This is Oregon State University

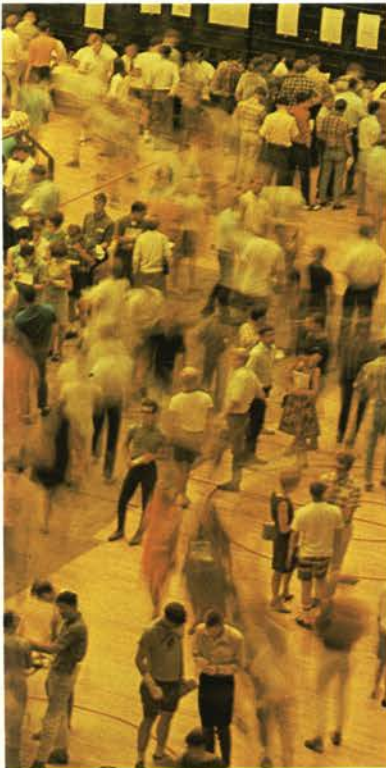

...a life of preparation for the outside world...yet a unique society set apart from it.

It is a bustling network of activity . . .

...and not without frustration.

It was a football season not to be forgotten.

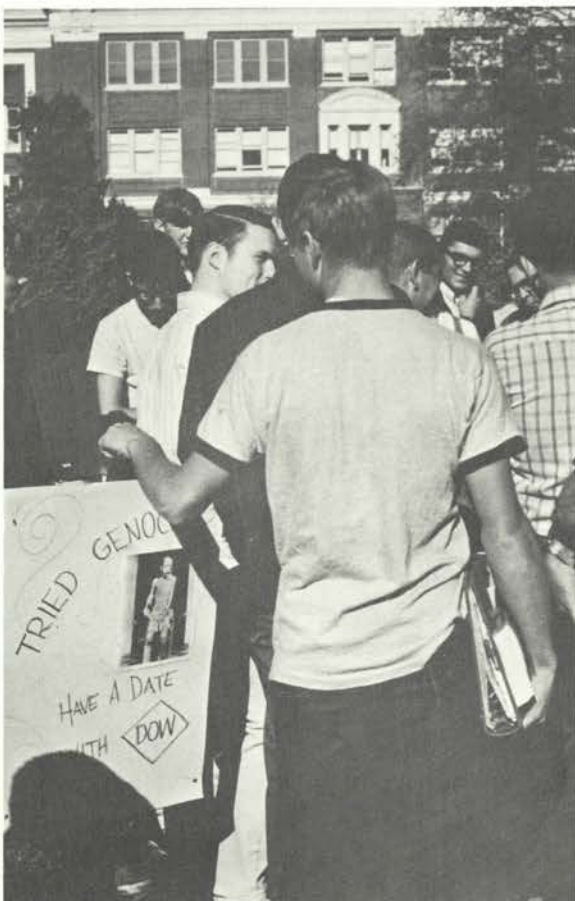

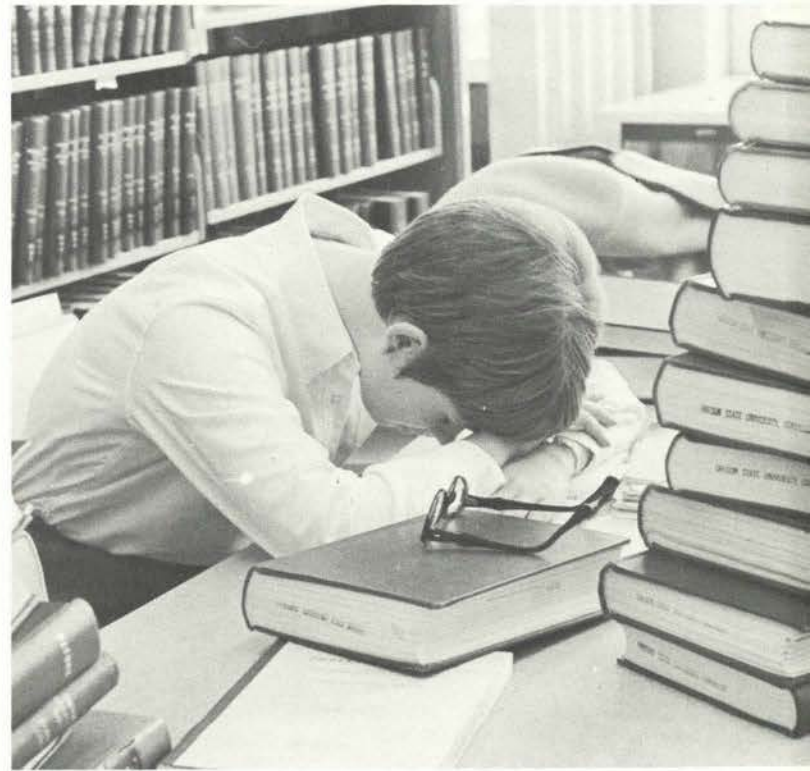

It was a thrilling season uniting students with pride and spirit. Excitement began with the victory over Purdue, increased with the UCLA tie, and climaxed with the 3-0 victory over USC. Despite national ratings of seventh, OSU students were certain that their team was number one.

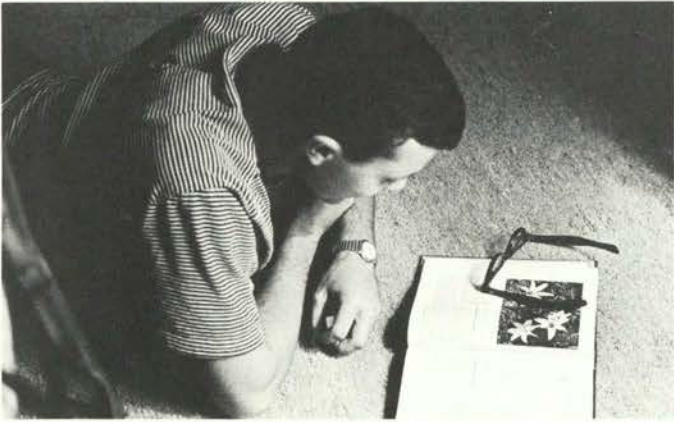

Other spirit took the form of protest, with the now - almost-familiar peace vigils and button sales. There were no screams, no bands, only a few moments of silence and, perhaps for some, an inward glance.

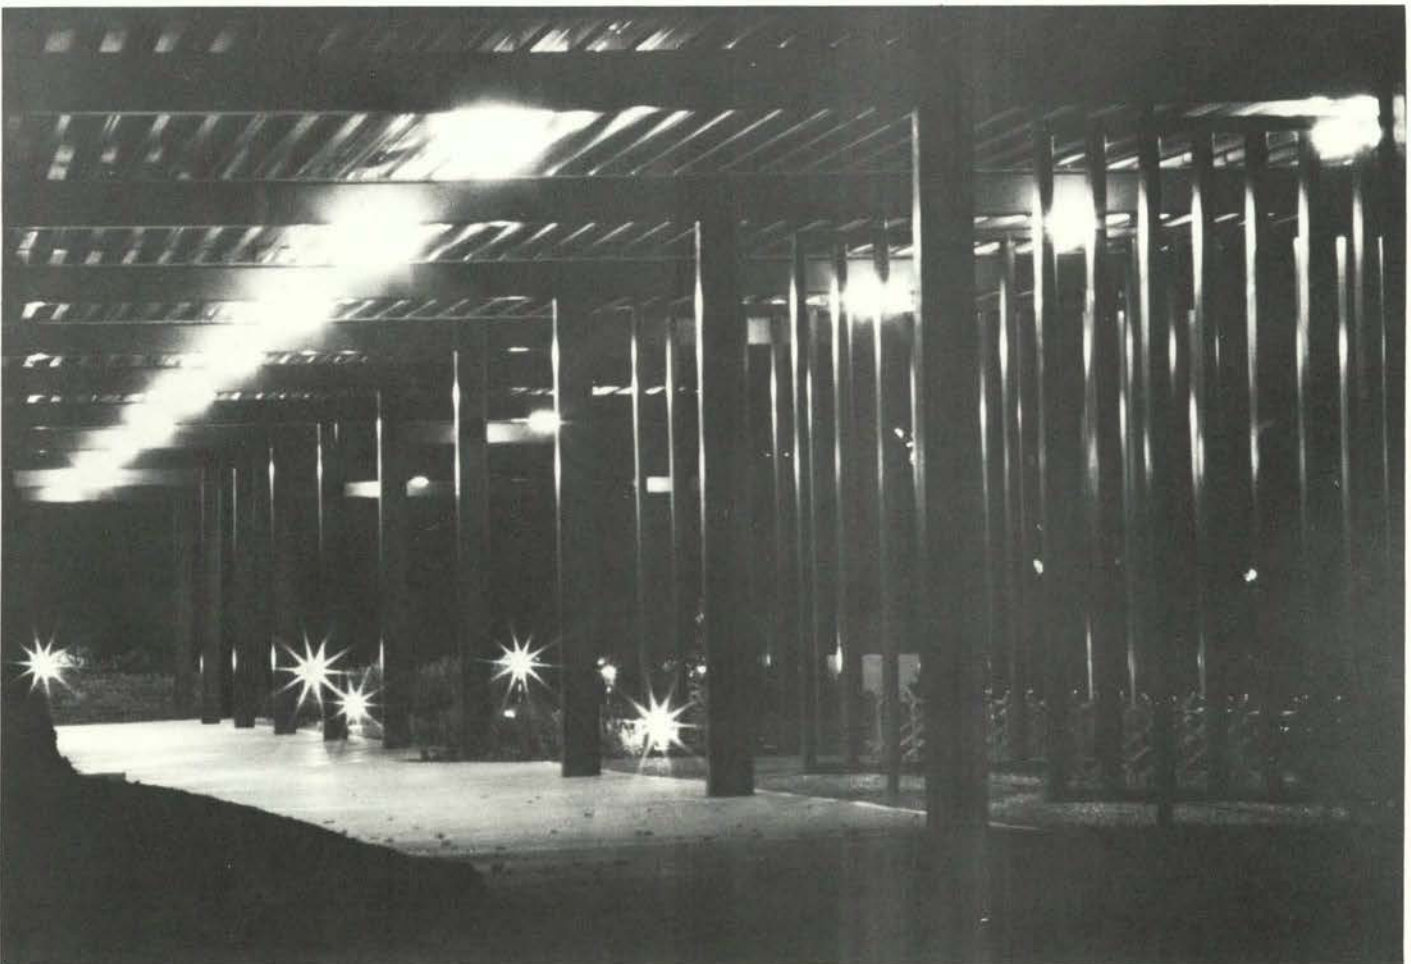

But for most it is a tiring struggle to fit the jig-saw puzzle day into too few hours.

As Friday approaches, the puzzle pieces are tossed away and forgotten as the relaxed and carefree attitude of the weekend takes hold.

But in the midst of this network of activity, there are quiet moments... moments for introspection, for dreaming, and for finding a quiet strength to face the world of reality again.

FALL

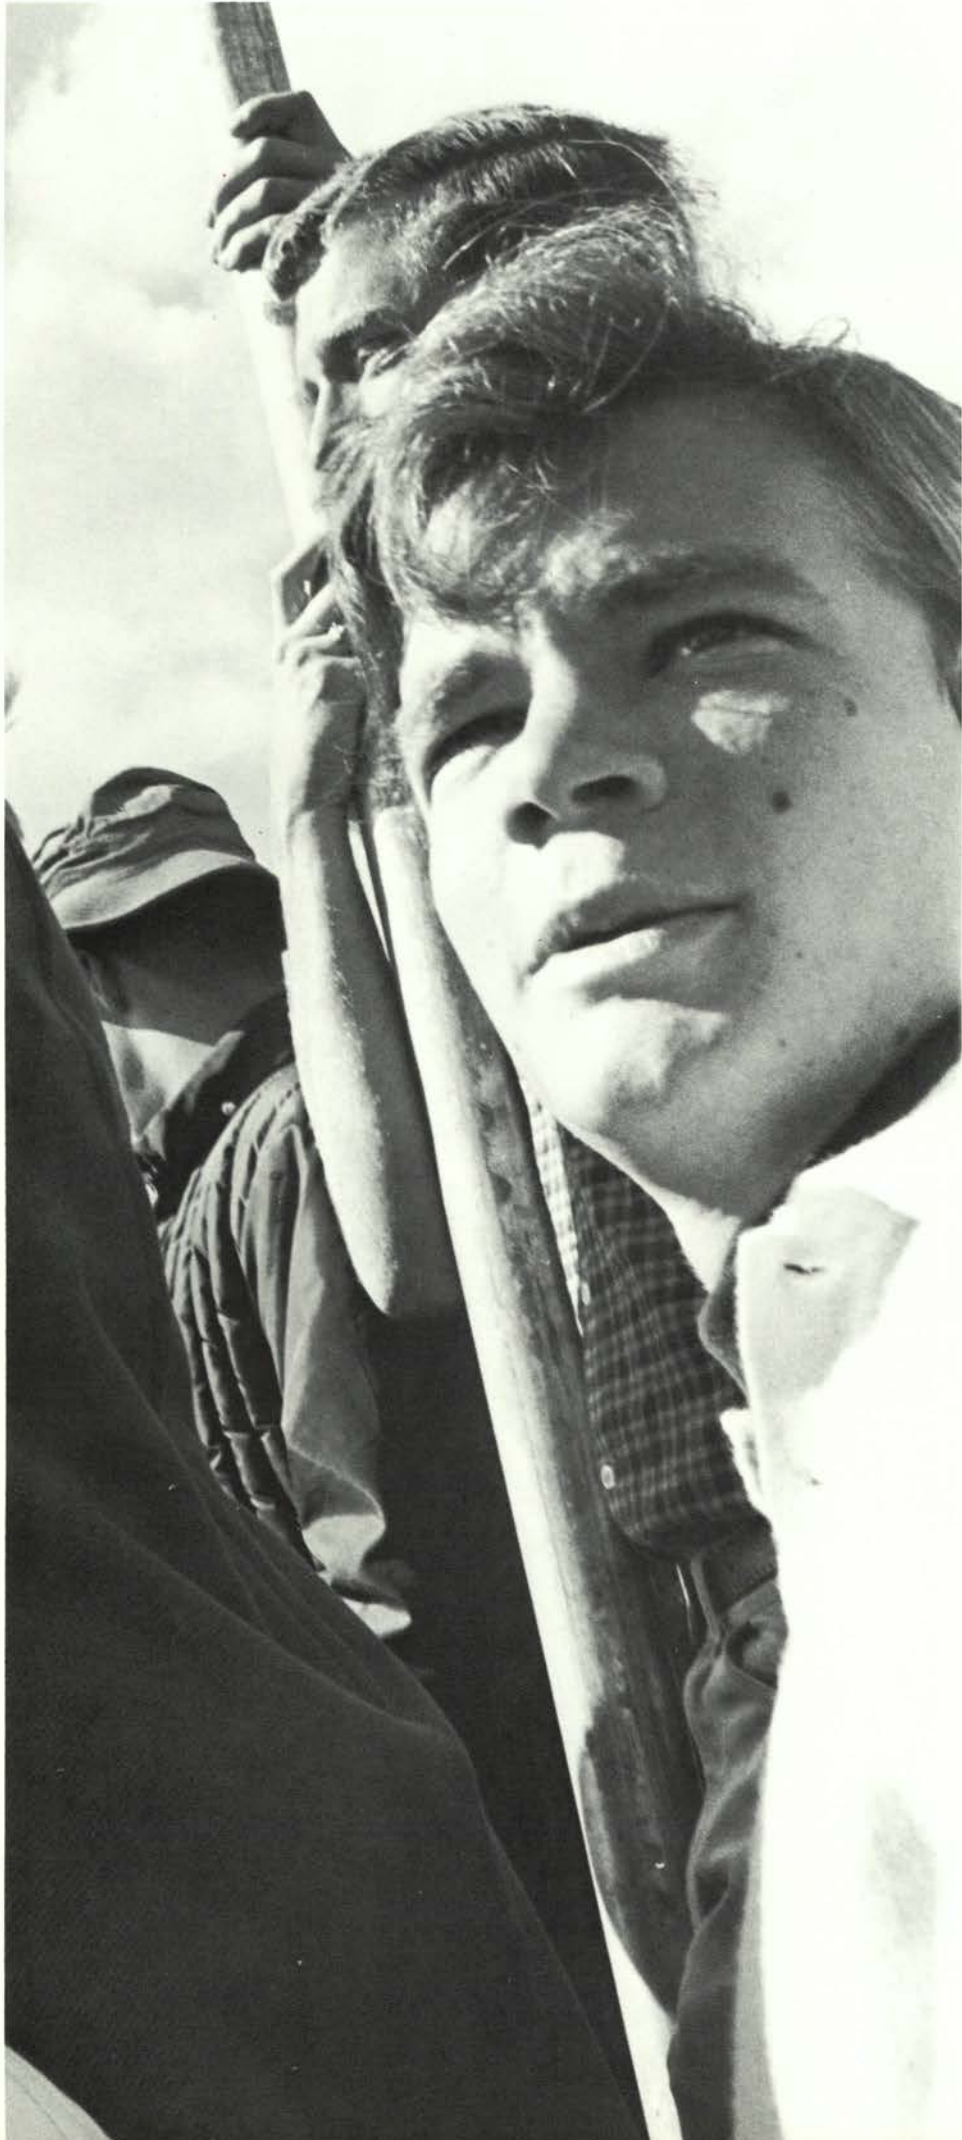

Fall term finds OSU rooks new among its old crowds. There is eagerness mixed with a certain amount of bewilderment.

Crowds of students are caught up in the spirit, the dissent, and the many moods flooding the atmosphere.

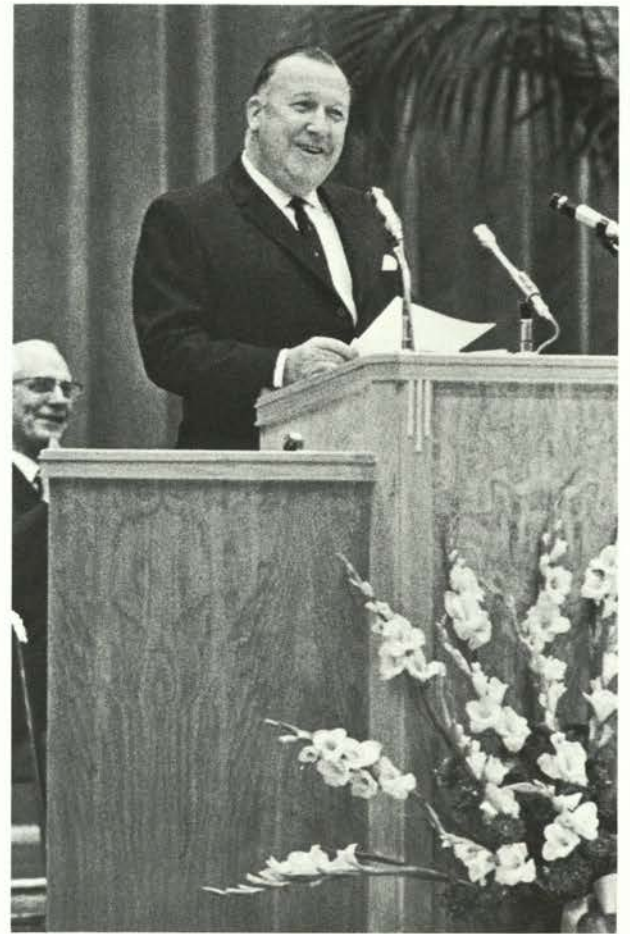

Cheers of the masses show joy, and pride comes from the closeness. What would Oregon State be without its crowds?

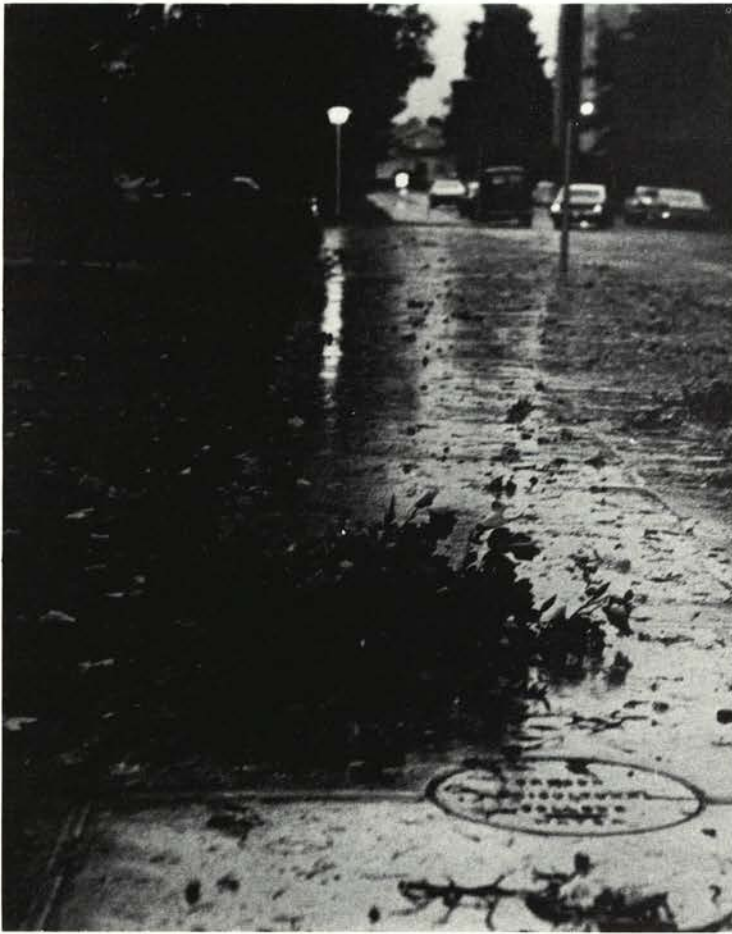

Nickels, tickets, crowded dining rooms are now only a memory. Since the amount received has been declining each year, AWS decided to discontinue the traditional dances and find a replacement. After all, how much fun is a nickel?

