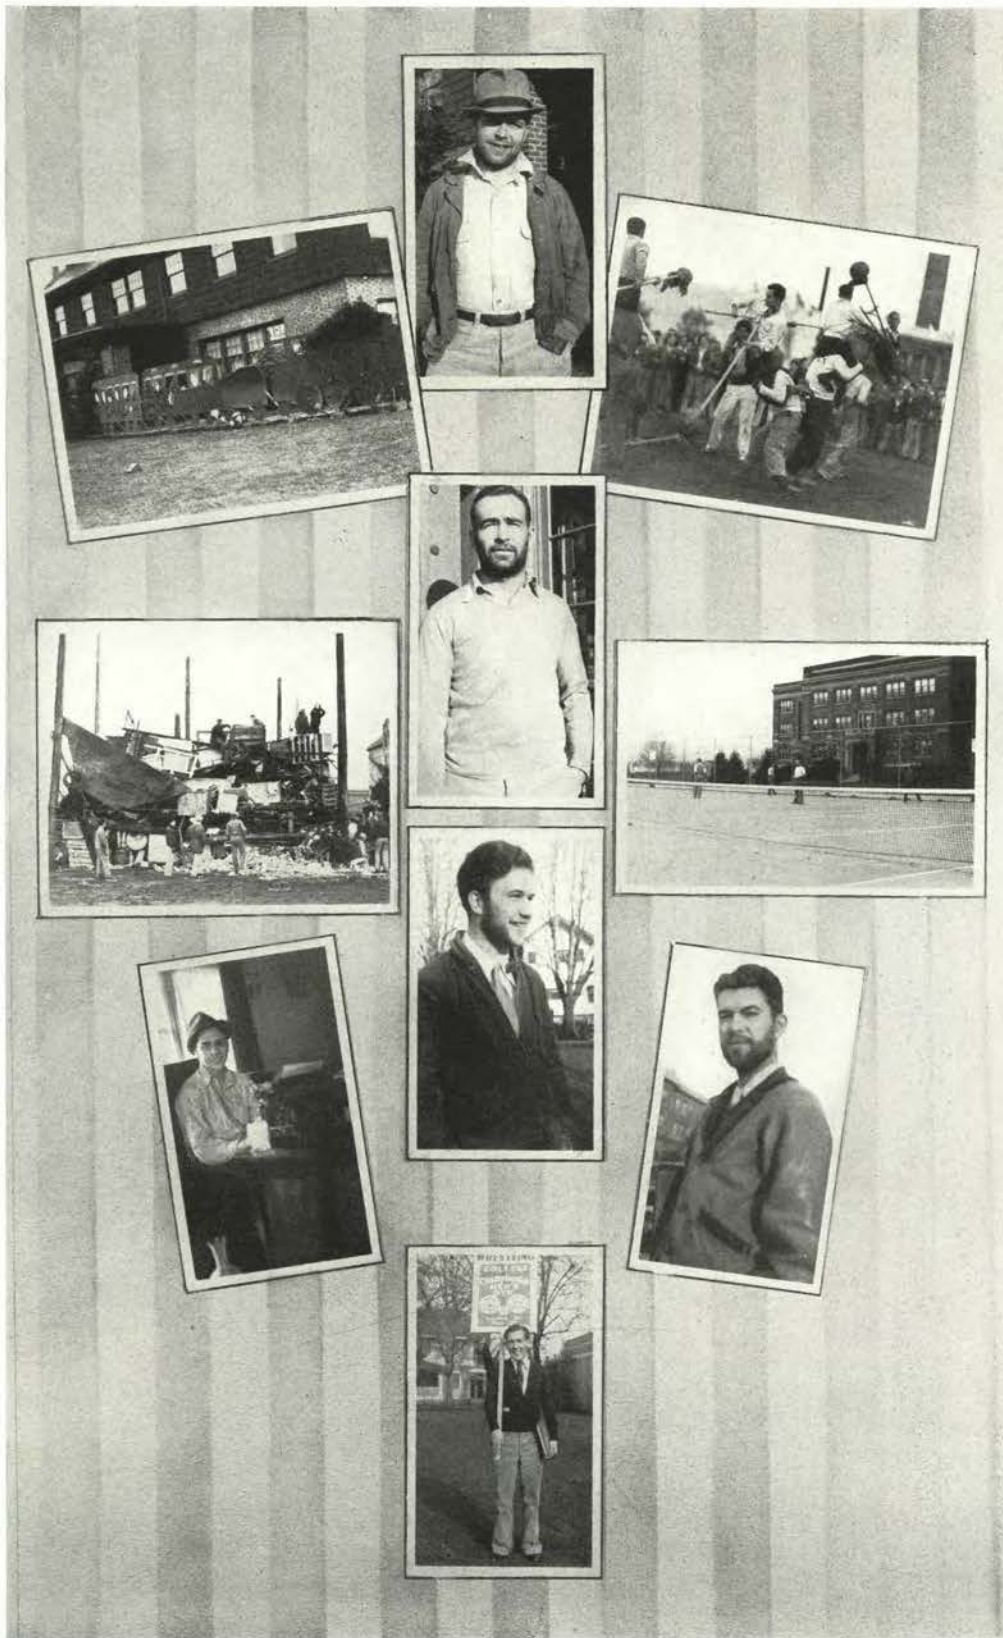

The high school bands are arranged into three competitive classes depending upon the size of the school. The competition attracts more than seven hundred students from twenty-five schools. This activity acquaints high school men with college life and offers an incentive for future band work. For the first time women were permitted to try out for placement in the band last year and two of them won positions, and this year three more were added. Exceptional ability in band work, personality, good scholarship, character and leadership are requisites for election to Kappa Kappa Psi, national band honorary fraternity. Sweaters are awarded to junior and senior members.

Officers are Lewis Wallin, president; Dale Cowen, manager; Tom Stevenson, student leader and drum major; Mark Briggs, publicity manager, and Hollis Dale, librarian.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

The Oregon State chapter of the National Federation of Associated Women Students, self-governing organization which includes all women registered at the college, is directly responsible for all women's activities. Each year A. W. S. sponsors the Co-ed ball, the Co-ed bust, and Woman's day. This year the local organization of A. W. S. was hostess to the sectional convention of the Intercollegiate Women Students and the deans of women of the western states, April 20-23. Associated Women student presidents and deans of women were present from Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Nevada, Washington, California, and Oregon.

One session of the biennial convention was a joint meeting of the presidents and deans, which meeting is the only one of its kind held in the United States. The annual women's formal tea to which all faculty women and women students are invited was given April 21 in the Memorial Union lounge in honor of the convention delegates. In addition to the tea, a banquet and a formal dance were given, honoring the delegates.

During one day of the convention the group went to Eugene where the University of Oregon chapter entertained at tea. Grace Baird was general chairman in charge of arrangements for the convention. The Co-ed ball, annual all-women's costume dance, was held fall term under the direction of Elizabeth Fletcher. At the ball, prizes were given to the best dressed couple, the person having the most original costume, and to the person having the funniest costume. The Co-ed bust was given January 20 at the Whiteside theater. Beatrice Hall was chosen Oregon State's first yell-queen this year.

The A Capella Choir from Midland college was brought to the campus under the sponsorship of the Associated Women Students.

The Oregon State chapter of A. W. S. has established a women students' loan fund, and with this loan fund more than 50 women students are aided in making their way through college.

Women's day is held the weekend of Mother's day each year. During this time are held the annual dance recital, the Mother's banquet, and the honor convocation. Officers for this year were Billy Cupper, president; Elizabeth Fletcher, vice president; Gail Burnett, secretary; Fern Edwards, treasurer; Margaret Zimmerman, sergeant-at-arms.

CO-ED BALL

Cannibals and girls of the "gay nineties" were intermixed at the annual Co-ed ball, October 24, in the women's building. A "Smudge Pot" idea was carried out and the feature consisted of skits which emerged from a huge cauldron. Prizes were awarded for the funniest couple, the best costumed couple, the funniest, the prettiest, and the most individual costumes, and to the living group first arriving 100 per cent.

The main purpose of the Co-ed ball this year was to secure funds for the A. W. S. regional convention held on the campus April 20-23. Elizabeth Fletcher was general chairman of the ball.

CO-ED BUST

Replacing the annual Co-ed Stunt show, the Co-ed Bust was instituted on the Oregon State campus during fall term. The bust consisted of a theater party at the Whiteside theater where a double bill was shown and various features supplied by co-ed talent.

Highlights of the bust were group singing and ushering of men from the theater. As the affair is supposed to be strictly for the women on the campus, any men that entered were requested to leave amid jeers and scorn of the women.

It is planned that the bust will be a yearly event as more girls can take part than in the Stunt show.

Co-ed Grand March

WOMEN'S DAY

Annual women's day at Oregon State college was first celebrated in 1924 and every year since then has been carried out the weekend of Mother's day. The program last year opened with a song-fest, a new feature of that year. At the annual honor convocation Saturday afternoon, A. W. S. officers were installed, pledges to women's honorary organizations were named, and various awards were announced.

The spring dance festival was then given on the lower campus by the women's physical education department. In the evening, a reception was followed by a formal banquet in honor of the mothers.

ASSOCIATED ROOKESSES

Two freshmen girls from each living group and three girls from each independent organization, all of whom work in the student body office, are known as the Associated Rookesses.

Associated Rookesses this year are Leona Daubenspeck, Mary Berkeley, Barbara Ungerman, Betty Lueddeman, Catherine Smith, Marian Beasley, Dana Anderson, Ruth Misphey, Maude Bally, Ruth Dinges, Roberta Howard, Alice Merrit, Carol Anderson, Dorothy Mueller, Mary Duerr, Catherine Sewal, Carolyn Gaskins, Vivian Rowland, Kathryn Sheldon, Dorothy Strahorn, Ruth Annable, Eleanor Dammasch, Doris Fulker-son, Betty Aupperle, Helen Stratton.

An opportunity for every co-ed on the campus to participate in athletic activity is offered by the Women's Athletic association. Recreation, fun and competition in sports are the aims of the organization. Membership is open to any woman winning 50 points in any W. A. A. activity.

Interclass competition is sponsored in all the sports of the season, including volleyball, basketball, archery, swimming, baseball, tennis and hockey. W. A. A. awards Orange "O" sweaters to each co-ed who wins 1000 points by participating in competition on these teams.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION STAFF

A well equipped and excellently directed department of physical education provides physical development and recreation for the women of Oregon State college.

Miss Ruth Robinson is director of the department.

Other members of the staff are Elsie Jacobsen, basketball, baseball, hockey and tumbling; Betty Thompson, dancing; Laura McAllister, special activities and archery; Natalie Reichart, swimming and clogging; Lelia Beggs, volleyball and horseback riding; Jeannette Brauns, hockey, baseball and swimming, and Louise Hoeschen, golf, tennis and social dancing.

ORANGE "O" ASSOCIATION

The highest award offered to women in athletics is an Orange "O" sweater which carries with it membership in the Orange "O" association. The sweaters are awarded to junior and senior women belonging to the Women's Athletic association who have fulfilled the requirements by earning 1000 points in interclass athletic competition. Points are awarded on the basis of 100 for making the class first team in each sport, 75 points for first team substitutes and 50 points for those making the second team.

Activities for which points are awarded include the individual sports of swimming, dancing, archery and tennis, and the team sports, hockey, basketball, baseball and volleyball. One point a mile is given for hiking with a maximum of 100 points and a minimum of 25 points a year. Women who earn points at hiking go along prescribed routes and may go in groups on regular scheduled hikes or alone if they prefer.

Other requirements which women must meet in order to receive this coveted award are a grade average of at least 84, service to the athletic association, character, sportsmanship and posture. A woman may participate in only one team and one individual sport during each term.

Wearers of the Orange "O" sweater this year are Mary Bennett, Alice Fish, LaRue Lindsay, Margaret Merryman, Ruth Minor, Barbara Peck, Ruth Warnke and Rose Winkler.

A minor "O" is given to women who have reached the half-way mark in their endeavors for the higher award with 500 points to their credit. This letter is worn on the pocket of a sweater and may be won at the end of the freshman year if all-round proficiency in sports is displayed.

LEOME THORDARSON
Award Winner

The committee which determines the awarding of sweaters to eligible co-eds consists of the head of the department of physical education for women, a faculty member elected each year from the department staff, the president of the Physical Education club and one member from the junior or senior class.

Leome Thordarson was the winner of the Orange "O" and W. A. A. award which is given to the outstanding woman in physical education each year. This consists of having her name engraved on a placque which is placed over the mantle in the club rooms in the women's building. She is selected as the one who has progressed most in ideals of womanhood and service to W. A. A. during her college career.

Baseball Winners

BASEBALL

W. A. A. points are given for baseball, 100 points for the first team and 50 points for the second team with 75 and 35 for substitutes. During the season a series of interclass games were played. The games were interesting and the scores were close, with the freshman and senior minors winning an equal number of games through the tournament until the freshman team defeated the seniors by a score of 28 to 30.

BASKETBALL

Senior women minoring in physical education won the interclass basketball tournament held during winter term. They held an unbeaten record during the season with six straight wins and no defeats. The freshmen minors were runners up for the championship.

Members of the team were Mary Bennett, Margaret Billing, Alice Fish, LaRue Lindsay, Marie Cumming and Rose Winkler. Helen Smyth was basketball manager this year and Miss Elsie Jacobsen, instructor in physical education, was coach. Miss Jacobsen has recently been appointed a national basketball examiner by the National Officials committee.

SWIMMING

Swimming activities for women are carried on through a club called the Aquabats which meets weekly and admits women who can swim 250 yards, two strokes in good form and can tread water for one minute. The first term's schedule consisted of practice for the annual swimming carnival, while the second term was devoted to competition in games, diving, stunts and speed swimming.

Life-saving practice comprises the third term's activities. Class swimming teams are picked on the basis of points earned in these events. The aim of the group is to further interest in water sports. Swimming manager this year was Constance Ayer.

DANCING

More than 100 women students took part in the third annual dance recital in the women's building March 4. The feature of the performance which received the most favorable comment was a colorful interpretation of Rubenstein's "Romance" with different groups of dancers portraying the various instruments in an orchestra. Other numbers were original dances created by the members of natural dancing classes.

The annual spring festival for visiting mothers carried out the story of Rip Van Winkle with clogging, interpretive dancing, folk dances and tumbling. Betty Lynd Thompson, instructor, was director.

ARCHERY

In the second annual women's intercollegiate archery tournament, Oregon State college placed seventh with its first team. Sixty-seven colleges were entered with 708 contestants. The meet was a telegraphic shoot, the results being wired from school to school. For over 50-40-30, a red tassel was awarded to Margaret Merryman.

Archery is continually becoming more popular, with 250 women taking part last year. It is one of the individual sports offered spring term for which W. A. A. points are awarded. Miss Laura McAllister was supervisor this year, and Margaret Merryman was manager.

TENNIS

The tennis season was a success this year, both from the standpoint of the number of girls turning out and the quality of tennis ability displayed by the contestants. Twenty-four girls signed up for interclass tennis. A round-robin tournament was held in which each girl played a match of two out of three games with every other girl in the tournament.

Tournament winners in the interclass play-off were Mary Bennett, singles, and Alice Fish and Barbara Peck, doubles. W. A. A. points were awarded. Miss Elsie Jacobsen was instructor and Carrie Boultinghouse was manager.

VOLLEYBALL

This year was a very successful one for volleyball. More girls turned out, more interest was shown, and a higher grade of playing characterized the season. The freshman class had three teams, one of which entered the competition as their representative, the sophomore and junior classes had two teams each, and the senior class, one.

During the elimination games the freshman, sophomore, and junior teams tied for first honors. The sophomores finally won, and the freshmen and juniors tied for second place. The seniors fell behind the first of the year.

HOCKEY

The hockey season opened with the beginning of the fall term, the senior, junior, sophomore, and freshmen minors having hockey as one of their activities. Captains were: senior, La Rue Lindsay; junior, Irene Davis; sophomore, Lois Godard; and freshmen, Sarah Callan. The tournament opened Thursday, October 22, with a game between the sophomores and the juniors.

The final standing of the teams were: seniors, first; juniors, second; freshmen and upperclass non-minors, third, and sophomores and freshmen non-minors, fourth. Hockey attracted a large number this year.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL ED. CLUB

OFFICERS:	Billie Fish	President
	Margaret Merryman	Vice-president
	Margaret Billings	Secretary
	Ruth Warnke	Treasurer

The Women's Physical Education club is an organization of all women minoring in physical education. Each year the club sponsors events of interest to women on the campus. Fall term, Giocoso, the annual fun-fest, was given, and winter term, the club gave a tea in honor of the women's organizations and honorary groups.