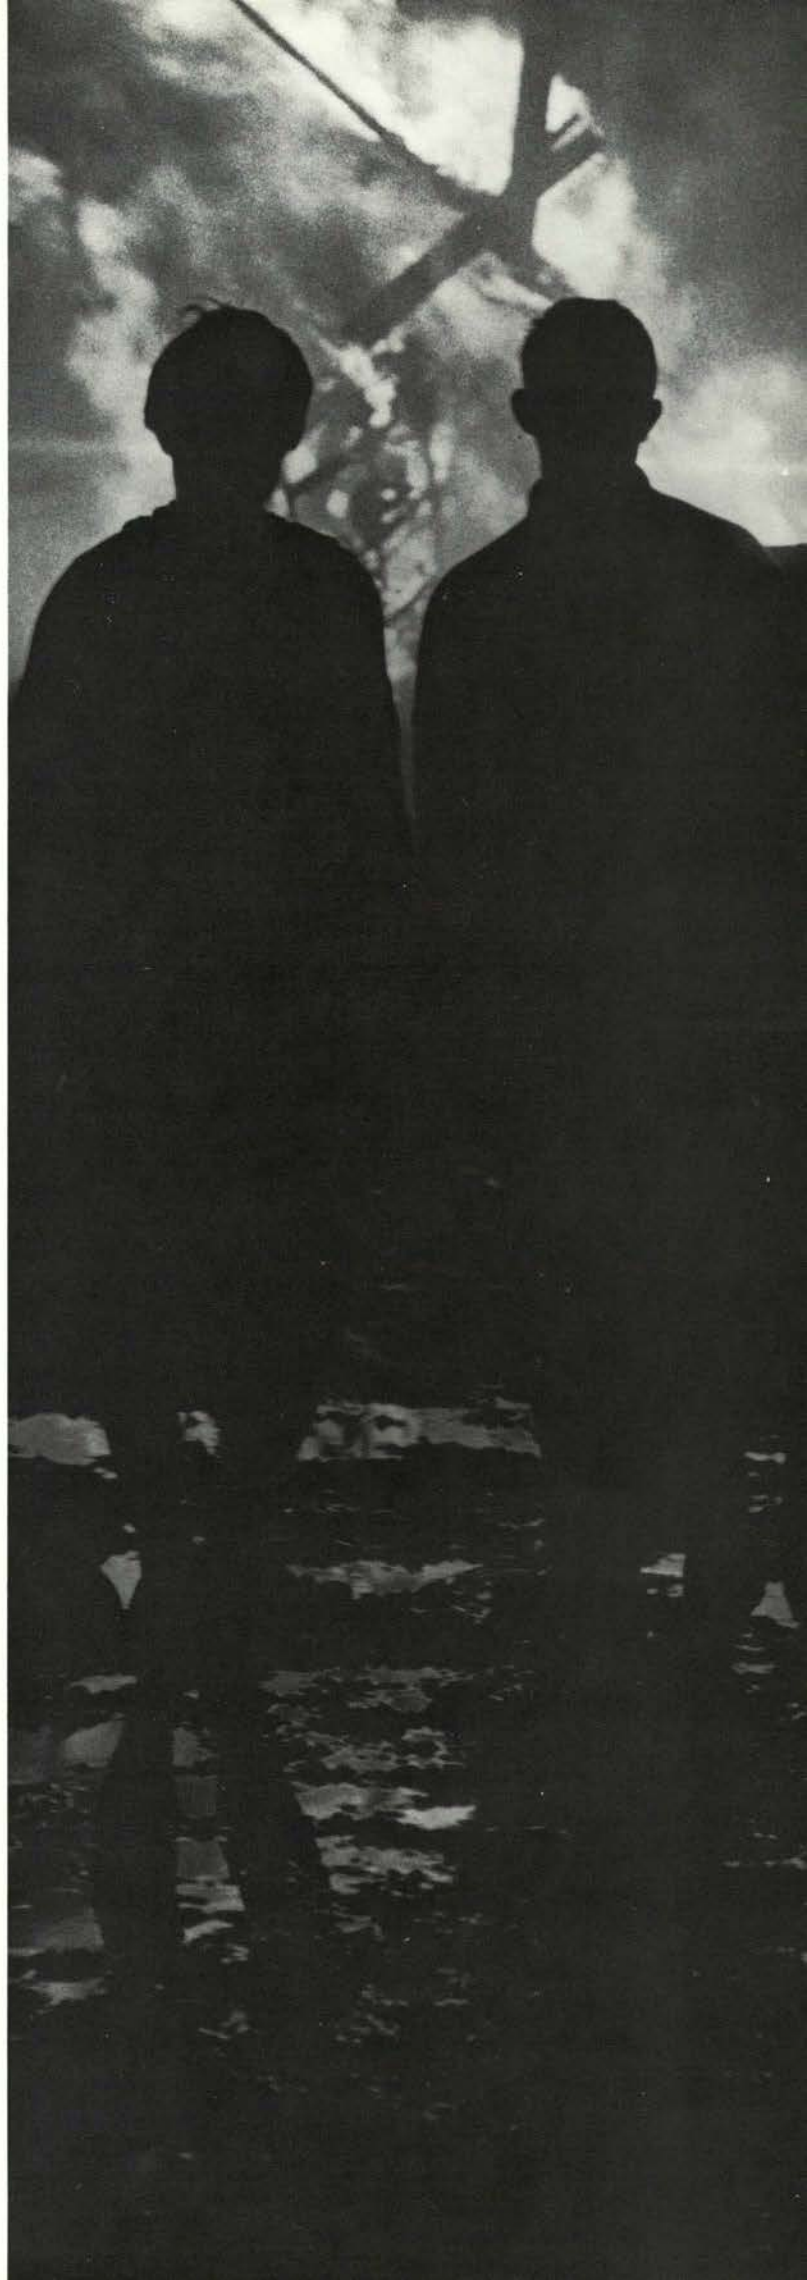

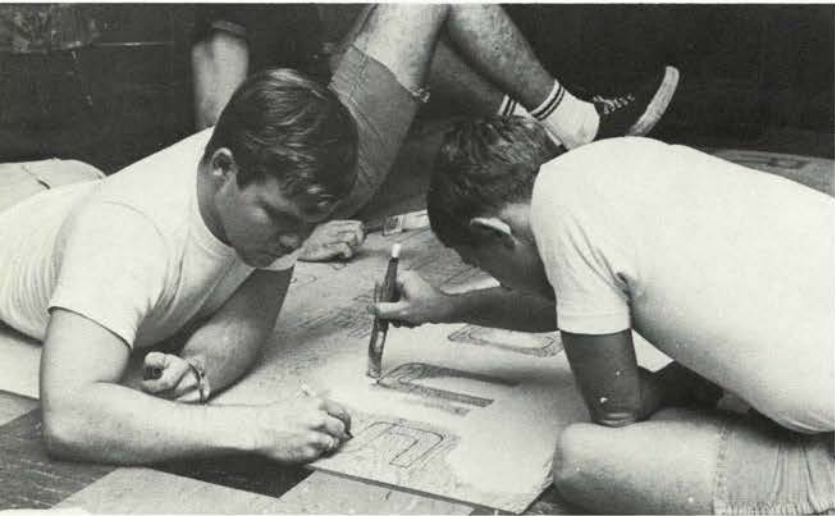

The ninety-ninth Charter Day Celebration honored the director of the Oregon Shakespearean Festival, Angus L. Bowner; an inspiring Dean of Men at OSU, Ulysses G. Durback; a dedicated botonist, Helen M. Gilkey; and an outstanding chemist, Milton Harris. These recipients of the Distinguished Service Awards joined faculty, students, and guests for an introduction to Athelstan Spilhaus's ideas on massive experiments in living.

Reports of another "Columbus Day Storm" sent students seeking shelter from the strong October winds. Trees which had heretofore been able to brave the winds and retain their adornment were deprived of leaves and branches. The majestic elm in the quad, which had withstood the hurricane winds four years ago, met its match in the late afternoon. The next day, crews began to clean up the debris and restore the campus. After the removal of the elm stump, a casual visitor would never know of the previous shade and beauty offered by the sole guardian of the quad.

Homecoming '67, although still steeped with tradition, established new precedents for future celebrations. The theme "Rendezvous OSU" tried to welcome back alumnae and bridge the generation gap, rather than encode the opponent's name in a clever rally yell. In order to emphasize the talents and personality of the homecoming queen, rather than rely on her beauty and popularity, the homecoming committee staged a pageant in which the contestants narrated a skit and modeled.

The traditional homecoming signs and novel chariot races all added to the festivities. Drenching rain and soaking feet did not dampen the spirits of the noise paraders or shadow the hopes of those who witnessed the bonfire.

Hope Attracts Record Crowd

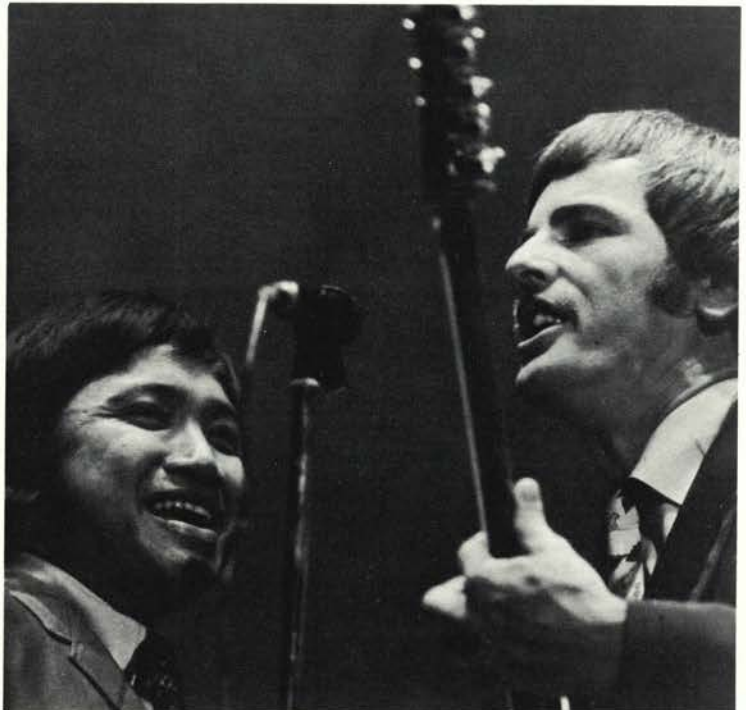

The spontaneous wit, humorous humanitarian, Bob Hope, greeted the largest concert audience in OSU's history. Enthusiastic applause, unconstrained laughter, a plaque, and an OSU blanket tried to express the feelings of appreciation and enjoyment due the legendary entertainer.

People Are Strange

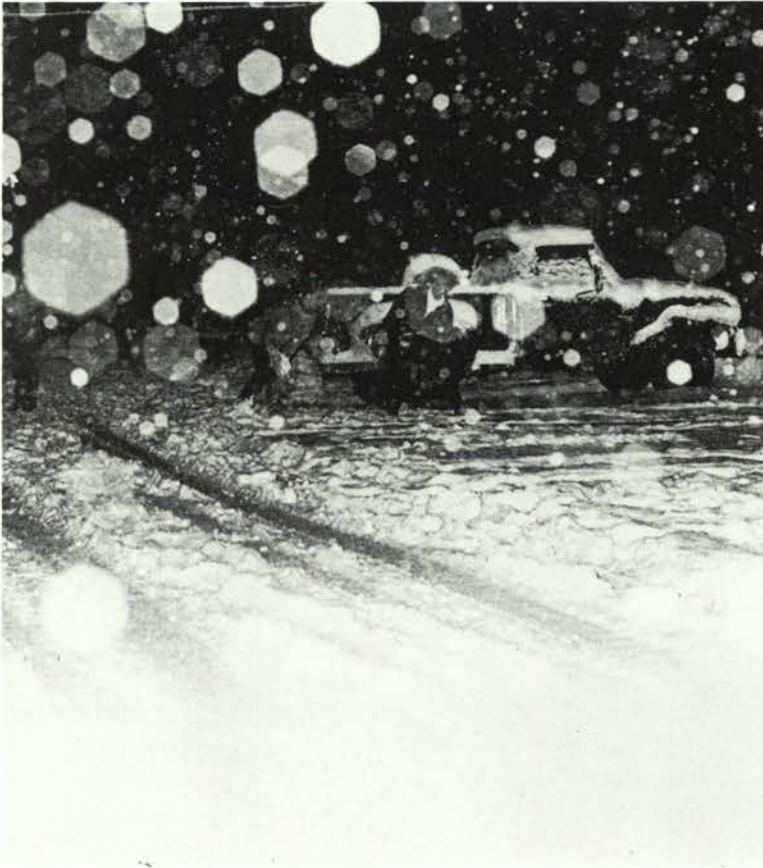

Available tickets to The Association concert were a rarity three hours after sales had begun. The group's drawing card offered rhythm, sound, and plenty of talent; their songs were as varied as the members of The Association themselves.

Relying on the popularity of The Association, a one-hit group, The Doors, appeared on campus a week later. Collegiates were joined by high schoolers in letting in the message the singing door had to convey.

WINTER

Rains change to snow as the campus silently becomes white . . . a beautiful playground marred with inconvenience.

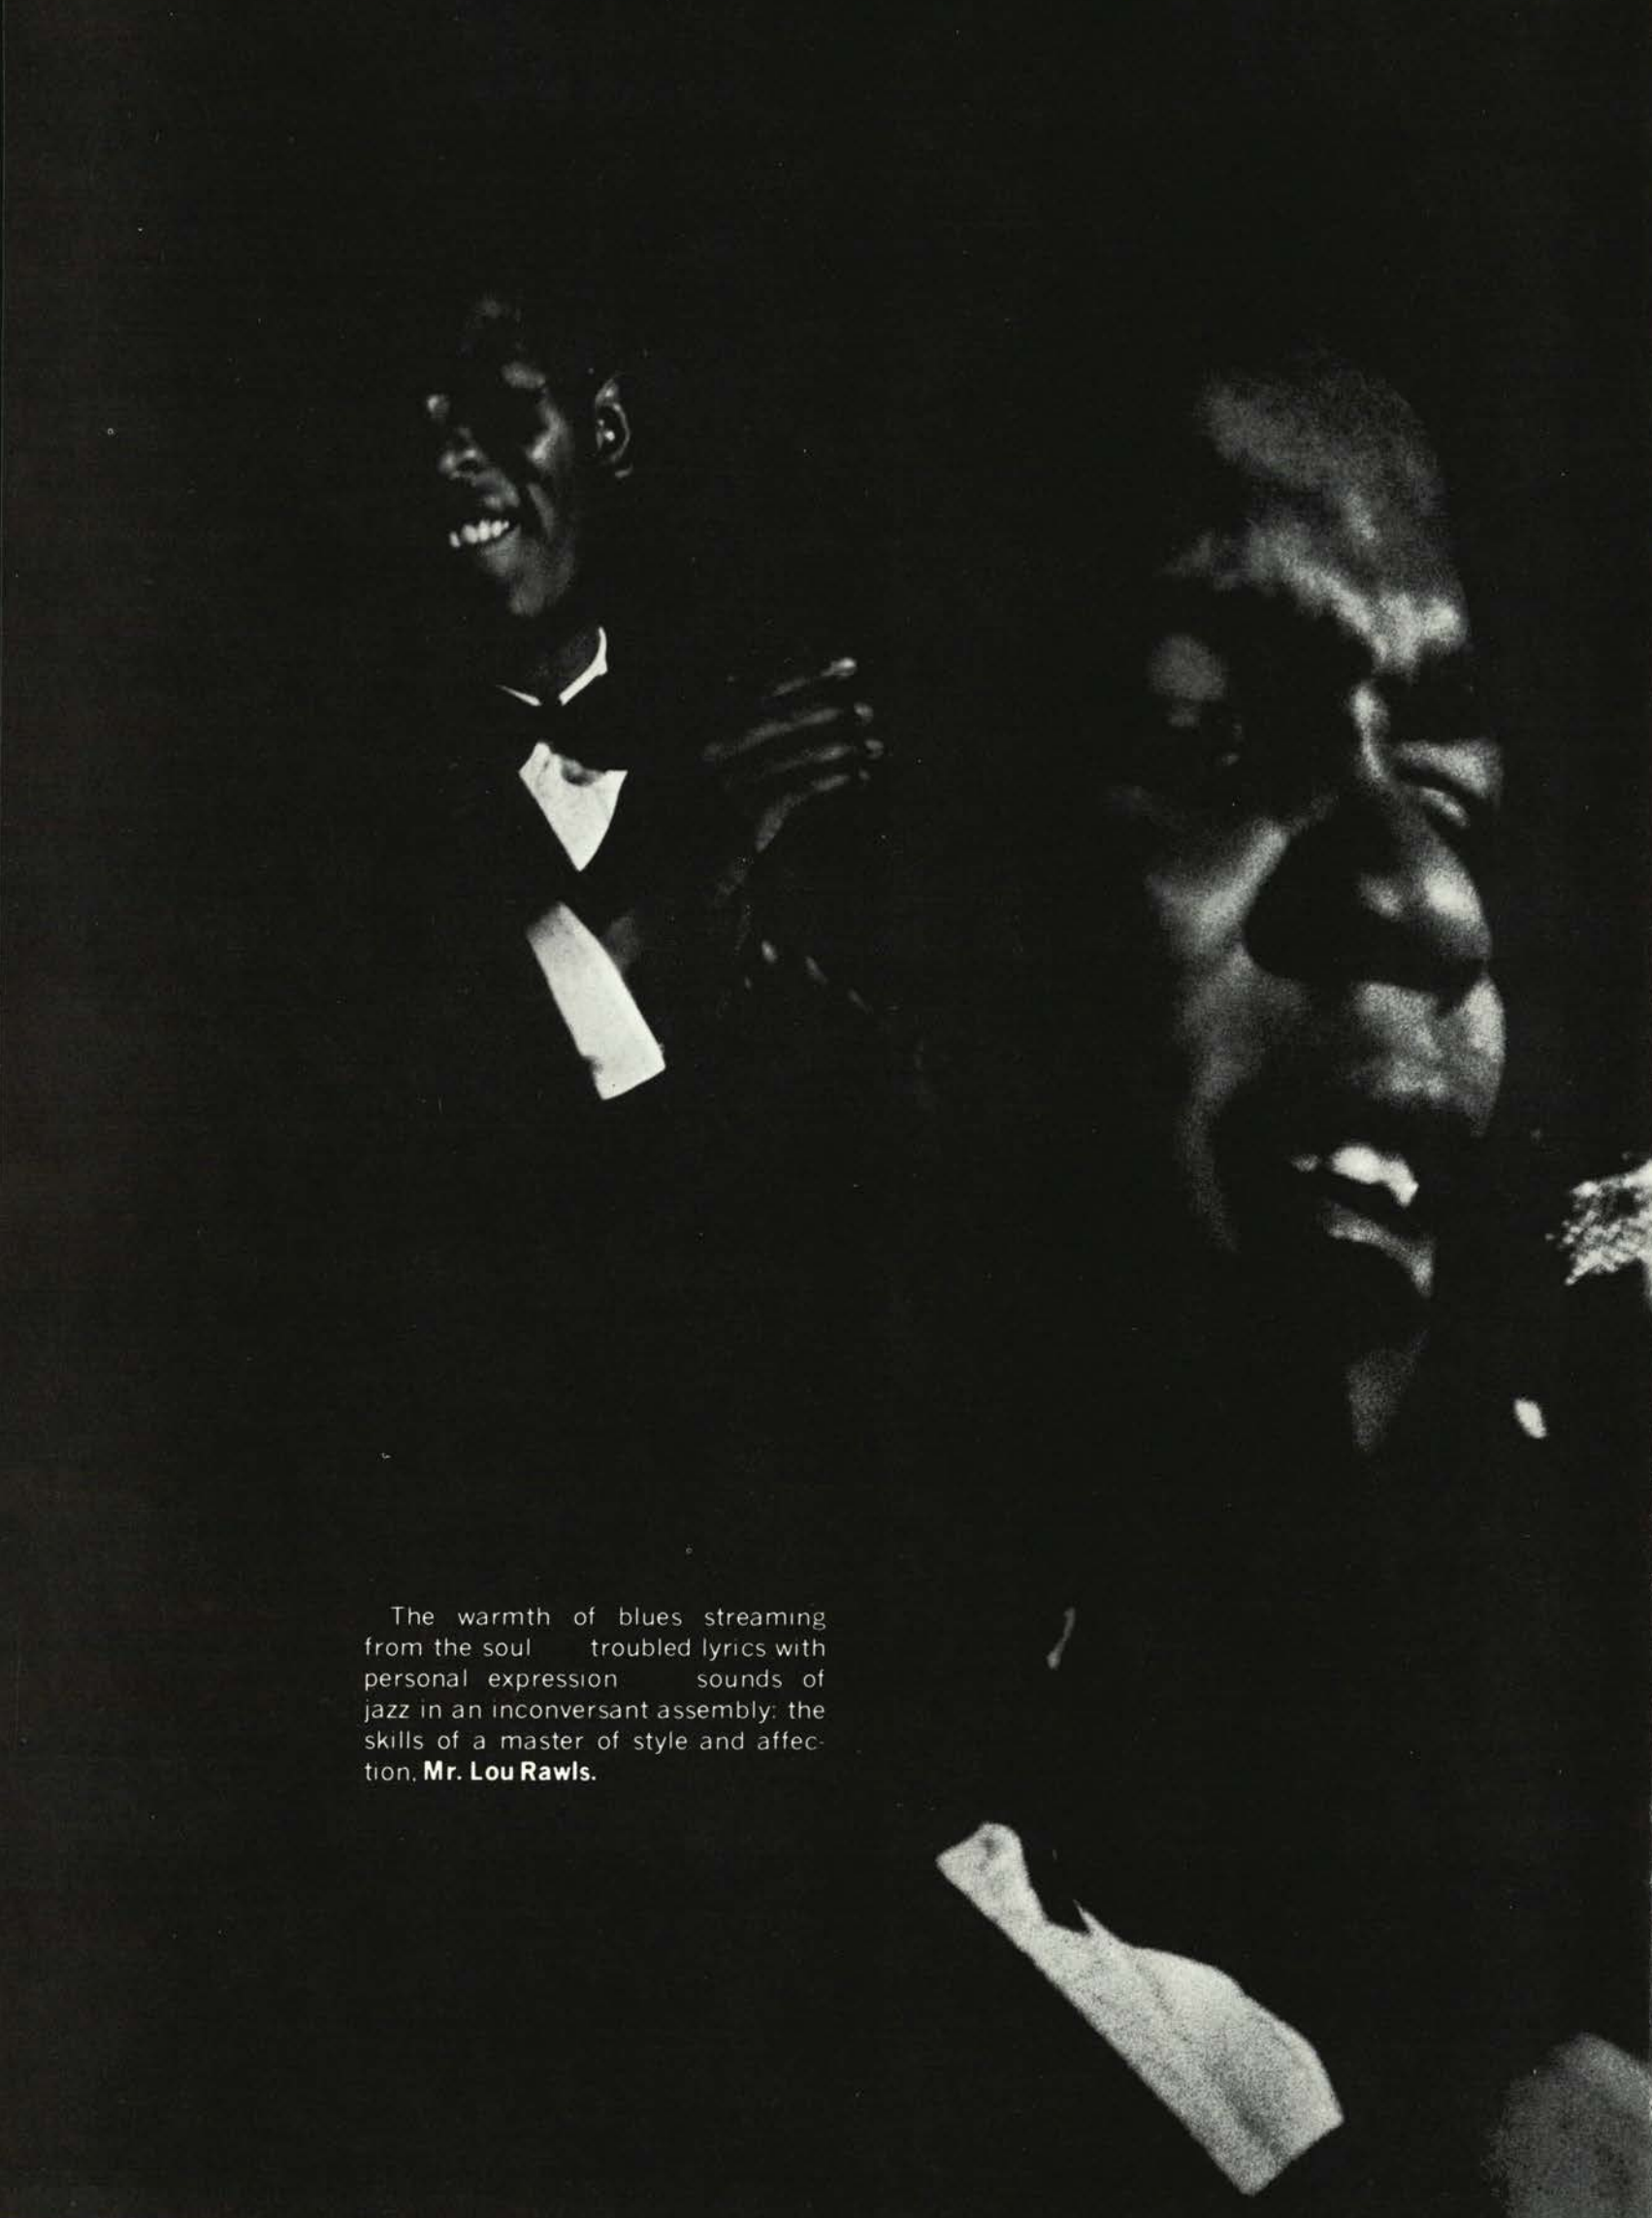

Winter term . . . and the umbrella community sprouts. This portable canopy is awkward, cumbersome, easily broken, easily lost . . . yet indispensable.

The warmth of blues streaming from the soul troubled lyrics with personal expression sounds of jazz in an inconvertible assembly; the skills of a master of style and affection, Mr. Lou Rawls.

Anti-Military Ball Is Gassed Out

Conceived with the idea that war is absurd, the Anti-Military Ball attracted over one thousand protestors, participants, and just plain curious people. The featured entertainment—San Francisco Mime Troupe, performing “Olive Pits;” music by Portland Tweedy Brothers; and the underground movie “Oh, Dem Watermelons”—received much publicity in the debates on whether a free dance should have been sponsored on campus the same night. These debates, however, were trifling in comparison to those in response to the irritating gas bomb which dispersed the Ball shortly before midnight.

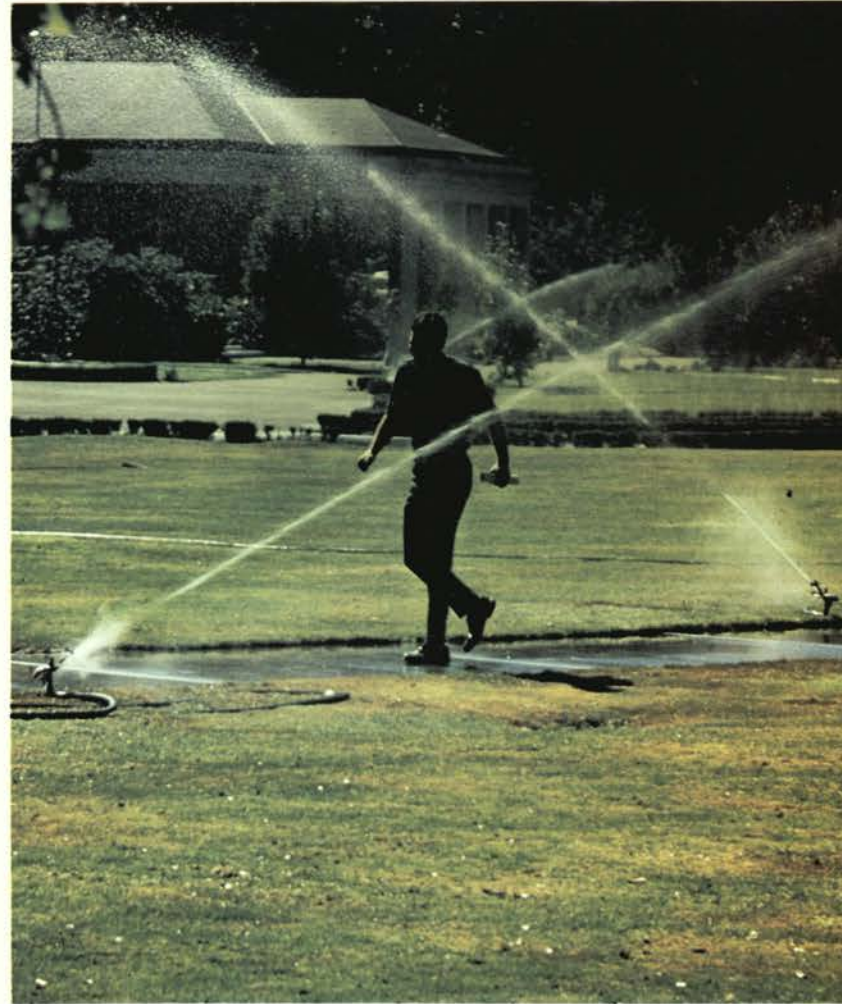

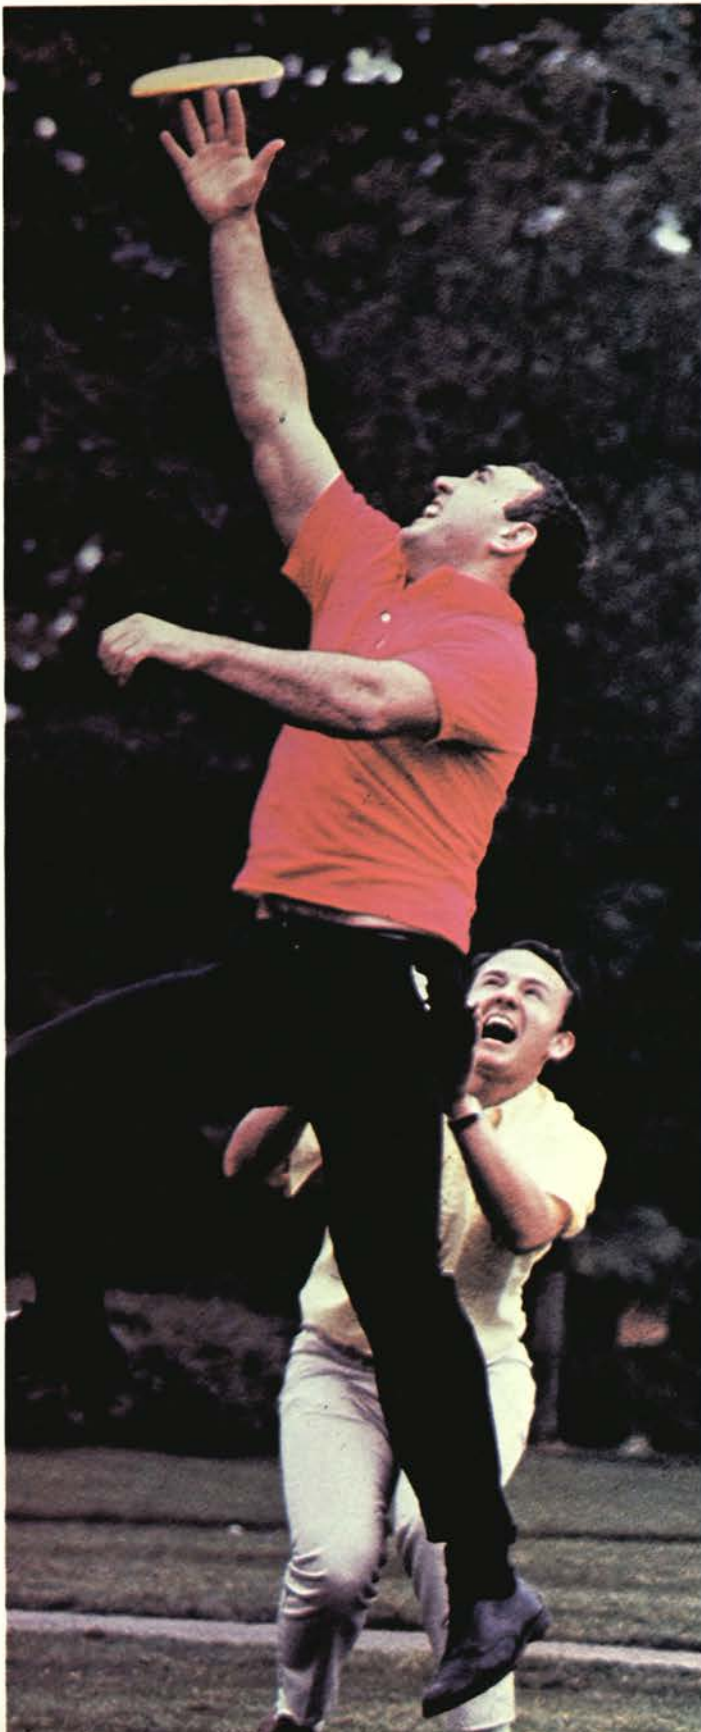

Time Out For Dads

Students took time out just before finals week to entertain more than 3,000 dads. Basketball games, crew races, pee-wee golf, rugby, bowling tournaments and wrestling matches acquainted dads with the sporting college pastimes. Dean's meetings and department tours reminded them of the more serious aspects of college life. Dads wore through their soles and pocketbooks, but they proudly added one more stripe to their traditional bamboo canes.

SPRING

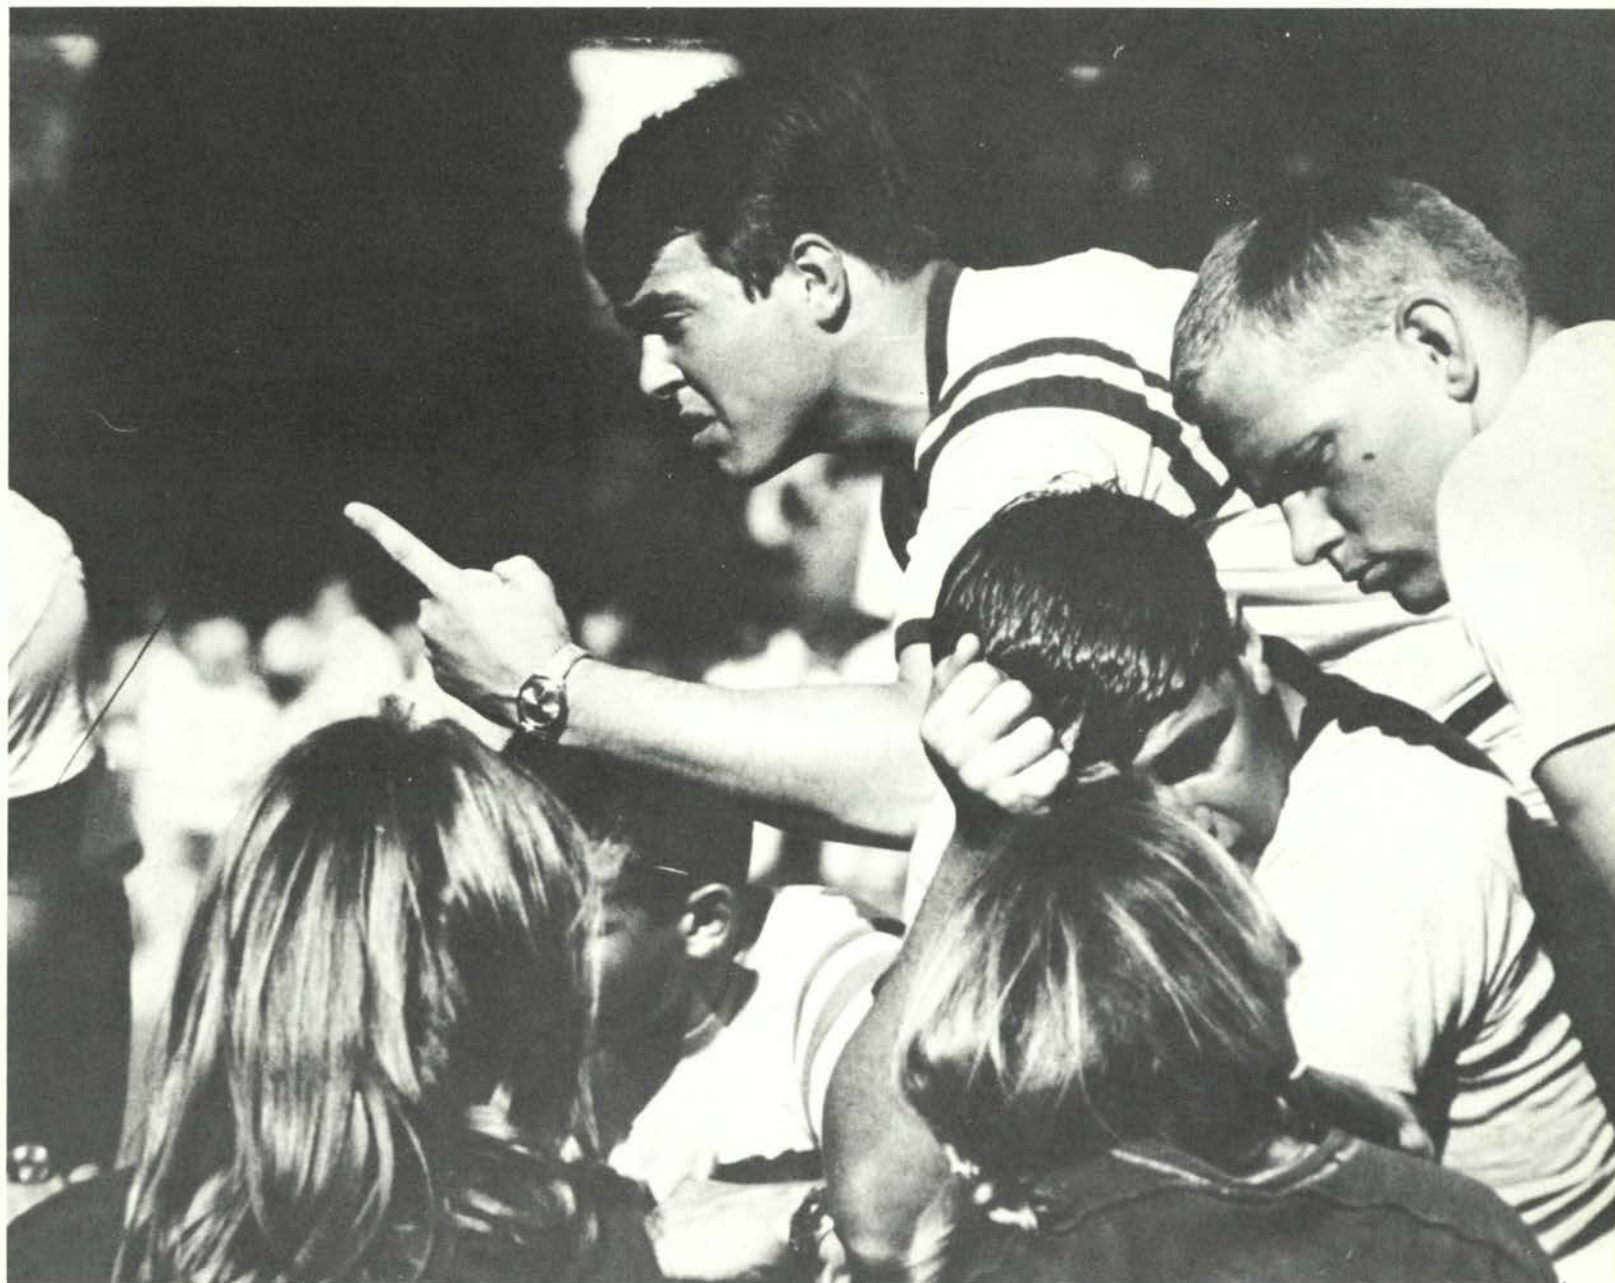

After a particularly wet beginning, spring term came into its own when the sun appeared and brought with it a world of outside activity.....

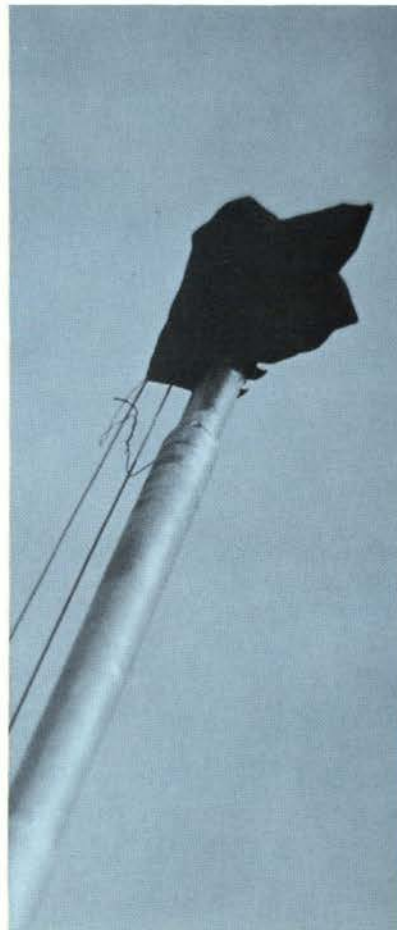

Under a bombardment of water any preoccupation with homework dissolves. The motto seems to be "Play now, and pray for a lower curve."

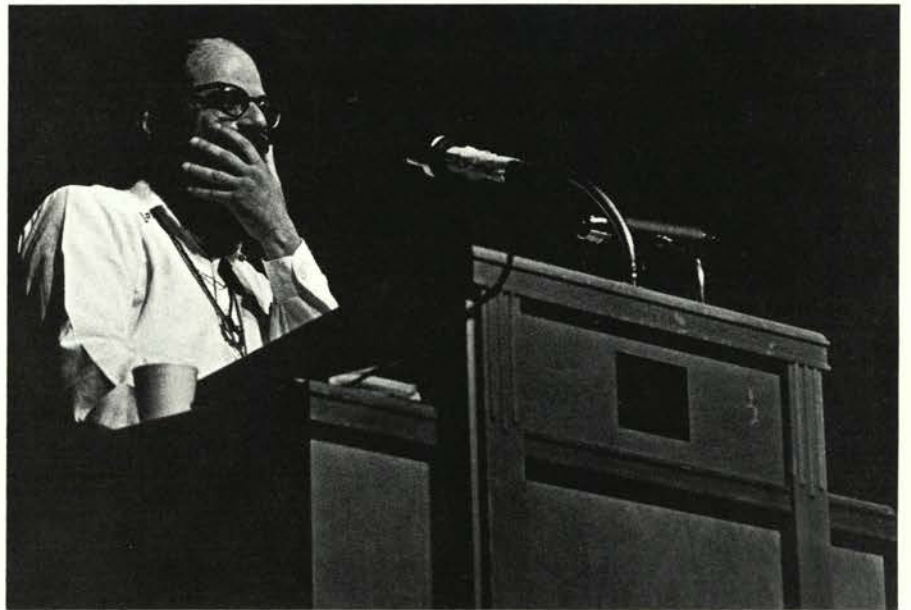

"Color My World" brought the Number One Female Vocalist of 1966, Petula Clark, to the Gill Coliseum stage. Entertaining the Prom audience with her Grammy award-winning "Downtown" and "I Know A Place", Pet displayed the talent bringing her international fame. From her cheerful pop tunes to her moving composition entitled "Two Rivers," Pet colored her admirers with a rainbow of feeling.

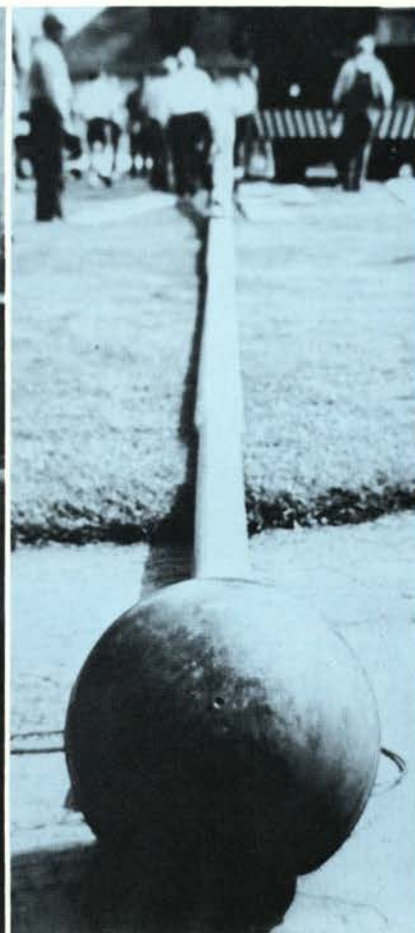

A climactic ending to the black bag episode found an imposing replica topping the flagpole. How it got there, no one knew. The controversy, however, was not who accomplished the seemingly impossible task, but how the bag was to be removed. While the Barometer concentrated debate on who was responsible for moving operations, the men of the Physical Plant demonstrated one method of undoing the skillfull accomplishment.

A capacity crowd packed into the Home Ec Auditorium to sit (or stand) entranced by poet Allen Ginsburg. The "Guru" of the beat generation recited rhythmic Buddhist chants and shared his philosophy with curious students.

Campaign posters dotting the campus presented only a facade to the voices which struggled to be heard in ASOSU elections. Students had no excuse for ignorance in this election. Senate convened in a special session to interview presidential candidates and investigate the thinking put into their platforms. The issues: NSA, student power, course evaluation, communication; all were instrumental in determining the final outcome. Controversy arose when the Barometer and the present student officers actively backed certain candidates.