Parthenia, local honor fraternity in physical education for women, was organized by the club. Other activities of the club during the year consisted of sponsoring games, hikes and overnight trips to the Associated Women Student's retreat. Interest is developed in sports by sponsoring of tournaments.

WOMEN STUDENT ROOKESSES

The Associated Women Student Rookesses is an organization made up of a representative from each women's living group and independent organization on the campus. It is under the supervision of the Associated Women Students with the vice-president of that group in charge. The duties of the Women Student rookesses for the past year have been centered around the Memorial Union building.

Members of the organization sign for hours and help in the Memorial Union office and on such occasions as Homecoming they act as guides. Activity points are granted to students who follow this type of work.

APPERSON HALL

Apperson hall is one of the main engineering buildings on the campus and was constructed in 1898. The first floor contains offices and laboratories for the departments of electrical engineering and light and power. The second floor houses offices of the dean of engineering and various offices, classrooms and laboratories of the department of electrical engineering. The third floor has offices and classrooms of civil and railroad engineering.

The building is situated at the north entrance of the campus and has as its lawn the entire lower campus where many of the intramural sports were formerly played. Apperson hall is one of the oldest buildings on the campus.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Dr. Clair V. Langton, head of the department of physical education and health at Oregon State college, is a staunch believer in the slogan "Every man in athletics." Year by year an ever-increasing percentage of men are participating in intramural sports. New games are being added to the schedule in an effort to provide the opportunity for every man to find some branch of athletic activity to which he is particularly suited.

Largely through the efforts of Coach John Paul Schissler, Oregon State teams have taken a place in the football world. In 1932 the Orangemen will meet the fighting Irish of Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind. Next year the Beavers will meet the Fordham Rams in New York City. Coach Schissler has an enviable inter-sectional record having won six contests out of six starts in succession. The upset victory over Utah last fall brought the total up to six.

Three of Schissler's assistants have played football under him at one time or another and as a result are well schooled in the style of play which the Orange mentor uses. Alonzo Stiner, head line coach, played for Schissler at Lombard college in Nebraska. Lon was one of the best men Coach Schissler says he ever had the pleasure of working with as a player. He came to Lombard as an overgrown young kid and in no time at all had taken on weight and displayed such remarkable ability on the gridiron that he was selected as an All-American tackle.

Jim Dixon, assistant line coach, was an all-coast tackle at Oregon State. Roy Lamb, backfield coach, also played for Schissler in the east and is still a wonderful specimen of athletic machinery. Amory T. "Slats" Gill is head basketball coach. Slats starred for Oregon State in 1924 and 1925 on the maple court. He came to Oregon State as rook coach shortly after graduation and was soon named as a varsity tutor. He has turned out some good teams since he has been mentor here.

O. C. MAUTHE
Head of Gymnastics

Ralph Coleman is baseball coach and takes care of intramural work at the college. "Coley" is also a graduate of Oregon State. He played professional baseball upon graduation from college for a few years and then went to Columbia where he secured his master's degree in physical education. He has put Oregon State on the map in the intramural world. He has also had great success with his baseball teams, a number of former Orangemen making good in organized baseball. John Kenney coaches swimming, Major Bowley takes care of polo and Dick Newman coaches track.

Graduate Managers

GRADUATE MANAGER'S OFFICE

Carl A. Lodell, graduate manager of the Associated Students, has signed the financial destinies of the organization for the past 10 years. Lodell was graduated from Oregon State's school of commerce in 1921 and became graduate manager in 1922. All financial operations of the Associated Students including the finances of every branch of athletics, as well as the publications, must pass through Lodell's office. One of the graduate manager's biggest problems is the scheduling of football games for the college. He is a delegate to the meeting of Pacific Coast conference graduate managers and coaches, who determine the athletic destinies of the schools and arrange schedules for conference members. He is a member of the board of control which decides on all matters pertaining to athletic contests, and supervising at Oregon State.

Bern Hafenfeld, a 1928 graduate of the school of commerce, is assistant graduate manager and is directly in charge of the financial operations of the Oregon State Daily Barometer and Beaver. He is also in charge of the financing of all locally played games. Hafenfeld arranges for all seating facilities of Orange guests at home athletic contests. He is a former Orange athlete, having played football and baseball while in school. He is younger than most college managers on the coast and has made quite a name for himself as the genial handler of Orange athletic finances.

Art Taaffe, '26 in commerce, is director of the Oregon State college athletic news service. Upon his shoulders rests the responsibility of getting publicity for all Oregon State teams. Art is known to all sports authorities on the coast as a smiling Irishman who knows all about Oregon State teams past and present. Art can usually forecast the outcome of coming sports events with great accuracy.

Mrs. Helen Meyers does all of the secretarial work for the graduate manager's office and Art Taaffe. She prepares copies of all stories that Taaffe releases for the newspapers in the state and takes care of all files in the publicity office. In the absence of Lodell and Hafenfeld, she transacts all student business. These two men are gone a good deal of the time so that her work is large and varied. The publicity office and graduate manager's offices are together connected by a hall in which the records are kept.

Art Taaffe, Athletic News Director

ATHLETIC NEWS DIRECTOR

Art Taaffe, director of the athletic news bureau, sends out all sports publicity for the Associated Students of Oregon State college. Newspaper men from up and down the coast receive information concerning Beaver teams from his office. The news service keeps complete records of intercollegiate sports since they were started at Oregon State. Clippings and statistical material must be kept on hand and furnished the newspaper in order that the sporting public may be kept informed about Oregon State teams.

Art is known to all sports fans as a genial Irishman who is always ready with a good joke.

ATHLETIC NEWS STAFF

Members of the athletic news staff are John Burtner, Fred Schideler, C. D. Byrne, Bud Forrester and Ralph Marley. These men write sports stories for outside papers and the Barometer. In the outer office of Taaffe's sanctum, files of publicity are kept concerning rival schools and information. Each of the ten conference schools has a file.

These correspondents send stories and pictures to newspapers up and down the coast and also to many papers in the middle west and east. The athletic news service is a central clearing house for all sports publicity and the staff is building up a fine reputation for Orange teams.

VARSITY SPORT MANAGERS

A student managerial staff of undergraduates lessens the duties of Carl Lodell so that he can spend more time with the other important duties of his work. This staff is headed by four senior men, one for each major sport. A host of underclassmen try out on the staff and the most efficient are chosen as managers in their last year.

The senior in charge of each sport travels with the team and takes care of its equipment. Each head manager receives a sweater with a managerial monogram for the activity. Managers were: Arthur Smiley, football; Amby Frederick, basketball; Hugh Tonsfeldt, track; George Castner, baseball.

YELL LEADERS

Forrest Lindsay, varsity yell leader, undertook the difficult task of taking the place of Bobby Christianson with enthusiasm and has succeeded to such an extent that, in spite of an adverse football season, Coach P. J. Schissler has complimented the student body on its spirit.

Lindsay is assisted by George Williams, and each year yell leading classes are conducted from which the best six are picked and their names placed on the ballot at student body election. A new position on the yell leaders staff is that of co-ed cheer leader who conducts the women's rooting section. Beatrice Hall was leader for this past year.

Pep Committee

PEP COMMITTEE

The Pep Committee is responsible for the spirit of the student body shown at rallies held during the year. Luke Tormey, chairman, and his assistants schedule and direct rallies at the sendoffs and welcomings of athletic teams. The committee works in conjunction with Spurs, Beaver Knights and the varsity yell leader.

Probably the biggest tasks are the rally at the Washington State game in Portland, which has become an annual affair, and the activities at the University of Oregon game. Tormey's assistants are George Hanselman, Toby Thompson, Harold Thompson, Alex Atterbury, Bob Burke and Herbert Mack.

BEAVER GUARD

Five years ago the Beaver guard was established to guard the challenging bronze Beaver mascot. The Beaver rides at the head of parades and presides at rallies and football games. The mascot is the center of grave danger during the football season, many scars having been acquired by the Beaver in his conflicts with rivals of Oregon State college.

It is the duty of the Beaver guard to march beside the chassis on which he rests during parades and rallies and keep a vigilant watch upon him. Guardsmen were: George Baldwin, George Lage, Donald Hood, Donald Reed, Nick Shellabarger, Leroy Thomas, Kermit Linstedt and Fred Myers.

COACHING STAFF

Paul J. Schissler headed a large staff of assistants and trainers of the football squad last fall term and the success of the team is directly to him. He outlined the plays and instructed the team in the various tactics that were used in their march toward a successful season. This was his eighth year at Oregon State and it terminated his eighteenth year as a coach of football. During this time a large majority of his teams have been in the win column and always make brilliant records for the following teams to use as their marks to better.

The varsity line coach has been James V. Dixon since 1927 and during this time the work of the Orange forward wall has consistently received national recognition for its smoothness and ability to stop the opposition. Dixon is a graduate of Oregon State and has served in his position for the past five years.

During the year of 1928 Alonzo Stiner was added to the coaching staff as the assistant line coach. Stiner is a native of Nebraska and was an outstanding player in that locality, receiving mention as one of the best men to ever participate in football at his alma mater. Previous to his connection with Oregon State, Stiner was with the University of Colorado where he acted in the position of assistant coach.

Working under Coach Schissler in the backfield department is Roy Lamb who is from Lombard, Illinois. While at Lombard, Lamb received all-American awards and during this time played under Schissler, who was head coach there.

The freshman squad is under the guidance of Verne Eilers and it is his duty to shape a team that can be worked into the varsity line-up the following year.

Freshmen coming from all parts of the country are assembled on the squad and taught to adhere to the principles of football as outlined by Eilers. This is a difficult task as most of the players are accustomed to playing under different systems than the one used at Oregon State and it becomes necessary to break the rooks of whatever idiosyncrasies that they may have retained from their prep school instruction.

Eilers is a graduate of Oregon State and during his time in college played three years as varsity guard, receiving all-American mention.

WILLAMETTE, LINFIELD, OREGON

Willamette university was swamped by a horde of Orange gridsters by the overwhelming score of 76 to 0 in the first contest of the 1931 season September 19. The game was played at night under the powerful lamps on Bell field with the spectators composed mainly of townspeople.

The Beavers easily downed the Linfield college aggregation October 9 by a score of 25 to 0. Bill Head and Romie Adams each made two touchdowns for the Orangemen.

Oregon Normal gridmen were taken into camp October 24 by a 19 to 0 count. This contest gave Coach Schissler an excellent opportunity to try out his reserves.

MONTANA

The powerful Orange eleven slid to a 19 to 0 victory over the University of Montana aggregation in one of the muddiest contests ever staged on Bell field. The Beavers' first touchdown came in the opening period after a long punt by Rust. Ramponi ran back a Montana punt 16 yards and following three running plays shot a pass to Rust over the goal line.

The Beavers' second count was made by Schwammel after blocking Reynolds' punt. The last score was accounted for by a pass from Ward to Everett Davis. The conversions failed both times. Many reserves were used by Coach Paul Schissler during the contest.

UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

In Oregon State's first conference clash of the season, it went down under a strong Trojan onslaught 30 to 0. Oregon State was unfortunate in hitting Southern California just as the Trojans struck the peak of a fierce emotional rebound from a loss to St. Mary's. Hal Moe was the star in this game, being the only man on the Oregon State team to stand out on defense, and was the only consistent ground gainer in the Beaver backfield.

Oregon State had one real chance to tally and threw that away by drawing 25 yards in penalties after it got the ball on the Trojan 14-yard line. There was nothing particularly brilliant in the Trojan victory, but it was an exhibition of gruelling drive that was too much for the northerners. Shaver, Musick, and Pinckert furnished most of the drive for the Trojans.

All of the touchdowns, except the last, resulted from long, steady drives up the field. The last saw Mohler going over from the 4-yard line after Griffith, substitute fullback, had intercepted an Oregon State pass to run 51 yards. In turning in its victory, U. S. C. made 16 first downs. Oregon State completed 2 out of 10 passes for 52 yards. U. S. C. finished four out of nine for 72 yards. Southern California's line looked good in this clash, steadily pushing the Orangemen back.

Stanford Hits

STANFORD

The strength of Oregon State's grid machine was still a mystery before its second conference game with Stanford, which was played down south. Beaver backers still thought that the Orangemen had the strongest combination in years and that it would click. However, the Stanford Indians, under the able coaching of Glenn "Pop" Warner, opened up in the second half of a slow game to win 25 to 7, and dispel all doubt of Orange inferiority.

The Beavers held the flashy Stanford eleven to a 7 to 7 count in the first half but Warner was only using his second and third teams. In the third and fourth quarters, Stanford opened up against the tired Beaver eleven and scored at ease with a lot of fake reverses that were just too fast for the Orange line and backs to comprehend.

Oregon State's only touchdown came after Keith Davis had intercepted an Indian pass. John Biancone put some spark into the Orange team and it marched up the field for 45 yards to a touchdown. Rust went over and Keith Davis place kicked the extra point.

Biancone was individual star of Oregon State's attack while he also showed up well on defense. Reg Rust also looked well for the northerners in this clash. Afflerbaugh proved to be Stanford's fleet-footed back.

WASHINGTON STATE

Confident of redeeming itself and making up for the two conference defeats at the hands of Southern California and Stanford, a revamped Oregon State football team marched into Portland's Multnomah civic stadium for its third conference football tilt. The Orangemen outplayed Washington State's gridmen in every department of the game but still lost 7 to 6.

The Beavers made more yardage than the Cougars did but threw away chances to score by fumbling and at times, when they were in scoring distance, just did not have the necessary punch to get through the Washington State line. Oregon State used seven plays to make its touchdown from the Cougar 46-yard line. John Biancone passed to Hal Moe for 17 yards.

Biancone then passed the pigskin to Little for 13 yards. The next pass was grounded and then Little tore through the line for six yards. Biancone flipped another pass to Moe for a first down, bringing the ball to the Cougar 8-yard line. Head made one yard on the next play.

The Cougars were penalized for being offside and the ball was put on the 1-yard line. Little crashed through guard on the next play for a touchdown. Joslin was rushed into the game to try for point but missed. Oregon State made another desperate drive up the field but lost the ball.

OREGON

On a wet Hayward Field at Eugene, which made the going rough and treacherous, Oregon State and Oregon played a no-score game in their traditional homecoming clash. Line play was the feature of the game, as the backs were unable to get away because of the slippery footing.

Keith Davis did some great punting for Oregon State and kept the Beavers out of danger several times in the first half when Oregon made spurts toward the Orange goal line. The ball game was distinctly Oregon State's in the second half. This was the seventh tie-game between the two rivals and the fiftieth scoreless game. It was the first tie in 10 years, however. Gilbert Bergerson and "Curly" Miller were outstanding for Oregon State in the line, pounding through many times to smear Oregon plays.

Oregon State was inside Oregon's 20-yard marker only once while the Webfoots were down to the Orangemen's 5-yard line in the first period after recovering a fumble. Oregon made one fumble while Oregon State made six. The Orangemen recovered only one fumble.

Oregon State played a safe game, often kicking on the first or second down. Keith Davis averaged 38 yards on 19 punts. Oregon made 104 yards from scrimmage, Oregon State 61.

UTAH

Oregon State defeated a strong University of Utah team in Portland in the last game of the season by a score of 12 to 0. This game was a charity affair with all returns going to the unemployed. The light Ute team held Oregon State scoreless in the first half. In the second half, after Coach Schissler had injected several new men, Biancone made the first touchdown on a line plunge after the Orangemen had advanced the ball to the one-foot line.

Bill Head, Beaver halfback, made the second touchdown near the end of the game over left tackle. This win kept the Orange intersectional record clean.

COLORADO

Oregon State college's powerful football team rolled up two touchdowns and a safety against a fighting Colorado team in the first grid contest of the season, held in Multnomah Stadium, Portland, to win 16 to 0. Tommy Ward, diminutive quarterback, was the star of this game, making several long gains to score the first Orange touchdown.

Then came a safety when Haley, Colorado quarterback, was tackled back of his own line after receiving a punt from Reg Rust. Hal Moe went over the line for the second touchdown after he had received a long pass and Biancone, Orange quarterback, had made several nice gains through center.

ROOK FOOTBALL

The rook football team opened its season last fall with the Chemawa Indians, winning the contest 24 to 0. The freshmen used few passes during the game and resorted almost entirely to line plunges and end runs. The Indians gave the fans a thrill when they pulled the "Statue of Liberty play" in the third quarter and made 40 yards before being stopped. This placed the ball on the rooks' 28-yard line, the nearest the Indians came to scoring.

In the second game of their schedule, the freshmen downed the Eastern Oregon state normal team 25 to 0 in a contest featuring many long end runs, two of which resulted in touchdowns for the Orange babes. The scoring started early in the first quarter when Franklin, rook quarterback, returned a punt 48 yards for a touchdown. Eluding many tacklers, the slippery little quarterback managed to make his way to the goal line after switching his field three different times.