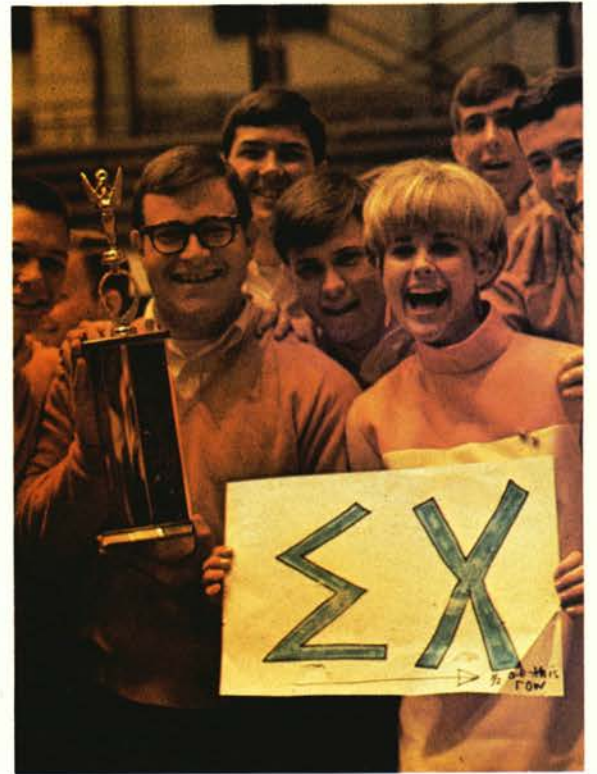

Amateur Sing Outdoes Mom's Weekend Concert

Moms wondered at their first planned event as they were entertained by the vociferous Righteous Brothers, the spangly Brazil '66, and the gross comedian. Following a night of adjusting to university accommodations, moms arose only slightly wilted to freshen for anticipated events. A trek to the coliseum was rewarded by military drills, and throughout the day, campus tours and open houses kept moms on the go. Curious moms overflowed the fashion shows and peeked in to evaluate the flower displays. Despite the warm afternoon, a continuous crowd inspected the ceramics and pots on sale in the quad.

Saturday night brought a dazzle of color and a quality of sound in the annual IFC Sing. Callahan Hall boasted the first dorm to ever participate in the Sing, but top honors went to Sigma Chi's and Delta Gamma's.

Decorated Turtles Color Mom's Day

Turtles and tired feet greeted moms as they began the second day of festivities in their honor. Enjoying their spotlight in the coliseum, decorated and painted turtles endured the screamed encouragement of a variety of admirers. Some left with trophies, others with turtles, and all with a feeling of true OSU spirit.

President James H. Jensen

President James H. Jensen, retiring president of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, noted the importance and urgency of a strong system of public higher education.

President Jensen feels that the state university presently is in a position of unequalled importance in our society, but that the contributions being made can be significantly enhanced by improving the public's concept of today's university.

University Expansion: Goal of Administrative Council

Milosh Popovich, Dean of Administration, is the chief administrator under the president and works with the Administrative Council to develop policies governing all facets of university affairs. Individual committees of the Administrative Council function in areas of registration, class scheduling, exams, campus planning, public safety, commencement week, traffic and residence.

COLLEGES

Dr. Thomas Meehan, professor of history, walks his dog, Loper.

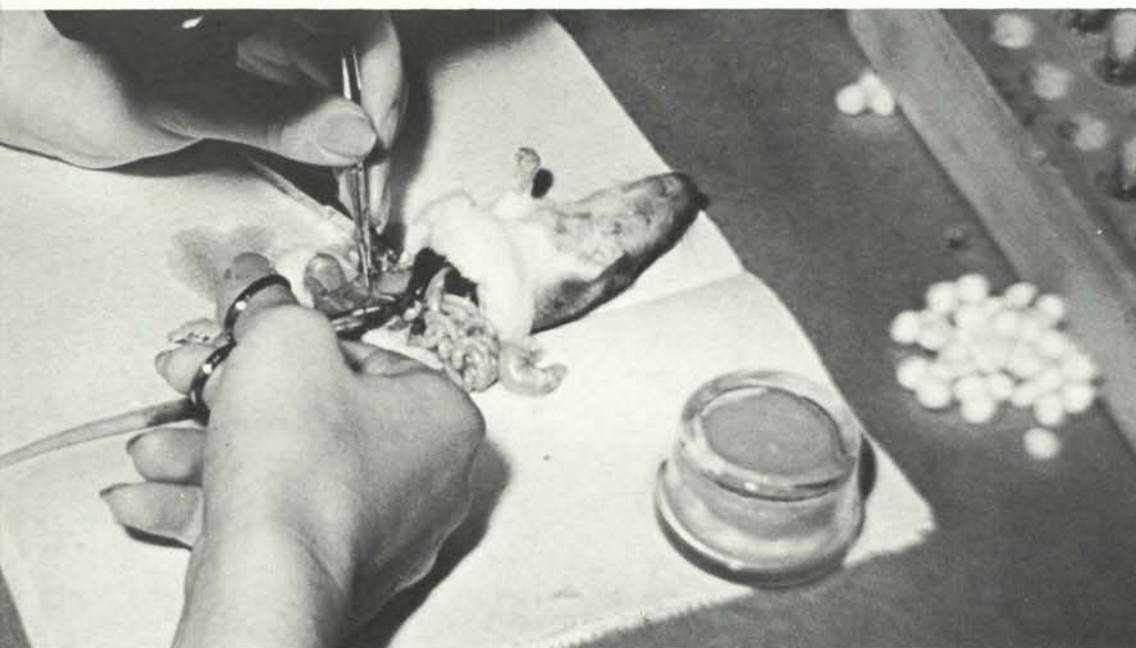

The main premise of OSU's Animal Science Department is that, if one fully understands an animal's life cycle, he can learn to control its functions to suit his needs. Research in the department is centered on the growth and reproductive functions, due to the economic value of farm animals.

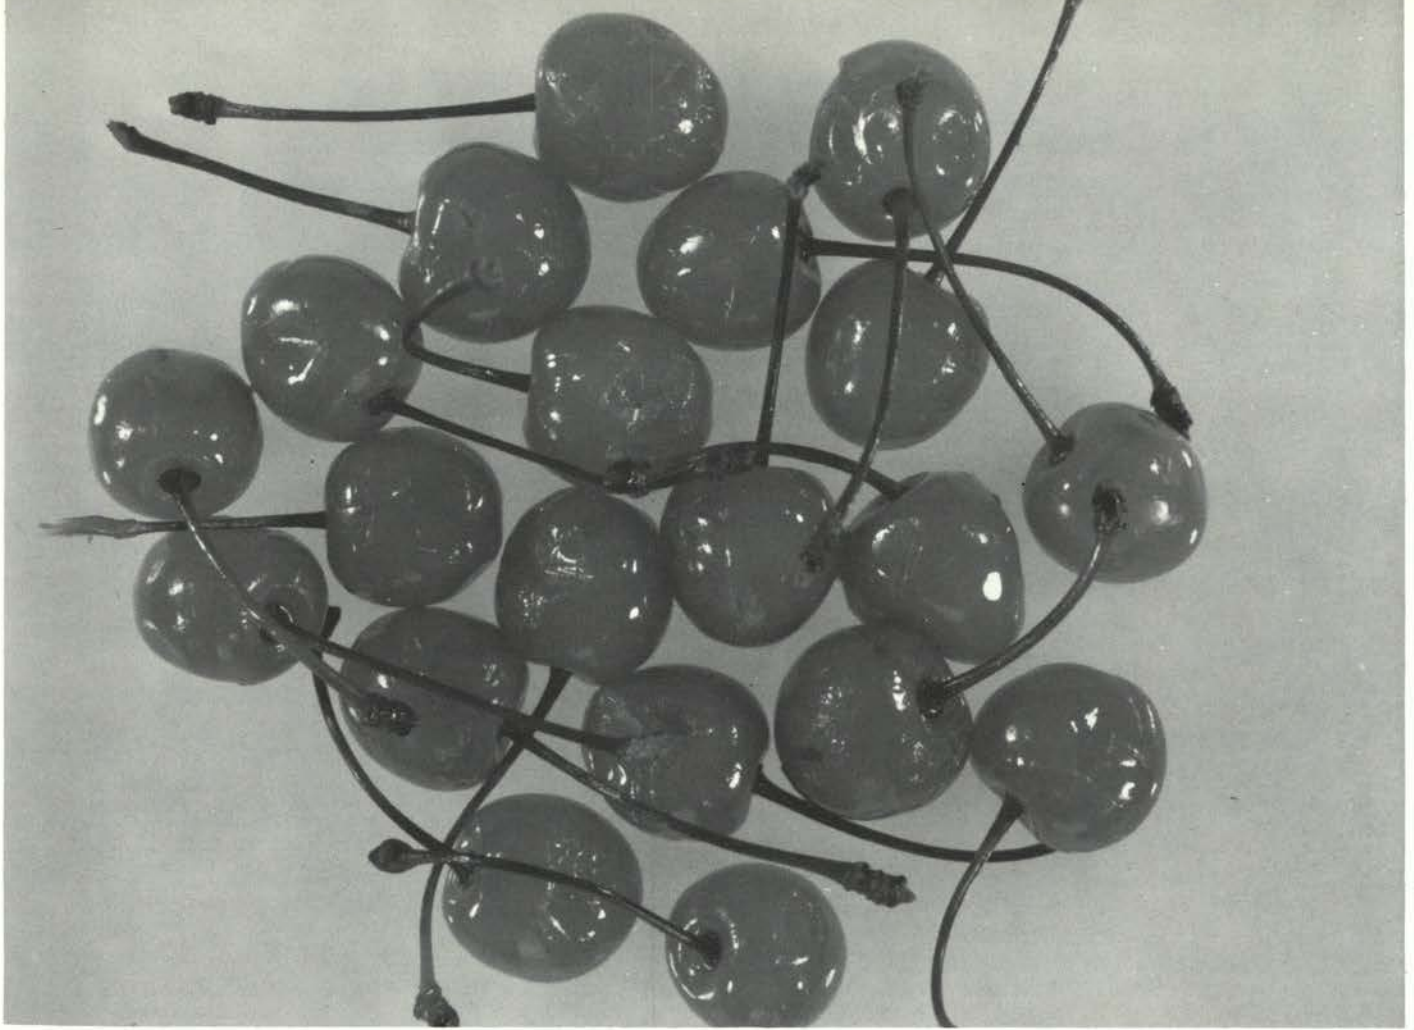

Scientists work on the premise that hormones from the pituitary gland have a definite effect on an animal's growth and reproduction.

Pictures here show hormones being removed from the pituitary gland of a sheep, left, and injected into a rat. Animal scientists then study the injected rats for changes both in growth and in the reproductive cycle, right.

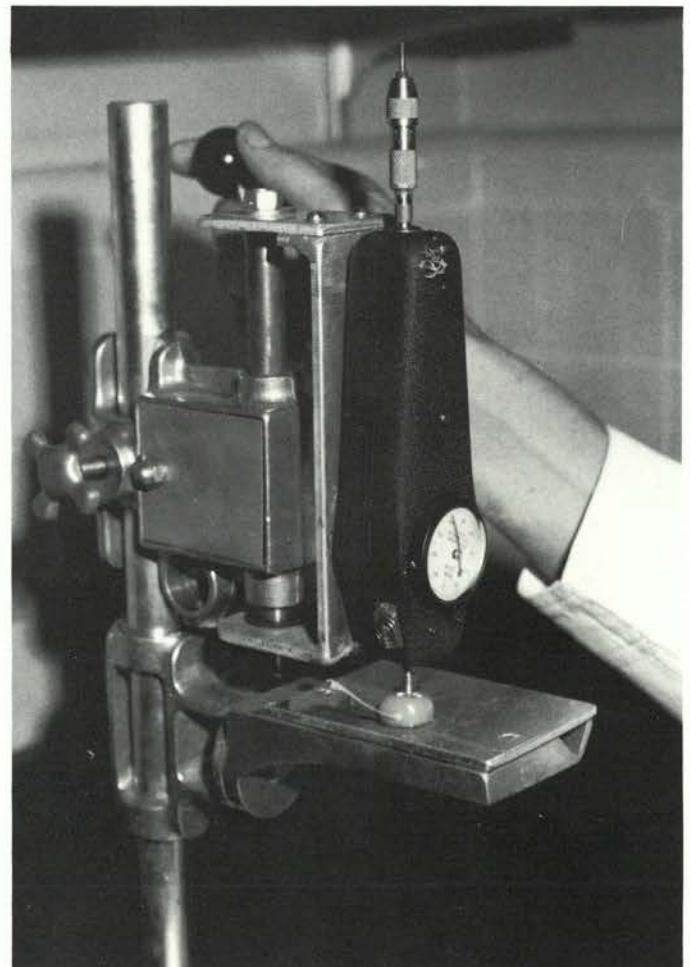

Autopsies are performed on the rats, bottom, and research from these findings is done in an effort to control the effects of hormones from the pituitary.

The result, theoretically, is an economic advantage if animal raisers can control rate of growth and reproductive cycle.

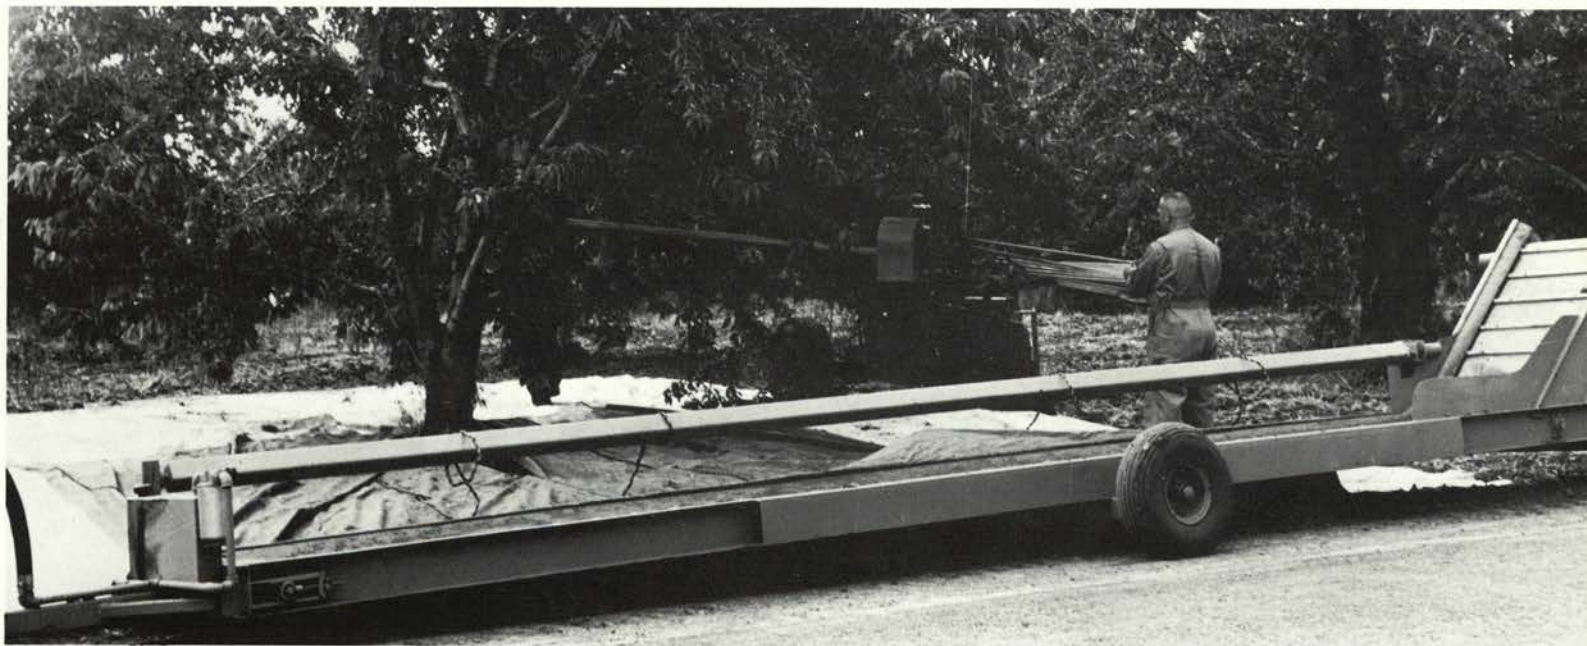

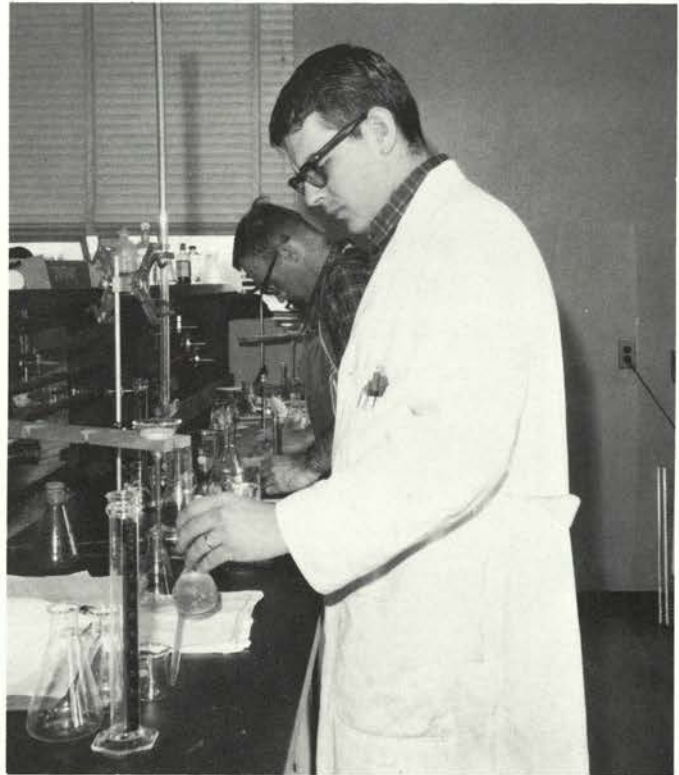

The brining process, above, takes all color and flavor from the cherry. Right, the finished maraschino cherry is tested for texture.

Maraschino Cherry Developed at OSU

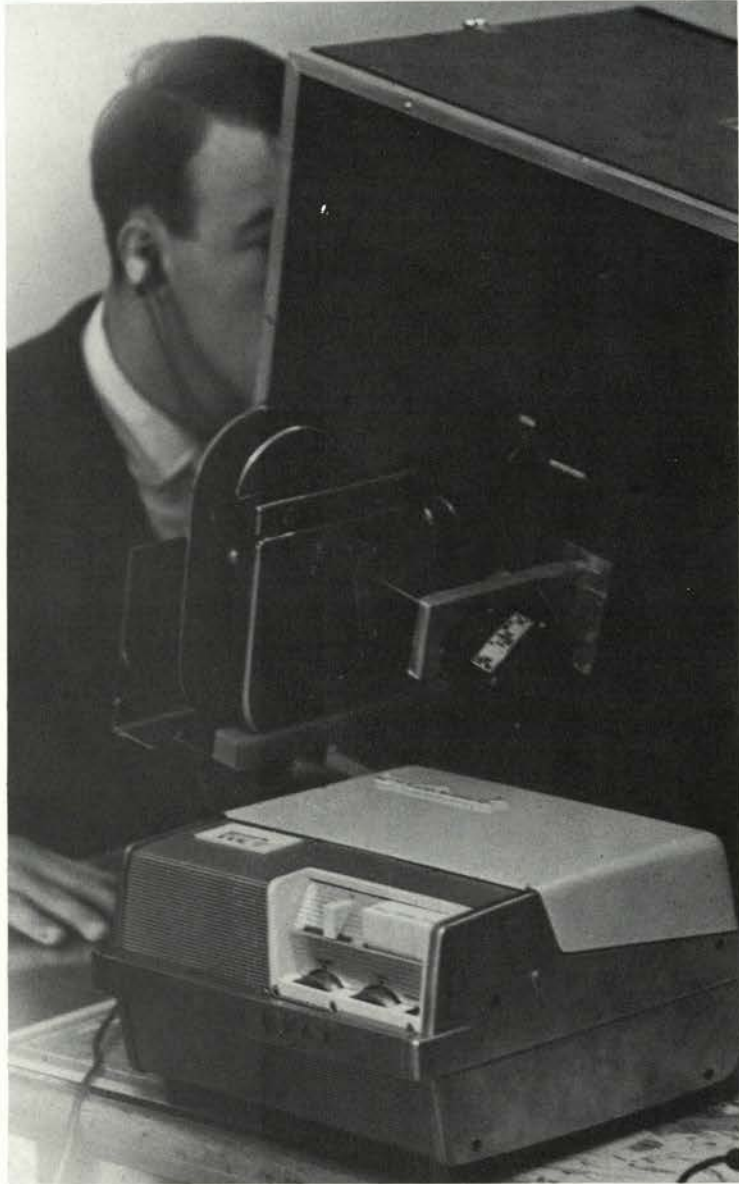

Maraschino cherries were first developed by the OSU Department of Food Science in 1923. Research is constantly being conducted to improve the textural qualities of the cherries. The advent of the machine harvester, below, necessitated changes in the brining process. This process, which takes from four to six weeks, removes all color and flavor from the cherry. Texture studies are concerned with shrinkage and final coloring. Research is sponsored by North West Brining Association.

The food science department concentrates on commercial food processing such as freezing, canning and hydrating. Research is sponsored by various private industries and the federal government. It is one of the oldest food science departments in the nation and one of the few that offers a degree.

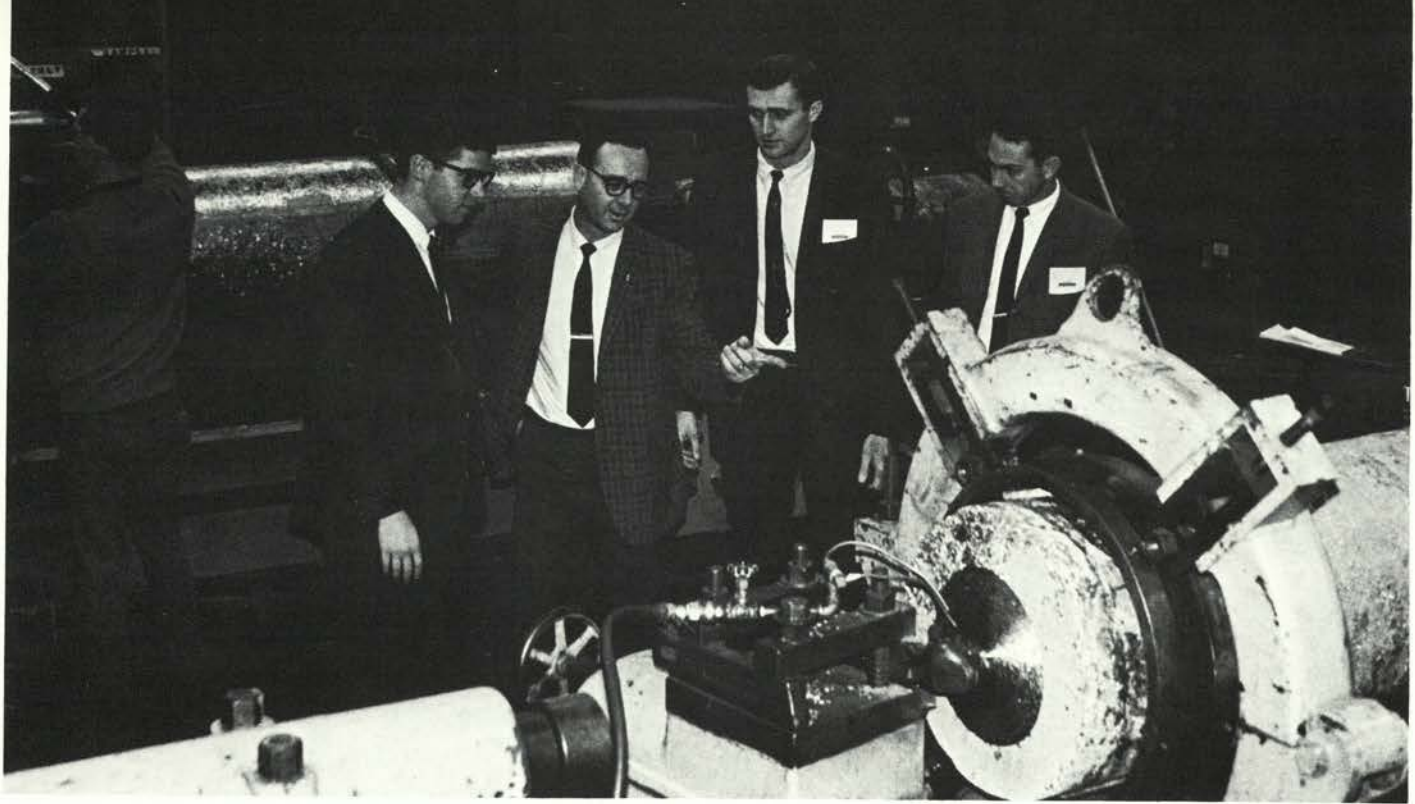

The Eyes Have It

A new machine that measures a person's response to a stimulus by the dialation of the pupils of the eyes has been developed by Dr. Robert Graham. He calls his machine the pupilometer. A man looks into the open end of the box under a controlled environment. The room is dark and a "white" noise that blocks out other sounds is played through his earphones. An object is shown on the screen inside the box, and a camera measures the deviation of dialation in his pupils. If a person likes a picture, his pupils enlarge. A disliked picture makes them smaller. The pupilometer can be used much like a lie detector. Dr. Graham, who is conducting research for Pacific Northwest Bell Telephone, has research grants from the Public Health Commission and the graduate council.

Graduates Assist Community Businesses

The successful business man can not learn everything in the classroom. To give the student a better working experience, OSU's graduate school of business has sent two or three man teams into community business to research various problems within the companies. Conclusions are made, reports written and recommendations presented.

The school of Business and Technology has expanded its curriculum to meet the needs of its students. Along with a master of Business Administration, OSU has added an M.S. in Management Science this year. The program is designed to prepare graduates for managerial positions requiring a combination of advanced-level managerial skills and knowledge of modern mathematical decision-making techniques. The business school has invited foreign instructors to present a larger scope of world business.

Student Teaching: A Transitional Role

Don Coleman, a senior in music education, is doing his student teaching at Corvallis High School. He has several classes, including girls' glee and the full choir shown below.

Teaching to Teach

Mary Jo Stopp helps her fifth graders.

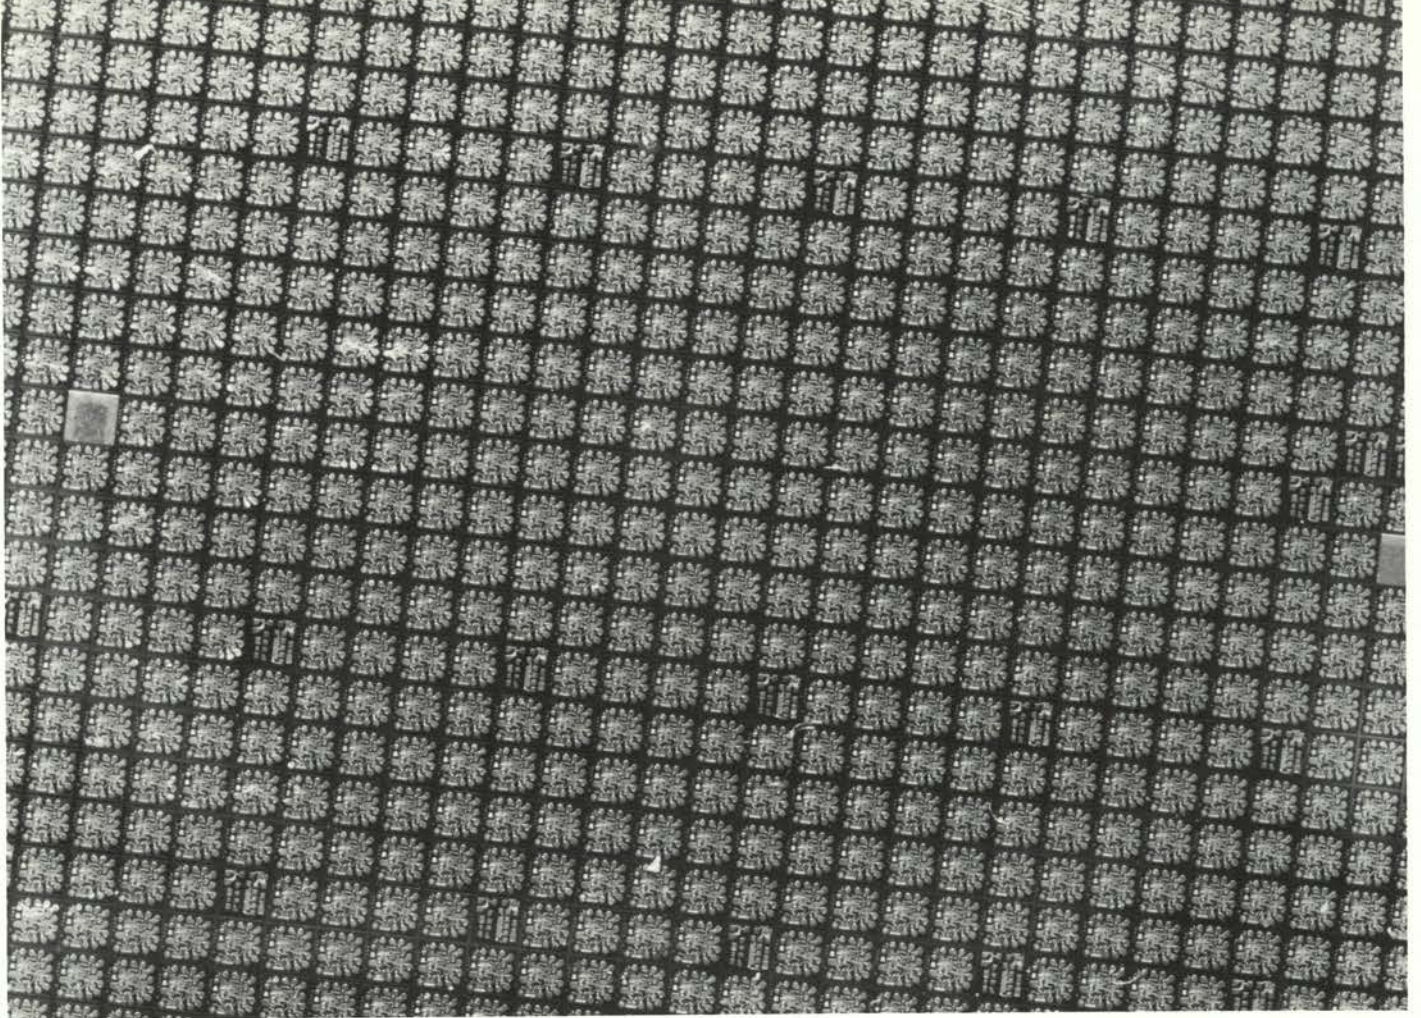

Readin', Writin', and 'Rithmetic - education is more than that. Four years are spent in teaching our future teachers to communicate with the student.

Student teaching, which is done during the senior year, provides a background of experience and offers a chance to apply all the concepts, principles, and techniques that the student himself has been learning.

A day never goes by without some crisis, large or small, which he must be prepared to handle effectively. Helping them with their boots, teaching them tether ball and how to spell "elephant", drilling them on the soprano part, convincing them to graduate from high school - these are only a few of the demands of the profession. But to a dedicated teacher the rewards are many.

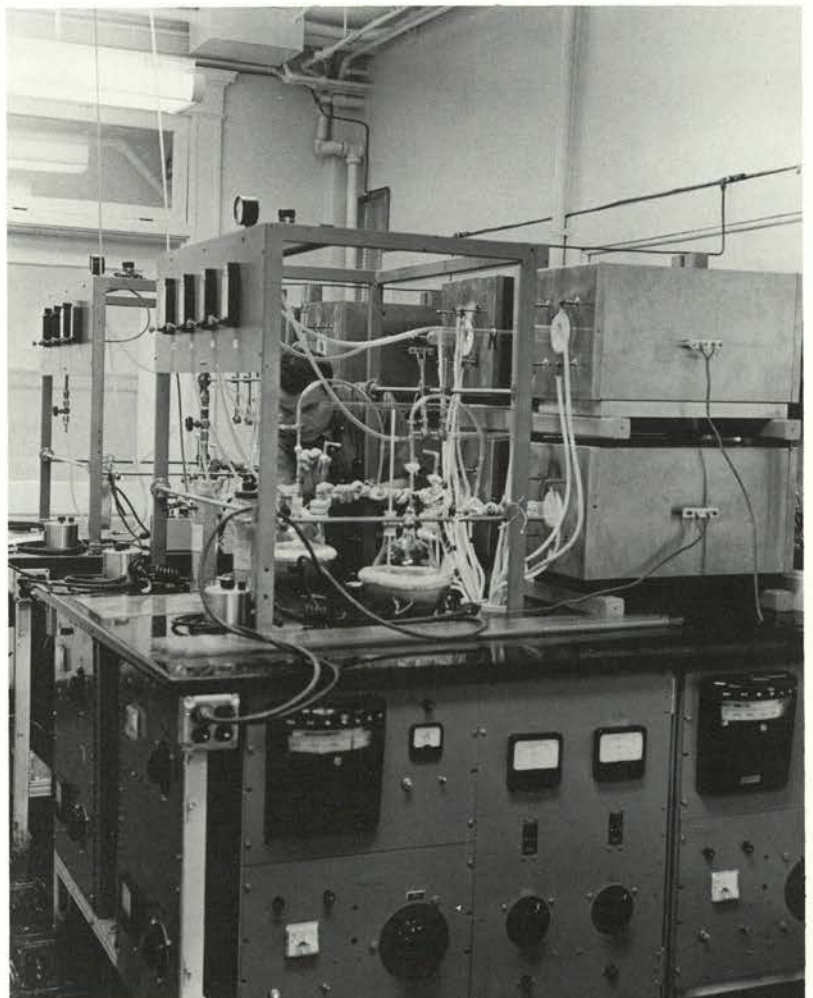

In 1961 the solid state laboratory was started for instruction and research by the electronics department at Oregon State. The laboratory is used for research and courses where the students design and build alloyed and diffused diodes, transistors and integrated circuits.

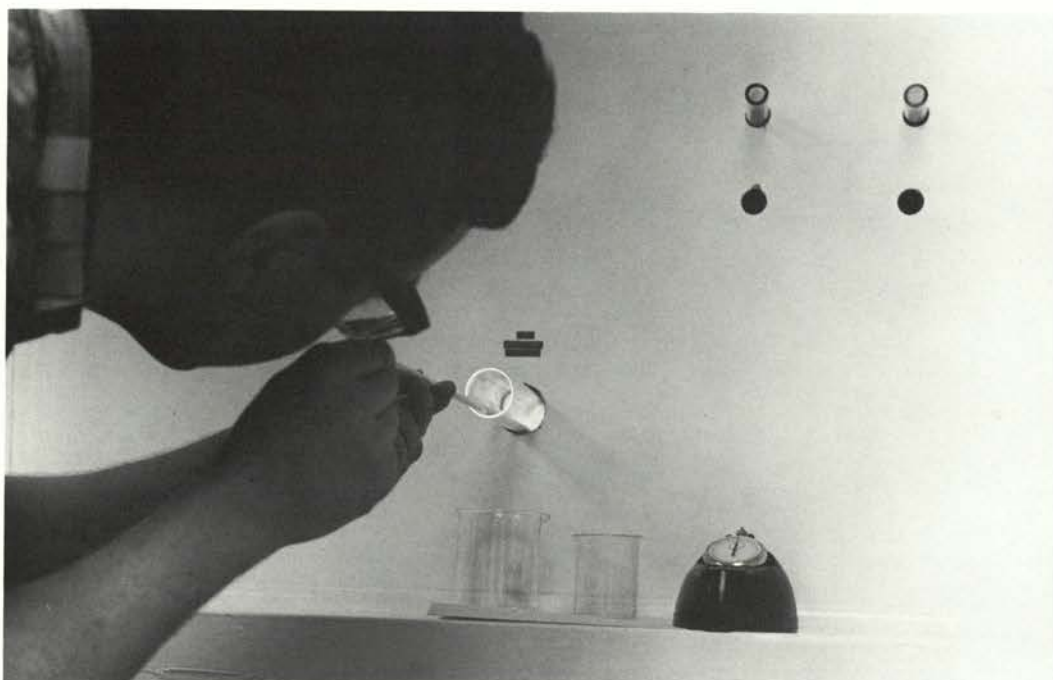

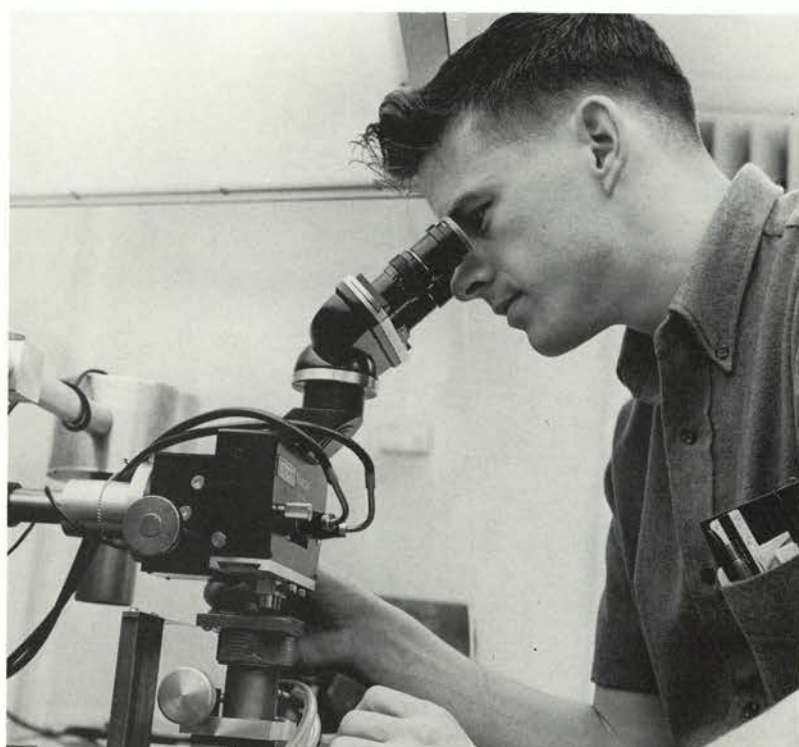

The construction of an integrated circuit starts with a slice of silicon covered with a layer of photoresist. The photoresist, with an isolation pattern placed on top, is exposed to an ultraviolet light which leaves the pattern of the circuit. Through this process and heating at about 1100 degrees centigrade, layers are added until completion.

Circuits Challenge Engineers

Danger-High Voltage

Headed by Dr. Louis N. Stone, the high voltage laboratory is used mainly for research and graduate study. Of prime importance in research are high voltage corona and radio noise. Studies are also being made on high voltage dielectrics and insulation. Initiated in 1920, the laboratory produces up to 35,000 volts.

Foresters Sponsor Spring Thaw

Foresters Battle Beetles

Oregon's plentiful forests are constantly being plagued by forest insects. The Douglas-fir bark beetle annually costs Oregon's timber industry millions of dollars. The damage comes when a female beetle invades a downed log and tunnels into the wood to lay its eggs. In a population explosion the beetles must move to standing timber. Dark stains and tunnels lower the market value of the wood.

Now, however, OSU scientists feel they may be close to controlling the beetle by using his own species' attractive material against him. Dr. J. A. Rudinsky stands beside equipment, bottom right, that gives off the female's odor. The beetles are caught in a net when they swarm around the source of the odor, near right. They can then be studied in a controlled situation, far right.

Theories of how trees resist beetle attacks and how food and water move up and down trees are essential before researchers can develop useful guides for better control of forest insects.

Home Ec Students Study Child Development

Study involving the nursery school is one of the many phases in the School of Home Economics. Located on campus, the Orchard Street Nursery School is an extension of the child development department, which allows students to observe and to aid the teacher. The children are chosen from a large list of applicants to assure a variety of family situations, such as religion, number in the family, etc.

Providing a general education in a variety of areas, the School of Home Economics is also looking ahead to the professions. A wide choice of fields is open to the student, including foods, clothing, family life, research, extension, education, management, and equipment. Regardless of which she chooses, her knowledge and service will be useful in bettering family life in all areas.

Creativity With Muslin

These Home Economics students are enrolled in a Flat Pattern and Draping course in the Department of Clothing and Textiles. In the class they learn techniques in designing and drafting patterns in a series of steps beginning with an idea draped in muslin and ending with a professional-type pattern.

Jo Anne Werth and Judith Carnahan fit their half-size models.

Language Labs Prepare for Studies Abroad.

Mr. Monroe, technician of the language lab, spends many hours repairing lab equipment.

Studying abroad has rapidly become a favorite and practical activity among Oregon State students. Many have attended the University of Pavia in Italy and plans are now formulating for similar programs in Germany and Japan. Studying in such environments enables students to "broaden their outlooks" and to see their specific work from a "different angle," explained Dr. Kraft, Language department head.

Oregon State's language lab is unique in that it is a remote controlled, monitored system in which students may progress at their own rate. With the monitor system, instructors may listen, aid, and point out mistakes which students can not recognize.

The tapes are used by over 800 students at least twice a week, putting over 4,000 hours on before repairs are necessary.

With the addition of Spanish as a major and more in sight, expansion of the lab to 90 booths is planned for this summer.

Smiths Go Down in History

Professors Cairns K. Smith and Robert W. Smith are most representative of Oregon State ideals. Together they reflect goals of outstanding scholarship and superior teaching. Together they will also represent almost half a century on the OSU campus when both retire this spring.

Professor R. W. Smith is noted for numerous publications including his well-received book History of Coeur d' Alene Mining War, 1892. He has made several extensive tours of Latin America, bringing its civilization closer to Oregon State through a large slide and film library.

Professor C. K. Smith brought us northern contact when he left his Canadian homeland for OSU. He has been cited several times for his teaching abilities, including the Outstanding Teacher Award and the Mosser Award from the Oregon State Legislature. He has exhibited these abilities in relating "Europe Since 1789" to OSU students.

The history department has increasingly shown its desire to confront the contemporary scene both at home and abroad. Professor Leonard Aldolf returned this year from Viet Nam where he taught American Studies on a Fulbright Scholarship. His teaching took him to the University of Saigon, a Buddhist university and trips into the highlands.

New Majors for H & SS

The study of man . . . his history . . . his culture . . . his emergence . . . his adaptations . . . this is anthropology. It's not just digging for fossils. It's not just studying ancient skeletons. It involves the physical and biological growth of man, his relation to his changing environment, thus creating a composite picture with total dimensions of man's prehistory and present day conditions.

Anthropology will be an official major next fall. The department has shown impressive signs of growth over the past four years, expanding from one to four professors.

These men have brought with them impressive backgrounds including research in Africa, Latin America, Alaska, the Northwest and and the Willamette Valley.

Mr. Carl Brown inspects ancient skeleton.

This growth in the anthropology department is most representative of the entire Humanities and Social Science School. It is the youngest and the most rapidly growing school at Oregon State. It is only eight years old and yet is teaching over one-third of all credit hours.

Growth this year can be seen in the addition of three new majors . . . Spanish, anthropology, and philosophy. Plans are also in the making for a journalism major.

The ever-continual expansion of this school is most evident, as its main concern is man . . . his history . . . his development . . . and his expression. Perhaps the time will come when we can say, "Yes, we do know all there is to know about man," but for the moment, this proclamation is still far away.

Apothecary Art

The School of Pharmacy's five year curriculum is designed to give the student a sound general education as well as to train him for all positions in the profession of pharmacy.

The school is divided into five distinct departments.

In the Department of Pharmacology students learn the different physiological effects that drugs have on the body.

Through the Pharmaceutical Chemistry department the student learns the different physical and chemical properties of drugs, such as stability, potency, and duration of action of the drug.

In the Department of Pharmacogony the students study drugs that come from natural sources. They study the physical structure of natural drugs through microscopes. They also learn the many methods of identifying and extracting natural drugs.

The Pharmacy Administration Department teaches the students the laws governing pharmacists. It also instructs them in marketing and management techniques.