Despite a spurt in the third and fourth periods that gained two touchdowns, the Oregon State rooks were defeated by the Oregon freshmen 25 to 13 in the third game of the rook season last fall. Twice in the first quarter the rooks stopped the frosh just short of scoring territory. Led by Pepelnjack, the Oregon lads penetrated to the Orange one-yard line, but two power smashes from there failed to advance the ball. After staging another futile march, the frosh got under way early in the second period and crossed the goal line in six rushes from the center of the field. Elmer Brown carried the leather across.

Although they were outplayed, the St. Martin Rangers defeated the Oregon State rooks 13 to 0 at Lacey, Washington. The Rangers' first score came in the second period on a sustained drive from the shadow of their own goal line.

The fighting rook football team went down to defeat before the crushing power of the University of Oregon frosh by a score of 43 to 20 November 13 in a game filled with every possible kind of gridiron thrills. To start the fireworks, Franklin, rook quarter, caught the opening kickoff and ran 95 yards straight up the field behind perfect interference for a touchdown. Pangle kicked goal for the rooks.

The score of the game changed hands frequently and the result of the game was not determined until near the close of the game, when the Webfoot yearlings finally emerged victorious.

NON-CONFERENCE GAMES

Of the eight non-conference contests played the Oregon State team won four and lost four. In the opening contest of the season the Orange basketballers ran wild over the Willamette university quintet to the tune of a 42 to 32 score.

The Beavers met Multnomah club of Portland in the second game and went on a scoring spree that lasted all game, submerging the clubbers by a 48 to 23 count. The next game was a closer contest and the Orangemen after 40 minutes of hard playing finally walked off the floor with a 35 to 32 win tucked away.

During the Christmas holidays the Gill team went on a barnstorming trip to California playing four games on the way. The Beavers did not do quite as well on the trip this year as they have in the past and lost three of the four contests. They lost the first to the University of California by a 27 to 22 score, won the next from Olympic club of San Francisco 28 to 26, lost the third to University of San Francisco 40 to 28, and lost the final contest to Stanford university by a 45 to 32 score.

On their trip to Washington State the Beavers took on the Gonzaga university quintet. The Orangemen were in somewhat a crippled condition and dropped the contest to the Gonzaga team by a 27 to 24 count after the lead had changed hands several times during the game.

Each year Oregon State plays a number of non-conference games in order that the men may receive additional experience to aid them in their fight for the coast honors. It has nearly become traditional for the team to make the trip to California during the Christmas holidays and the other non-conference games are played either during the season to fill in the schedule or before the conference play starts.

These games give the coach an opportunity to try new material in his line-up and to test the strength of plays that may have been introduced during the regular season. Non-conference games are a vital factor in the basketball schedule as they aid the team in smoothing out the rough spots that develop from time to time.

Few lettermen returned this past season and through the use of the non-conference schedule, Coach Gill developed an outstanding hoop squad that made a creditable showing on its trip to the San Francisco bay region.

WASHINGTON STATE SERIES

Oregon State's basketball outfit did not fare so well in the four-game series with the Washington State Cougars. The Orangemen lost all four contests to the northerners. The first two games of the series were played at Pullman on the Cougar home court and were far from set-ups. In both encounters the two teams stood on even terms until the final minutes of play, when in each case the Washington Staters stepped out in front with a comfortable margin. The first game went to the northerners by a 31 to 22 score and the second by a 33 to 22 count.

Just ten days after the meetings in Pullman the two teams battled it out in a brace of games on the Corvallis court. In the first game on the home court the Beavers stepped out to take a 13 to 7 advantage at half time but this was dwindled down in the second period until with one minute to go the Cougars held a one point margin. A field goal and a free throw boosted the lead to four points and the Washington State team left the court with a third win over the Orange team, this time by a 28 to 24 score.

The final encounter of the series proved to be a thriller. The count see-sawed all the way and stood at 26 to 26 with only a few seconds to go. A pot shot by Claude Holsten just before the final gun sounded gave the Cougars a 28 to 26 win over the Gillmen.

WASHINGTON SERIES

Coach Amory T. "Slats" Gill gave his Oregon State basketball team its conference start against University of Washington at Seattle. This four-game series with the Huskies proved to be the closest and most interesting of any games the Orangemen played all season. In the initial contest, the Gillmen battled the Washingtonians to a 24-24 tie at the end of the regular playing time and it took the Beavers a five-minute overtime period to eke out a 26 to 24 win. A pass from Ken Fagans to Howard Merrill under the basket resulted in the final scoring for the Orangemen.

The following night the State team did not fare quite so well and dropped the contest to the Huskies by a count of 30 to 27. The game was a see-saw battle almost like the game of the night before with the lead changing hands several times during the course of the encounter.

In the first contest at Corvallis the Orangemen displayed an air-tight defense the like of which has not been seen on the Orange court for many years, and came out on the long end of the 30 to 27 count. The final Washington game was a thriller throughout and had to go an extra five minutes before the Huskies nosed out a 32 to 27 win. Both games carried with them the same thrills as were witnessed at Seattle.

IDAHO SERIES

Just one week after the opening conference game at Seattle, the Oregon State basketball team opened its home season against the University of Idaho quintet. The Gill-coached team made a clean sweep of it with the Vandals, taking all four games. In the first contest the Beavers stepped out into a long lead which was never passed by the Idaho team. Late in the contest the Vandals crept up to within two points of the Staters but the final score of 33-31 favored the Gill team.

The following night the Beavers took another from the northerners by a 35 to 28 score. In the first half the Orangemen played erratic ball and were on the short end of the 16 to 13 count when the gun ended the first period.

In the series at Moscow the Orangemen did not have such an easy time with the Idaho Vandals. The first contests which Oregon State won by the narrow margin of one point of the 24 to 23 score caused a near riot when Grenier, the tall Idaho center, looped a long one just as the whistle blew. The officials refused to count the score which would have given the Vandal team a win by one point ruling that the ball had been held too long. The final game was easily taken by the Oregon State team by a 31 to 26 count.

OREGON SERIES

The series with the University of Oregon five proved to be the most interesting of the season for the Oregon State basketball fans. When the smoke cleared, each team found itself with two wins and two defeats as a result of the four-game series. The first game, a nip and tuck encounter, finally went to the Webfooters by a one-point margin of the 21 to 20 score.

In the second meeting of the traditional rivals the Orangemen held a substantial lead until the last few minutes of play when the Oregonians crept up on and finally passed the Beavers to win the contest by a 28 to 25 count. The third contest was played on the Eugene floor and went to the Orangemen. It was Oregon State's game throughout although three times during the course of the evening the university quint managed to bring the score to an even count. The final score stood at 37-31.

The fourth Oregon-Oregon State game, the final contest of the season for both teams, listed itself with the fastest and roughest games of the year on the Orange court. After battling on almost even terms for the greater part of the encounter the Orangemen jumped on the lead and never again relinquished it. The final gun found the Oregon State five on the long end of the 26 to 20 score.

Rook Basketball Squad

ROOK BASKETBALL

The Beaver babes opened their basketball season against Washington high school of Portland, and trounced the Rose City boys 29 to 17. Both teams played a ragged game and missed many cripples. Three rook teams saw action in the encounter. In the second game of the season the freshmen wilted before one of the fastest and best coached teams ever to appear in the state. The team was Benson Tech of Portland, who won the game by a score of 31 to 16. In the first quarter the rooks ran their opponents "neck and neck" but after that the Portlanders hit their stride and kept a good lead.

In one of the closest games of the season the yearlings defeated the Willamette five by a score of 30 to 27. The Babes took the lead at the first of the contest and maintained it until the end of the third quarter when the Willamettes tied the score at 18-all. From then until the final whistle the score see-sawed back and forth but the rooks came out with a three-point lead.

The Oregon frosh took the Oregon State rooks for two games by scores of 40 to 20 and 32 to 30. In the first game both teams played a fast shooting and passing game but the frosh worked a little bit faster to win a comparatively easy game. The yearlings played a much harder and steadier game in the second contest as the score showed. Both sides played a rough game, 12 fouls being called against the frosh and seven against the rooks. Failure to make good on their free throws was one of the reasons the Oregon State yearlings lost.

The Babes broke the string of losses in the Multnomah club game after a hard game won by a score of 28 to 26. Multnomah got the jump and by half time was leading 16 to 12, but in the second half the rooks came back and made 16 tallies to their opponents' 10. As the end neared both teams picked up speed and the fourth quarter was much the best period of the game.

In the final two games of the season, played with University of Oregon freshmen, the rooks made an average of .500. In the first tilt several Oregon Staters were out due to colds and the frosh walked away in the second half winning by a score of 42 to 21. The next night a determined rook team went on the floor and after a hard, fast game emerged victorious by a score of 26 to 18 to save themselves the embarrassment of taking a white-washing in the "little civil war series."

COACHING STAFF

Varsity baseball activities were under the supervision of Ralph O. Coleman last spring term. Moulding a team from many aspirants that reported the first part of the season, Coleman made many trials and substitutions before he found what he believed to be the best possible combination of players to represent Oregon State on the baseball diamond during the season. Hampered by poor weather conditions at the outset of the baseball period, it became difficult to choose the smoothest team as little time for outdoor practice was had before the season opened. Many lettermen did not return for the baseball games and in this way Oregon State had many recruits on the squad.

Berne Hafenfeld assisted Coleman in the handling of the varsity players and had charge of the ball club when Coleman found it necessary to be out of town or away from practice. Hafenfeld played ball for Oregon State and is considered one of the best infielders on the Pacific coast, having won three letters while attending this institution.

Coleman did not coach baseball this spring as his intramural activities occupied his entire time. A. T. Gill headed the baseball procession this season. Approximately 65 men reported for work under Gill and prospects for the season are bright at the time this book goes to press.

Pitchers and catchers begin working out in the men's gymnasium before the season officially opens and in this way it is possible for them to get their arms in working order and to receive individual instructions from the coach that will tend to improve their brand of ball and ultimately increase the efficiency of the team.

B. N. HAFENFELD
Assistant Coach

This spring term the managerial department of the baseball squad was handled by Bart McMath who had charge of the equipment and the care of the players. It was McMath's duties to see that each man was kept in the best condition and that his equipment was not hampering his playing ability. Arranging for housing facilities on trips and making all the necessary contacts for the team, McMath managed the baseball squad throughout this season.

Oregon State's baseball team is short the return of lettermen this spring, but under the coaching of Gill, the team has possibilities of making a creditable showing.

OREGON SERIES

The opening game of the conference season resulted in a 7 to 3 victory for the Oregon State nine over the University of Oregon at Eugene. A two-run flurry in the first inning started the Beavers off in a lead that was never headed, as three Webfoot hurlers were ineffective in stopping the Oregon State attack.

Lefty Woodard pitched the Orangemen to their second consecutive triumph over the Webfoots the following day at Corvallis. This time the score was 11 to 7. Woodard, twirling his first conference game for the Beavers, held the visitors handcuffed until the last two innings. Three lusty circuit clouts by Biancone, Jensen and Grayson, all garnered off Arnett's portside delivery, were also important factors in the Beaver victory.

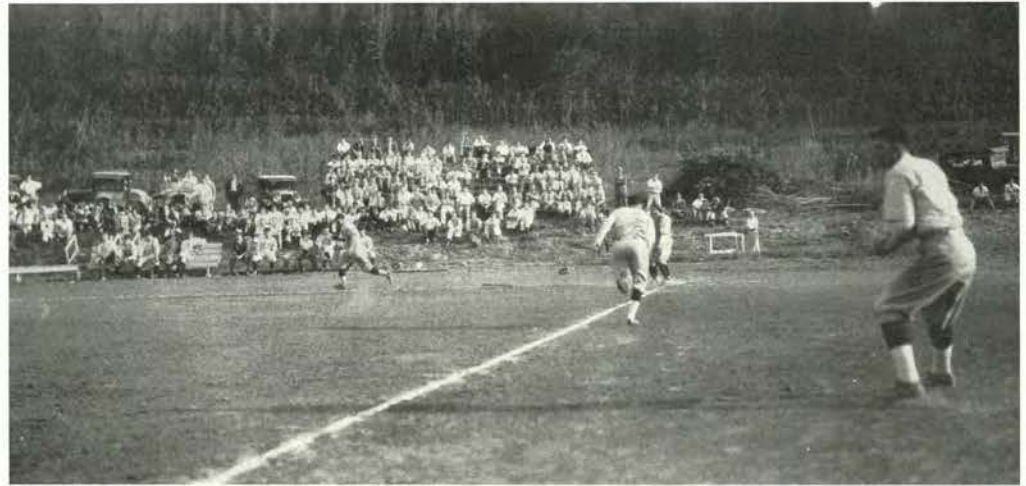

Lefty Woodard again found the Webfoots easy victims in the third contest of the annual four-game series. Oregon could touch his southpaw slants for only two runs and eight scattered hits, while the Oregon State batsmen slammed the offerings of Rube Bloom for 12 runs and 18 safe bingles. In the final conference game for both teams, the Oregon nine scored two runs in the ninth inning to nose out Ralph Coleman's baseballists by a count of 7 to 6. Oregon State held a temporary lead three times during the contest.

IDAHO SERIES

Coach Ralph Coleman's Beavers turned the full power of their batting attack on three Idaho pitchers to win the opening game of the annual series by a score of 14 to 3. Thirteen safe bingles, of which four were home runs with Captain Grayson getting two and Rod Ballard and Al Brown one each, spelled defeat for the Vandals. Brown also starred in the pitching role, holding Idaho to six hits and striking out nine men.

Although the Beaver baseballists outthit their rivals in the second contest, 11 errors in the field proved too great a handicap to overcome and the Vandals won the game 16 to 9. Coach Coleman used five pitchers in a vain effort to stem the Idaho attack.

The third game saw Idaho come from behind in the last half of the ninth inning to win 7 to 6. For the second time in the series Oregon State pounded the most hits, but costly errors ended the chances of a Beaver triumph.

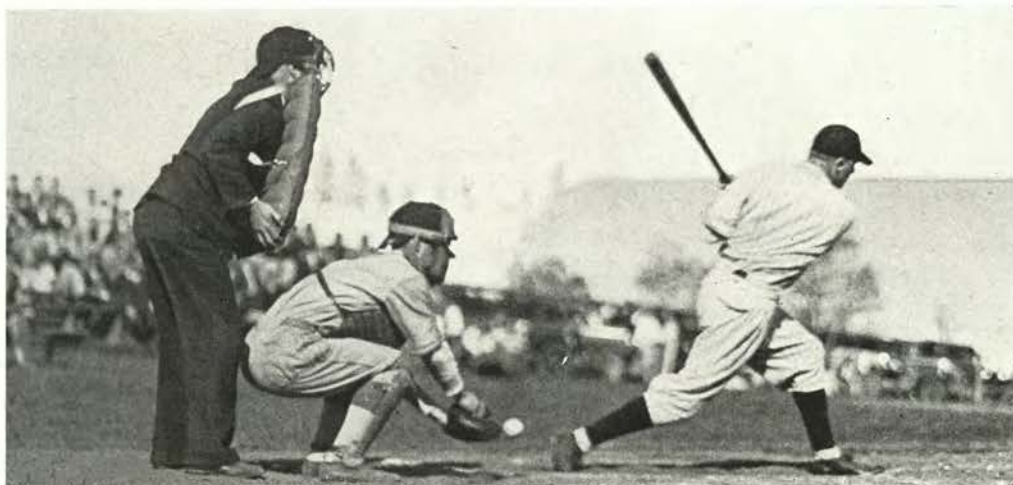

Proving extremely effective in the pinches, Lefty Daubert of Idaho chucked the entire game and received credit for the victory. The combination of 16 safe hits by the Orange batsmen and the effective four-hit pitching of Lefty Woodard gave Oregon State a smashing 17 to 1 win in the final game. Four Vandal chuckers were helpless before the big sticks of the Beavers.

WASHINGTON STATE SERIES

Backed by a snappy fielding team, Karl Norby, ace of the Washington State hurling staff, held the Beavers scoreless while his teammates counted six times to win the opening conference game between the two teams. The Cougars clawed steadily at the offerings of Al Brown, Orange pitcher, and the result was never in doubt.

Jack Cate, starting his first conference game for Oregon State, found the Washington State batters exactly to his liking in the second tilt, and he won handily, 5 to 1. Cate allowed only three scattered hits while he was sending six Cougars to the bench via the strikeout route.

The third tilt was a thriller with the lead see-sawing back and forth constantly until Oscar Jones, Cougar outfielder, gave Washington State a 7 to 6 victory by cracking out a triple in the last of the ninth and later scoring on an infield tap.

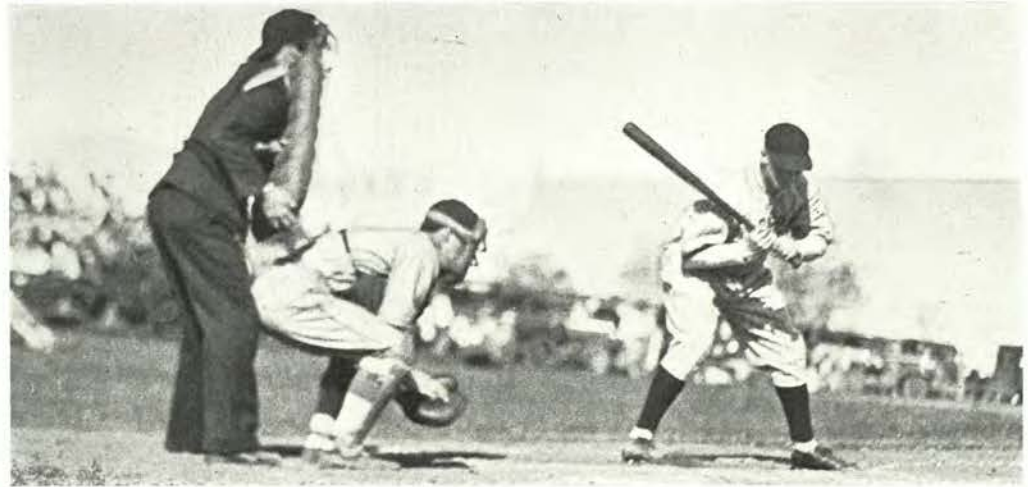

The 7 to 6 count was reversed in the final game in which it took the Beavers ten innings to push the deciding run over the plate. Three Cougar home runs, two by Dahlen and one by Holsten, kept Al Brown, Orange hurler, in constant danger, but he scored the winning run himself in the extra frame as part of a brilliant double steal. Although both teams garnered an equal number of hits, the Beavers' came at the right time.

WASHINGTON SERIES

A total of 36 hits and 10 errors turned the opening game between the University of Washington and Oregon State baseball teams into a riot of thrills which ended with the Huskies on the long end of a 15 to 11 score. Al Brown of the Orangemen and Ned Nelson, Husky first baseman, shared the batting limelight. Three times Brown toured the bases after powerful smashes to the outer gardens while Nelson hit safely five times, one of them being a home run.

The Huskies continued their phenomenal batting in the second contest while "Spec" Putnam toyed with the Oregon State stickers, and the game went to the conference champions 18 to 4. Five hurlers, who toiled on the mound for the Beavers, were powerless to stop the Washington attack.

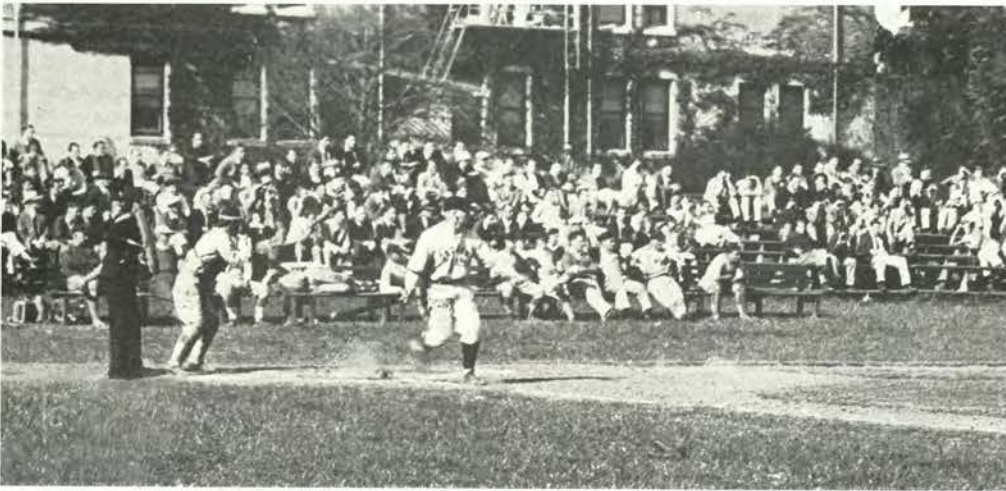

Coach Coleman used Jack Cate and Bob Petersen in an effort to halt the Husky tide in the third meeting between the two teams, but their offerings were ineffective, and the Huskies annexed another win 12 to 1. With their eyes trained on their third consecutive Pacific coast conference baseball championship, northern division, the Huskies captured the final game 6 to 5. They were also the only team to gain the distinction of winning a series from Oregon State during the 1931 season.

PRESEASON VARSITY BASEBALL

Varsity baseball started out slow, battling with spring showers and creaking joints. As the men limbered up a few degrees Coach Coleman divided the squad into teams for practice tilts and scheduled games with the rook squad. In the practice contest "Coly" tried out every man on the squad several times and gradually the sluggers, fast fielders and steady pitchers came to light.

In the opening game of the season against Willamette, Al Brown held the Bearcats to 11 scattered hits while his teammates were collecting 15 blows against the pitching of the opposition to win by a score of 7 to 3. Considering that it was the first game of the season it was tight and well played. The game the next afternoon showed Oregon State's weakness on the mound. Though Oregon State finally won the contest by a score of 10 to 7, Lefty Woodward walked 15 men, but he allowed only six hits. However, his generosity forced in three runs within the first two innings.

On the day before the conference season opened the varsity met the yearlings in a practice tilt and unleashed a batting attack, the likes of which is not seen often in any league. Three rook chuckers tried to stem the tide but all to no avail.

Rook Baseball Squad

ROOK BASEBALL

On the night before the Oregon State rook baseball team was to meet the Eugene high in the first contest of the season, 14 men were declared ineligible. However, the next day the team slugged its way to a 20 to 10 victory among numerous errors and home runs. Sass pitched a cool and steady game for the rooks.

In the next contest of the season the State yearlings garnered a win from the strong Salem high outfit by a score of 13 to 7. In the fourth inning Johnny Sass, rook pitcher, twisted his knee and had to leave the game. The team played a steadier game by far than it did in the opening tilt, making only one error. Tex Burroughs and Gil Erikson were the hitting stars for the day.

By smashing out five hits to score four runs in the seventh inning the freshmen took their first game with the Oregon frosh 6 to 5. Bault, Oregon State pitcher, let the Oregonites down with six hits. He was converted from an outfielder to a pitcher. Bault again won for the rooks in the next game against Salem high when he went in as relief pitcher in the eighth and stopped the rally. The score was 8 to 7. The yearlings ended the season with two games with the Oregon frosh.

Six consecutive singles off the tired arm of Les Bault enabled the University of Oregon frosh baseball nine to score five runs in the tenth inning to defeat the Oregon State rooks 12 to 8 in the second game of a four-game series. Previous to this rally, the rooks had scored three runs in the last half of the ninth inning to tie the score 7-up, and send the game into the extra inning.

Bault and Don Weed of the frosh, staged a pitchers' battle for eight innings, but in the last two frames the freshmen team broke loose with heavy artillery. Entering the ninth inning with a 5-4 lead, the frosh took advantage of two rook errors to increase the lead to 7-5.

With one out in the last of the ninth, Ed Kudella started the fireworks with a single to center and ended upon third when the ball was bobbled. Erickson was hit by a pitched ball, Haines walked and Peterson advanced them on a tap to the first baseman with Kudella scoring on the play.

The game was one continual whirl of hits and errors, the rooks making 16 hits, frosh 10, and the frosh making six errors, rooks eight.

SEASON SURVEY

Probably the most outstanding track event that happened around Oregon State for years was when Ivan Martin, Jack DuFrane, Marsh Dunkin and Bob Prentiss set a new world's record in the shuttle relay race by bettering the mark set by Ohio State in 1929.

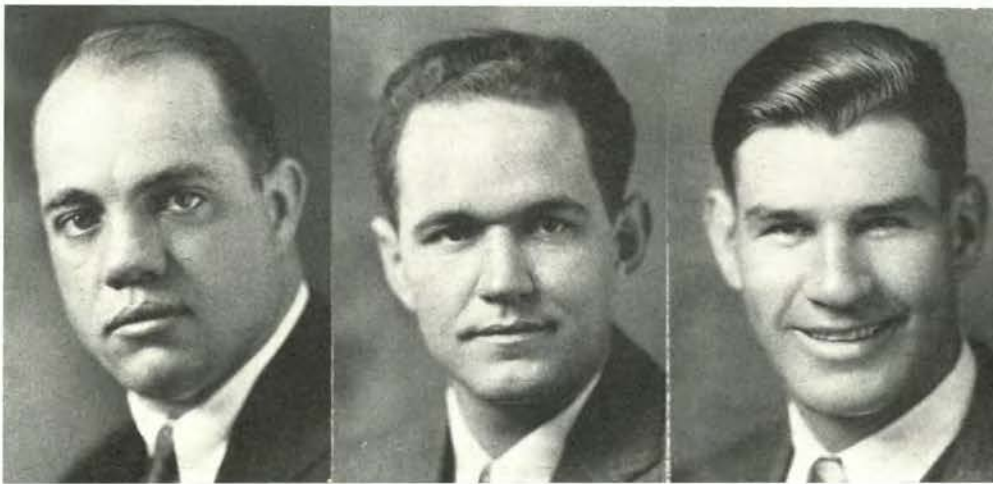

At the end of the season Coach Dick Newman said: "We have no alibis to offer for the showing of the team this year. Washington State, Oregon and Washington all had good teams and deserved to win." However, as several good men failed to return to school for spring term, the squad was limited and as several men participated in two events their efficiency was cut down.

COACHING STAFF

Heading a staff of many assistants and trainers, Richard Newman completed his third year as varsity track coach last spring term. Under his supervision the track squad developed and entered in the major meets of the the Pacific coast.

This was Newman's last year at Oregon State, having turned his thoughts to the practice of law. Outstanding men and teams were his specialty while at Oregon State, some of them shattering world records and coast meet times and distances.

Alonzo Stiner will take over the work for track men in the absence of Newman.

OREGON RELAY MEET

University of Oregon relay men downed Oregon State's representatives 5 to 3 in an exciting meet which saw one world's record and two meet marks go toppling. Ivan Martin, Jack DuFrane, Marsh Dunkin and Bob Prentiss scored the biggest victory of the afternoon when they ran the treacherous shuttle relay race in 1:01.6, shattering the world's record established by the Ohio State team in 1929. The Buckeye quartet of Pierce, Crooks, Petersilge and Rockaway held the former mark of 1:01.8. The Webfeet did not even finish in the shuttle race, one of their runners stumbling and eliminating them from the event.

Oregon captured an early lead by walking off with the first three events on the program—the 440-yard, two-mile and 880-yard relays. The lemon-yellow team of Starr, Allen, Holman and Bale set a new meet record in the 440, stepping off the distance in 0:43, breaking the old mark of 0:43.6.

Oregon's distance medley team of Starr, Marrs, Moran and Hill broke the old meet record in that event. The flashy Webfeet entrants scampered around the oval in 7:41.8. The old record stood at 7:57. Oregon State won the shuttle relay, sprint medley and the mile relay which were on the program.

WASHINGTON MEET

Limiting the Oregon State track and field team to five first places and a tie for the sixth one, the evenly balanced Washington university squad easily defeated the Beavers by a score of 83½ to 47½ in the opening meet of the season. One Pacific northwest record was broken when the Beaver relay quartet—Odell, Lillie, Johnson and Kirk—forced the Huskies to break the one-mile relay mark.

The Huskies replaced the time of 3 minutes 22 seconds made by Washington State college in 1916, when Bale, Mantel, Genung and Hartley, covered the distance in 3:20.7. Five Orangemen, Gil Bergerson, Mose Lyman, Ken Martin, Carl Ayres and Howard Smith, won first places, while Fulton Beatty tied in the broad-jump with the Husky leaper.

Though there was only one mark set the five winning Beavers threatened the existing Oregon State college marks in their respective events. The result of the meet was never in doubt after the first two track events had been run off as the Huskies rolled up a 16-2 margin in the century and mile run.

Bledsoe, Washington sprinter, with 10 points, was high scorer of the meet with a twin victory in the 100 and 220.

WASHINGTON STATE MEET

Forced to fight all the way the Washington State track and field team barely nosed out the Beaver squad 69% to 61%. The meet was held at Pullman and a steady rain fell all the time during the competition.

Martin Elle muddled through to win the 100 for Oregon State but Washington State came right back and won the mile. Willis took the event with Bill Mullin of Oregon State a close second. On the other side of the field at the same time Gil Bergerson was winning the shot put. The Cougar quarter-miler, Kelley, received a surprise from Duane Kirk, who after trailing him for almost the entire run, closed up the gap by a tremendous burst of speed, only to be defeated by a foot.

Oregon State made a dismal showing in the high hurdles. Ken Martin hit the fifth barrier and failed to finish while Dunkin also hit the barrier and finished in third place. Prentiss, however, ran a good race and came back in the lows to give Michel a good run for first.

The broad jump developed into a dual contest between Fulton Beatty and Porter Lainhart, with Beatty leading until Lainhart jumped into the officials' faces making a mark of 21 feet 10 $\frac{1}{8}$  inches. All in all it was a good meet except for the rain.

N. P. C. MEET

In the northern division of the Pacific coast track meet fans saw the expected happen when the University of Washington repeated its victory of the year before by making a total of 60½ points. The Huskies captured eight first places, making it practically a walk-away. Oregon came in second with 39½ points to their credit. Washington State college placed third with 30 points and Oregon State was fourth with 22½ markers. Montana followed with nine and Idaho took the cellar with four points.

Oregon State took one first. This was when Gil Bergerson heaved the shot 47 feet ½ inch, beating Ramstedt of Washington seven inches, who was second. However, the squad took several seconds, one of which was Duane Kirk in the 440. Hartly of Washington set a new northwest mark to beat out the Beaver runner. In the broad jump Beatty was beaten by Whiting of Washington by one-half foot, and Smith won second in the two-mile run.

Other men who placed were Lyman in the pole vault, Little in the discus throw, Martin in the 120-yard hurdles.

In this meet five records tumbled. The University of Washington broke three of them. Washington State and Oregon also shattered one each.

FRESHMAN TRACK

Opening the rook track season, the freshmen won from the University of Oregon frosh in a dual relay meet 5 to 0. During the meet the rooks broke the 880-yard relay record and tied the 440-yard record. Coach Stiner's quartet of sprinters had a great day at the expense of the Oregon frosh. In the 880-yard relay the rooks broke the record by three seconds, setting the new one at 1:20.4. At the finish of the race the rook anchor man, O'Connell, was 50 yards ahead of the frosh anchor man.

In the 440-yard relay the rooks tied the record at :43.4. A poor pass probably robbed the rooks of another record. The only event the frosh gave the rooks any stiff competition was in the distance medley.

Scoring 97½ points to the combined score of 58½, made by their opponents, the Oregon State rooks swamped four schools in a track and field meet held at Forest Grove. Pacific university was host to the Salem Y. M. C. A., Pacific college, Oregon Normal school and the rooks in a five-school meet. Pacific university was second with 22½ points, Oregon Normal and Pacific college were third with 16 each and Salem "Y" was fourth with four points.

The rooks placed in every event except the two-mile race which they did not enter. Harold Joslin broke the shotput record of 41 feet 9 inches with a heave of 42 feet 8½ inches, and "Skeet" O'Connell set a new rook record in the broad jump by leaping 22 feet 10 inches. Jim Emmett with two firsts in the sprints was high point man of the meet with 10 points. O'Connell with a first, second and fourth was next in line with nine, and Joslin with a first and a second was third with eight.