Through the Pharmaceutical Science Department students learn methods of compounding prescriptions and the proper methods of dispensing them.

Pharmaceutical Science students work together to test the solubility of sodium borate.

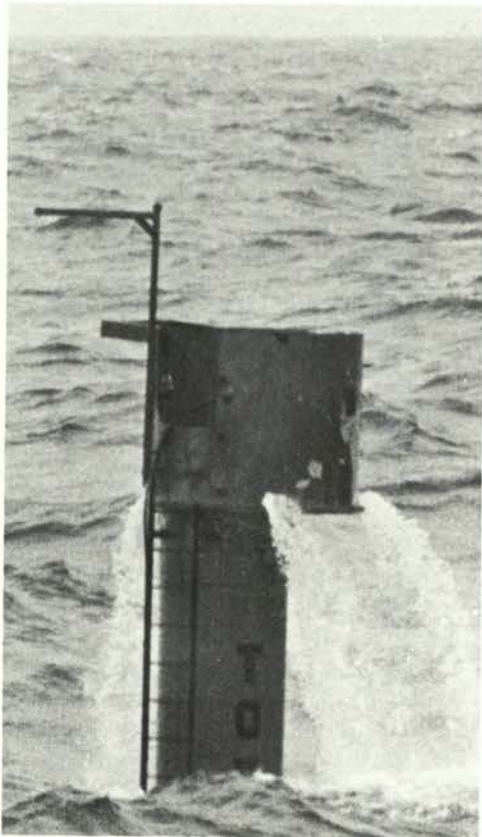

Dr. Maulhauser of Pharmaceutical Science department instructs students in determining sodium chloride equivalents.

OSU's campus by the sea is in its third year of existence. The marine science center, located in Newport, carries out research and teaching programs in marine biology, fisheries, water resources and pollution, engineering and oceanography. The Oregon State "navy" is comprised mainly of the Yaquina, right, and the Paiute. The Yaquina, a 190 foot, 900 ton "laboratory afloat", is at sea with several scientists and oceanographers nearly 250 days a year.

The thirty-ton, 184-foot buoy called the Totem, below, was developed by the OSU Department of Oceanography. It is towed out to sea in the horizontal position. When forced to a vertical position, it serves as a stable platform at sea for mounting meteorological instruments.

Campus By-The-Sea Marks Third Year

Marine Science Research Benefits Coastal Economy

Within the confines of the OSU Marine Science Center many varied research projects are underway.

Shellfish resources are of much concern to the OSU scientists and the Fish Commission biologists. Dr. Willy Breeze is experimenting with European oysters and trying to find an environment on the Oregon coast that will be suitable for them. Other experiments deal with algae as food for the shellfish.

Biologist for the state Fish Commission, Paul Reed, is studying temperature and salinity conditions in the ocean that affect the survival of crabs. His research may permit specialists to predict good or bad crab seasons several years in advance and to pinpoint causes of high mortality in the crab population.

Scientists from the Marine Science Center instructed teachers on methods for using the intertidal area for an outdoor laboratory.

Oceanography students spend at least ten days per year at sea collecting research materials and data.

Dr. Willy Breeze checks growth of algae as food for young oysters and clams.

Extension specialists and agents work with Oregon fishermen and processors.

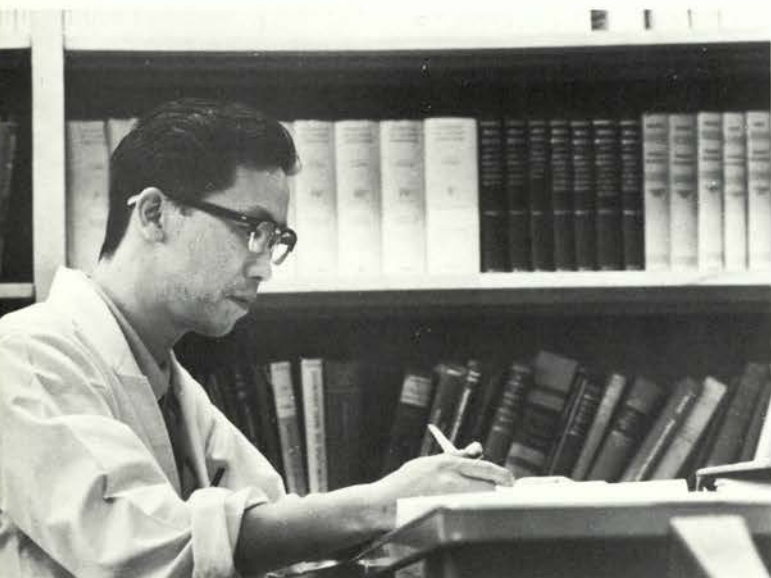

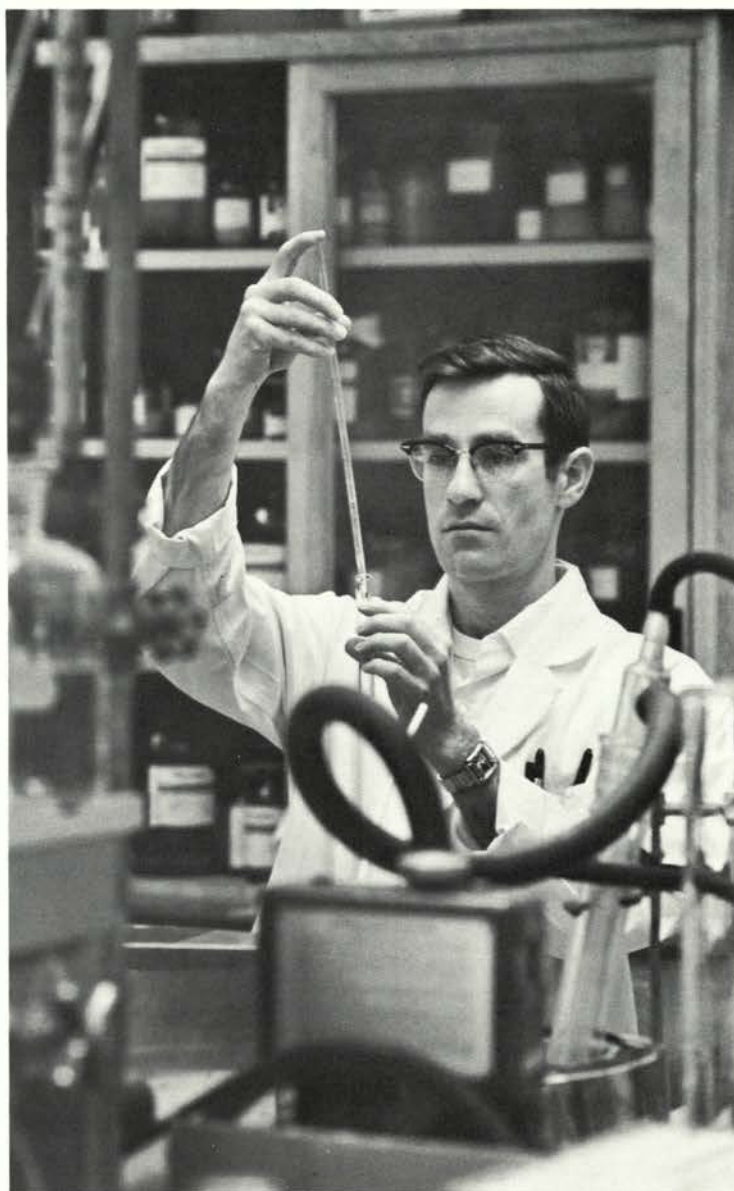

Fisheries scientists culture oysters to develop technology for development of Oregon oyster industry.

Science Offers New Graduate Field

Advanced study leading to a M.S. or a Ph.D. degree is now offered by the Department of Biochemistry and Biophysics. Current research includes studies in the areas of electron transport and respiratory enzymology; insect and plant biochemistry; protein and carbohydrate chemistry; intermediary metabolism; chemical embryology; physico-chemico studies on proteins and nucleic acids. The Department also has associated divisions such as the Laboratory for Respiratory Enzymology in the Science Research Institute and the Department of Agricultural Chemistry.

To qualify for graduate study in biochemistry an applicant should have an undergraduate major in chemistry; for graduate study in biophysics an undergraduate major in mathematics or physics is recommended. Students entering the department have varied backgrounds. Consequently, programs of study vary considerably from student to student. The student is required to engage in research, write a thesis, and master original literature on his own initiative.

MILITARY

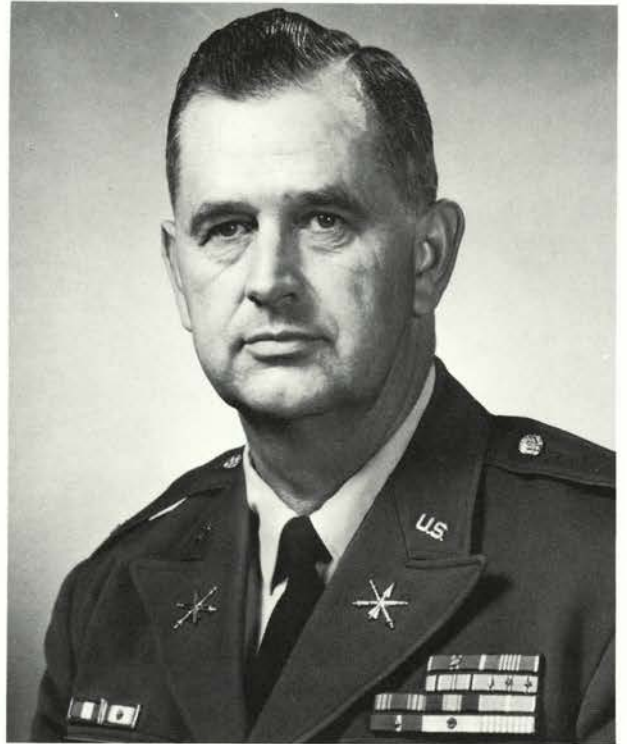

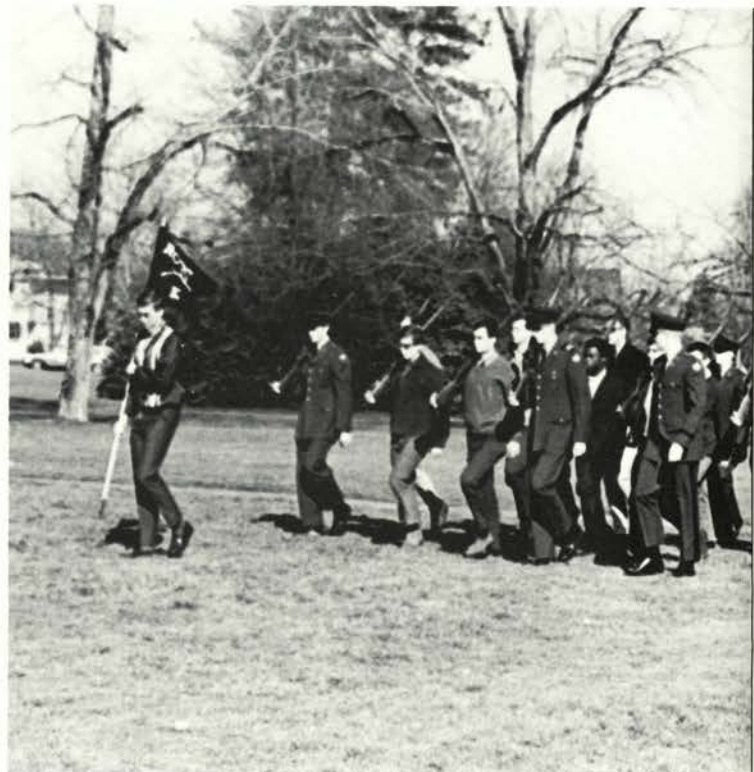

Veterans' Day Parade

Once a year veterans past, present, and perhaps future are honored formally throughout the nation. ROTC units from nearby Oregon State University participate in the annual Albany Veteran's Day Parade. This year the neighboring town was privileged to have California's Governor Ronald Reagan along with Oregon's Governor Thomas McCall.

Col. Clayton A. Shaw
Professor of Military Science

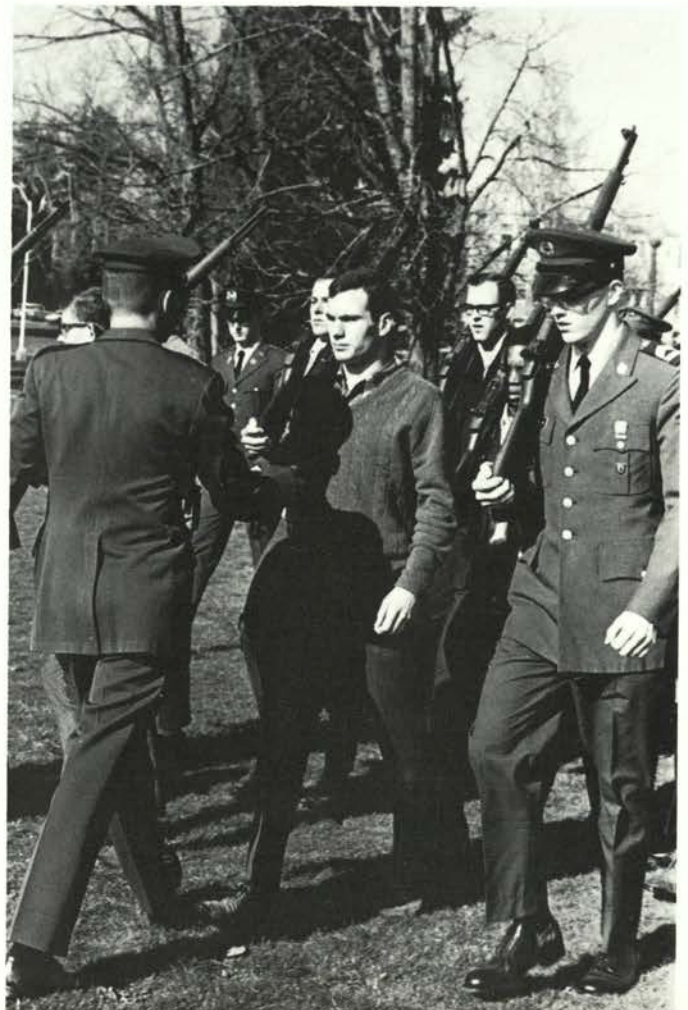

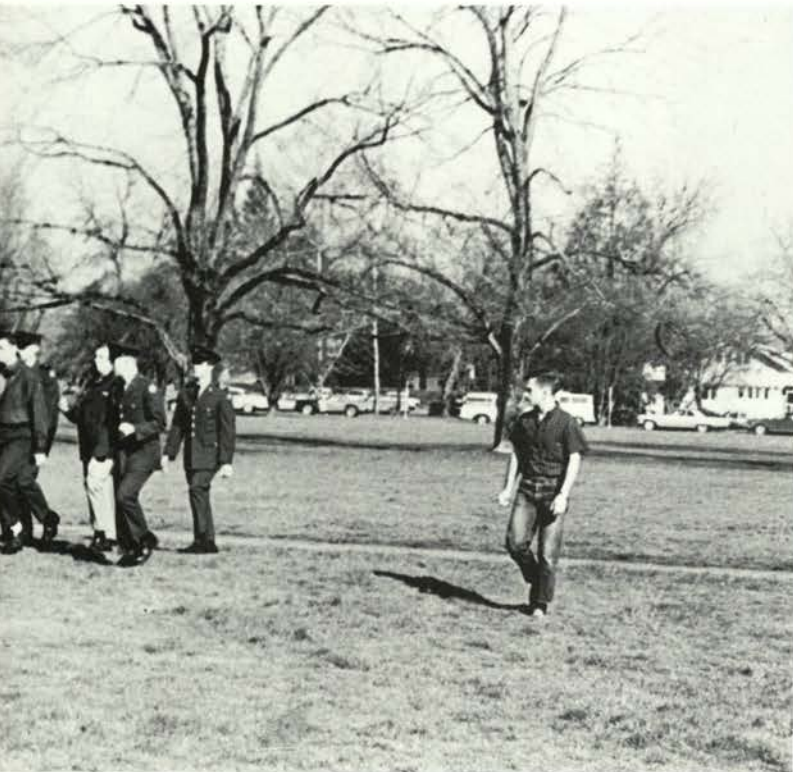

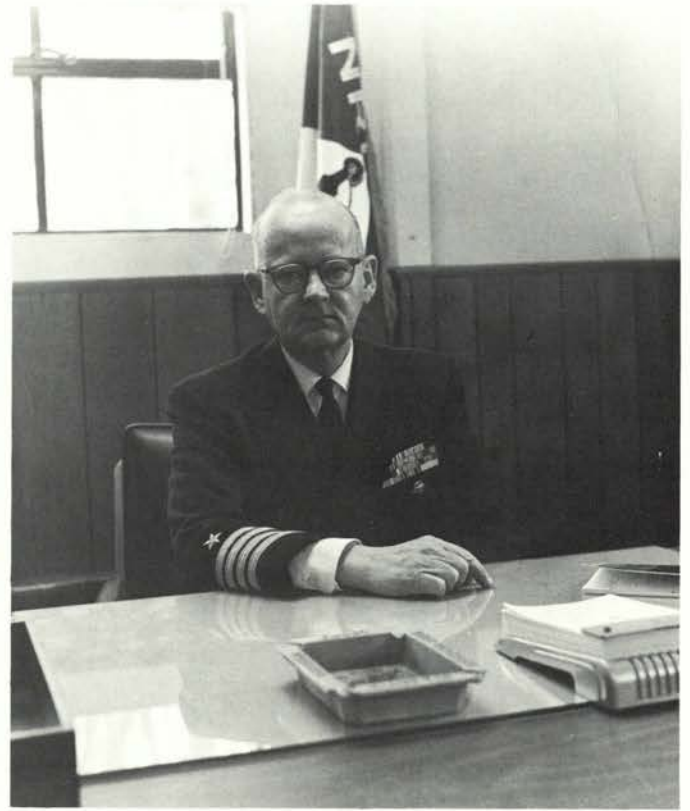

Lieutenants-to-be

The General Military Science curriculum offers a total program of study which seeks to avoid the piecemeal, somewhat unrelated approach in the former branch curricula. It deals almost exclusively with military subjects. There are only two blocks of instruction which attempt to relate this essentially military training to considerations external to the armed forces. The first of these is the 30-hour freshman course in American military history. The second is a 10-hour unit in the sophomore year dealing with the role of the U.S. in world affairs. The Army does not include courses or materials that duplicate instruction normally provided in regular academic departments.

The Army, moreover, makes no attempt to prescribe the courses that a student selects outside the ROTC program. An officer candidate may major in any subject that he wishes.

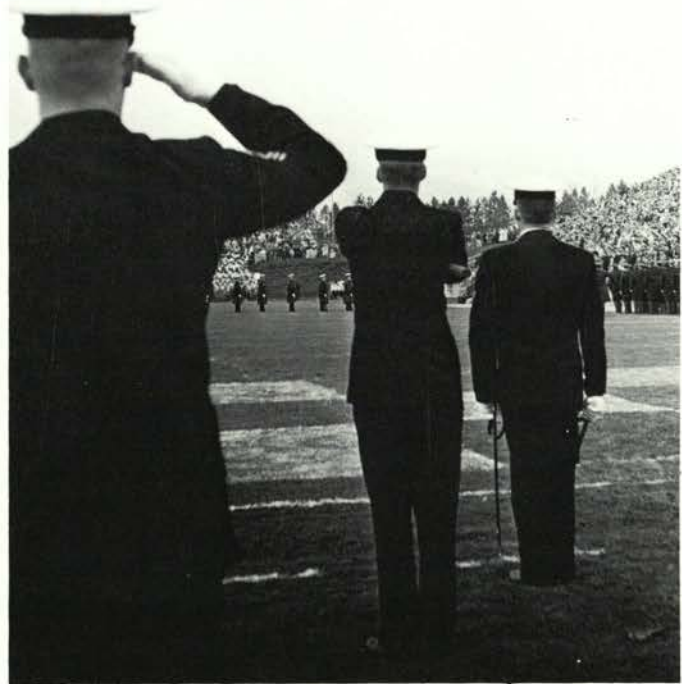

Captain John H. Hitchcock,
Professor of Naval Science

Cruises Prepare Men For Shipboard Life

The Navy curriculum concentrates on the service itself-on its weapons, its missiles, organization and operations-and upon the responsibilities of the junior officer. The Navy uses history as a means of stimulating the interest of the beginning student in the service. In seeking to prepare the NROTC trained officer for immediate line duty at sea, the curriculum is thus more concerned with actual techniques of the service than the general programs of the other services. The young ensign is taught to act like an officer in situations involving superiors and also enlisted personnel; he is acquainted with the weapons and equipment that he must handle; and he knows the special jargon of his service. This, the Navy argues, is the essential minimum required by the peculiar circumstances of shipboard duty where contacts are intimate and where, especially on smaller ships, duties assigned must be performed effectively.

The Air Force ROTC units are a principle source of active-duty and career officers in flight and navigation positions. The curriculum is essentially a pre-professional undergraduate program, a first stage followed by an intensive flight or navigation training during which the young officer attains the technical skill for his career in the Air Force.

The Air Force seeks not only to motivate students toward flight training and an Air Force career, but also to assure that they would receive instruction in certain non-technical subjects deemed significant for professional growth and development.

Unconventional Warriors

Unconventional warfare and guerilla tactics have become the only methods of fighting the undeclared war. Men must, at times, resort to primitive and animal instincts to survive the unprecedented methods of the new enemy. These methods are based on the formulations of the supposed head of the insurgent forces in our country's present conflict. The training, lacking the necessary components of the real war, can present but a minimum of requirements needed to preserve the lives and integrity of the forces involved in an unconventional war.

ASOSU Senate

Jim Huegeli, 1st Vice-President; Bobbie Mikkelson, 2nd Vice-President.

The goal set for this year's Associated Students of Oregon State University Senate was expansion. This expansion took the form of an enlarged speakers program in addition to the striving for more student rights and academic freedoms.

Among other issues, the Senate discussed the pass-fail system, required class attendance and a new housing review board.

An Inter-institutional Student Committee on Higher Education was proposed. Such a committee would work with the government. In relation to the betterment of higher education, a rally was held in Salem before the capitol to show student concern over the new state budget.