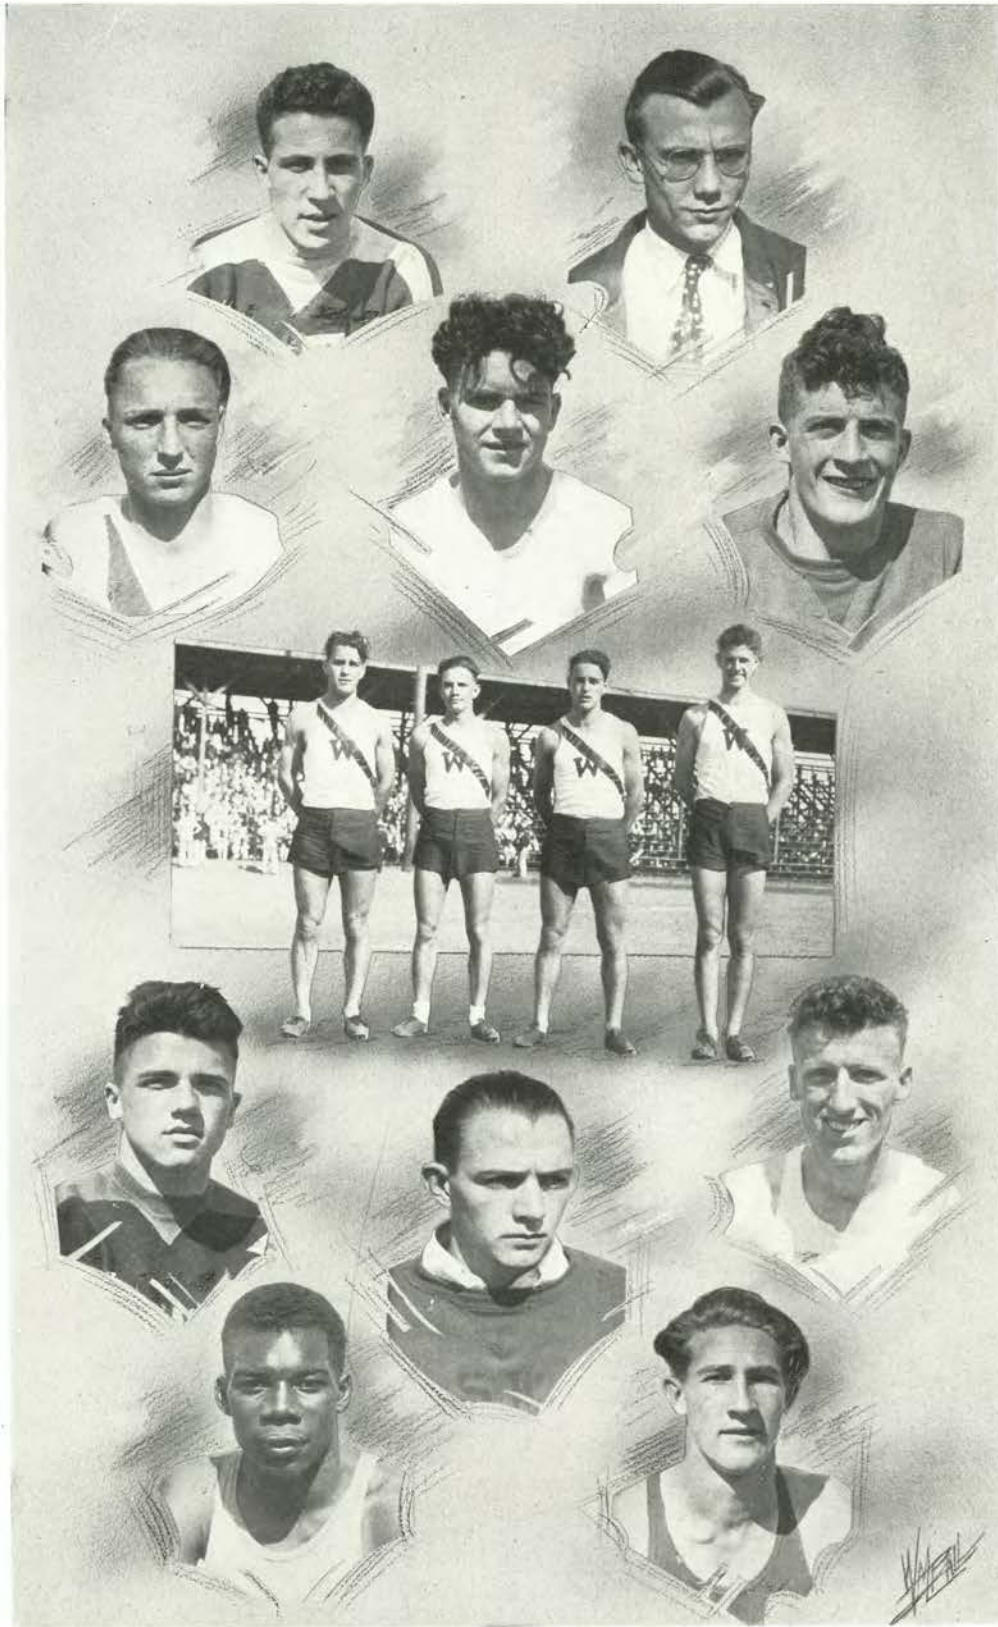

On May 22 the Oregon State rook track and field team took the Oregon frosh into camp by winning nine first places, tying for another, winning the relay, and by taking a score of seconds and thirds for a total score of 78 to 44.

"Skeet" O'Connell, sensational rook sprinter, had a big day at the meet when he tied the record of 10 seconds in the 100-yard dash, and took first in the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet 4½ inches. He was nosed out by his teammate, Bronson, in the 220-yard dash, but led in individual honors. Many other rooks showed up well in the course of the day's events.

Varsity Swimming Squad

VARSITY SWIMMING

Oregon State's swimming team this season was built almost entirely of new men. The squad lost a large number of the most dependable men by graduation. The swimmers worked themselves into condition with several practice meets with the rook navigators. These events were held every weekend before the season opened and the varsity always managed to beat the yearling team.

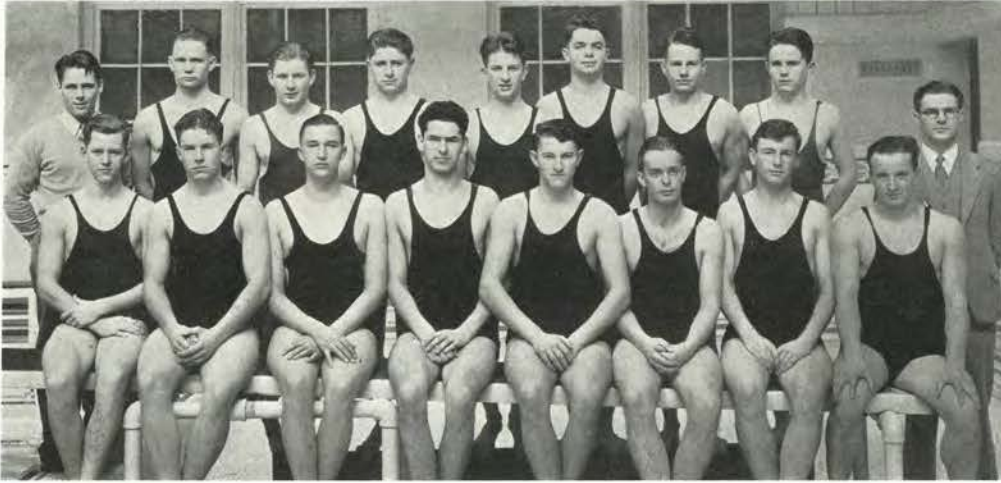

The varsity men who showed up best were Herbert Eisenschmidt in the 100 and 220 yard free style, Al Van Gilse in the breast stroke and Ed Ralston and Gordon Alexander, back stroke artists. Eisenschmidt was undefeated last year. For the first contest of the season, the Beavers met the University of Oregon Webfoots on February 13 in the Orange tank. The Lemon-Yellow outfit went back to Eugene on the long end of a 56 to 28 score.

The Oregon stars broke three tank records in the medley relay, 220 yard free style and the 440 yard free style. In the last meet of the season, a return swim with the University of Oregon, the Staters again met defeat, this time by a 53 to 30 count.

The Beavers played an airtight game of water polo, however, and eked out a 1 to 0 victory over the university poloists. Each meet is usually capped off with a water polo game.

ROOK SWIMMING

The Oregon State rooks had one of the best swimming teams to represent the freshman class for some time, this season. Although they failed to win all the meets, they will send a number of excellent swimmers and divers to the varsity next season. After warming up in practice tilts with the varsity squad, the rooks began the season on January 30 with an overwhelming 54 to 12 victory over the team from Pacific university. This was somewhat surprising since the university possessed a good team and it was the first swim in competition for a number of the rook men.

The rooks took first places in all seven events but failed to take all three places in any one of them. As a preliminary to the varsity meet with Oregon on February 13, the rooks swam against the Oregon frosh and were nosed out by a 43 to 41 count. The two teams were so evenly matched that it was not until the last event had been run off that the winner was decided. The rooks took four first places and the frosh five.

On February 27 almost exactly the same story was recorded, when the frosh again took the rooks into camp 43 to 41. Again the last event, the medley, decided the meet. Victor Smith and Harvey Johnson were the outstanding men on the yearling squad this season.

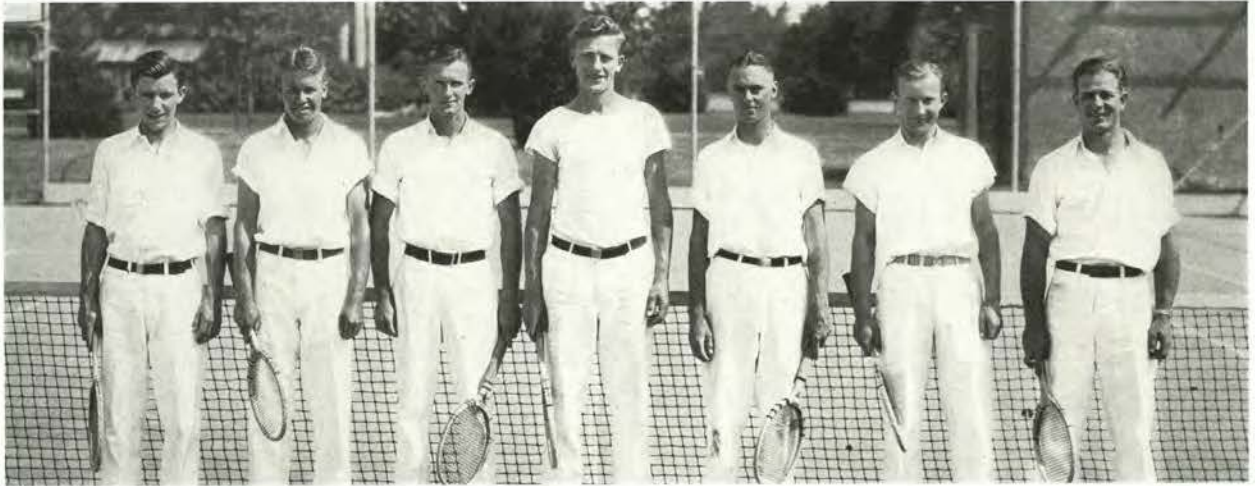

Harvey Johnson, Oregon State rook diver, has failed to place first in any major diving competition in which he has entered only once, and this was in 1930 at the P. N. A. indoor meet held at Seattle in which he received third place. This was Johnson's first major meet.

Since then Johnson has annexed an imposing list of first places in meets held throughout the Pacific northwest. Some of the meets in which he came out on top were the 1931 and 1932 P. N. A. indoor meet held at Seattle; the 1930 and 1931 Pacific northwest outdoor meets at Jantzen Beach in Portland; the 1931 Western Washington meet at Lake Wilderness, Wash.; the Oregon State rook-Oregon frosh meet at Eugene.

Johnson is one of Oregon State's chief athletic prospects for the Olympic games in California this summer. If Johnson is successful in winning the district meet he will be qualified for the semi-finals to the Olympic games. What success Johnson may have in the Olympic tryouts remains in question, but it may be assured he will be there when the final count is taken. Johnson's home is in Tacoma, Washington.

VARSITY TENNIS

The varsity tennis team inaugurated the season April 11 of last year when the Beaver racquetmen easily defeated the Willamette university Bearcats by a score of 8 to 0. A week later a return match was played and once again the Orangemen were victorious, winning 8 to 1. Roeder took the only match for the Salem team.

The conference season started April 25, when the University of Oregon defeated the Orange team by a score of 4 to 3. The Beavers broke even in the doubles but lost three out of five single matches. Extra sets were required in four matches to decide the winner.

The Oregon State team journeyed to Seattle for the second meet but lost five out of six matches to the Washington team. The Huskies were forced to extend themselves, however, and three matches needed extra sets before victory was decided.

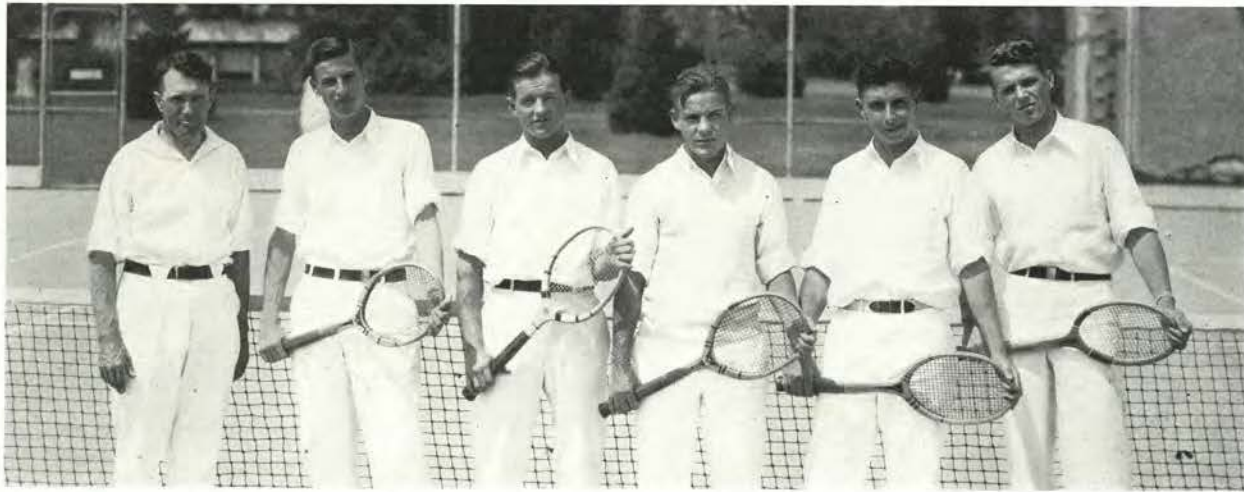

The scene of the northwest conference tennis meet was changed from Eugene to Seattle and Bart Sjoblom, Bill Grafton, Harold Cook and Gordon McComber accompanied Coach B. T. Simms north for this event. Cook and Sjoblom survived until the second round but Grafton and McComber were eliminated in their first matches. The two doubles teams advanced to the semi-finals but there lost to Washington. Washington went on to win the meet and the right to meet the southern champions for the coast conference honors.

The University of Washington came to Corvallis May 13 and proceeded to take the Orangemen into camp by a 6 to 1 score. Cook was the only Stater to gain a victory in these matches. Oregon State finished the conference competition by evening the series with Oregon. The Beavers reversed the score of the first meeting and edged out the Eugene men by winning four out of the seven matches played. Sjoblom, Grafton, Cook, McComber and Lenchitsky received minor "O" awards for participation in the season's schedule.

Weather conditions slowed up practice for the Orange varsity last spring. Rain, cold and wind made practice on several occasions impossible. Results for this spring cannot be included in this year's Beaver as the book goes to press before the season is completed, but at this date varsity men are working out daily and the climatic conditions seem to favor this year's team in comparison with other years. With material remaining from last year, Oregon State's tennis prospects are bright.

ROOK TENNIS

After but a few weeks of practice, and that interrupted by bad weather, the Oregon State rooks took on their toughest opponents for the first match of the tennis season. The strong Oregon frosh administered a 5 to 2 defeat to the rook netmen. The frosh won most of the matches in easy style, but one between Edminston of the frosh and Leidig, an Orange babe, took 28 games to decide the winner. Edminston finally won 15 to 13.

Salem high was little more than a practice session to the rooks in the second match. The Beavers took five singles and two doubles matches from the prep team, while holding the visitors scoreless. The meet was held on the Oregon State courts.

The third test for the rooks was another match with Salem high, this time in the capitol city. Again the freshmen swamped the high school lads, winning by the same score as previously, 7 to 0. None of the matches were very close and the rooks demonstrated their superiority in all departments of the game.

For the fourth and final match of the season, the rook racquet-wielders again took on the University of Oregon frosh. This time the Webfeet ran rough shod over the Orange team, taking six out of the seven matches played. The frosh took the doubles events and four singles matches. Leidig, who won his singles match, was the only rook to break into the scoring column and save the Beavers from a shutout.

The rooks were coached by B. T. Simms, who also held the reins for the varsity team. Although the frosh defeated them two times, the rooks fought all the way through and possessed an evenly balanced squad.

The varsity is looking forward to some of the excellent material which held forth on the rook net team, according to Coach Simms. He believes that some of the men on the yearling squad should undoubtedly break into the varsity ranks this season.

"A large turnout of men for the freshman team made it difficult to pick the first squad since many of the men had about the same amount of ability," said the coach. The rooks who displayed the greatest efficiency were Glen Leidig and Claud Hockley. In addition to these men Carl Sjoblom, Henry Schlegel, Earl Rafferty, and Jack Trust received their numerals for participation in the matches and all will probably answer Coach Simms' call for candidates for the varsity tennis team this spring.

B. T. SIMMS

Varsity Golf Team

VARSITY GOLF

When Coach Ken Scott called his first varsity golf meeting, on April 7 of last year, he was greeted with three returning lettermen and a host of candidates for positions on the varsity squad. A tournament was held whereby every candidate played 36 holes, and men making the highest scores were placed on the varsity team. The successful qualifiers were Harry Cowie, Marion Shellenbarger, Bob Finch, Gilbert Buck and Don Hood. These golfers, coupled with the lettermen—Clark Bogart, Bob Hocken and Bob McCook—were moulded into the varsity golf team.

The first meet found the Orangemen only partially prepared due to lack of practice and they were easy victims on May 2 of the University of Oregon's crack team of mashie wielders. The final score was 20 to 1 in favor of the university team. Bob Finch was the only Beaver able to score a point.

After losing the first match, the State team was entered in the Northwest conference meet which was held on the Eugene links May 8 and 9. The various schools engaged in a 72 hole tournament with the low medal score to win for the school. Oregon State planned to enter the entire team in the tournament, but finally only Bob Hocken and Bob Finch entered in the contest for individual medal score. Neither was able to win from Vinc Dolp of Oregon who retained his championship. With the stellar shooting of Dolp to lead them, the University of Oregon team won the tournament, with the University of Washington finishing as runner-up.

This concluded the schedule of matches for the Orange team.

One of the new men on the team, Bob Finch, stole the show from the rest of the squad in every match. He turned in some brilliant playing in each contest and was easily the outstanding player on the Beaver team. Coach Scott will build the team around Finch this spring.

It is impossible to give statistics on this season's play as the year-book goes to press before the season is completed. Varsity golf at Oregon State did not enjoy a very prosperous season last spring. Cold weather and an unusual amount of rain made the club course unfit for play most of the time, and the Beaver mashie-men were unable to get in enough practice to muster a formidable golf squad. Some of the other institutions on the Pacific coast are not troubled with the weather elements as is Oregon State.

R. W. SCOTT

Rook Golf Team

ROOK GOLF

In the first intercollegiate meet of the rook season, the freshman golf team of the University of Oregon defeated Oregon State rooks over the course of the Eugene country club. The score of the match was 16 to 2.

The summary of the meet follows: Freshmen—Near 3, Olsen 2, Manning 3, Jayne 3, Near and Manning 2½, and Olsen and Jayne 2½. The score for the rook mashie men was Buxton 0, Beardsley 1, Yundt 0, Bryant 0, Buxton and Yundt ½, and Beardsley and Bryant ½.

The second match between the two teams was favorable for the frosh when it defeated the rooks 13 to 8. The match was played on the Corvallis country club course and was a return meet with University of Oregon freshmen. Charles Buxton and Bruce Beardsley were the outstanding players for the Orange babes.

The Oregon freshmen had three men tie for first honors as individual players. They were Manning, Hunt and Holden, each making three points to add to their team's total score.

Men who played in the singles for the rooks were Buxton 3, Beardsley 3, Bryant 0, Yundt 0, Platt 0. The frosh single men were Olsen 0, Jayne 0, Manning 3, Hunt 3, and Holden 3.

In the foursomes that were played during the day the rooks were represented by Buxton and Beardsley who made 2 points, and by Bryant and Yundt who failed to score. Freshman entries from the University of Oregon were Olsen and Jayne 1, and Manning and Hunt 3.

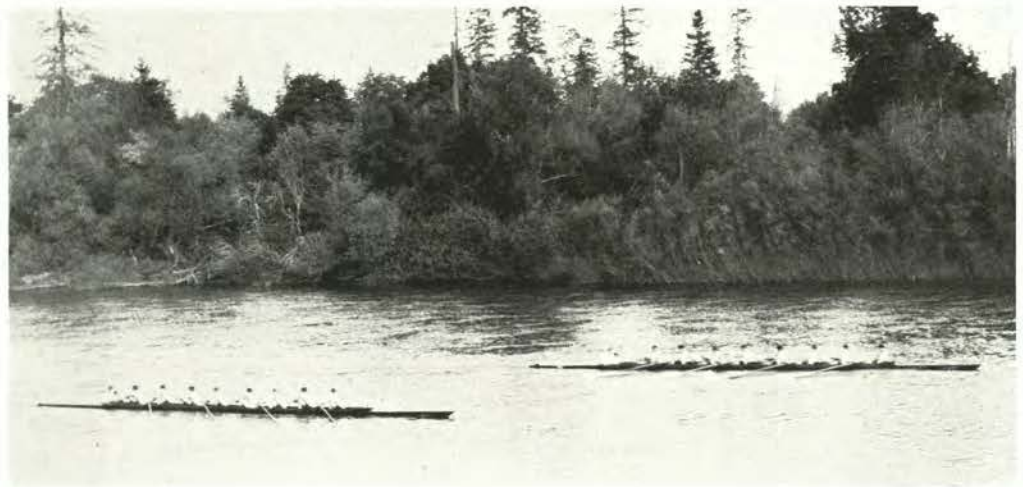

Golf on the Oregon State campus has not had a very lengthy period of time to develop itself as this was the third season for competition with other schools on the coast, but under the favorable climatic conditions that prevailed last spring, the team made a creditable showing in the matches it had on its schedule. Each player for the Orange team won his position through a process of elimination and it was after several of these matches that a team was chosen to represent the State college on the greens.

Ralph Coleman coached the yearlings during the season and under his supervision the tryouts and elimination matches were run off.

Mr. Coleman had his time occupied by giving individual instructions so that Oregon State would be well represented in this branch of sport.

CREW

Crew at Oregon State college originated in 1927 as an interclass sport, and has continued on that basis with increasing popularity. In 1931 more than 150 men turned out for their respective class crews, trained, and participated in the sport under the direction of Coach J. C. Othus, now on sabbatical leave from the college.

The senior eight won the interclass title and trophy by defeating the sophomore boat in the finals and the junior team in the semifinal races during Campus weekend. The sophomore crew had overcome the rooks in the semifinals and were runners-up on the trophy.

At the invitation of the Portland Rose Festival committee, a race with the Portland Rowing club was held over a short course on the Willamette river in Portland June 13. The Oregon State crew lost by a good margin when a starboard man caught a crab and was thrown off balance.

Physical education credit is given for rowing. The men work out in the training barge, "Rho Dammit Rho," until experienced enough to row in the shell barge and the two racing shells, the "Beaver," and the "Orange Owl." A new shell house is badly needed to properly care for the equipment and the increasing number of men interested in the sport.

CREW

Members of the senior crew, winners of the interclass trophy, are George Gordon, stroke; George Lindauer, 7; Vel Hansen, 6; Wallace Hopper, 5; John Dutro, 4; Rex Phillips, 3; Calvin Hughart, 2; Clark Beardsley, bow, and Alex Atterbury, coxswain. Intramural medals were presented to members of the class crews. Rook crewmen received class rowing numerals.

Oregon State is fortunate this year to obtain the services of Coach E. A. Stevens, who has had wide experience in rowing. He was a member of the Cornell varsity crew in 1908 and 1909, and from 1923 to 1926 was head coach of Harvard university crews. He brings numerous ideas for the promotion of crew as an intramural sport, and is developing many good oarsmen. The activity is gaining popularity every year with both participants and spectators.

Winners of the interclass meet to be held Campus weekend will meet outside competition. The tentative schedule includes a race with the Portland Rowing club to be held in Portland during the Rose Festival, and will probably include several collegiate crews.

Officers of the Rowing club for the past year were Carl Ahlers, president; Elmer Crump, vice-president, and Veldon Parker, secretary-treasurer. Bob Eddy was manager for the club.

INTRAMURAL DIRECTOR

Ralph O. Coleman, head of the intramural sports department, has an enviable record as a director, having enlarged the program to such an extent that it is considered one of the best in the nation. Intramural athletics had its start here more than a decade ago, when three sports represented the program which now has expanded until more than 100 teams participate in some sports, and the number of activities has increased to 24.

The fact that in basketball alone 112 teams, composed of 825 players, took part, bears witness to the interest that is shown. "Every Man in Athletics" is the motto of the intramural department.

INTRAMURAL MANAGERS

Intramural activities have grown to such proportions that a large student volunteer managerial staff is necessary to run off various tournaments and keep records. Clair Young and Rex Wilson, senior managers, were awarded sweaters for their services. Eugene Fisher and Charles Medley received large silver loving cups for their work as junior managers.

The staff is completed by sophomore and freshman managers. This managerial system, as organized by Ralph O. Coleman, director of intramural athletics, has proved very efficient in its handling of sports. Work of the group consists of arranging and scoring of matches.

Theta Chi, Basketball Champs

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

As a climax to an unbeaten season, Theta Chi trounced Cauthorn's valiant five, independent champions, 21-8, in a hard fought game to take the all-school basketball championship.

The Cauthorn team, although clearly outclassed by the smooth working fraternity combination put up a game fight and did not quit until the final whistle.

An all-intramural team was picked by judges appointed by Coleman at the end of the season. They were Barbano, Chi Phi; Hibbard, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Svendsen, Theta Chi; Slagle, Theta Chi, and Sjoblom, Phi Sigma Kappa.

MILITARY BASKETBALL

The Oregon State band hoopsters weathered the elimination series in the military basketball play-off winter term to hold their championship won in 1931.

Military basketball was organized as an intramural sport in 1931 by Ralph O. Coleman, director of intramural athletics, each company of the different divisions of the military department being represented by a team.

A total of 113 men, composing 16 teams, entered the sport this year. Hagen, Akers, Briggs, Montgomery, Stevenson, Beardsley, Hoyt, and Doughton were members of the championship team.

Junior Baseball Champs

PLAYGROUND BALL

The playground ball championship was retained by Theta Chi's air-tight ball club last spring when they won the all-college and fraternity titles for the second time in two years. Hawley hall, holder of the independent title, was the biggest threat to the Theta Chi's in their fight for supremacy, but were taken into camp by a 9 to 6 score.

The all-school trophy is awarded each year and any organization that wins it for three consecutive years will receive it for permanent possession. Theta Chi has won it twice.

INTERCLASS BASEBALL

Another means of fighting for class supremacy was provided by the intramural department when interclass baseball was added to the sports program, last spring. The juniors assembled the most efficient diamond combination as proved when they edged the seniors out, winning the class championship.

They were aided by the able management of Kenneth Fagans and the stellar pitching of Millard Rodman.

Other branches of sports are also being handled by the intramural office in this way.

FOUL THROWING

For the third consecutive time, Sigma Phi Epsilon won the all-school foul throwing tournament when their five-man team looped enough baskets to boost its total score to 320, eight points above the next highest team, Sigma Pi, whose team scored a total of 312 points.

The Sig Ep team was composed of Wilbert Campbell, Merritt Nash, Edwin Enegren, Taylor Reedy and Byron Miller. In the preliminary round this team took the lead in the total baskets made and were never threatened. Morris Shepherd of Sigma Pi was high-point man of the season.

INTRAMURAL HANDBALL

In a one-sided contest, Delta Upsilon's stellar handball team defeated the Mizanian club 21 to 7 and 21 to 6 to capture the all-college championship. The outstanding teamwork of Ted Herman and Don Anderson proved far superior to that of Herman Leaf and Al Jaroff of the club team.

In the first game the winners opened up with a scoring streak that netted them a 12-point advantage before the clubmen could garner a point. The second contest proved even easier and a noticeable let-down was evident after the Delta Upsilon team had attained a large margin.

HORSESHOES

Cauthorn hall horseshoe tossers made their way to an all-college championship last spring when they defeated Sigma Phi Sigma, fraternity champions, in that old, but popular, game called "barnyard golf." Sigma Phi Epsilon was runner up for the fraternity title and Orion club made a strong bid for the independent title.

Although horseshoes is not one of the more recent activities added to the intramural calendar, it holds a prominent position in this type of sports. Oregon State's intramural department is considered one of the strongest in the nation.

TENNIS

Sigma Phi Epsilon racquet wielders were undefeated last spring in their quest for all-college honors in tennis. They won the all-college championship in the doubles tournament by decisively beating the independent title holders, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

The Sig Eps downed Acacia, Kappa Delta Rho, Phi Gamma Delta, Alpha Gamma Rho, Phi Delta Theta and Weatherford in the course of the tournament. Tournaments for the tennis matches are arranged at the convenience of the contestants and nearly each day of spring term some organizations are playing their matches.

Phi Sigma Kappa, Swimming Meet Champs

DUAL SWIMMING

Phi Sigma Kappa won the intramural dual swimming championship by trimming Cauthorn by a score of 24 to 17. Both teams displayed a form far below their previous standards when they won their respective divisions of the semi-finals in the swimming events.

Immediately following the announcement of the score the Phi Sigs celebrated their victory by throwing Ralph Coleman, director of intramural athletics, into the pool. Coleman said he would never again congratulate a team for winning a championship as the fellowship extended was not worth the price paid for the felicitations.

RELAY SWIMMING

Flashing a speed that surprised the fans, the Chi Phi team upset all dope to win the intramural swimming relay championship. Leading Cauthorn hall by one-third of a length, the fraternity team garnered the all-college trophy.

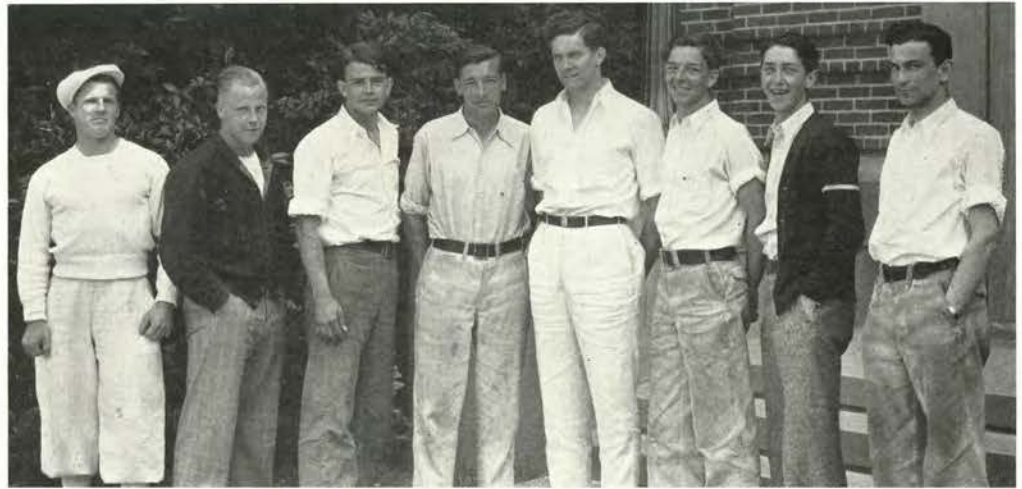

The Chi Phi team, consisting of Renner, Schwegler, Hamblen, Miles, Atterbury and Witherall, swam the distance in 1 minute 49 seconds.

This is two seconds over the record and one and three-fifths seconds slower than the time they recorded when they won the fraternity championship earlier in the season.

Dual Track Winners

DUAL TRACK

Alpha Tau Omega tracksters captured the all-college championship in dual track last spring by a close margin when they out-scored the Cauthorn hall track men in the deciding meet. The A. T. O. men had to exert themselves to win over Kappa Delta Rho in taking the fraternity title, but managed to stretch at the right time.

Cauthorn hall won over Hawley hall for the independent title and by so doing won the right to compete for the all-college championship. Track meets are held on Bell field and are under the supervision of college authorities.

ALL-COLLEGE WINNERS

Participating in and winning the most events of any organization on the campus earned for Kappa Delta Rho the distinction of being awarded the all-college trophy for the team showing the most ability in intramural sports.

Although the Kappa Delta Rho team did not win all the contests that it entered, the number garnered was sufficient to place them first in the competitive standing of the organizations taking part in the intramural schedule. Many of the group were entered in several events, but this house had more men entered than any other campus organization.

Turkey Run Winners

TURKEY RUN

Visions of turkeys, geese and chickens for Thanksgiving day dinners urged 96 men who were entered in the annual turkey run last fall to step their fastest. Cauthorn hall men scored 336 points to win first place by a large margin. Their win was a repetition of 1930 and if they win the next run they will have the loving cup as a permanent trophy.

Alpha Gamma Rho, Phi Delta Theta, Lambda Chi Alpha, and Sigma Phi Epsilon shared in the allotment of turkeys by finishing second, third, fourth and fifth respectively. Heath of Alpha Gamma Rho won individual honors by running the course in 10:12.