ASOSU sponsored a Halloween Party again this year for Corvallis youngsters. Portland rallies were held to create spirit for OSU's athletics.

Supreme Courts Of Student Activities

Student Activities Committee

With the responsibility of overseeing all student activities on campus, this committee was continually kept busy handling petitions and helping to set up charters for new organizations. With the idea that activities are important for everyone, the committee helped organizations with their individual policies.

Educational Activities Committee

Composed of faculty and students, the Educational Activities Committee was responsible for suggesting policies about campus educational activities to the ASOSU Senate. They were also responsible for clearing all budgets associated with ASOSU.

Associated Women Students worked to boost their image this year by increasing its realm of activities. The year opened with a "Football For Females" talk given by Dee Andros. Women's Week and a Bridal Fashion Show highlighted the remainder of the year. Play reviews were a new addition to AWS activities along with visiting vocational speakers. AWS also donated a vocational library and some new furniture to the Memorial Union.

Freshmen Get Off to an Early Start

The freshmen began working early this year with an energetic group of officers leading an ambitious class. The freshmen sprang forth with the possibility of an exchange with the University of Oregon. They also discussed a class concert and dance along with the annual Rook-Sophomore Picnic.

They Carry On

As the classes progress through their four years activity increases as was made evident by the abundant opportunities for junior leadership. This year's junior class carried out their responsibilities fully with Junior Weekend featuring the Brothers Four, the Junior-Senior Prom, Beaver Benefit, and a Junior Class Dance. In addition they sponsored the March of Dimes and a child in Viet Nam.

Besides continuing its numerous traditions, the Memorial Union initiated several new activities this year. A Tension Release was held every Friday afternoon to begin the weekend. Campus talent was provided, while the dating game also entertained the spectators.

Major Match, a freshman orientation program, was held in the form of an open house winter term. Student counselors and representatives of various honoraries were on hand to answer questions about their schools.

The Memorial Union continued with its many art exhibits, forums, car rallies, and open houses. Besides providing a home for most activities and meetings, the MU hosted a Christmas and a Halloween party.

Junior Panhellenic and the Junior IFC Council worked together this year with the purpose of building a more united Greek system. Representatives from each house brought together their problems and the group attempted to solve them. Projects for the year included the sale of Santagrams by Junior Panhellenic and the sponsoring of the Junior IFC mixer by the fraternity pledge council.

Panhellenic and IFC Initiate Greek Week

Greek Week was introduced onto the OSU campus this year for the first time. Its program consisted of speakers, projects, and a concert dance combination while its purpose was to create a better attitude toward the Greek System.

Greeks also worked together on a special rush program and on specific problems related to alcohol, hazing, and social probation. They held many joint cultural exchanges always striving for unity through communication and interaction.

Both Panhellenic and I.F.C. achieved recognition on their own this year. Two delegates represented OSU at the National Panhellenic Conference where they received a commendation award. IFC had equal success with their IFC Sing.

Panhellenic Officers: Top to bottom; Robin McKibban, Rush Delegate; Sarah Cummins, Vice President; Phyllis Case, President; Nancy Buffam, Secretary; Ardy Macy, Treasurer.

Halls Promote Spirit and Enthusiasm

The residence halls worked together this year in promoting spirit and cohesiveness through their Residence Hall Councils.

They worked together in the planning of special events as Moms and Dads Weekends and in minor events as the visitation hours held in the dorms. This year OSU was host to the Oregon-Washington Resident Halls Conference in which many mutual problems were brought up and solved.

The dorms sponsored spirit activities including a shower marathon, a run to the Oregon-OSU football game, and a car rally.

Cooperative Unity

In an effort to get to know each other and promote cooperative unity, this year's Inter-Cooperative Council organized and participated in a wide assortment of activities. These included a Halloween party, a ski trip, several exchange dinners and the annual ICC dance held in the fall. They continued work on the Sulphur Springs clean-up project and conducted a program instigating revisions in the ICC constitution.

Co-op Supplies Food to Greeks

Food sits waiting to be delivered.

One of the only real food co-operatives in the country, the Cooperative Managers Association supplies food and services to the fraternity and sorority houses.

Every month one representative from each house attends a banquet held by the association to discuss future prices and business plans.

A Friendly Face In a New Place

This year brought about the merging of the Cosmopolitan Club with People to People. Through joint efforts, they were able to expand their program to bring about a wider assortment of activities and to communicate with a more extensive group of people.

With the opening of school in the fall, came a series of films and coffee hours featuring such speakers as Dr. Kirkendahl. Throughout the two remaining terms, cultural exchanges were held. An International Games Night highlighted the year.

In the Days When I Went To OSC . . .

The object of the OSU Alumni Association is to stimulate and encourage loyalty in students, graduates and former students, and to develop a sense of responsibility for continued progress in educational programs of the university.

The president of the group is Terry B. Elder '47. The group is in charge of reunions and takes care of graduate and former student records. They also serve OSU in the publication of the Oregon Stater and OSU Scope.

The Class of 1937 reunites to chat about "the good old times."

Memories of those glorious events are remembered by all as Bill Nelson, Terry Elder, and Scram Graham point out.

The Beaver attempted to portray a more casual picture this year, reflecting all sides of university life. Blessed with an abundance of photographers, an overflowing coffee pot, and a brand new out-of-state printer, the staff members began work early last spring, but still found themselves typing, cropping pictures, and making layouts until the night after the deadline.

There were headaches...What do you mean the photographer didn't show up?... Yes, you do have to pay for your page.... The headline doesn't fit...and late, late Wednesday night meetings. But there were good parts... Free coffee... Friendly faces in MU 209... Staff gatherings... Trips to California... and best of all a 1968 Beaver.

Barometer: 'Instant Replay' of Campus Life

"Are you running with me, Benny?", a column by editor Larry Austin, cartoons by Sam Mallicoat, and excellent photography by Craig Landon all improved interest in the OSU newspaper.

Barometer editorials called for such items as an all-school vote on the Vietnam war and a lawyer on campus to advise students of their rights.

Competition with the U. of O.'s Daily Emerald included a staff football game played the same weekend as the other "Civil War." The Barometer won, 25-2. And for the third straight year, the Barometer masthead appeared on the front page of the Emerald because of the OSU win over Oregon.

Publications Board Formulates Policy - Finally

Irwin Harris - Manager of OSU Student Activities

The Student Publications Committee, policy making body for all student publications, was headed by Fred Zwahlen this year. Although the board has been in existence for many years, a formal statement of policy, determining just how much authority it possessed, was adopted only this year.

Hesitation was the word when a course review was presented for recognition as an official student publication. The committee questioned the proposal knowing that such recognition could result in possible legal difficulties.

Advisor Honored

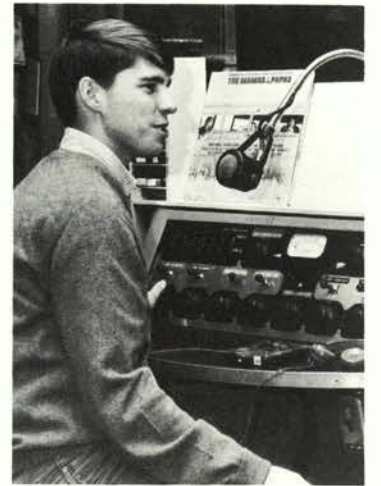

Irwin Harris, manager of OSU student activities, was named the outstanding college newspaper advisor in the nation for 1967 by the National Council of College Publication Advisors. He has served as faculty advisor to both the Barometer and Beaver since 1947.

Ted Vandehey, program director; Boyd Levett, station manager; Bob Kuhn, music director.

KBVR: Voice of OSU

KBVR-FM is the university-owned, student-operated radio voice of OSU. To provide broadcasting experience in all its phases is the station's main goal. KBVR occupies part of the second floor in Shepard Hall; offices, studios, library, and transmitter are located there. Participation may be either for credit or for the students' own interest, on a club basis.

Boyd Levett conducts a staff meeting.

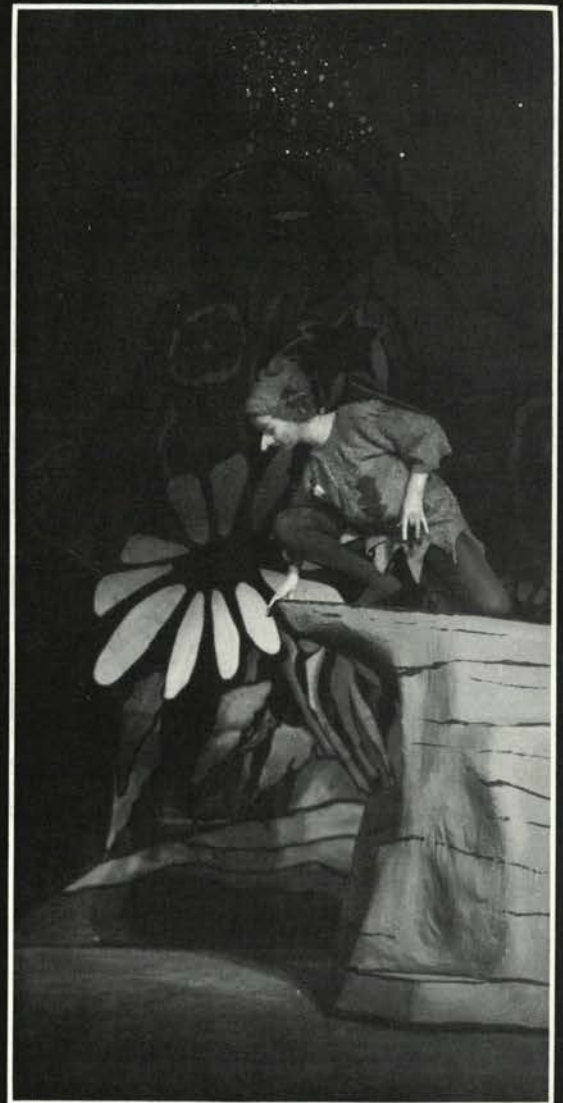

FINE ARTS

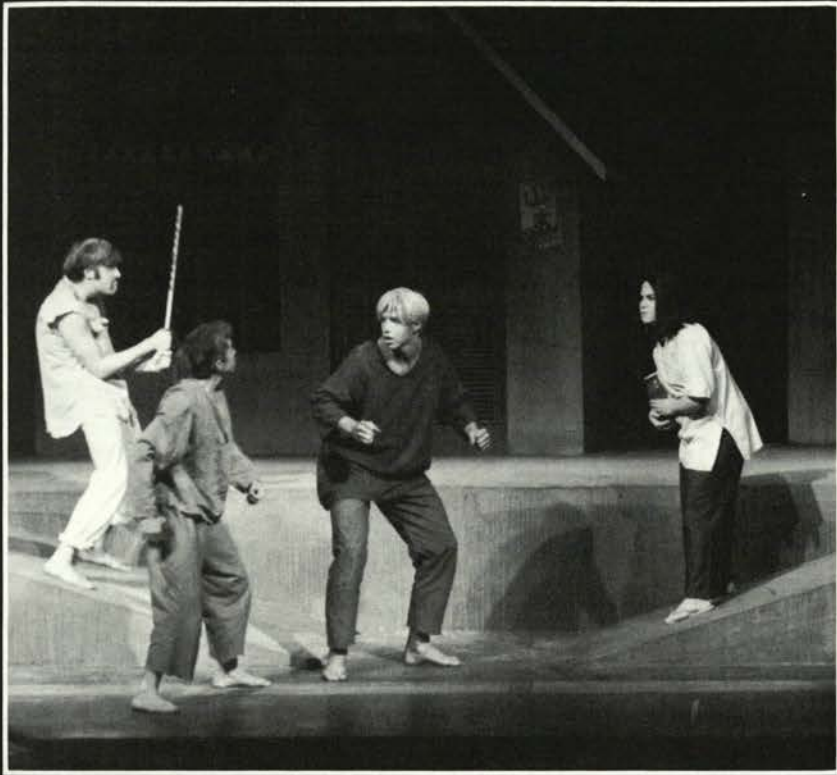

A Midsummer Night's Dream: Magic, Mistakes and Humor

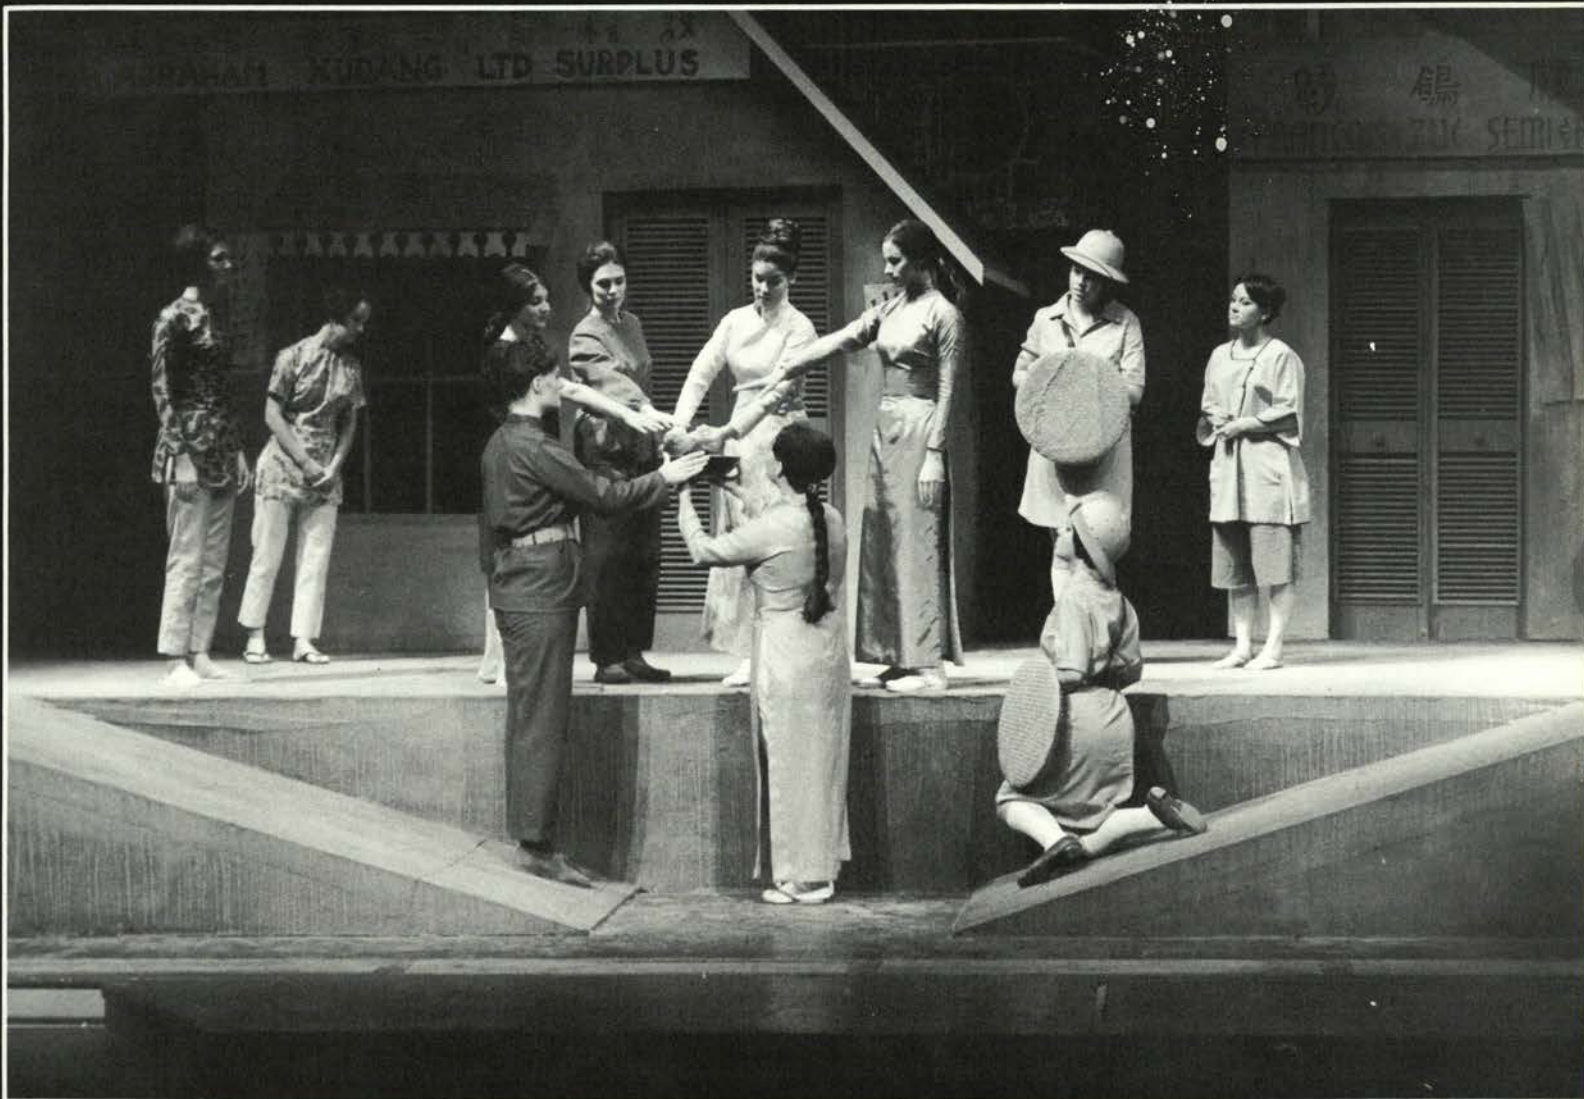

Shakespeare's first successful comedy was presented to OSU students in the Mitchell Playhouse production of A Midsummer Night's Dream. Four plots are interwoven through the magic, mistakes and humor of the characters. Because of the demand for tickets the play was extended to include an extra night's performance.

Lysistrata: Ribald War Satire

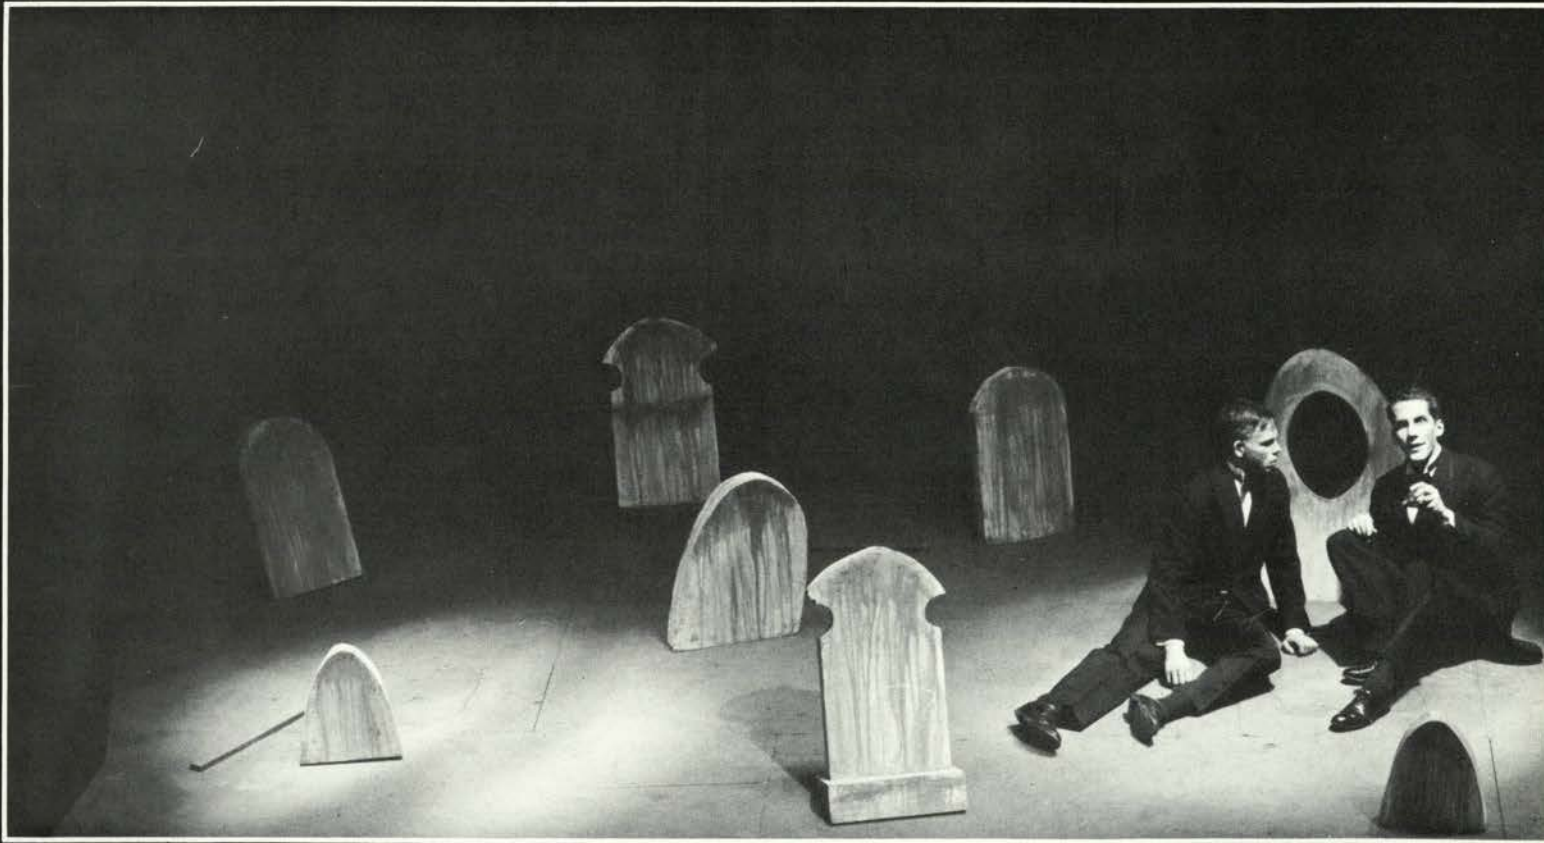

Outstanding is the word for the production of Lysistrata given by the dramatic students under the direction of C. V. Bennett. Earthy and topical in the Greek tradition, the women band together to try to end the war and bring their husbands home.