CROSS COUNTRY

Alpha Gamma Rho distance runners acquired an 8-point lead over Lambda Chi Alpha, their strongest competitor, by scoring 506 points in the five weeks of cross country competition last fall, thereby winning the fraternity championship.

Cauthorn hall piled up 522 points to annex the independent and all-school titles. Buxton placed second for independent honors. The intramural cross country is run over a  $2\frac{1}{4}$  mile course and is a great aid in picking varsity cross country runners. A total of 240 men participated. Heath of Alpha Gamma Rho turned in the fastest time.

Boxing Specialists

BOXING

Buck Hammer won the heavyweight boxing championship of the school in the main event of the finals of the all-school boxing tournament when he knocked out Tom Kerns, champion of last year, in the second round of their scheduled three-round bout.

Howie Hertz lost his lightweight title to Eddie King in a three-round slugfest. Ike Nichols won his bout from Floyd Accaragui in a clever boxing match with a minimum of aimless slugging. Norm Franklin put Dick Miller away in quick time when he registered a knockout in 50 seconds to win the middleweight title.

WRESTLING

A new participation record for intramural wrestling was set this year when 130 grapplers entered the elimination tournament, representing 15 fraternities and four independent clubs. Lambda Chi Alpha, 1931 champions, successfully defended their title as fraternity champions. Alpee won the independent championship.

Competition between the organizations was based on the point system. Individual champions were Murphy, Rowland, Widmark, Schultz, and Gallaher, winning the 125, 135, 145, 158 and 175 pound classes respectively.

Speed Ball Champs

SPEEDBALL

Beta Theta Pi went through the speedball season undefeated last fall to win the fraternity and all-school titles. Phi Delta Theta, 1930 champions, and Theta Chi fell easy victims to the Beta's in the fraternity playoff, and Poling hall, independent title holders, came out on the small end of a 16-7 score in the match for all-school honors.

Speedball was introduced here in 1929 by Ralph O. Coleman, director of intramural athletics, and has been the source of strong competition between organizations. A total of 28 teams, composed of 425 men, competed this year.

SIGMA DELTA PSI

Seven men qualified for membership in Sigma Delta Psi, national honorary fraternity in athletics, during the past year. Tryouts were carried on a basis of competition between living groups and individuals.

Organizations whose members passed an event were awarded participation points, the individual being advanced toward membership in the honorary. Lambda Chi Alpha won the cup awarded to the organization scoring the most points. Members are Earl Hill, Clifford McLean, Robert Prentiss, Neil Rice, Herbert Disbrow, Clarence Hagen, Loren Tuttle, Robert Eldridge.

WOMEN'S BUILDING

The women's building provides complete facilities for a well-rounded program in physical education. The building was constructed in 1927 and all parts of it are above ground except the swimming pool. The pool is finished in white tile and adjoins the tile shower rooms equipped with individual showers.

The main room on the first floor is the large gymnasium with a balcony on three sides and tall, arched windows on the fourth. Space is provided for dancing classes in a special room with mirrored walls and large French windows. The physical education office and offices and dressing rooms for the staff complete the second floor. The third floor houses the corrective gymnastics department.

POPULARITY

B I L L I E C U P P E R

Senior in home economics, retiring President of the Associated Women Students, active member of the National Collegiate Players, holds a high place among her fellow students for her leadership, poise and charm.

A L I C E   I N G A L L S

Vocational education, an outstanding senior, recipient of the E. D. Ressler Memorial Award, has received signal recognition for her scholastic attainments, for her achievements as varsity debater, women's forensic manager, and Day Editor of the Barometer.

R U T H   W H E P L E Y

Junior in home economics, Queen Ruth I of the Junior Prom, captain this year of the Women's Polo Team, has won her place by her graciousness and personality.

R U T H C U R R I N

Vocational education, has won the recognition of her classmates by her beauty and charm. She is active in student affairs, has maintained an excellent scholastic record throughout her college career and is popular for her congeniality.

HELEN DOROTHY HAYNES

Home economics, Queen of the Sophomore Cotillion, class secretary, and varsity debater, deserves recognition for her proficiency, personality and tact.

C A T H E R I N E B O O N

Vocational education, is secretary of the freshman class. Her outstanding work throughout the year has marked her as a leader of her fellow students. Dignity, pulchritude and personal attainment are her attributes.

WALDO HALL

During the year 1907 Waldo hall was built. It is a large building of pleasing appearance, with a cream-colored, pressed-brick superstructure, three stories high. On the entrance floor are located the dining-rooms and kitchens and a well-appointed laundry for students. On the first floor are spacious reception rooms and a considerable number of student rooms.

The upper floors are given entirely to student rooms. Each floor has a trunk room, baths and showers. The rooms have closets, running water, steam heat and individual electric lights. The hall is modern in its appointments and all furnishings for comfort have been provided for use by the students and the guests that they entertain.

ADVERTISING CLUB

OFFICERS: Wesley Heise      President
 John Harrington      Vice-president
 Opal Stewart      Secretary
 Robert Leaming      Treasurer

Outstanding students in advertising and selling are eligible for membership in the Advertising club. The club sponsors lectures and events for the Faculty Men's club. The annual state-wide meeting of the Advertising clubs of the state is sponsored each year by the organization. More than 300 advertising men and students attend this banquet.

A scholarship is awarded each year to the outstanding junior in advertising and selling by the Portland Advertising club. Alpha Delta Sigma picks its men from the membership of the Advertising club. Various programs are sponsored by the group as part of their activities.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS CLUB

OFFICERS: Kenneth Chapson      President
 John Stein      Vice-president
 Herman Finell      Secretary
 Lawrence Lovegren      Treasurer

This organization is composed of all students registered in the department of industrial arts and of all faculty members in that school. The purpose of the Industrial Arts club is the promotion of a higher standard of friendship and cooperation among its members. Meetings are held monthly in order to bring those who have common interests together for discussion of problems in industrial and educational fields. The group has as one of its projects the furnishing of its clubroom and this is done by making the furniture for the room. Various articles are made by the members to furnish their home rooms and those of friends.

FOREST CLUB

OFFICERS: Denny Patch                      President
 John Parker                      Vice-president
 Herbert Staples                      Secretary
 Harold Wing                      Treasurer

Membership in this organization is held by students in the school of forestry and faculty members are elected to it in the capacity of advisors. Meetings are held throughout the year and speakers are brought to the campus to deliver talks and illustrated lectures to the group.

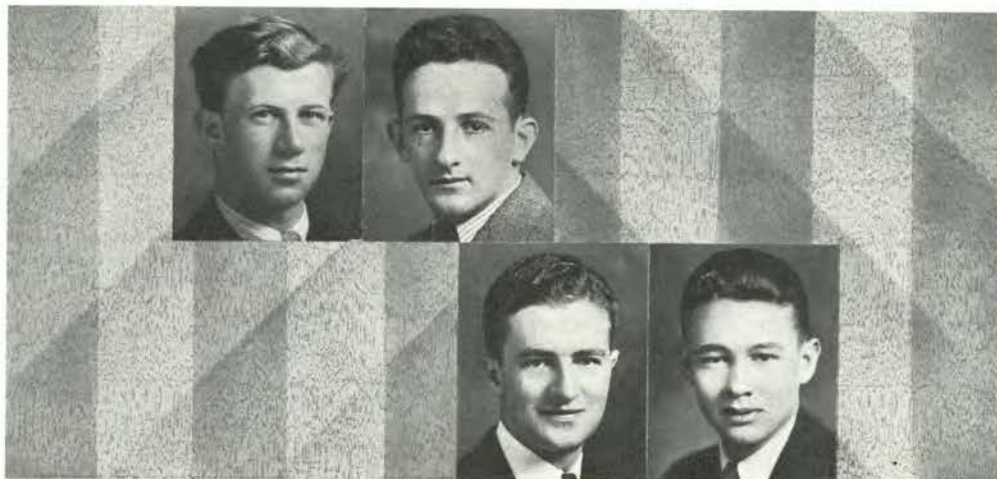

Each term one day is devoted to work in the arboretum where the students get the practical side of their education with direct contact with the various trees in the arboretum forests. The day is one which the students feel has the same proportions as a celebration and a gala time is had in the get-together and over the "bean-hole" beans.

DAIRY CLUB

OFFICERS: Thomas Hall                      President
 Francis Sparks                      Vice-president
 Marvin Davidson                      Treasurer
 Erwin Dann                      Secretary

The Dairy club, composed of major and special students in dairy husbandry and dairy manufacturing, numbers about 20 men. This has been the first time in 11 years that the club has not sent a judging team to the National Dairy show, where Oregon State has always placed high in final standings.

At the National Livestock exposition held in Portland, this year's team took second place in dairy cattle judging, and Robert Iliff, a club member, was the highest individual judge in the contest. Another Dairy club event is an annual banquet held each spring at which numerous county and state, as well as national officials are entertained.

The student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers is a unified organization of the students and faculty in the department of mechanical engineering. The purpose of the organization is to discuss problems which have to do with the advancement of mechanical engineering, and to keep in touch with the actual solutions of these problems as worked out in practical application.

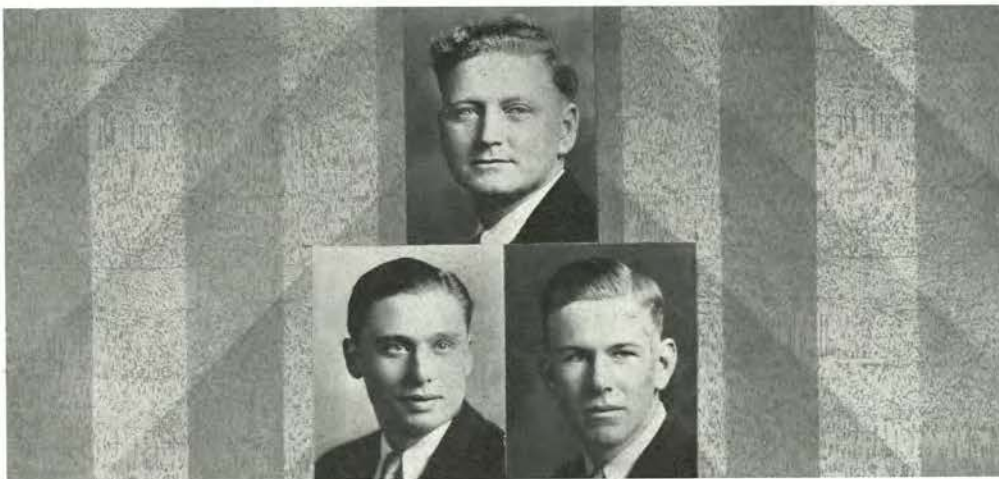

Outside speakers are brought to the meetings who present talks and illustrated lectures.

A.S.C.E.

OFFICERS: Warren Gilbert                      President
 Elden Carter                      Vice-president
 Adolph Benschmidt                      Secretary-treasurer

The student branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers promotes both educational and social activities. Talks and illustrations are presented at the meetings by prominent engineers in the profession. Several breakfasts are held during the year which feature the social interests of the organization.

In the spring a meeting is held in connection with the Portland branch of A. S. C. E. at which the seniors present their theses. In this way the students are stimulated to a new interest in the profession.

A. I. C. E.

OFFICERS: Robert Stone President
 Howard Hanthorn Vice-president
 Norman Rudd Secretary
 Edwin Palmrose Treasurer
 Leroy Thomas Sergeant-at-arms

This is the first year that a student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers has existed on the campus. Outside of completing their organization and drawing up a constitution, nothing of note has been accomplished. However, it is the intention of the chapter to provide a professional and social contact between the students and the active members of the profession.

Regular meetings are held to transact business of the chapter as well as to hold discussion of the work. The aim of the the organization is to provide contact between the student and members of the profession.

BERNARD DALY CLUB

OFFICERS: Robert Mushen President
 Edith Brown Vice-president
 Frances Brenner Secretary
 Gail Reynolds Treasurer

As a result of Dr. Bernard Daly's foresight and generosity, 40 students from Lake county, comprising the Bernard Daly club, attend Oregon State college under the benefits of the Daly fund. Each of the students receives necessary college expenses to a maximum of $600 each year under the terms governing the administration of the fund.

The Daly club on the campus has been particularly active this year under the leadership of Dr. Frank W. Parr, professor of vocational education, who is educational advisor of the group. Dr. Parr and Dr. W. M. Atwood are honorary members of the club.

PHARMACEUTICAL CLUB

OFFICERS: James Rice President
 Florian Hrubetz Vice-president
 Caroll Saunders Secretary
 Russell Miller Treasurer

The Pharmaceutical association is composed of all students registered in pharmacy. Periodic meetings are held throughout the year at which lectures by men prominent in the field of pharmacy are featured. Moving picture films showing the processes of pharmaceutical products manufacture are loaned to the association for the meetings by several large companies.

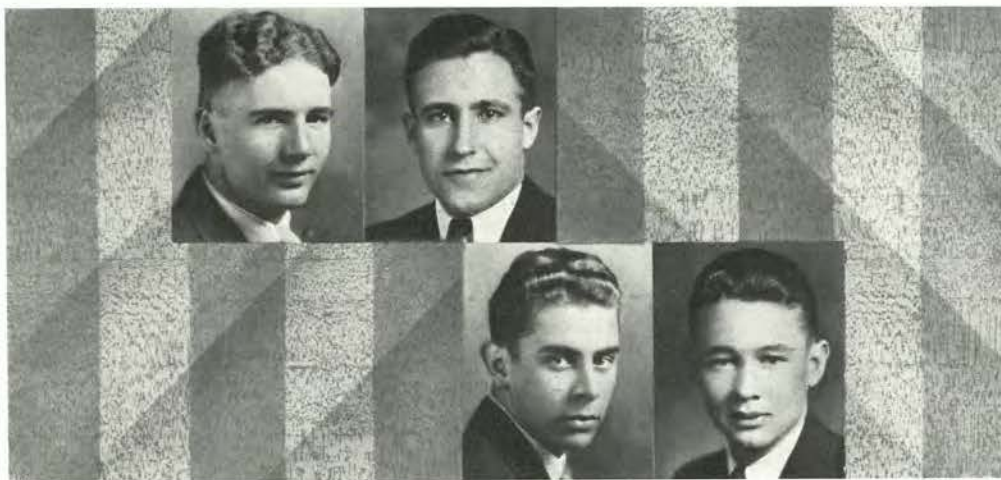

Activities related to pharmacy are promoted by the association with the object of building up interest in professional attainment and contacts with other members of the profession.

AGRICULTURE CLUB

OFFICERS: James Weatherspoon President
 Oscar Mikesell Vice-president
 Nathan Kurth Secretary
 Erwin Dann Treasurer

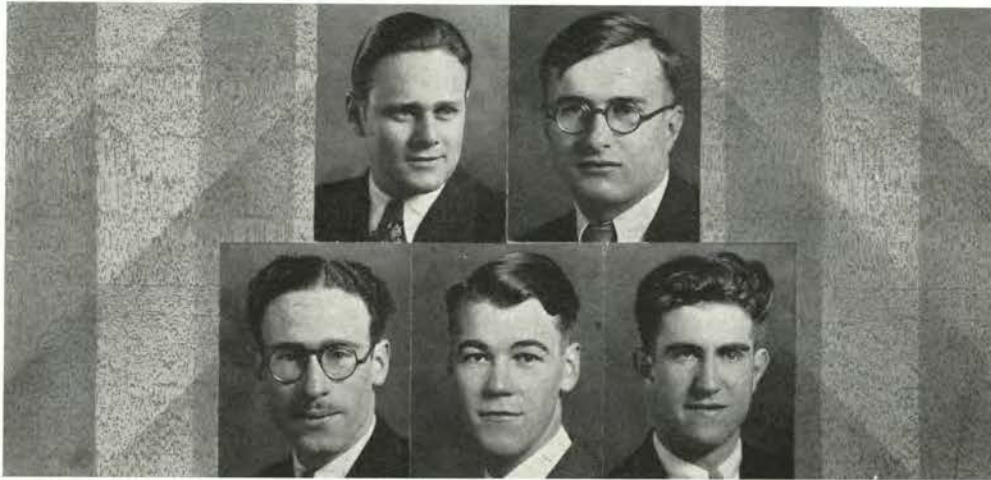

The Ag club includes as members all students registered in the school of agriculture. The general purpose of the organization is to unite the agriculture students socially and stimulate interest in agricultural activities. Each year the group sponsors a Smith-Hughes weekend for high school students.

During the past year the club's social activities included a smoker during fall term, a winter term dance, and a banquet in the spring. Some time during the year the club makes a tour of the experiment stations of the state so that the members may get first-hand information concerning their operation.

This organization is the student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Enrollment offers to a student the opportunity to begin what will be for many of them a lifetime connection with the national organization representing the electrical engineering profession. It brings to the campus prominent engineers and affords an opportunity for the presentation and discussion of student papers at the meetings.

Two meetings are held each year with the Portland section of the A. I. E. E. One is held in Portland during the winter and the other in Corvallis in spring.

S. A. M. E.

OFFICERS: Harlan Watkins      President
 Lloyd Jorgensen      Vice-president
 Marvin Davidson      Secretary-Treasurer

The organization of Military Engineers is a branch of the Society of American Military Engineers and membership is open to all students enrolled in the advanced engineering corps. The purpose of the society is to study military problems during times of peace and become familiar with modern means of warfare. This material is sent out each month by the organization and contains illustrations and writings by prominent engineering officers in the United State army. Each year the campus society sponsors a bust for the basic engineering students.

All races and nationalities mingle in common fellowship in the Cosmopolitan club. It has no definite limitations of membership and any student of foreign origin is eligible. Its aim is to promote brotherhood and good fellowship and to place humanity above all nations. It is one of the strongest influences for international understanding and good will on the campus, where many nationalities study and play together.

Regular meetings are held at which talks by students and addresses by guest speakers are featured. Each year the club gives an International banquet and a vaudeville.

 Estora Ricks      Editor

Every woman registered in the school of home economics is eligible for membership in the Home Economics club. Its aims are to promote interest and professional attitude in home economics and to foster friendliness among its members.

Each year the club offers a scholarship of $500 to foreign students for study in this field at Oregon State. Its other activities include a sale of orange chrysanthemums during Homecoming, an annual banquet for home economics students and faculty members, and regular meetings at which problems of general interest in home economics are discussed.

AGRICULTURAL HALL

The building that houses the agricultural activities of the campus is an imposing edifice of brick and sandstone, consisting of the central or administrative section, the north or agronomy wing, and the south or horticulture wing. On the first floor are the offices of the director of agricultural experiment stations, the dean of the school and the director of the extension service.

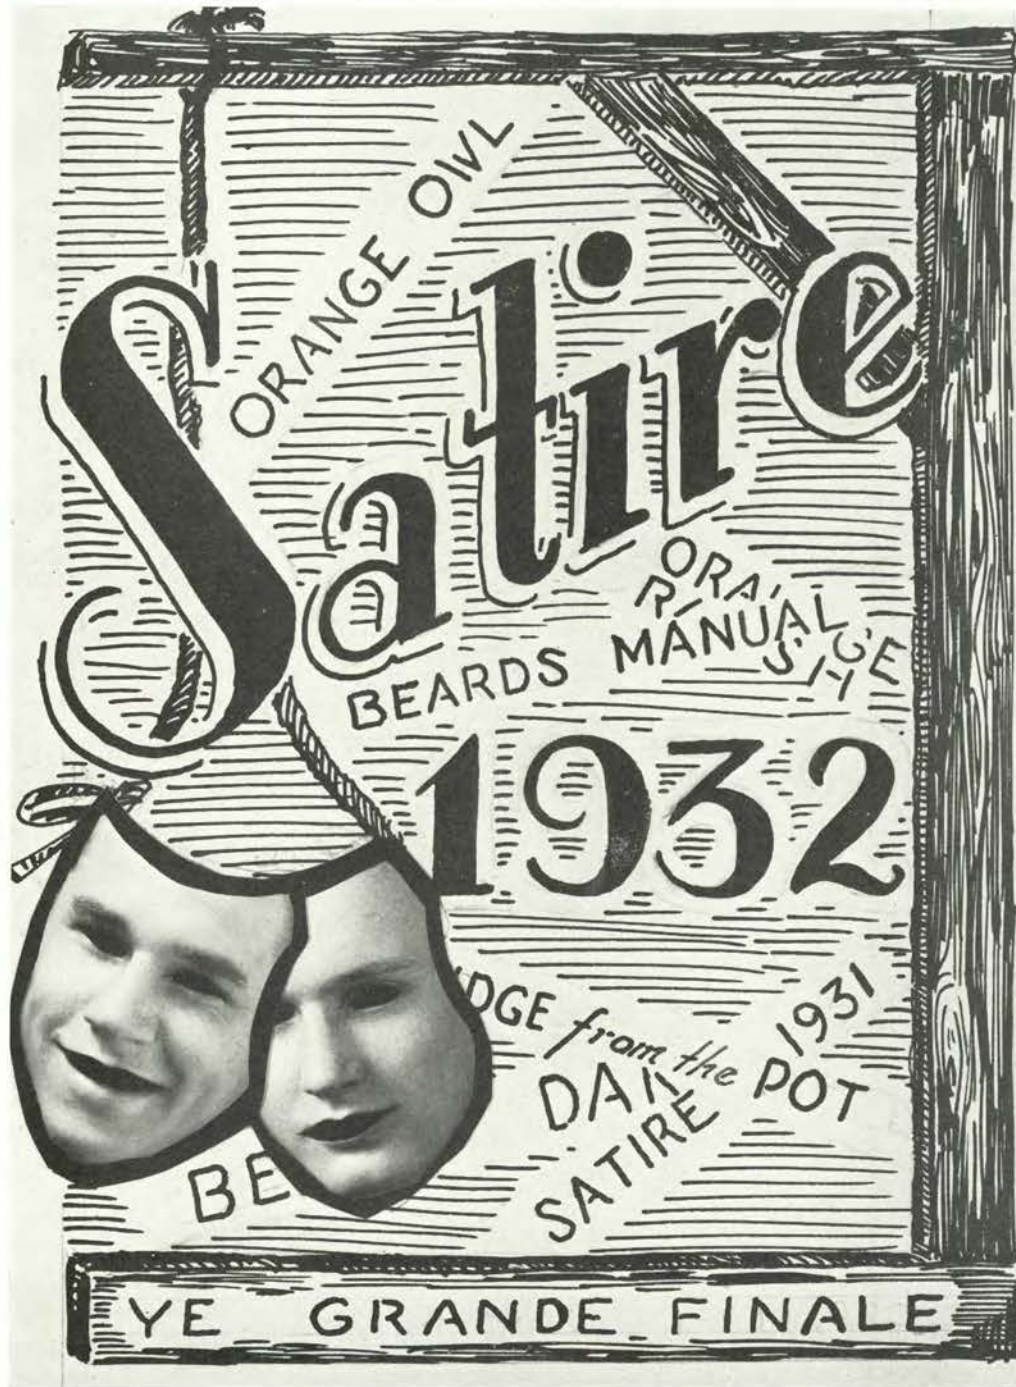

The second floor is occupied by the offices of the department of animal husbandry, along with sundry class rooms. The third floor has the zoology department and the entomology division of the college. On the fourth floor the bacteriology department has its offices and equipment.

Foreword and Dedication

TO ALL those who wish to travel the paths of varsity "Funnyism" we send a bucket full of gush and the best wishes of two little fellows who never found out until too late that sex had been prevalent on this campus for years. Who never found out until too late that every pun, wisecrack and smarty remark is just another way of saying—"The British are coming; To ——," You know the rest.

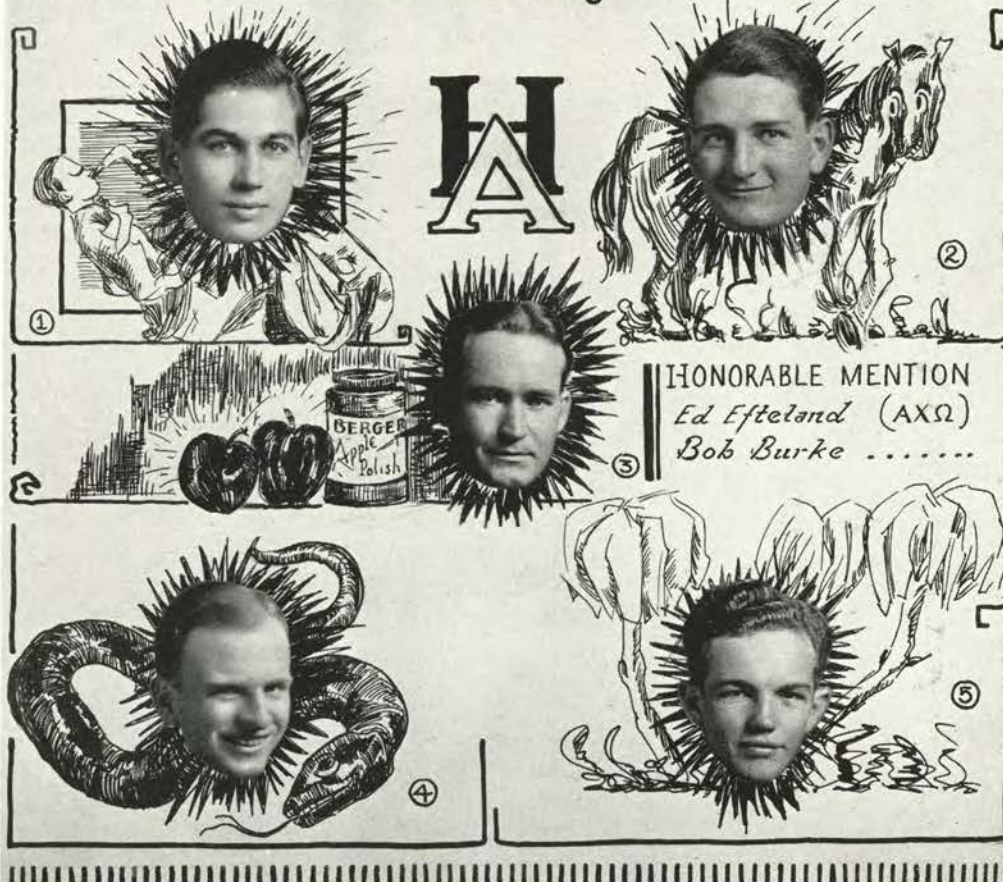

Four score and such our forefathers brought upon this continent a new nation. Now look at it. It's a Freud! Take the sex on this campus. (You would, would you?) The insidious (22½ cent word during the depression) thing is not having enough sexes. Why not have three sexes, five sexes or even twelve sexes—twelve sexes, that's seventy-two. Do you think after fourteen long years in a harem you would want to be a free man again?

Just because we were talking about sex one dozen need to forget education. Now! Can you tell by the writing that I have a mole on my left hip? No! Of course not. Would you like to say, "The Monkeys have no tails in Wambo Pango" in Spanish? Thousands of worthwhile things like this you can learn by merely sending a post card. In return we will send you twenty-four bottles of "Mother Glutche's Bluing" which after you sell will entitle you to two thousand votes on the genuine Shetland pony we are going to give away free of charge for nothing.

Morons whistle, morons make wisecracks, morons are morons an on an on an on an 'n 'n nnnnn. Therefore, believing the above statements to be the truth, unbiased and wholly without prejudice, we dedicate this section to the PZYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT.

Them as hitched a wagon to a star

HARVEY "DENDRITE" PEASE

Said "Da, Da" at the age of three, now adds "mn." Three down payments on a saxophone and popularity is at your door keeping company with the wolf. Guess who?

FRANK "HORSE" O'CONNOR

What is life without a horse, hobby or vocation it's all the same to Frank. What's that question, Fannie? No! Frank cannot kick the bit out of the horse's mouth.

"STRAWSTACK" BERGER

Kappa doormat 1, 2, and 3. Wholesale dealer in "apple shine." Yellow bloomers are dandelions Phil.

"BIG DEAL" POORMAN

The man who'd cut his own throat for a dime. Who said OK! Philomath? Contribution line forms on left.

"LITTLE DICK" SMILLIE

What's all this about Florida? Haw! Did you think you were pulling a cunning stunt on someone? Haw!

C H I - S E L

And a large man with a blue beard stuck his nose into China and gulped for 'twas spring and the blawbirds were singing. All these little orphans of many large storms have chizzled, fizzled and laid waste too many well laid plans. 'Tis time, yea, 'tis high time, they merit (Nash) reward. These little whittlers have done many nasty slugs of whittling even to cutting each other's throats occasionally—but after all it's life pure and simple. Maybe not pure but simple anyway—It is Kismet! Sealed in cellophane.

PZYCHOLODGY TEST

Philomath Revision

INSTRUCTIONS: Don't write your name until you are told to do so. If you can't write your name all the better.

In case of fire go to drug store and get key for engine house. If you can't find the drug store—what's the difference?

If there are any questions you don't understand remember that's the pzychology of the thing. If the questions are personal write them in a whisper.

AS A LAST WARNING: Play the game. (If you can find one.) If you flunk this you might become a pzychology prof. who knows?

TEST (Additional instructions): Look at this page for three minutes, write your answers on a separate paper and throw them away. Underline any one or two if you feel that way about it.

«NODDY NIXON YOU CAD»

1. 2 plus 2 equals (0, 4, Trinity 9595).
2. A triangle is (Horse, ▲, Hope, Faith and Charity).
3. There are three (too's, Two's, To's in the English language).
4. Luke Tormey is a (man, beast, incomplete sentence).
5. Billie Cupper is (Hot, cha, cha, cha).
6. Sigma Nu's are (young, sober, reliable).
7. D. U's (burp, snake, chisel).
8. Tri Delts have (its, zits, fits).
9. Bart McMath would make a good (Chi-O, SPE, garbage can).
10. There is nothing sacred to (Fijji's, Fijji's, Fijji's). Hello Sutton.

EXPLANATION: This is a series of pzychology tantrums that has been sent to over one hundred feeble-minded schools with gratifying results. If you would care to take the second test of the series send ten cents in stamps to "Red" McClosky SAE (Sychology Advisor for Edolescents).

SATIRE'S OWN FUSSEY'S GUIDE

GAYLE DUFF

If you've never met this little typhoon of dear ole Gamma Phi Beta, it's just Duff. Outside of contributing greatly to the morale of the Barometer staff, this little lady spends considerable time at welfare work in the form of dating out with the likes of rat-racer Rodwell. Although not talkative by nature, it was Gayle's remarkable lines that won her first honor on this exclusive page.

MARY BARRET

When the cat's away, the mice do play; daisies won't tell, but Pansies may! And in this corner we have Grin and Barret, pride and joy of KAT. No, Horace, Mary does not live in Albany. A real little pal. Nothing in the world against her save a few public appearances with "Shanghai Gesture Sailor Play-boy Long."

BEA HALL

It may be Hall right for this Pi Phi conditioned reflex to leave a trail of bleeding hearts clutterin up the stoop—Yoo! Hoo! Bell. This little flash of flesh after mingling with men and women of all sexes rushed up from good old sunny SCALPAFORNIA and gave State a break. Who asked what kind?

DORIS BUCK

And this little gal on the auction block, Ladies and Gentlemen, is none other than the little cra--hooner who instigated the Tri Delt "open door policy." Bids are open. Who wants to run out and catch pneumonia with this leetle bit of fluff?

BETTY LOSSE

"Theta-in-the-Hudson." Free squealing and ride control. This little bundle with wheels has throttled her way hither and thither until even the car is tired (pretty old). No one's getting paid for this anyway. Here's publicity in great lumps B-heh B-heh Betty.

"ONE OF THE NORTHWEST'S GREAT BANKS"

The Beaver Spirit—

That's what should animate all O. S. C. students—Being busy building up every feature that will make the college bigger and better, just as the beaver constantly works to make his home more secure.

Then carry the same spirit into the practical things of life. Begin now by starting a savings account in this bank. Make it stronger all the time by adding to it regularly, so it will always be available to meet any emergency, for "cash always counts" when most needed.

GOOD PRINTING

as a rule, means little to college students. They are accustomed to it. The books, magazines, reports which they see are printed by people who know the value of good work, and that good printing is always worth the cost.

Take the Beaver, for instance. We say, without apology, that the Beaver is one of the best printed and best looking annuals in the country. Has been for years—because those in charge at Oregon State have told us that appearance is paramount. The students and faculty give us this responsibility, we accept it gladly, and deliver this book with pride.

WHEN YOU THINK

of college days, it is the pleasant memories which clamor for recognition. We look back on the past year as one of the most prosperous of the eighteen years has served Oregon State Students. As the thought of our delightful acquaintances, or the wonderful spirit of co-operation which you as students and faculty have shown springs to our minds, we can only wish you a pleasant summer vacation and happy days ahead.

THE CO-OP

IN APPRECIATION

The formulating, furtherance and completion of the plans necessary to produce a volume of

---

the Beaver embraces the largest and most diversified group of material that it is possible to assemble at Oregon State college. Working under the handicap of pressing time and

---

---

thousands of details, the staff of the Volume XXVI Beaver offers this issue to the Student

---

Body and state as the result of its work.

---

Throughout the cooperation and guidance of the various firms that aided in the production of this book, the task would be unsurmountable. We are greatly indebted and wish to express

---

---

graphic Art and the West Coast Engraving Company.