The Sea Gull: Character Drama

The Sea Gull, one of the greatest plays by Russia's greatest playwright, Chekhov, was given fall term in the Mitchell Playhouse Theater. In the words of Director W. J. Robertson, "Chekhov's concept of these people demonstrates his genius and insight into character motivation."

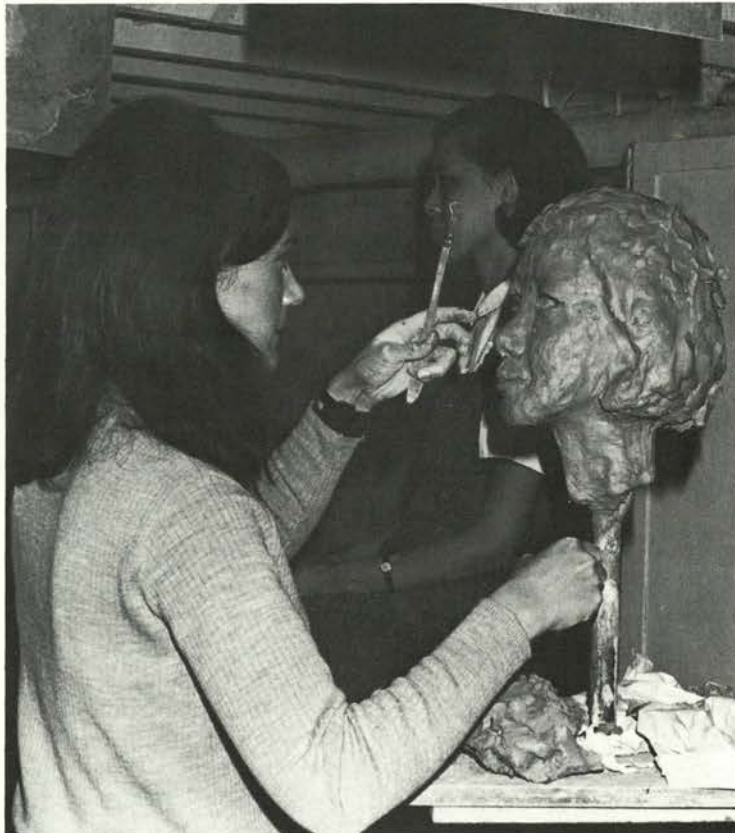

The Adding Machine: Futility of Modern Man

The Adding Machine, a significant example of U.S. expressionism, was presented winter term under the direction of E. S. Cortright. The oppressive nature of the play was emphasized through the creative abilities of the set designer, Alex Wallace.

Mime Troupe: Expressionism at a High

The San Francisco Mime Troupe presented L'Amant Militaire, a satire on war, to Oregon State students fall term. After much debate, lower campus was chosen as the site for the presentation. Returning winter term, the Mime Troupe gave their interpretation of Olive Pits at the Anti-Military Ball. In the style of the Mime Troupe words sharpen and refine but the substance of meaning is found in the action of the characters.

Art: Intangible to Tangible

Art provides a means for enjoyment and personal satisfaction. Courses, displays and the MU craft shop were open to all students. Winter term, students had the opportunity to view a world exhibition of photography. These photos on the theme What Is Man provide speaking symbols of our existence.

Choralaires members: Steven Baxter, Clayton Beish, Edward Blez, David Blumhagen, Douglas Boleyn, William Brown, Steven Brunsvold, Jerald Burgess, Don Coleman, Pamela Conn, Cynthia Cox, Ronald Dobosy, Keith Ehrensing, Peter Ellingson, Charles Encell, Judith Fjelland, Ronald Frayo, Sparkle Fuller, Donna Fullmer, Judith Gadtke, Daniel Green, James Griffin, David Gross, Karen Haus, Harold Holub, Larry Hubble, Patricia Jackson, Michael Jeffries, Gloria Johnson, Owen Johnston, Maryann Jones, Bonnie Kriens, Nancy Lincoln, Roberta Long, Barbara Merritt, Joanne Morris, Arnold Myhra, Barbara Neff, Timothy Ngai, Kathy Nordahl, Janice Ogilvie, Janet Parr, Ann Poling, Connie Rea, Susan Rohrbough, Lynn Rossiter, Paul Sanders, Debra Scranton, Rebecca Shogren, Scott Skinner, Connie Strickland, Paul Tamura, Terri Tibbutt, Carol Tillinghast, Leslie Walter, Linda Walter, Jan Ward, Catherine Watson, Marla Whitson, Bonnie Wilson, Marvin Wirfs.

And the Beat Goes On . . .

Highlighting musical activities on campus this year, the choruses and chamber orchestra directed by Robert Wall, gave their annual presentation of Messiah. Included in fall term activities was a joint concert of the OSU Chamber Orchestra and the OSU Madrigal Singers. Works spanning five centuries of music history were presented. Choralaires (shown, left page), the University Chorus and the orchestra again combined their efforts for The City of Brass production spring term.

Precision Percussion

Music, music and more music kept the OSU marching band rehearsing in preparation for their scheduled performances. As always, the orange and black clad music-makers were on hand to cheer with OSU fans at athletic events. Under the leadership of the late Ted Mesang, who was in his 19th year as director of OSU bands, the musicians were an appreciated addition at half-time. Ted Mesang was a genius in his own right. The band will be different without him.

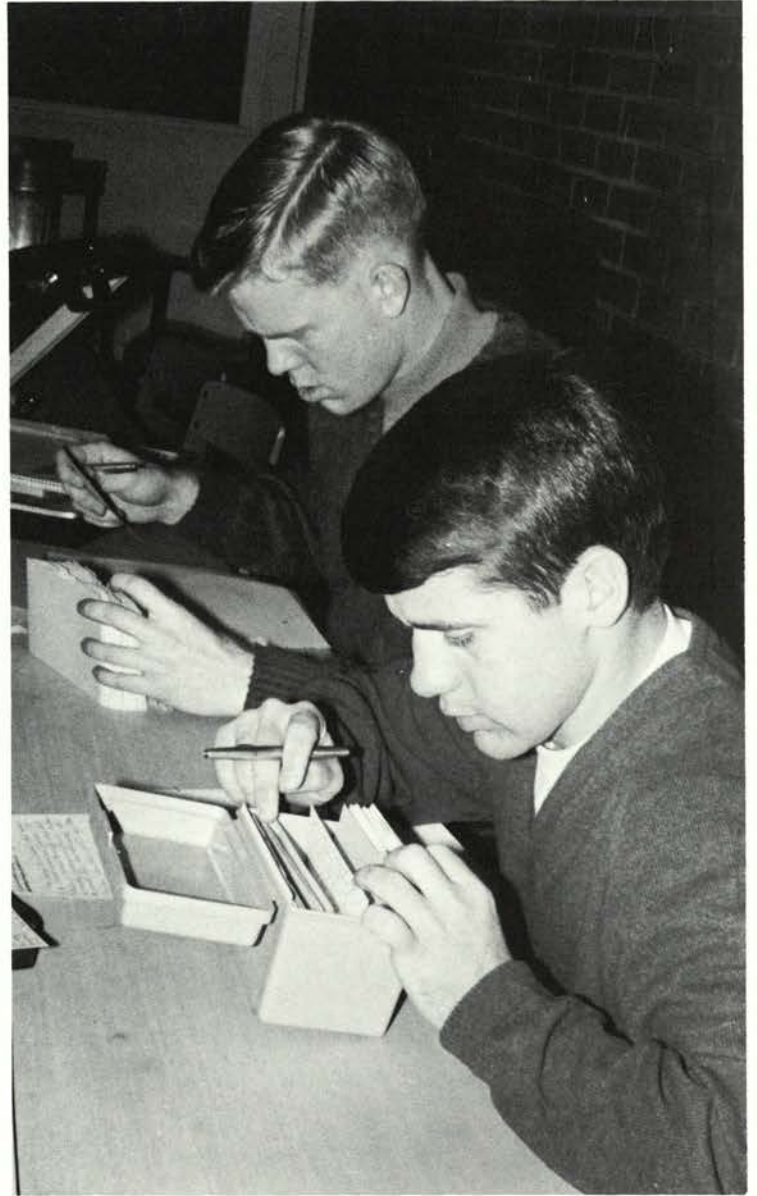

Feeling, Form and Figures

Graceful is the key word for Orchesis, the OSU modern dance honorary. Orchesis presented recitals throughout the year to share their interpretations.

Forensics: Files, Fatigue and Fun

This year the OSU forensics team participated in both national and regional tournaments. Activities include debate, oratory, extemporary speaking and after-dinner speaking. This year the squad sponsored the Cambridge debaters.

Debaters from Cambridge pause during a sparkling performance at OSU.

Top Honors Won

American Institute of Industrial Engineers

AIIIE helped bridge the gap between academics and engineering in today's industry by sponsoring speakers from corporations on the west coast and field trips to Oregon industries.

The chapter won top honors at the AIIIE regional conference at Palo Alto and sponsored preparation courses for engineer-in-training exams.

Other activities included football and faculty-student baseball games and the senior banquet spring term.

Sponsor Drug Program

American Pharmaceutical Association

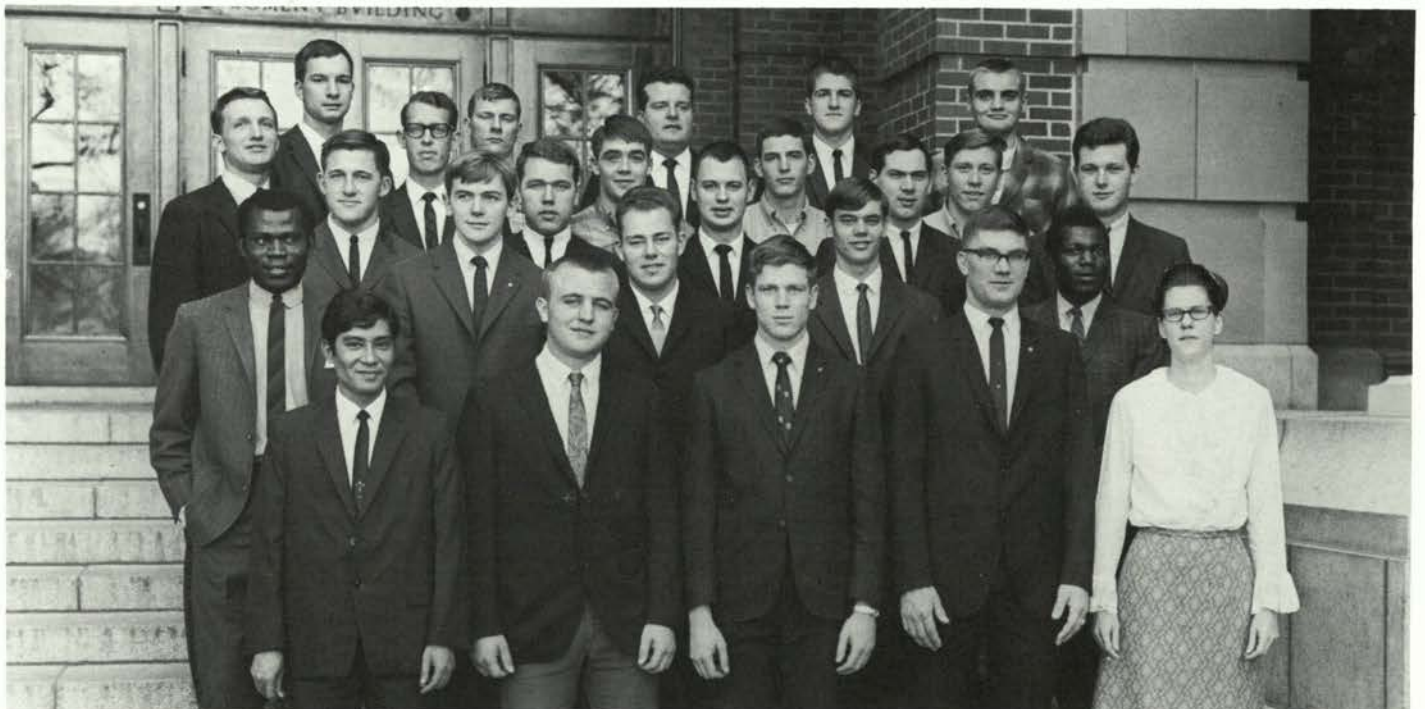

The activities of the American Pharmaceutical Association are many and varied. Its most publicized event was the Drug Abuse Week on the OSU campus. The program was well attended by students and offered several authorities for the campus to hear. Other activities include speeches from pharmacists in hospitals and the armed forces. The group also attended a Hospital Pharmacy Convention in Portland.

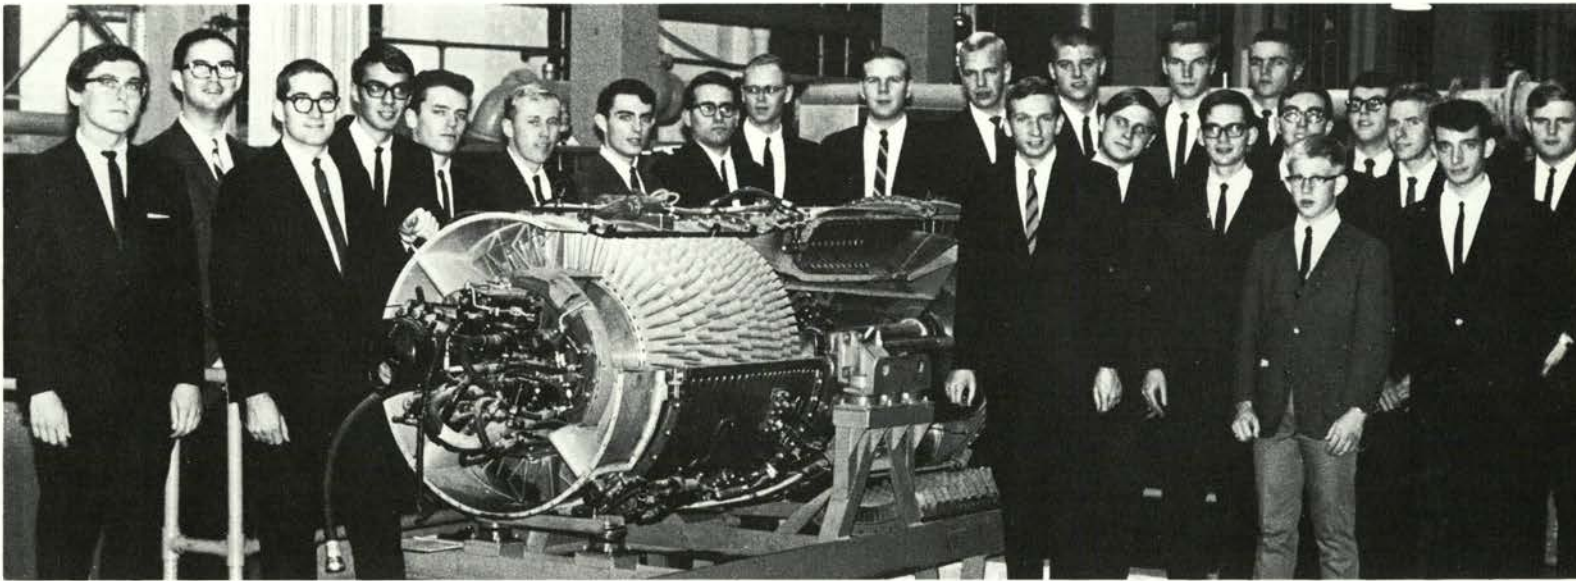

Speakers Reflect Interests

"Omark North"

American Society of Mechanical Engineers

The ASME pursued a variety of topics related to mechanical engineering. Highlights of the year included a study of the equipment in the newly-constructed Rogers Hall and a joint meeting with the AIAA to welcome a member of the Boeing SST staff. Spring term the society planned "Omark North," which was a field trip to the Omark Industries plant in Portland.

Keeping up With Builders

Association of Building Construction

The Association of Building Construction Students maintains the eighth student chapter of the National Association of Home Builders. The club promotes interest in building construction through close relationship between student and industry. Its main aim is to keep abreast of the industry through guest speakers, field trips, and participation with the Corvallis Home Builders.

Missionaries Aided

Baptist Student Union

Baptist Student Union in cooperation with BSU's from all major campuses in the Northwest sent 19 student summer missionaries to various parts of the United States and Canada. Funds to pay the expenses of these students were raised by BSU members from Oregon and Washington. The local chapter met weekly to discuss contemporary ideas of religion in conjunction with bible study and social events. Conventions, conferences and beach trips added to the active schedule of the Oregon State BSU.

Students, Faculty Mix

Crop Science Club

The Crop Science Club is a student-faculty organization of the Farm Crops Department. The purpose of the club is to provide mutual association, outside of the classroom, between the Crop Science undergraduate students and the Farm Crops faculty and to develop future leaders in crop science. All offices are held by undergraduate students except for departmental advisors. Revenues are earned by assembling and selling "seed mounts", kits that help agriculture majors identify seeds. Other activities include feature meetings with guest speakers, annual field trips, picnics, and the annual ice cream feed.

4-H'ers Aid Education

4-H Collegiate Club

The Collegiate 4-H Club is a social-service organization that works for the advancement of 4-H. It has contributed to the 4-H education program by conducting county 4-H training days and helping on a TV Action series which taught young 4-H'ers about civil defense.

Trips to Bay Area

Food Technology Club

The Food Technology Club is concerned with furthering the study of food technology on the OSU campus. Each year the club compiles a brochure of graduating seniors in the interest of helping them obtain post-graduate employment. The club sells cider to the Corvallis area, the proceeds of which are partially used for a $100 Wiegand Outstanding Senior Award. Speakers and field trips to processing plants in San Francisco complete the club's yearly program.

United Woodsmen

Forestry Club

The O.S.U. Forestry Club furnishes the 270 members with an opportunity to meet and work with men of a common interest. Activities included in OSU's largest club from the smallest school are the fall term Christmas dance and Turkey shoot; winter term's Fernhopper's Banquet; spring term's Association of Western Forestry Clubs conclave in Utah. The club sponsors the popular spring term Thaw Week, including the Blue Ox Ball, a tug-of-war, and other spring thaw woodsmen's events.

Coach Dee Andros, the Great Pumpkin, is carried off the field, above, by his happy team after the Beavers' upset of USC. The portly mentor has one of his rare arguments, right, as he challenges the controversial out-of-bounds call following Charlie Olds' long punt return. Andros worries, far right, at Oregon, as his team drives for the winning score.

During the great Giant-killing Saturdays of football-1967, one man stood out as the leader of the successful Oregon State Beavers. This man was the gentle natured Great Pumpkin, Dee Andros. The orange-clad coach led his young club to a 7-2-1 season, including three startling upsets, earning Dee a close second in the Coach of the Year balloting.

Andros' third year was his third non-losing season, boosting his overall record to 19-10-1, which includes two second place conference ties, and near misses to the Rose Bowl. His 1967 Beavers were picked as rebuilders with no chance to finish higher than fifth in the tough PAC. The Beavers, underdogs going into seven of their ten games, pulled off the near impossible by winning seven, tying one, and finishing seventh on the final AP national poll. In their efforts the Beavers defeated six previously undefeated clubs, a great example of the great coaching job of Dee Andros and his staff.

1967: Year of the Beaver Giantkillers

The young Beavers of 1967 OSU football will be known for many years as the Giantkillers. The Beavers knocked off Purdue and USC, tied UCLA, all top rated teams, and finished 7-2-1, good for seventh nationally.

The Orangemen started the season with a lifeless 13-7 conference victory over Stanford, with Mike Haggard's two field goals making the difference.

Arizona State fell before the strong Beaver running attack next. Steve Preece's pitching and three touchdowns led a 27-21 win.

Against Iowa, the Beavers unleashed a wicked first half attack, leading 31-0 at intermission. OSU then coasted to a 38-18 win.

In one of the toughest hitting games Seattle has ever seen, the visiting Beavers and the Huskies were tied 6-6, when OSU fumbled for the fourth time. Washington took the break and scored at game's end for a 13-6 win.

Brigham Young's passing was too much for the down Beavers, resulting in a 31-13 upset.

After two losses, the Beavers traveled to Purdue to face the No. 2 rated Boilermakers. OSU used a strong wide open running attack to open an early lead, while Bill Enyart's busting runs and Mike Haggard's toe preserved a 22-14 upset.

Rolling right along now, OSU used Enyart's running and the bomb to roll over Washington State's Cougars, 35-7 on Homecoming day.

Against UCLA, Steve Preece was pitted against Heisman Trophy winner Gary Beban. With Preece in control, the Beavers caught the Bruins in the final period, 16-16, before Beban's final bid was halted by a blocked field goal.

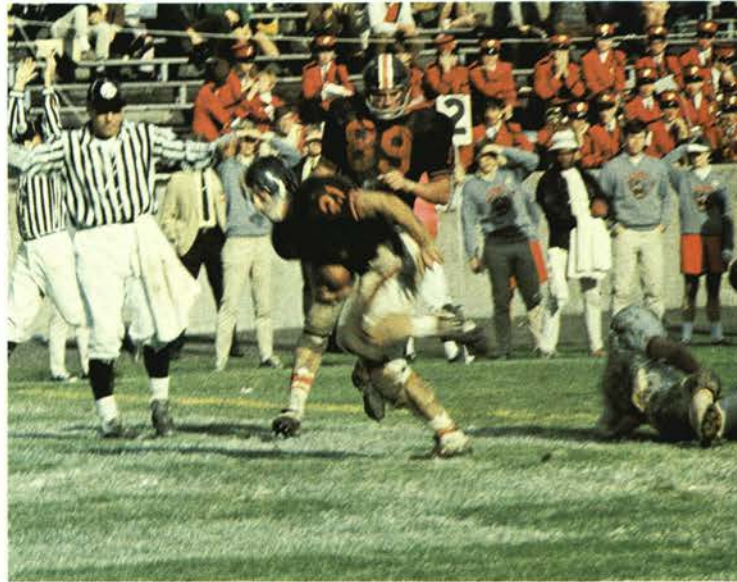

Then with over 40,000 partisan fans awaiting, OSU faced top rated USC. A strong defense wrapped up the great O. J. Simpson, while Mike Haggard's second period field goal gave the Beavers their third upset, 3-0.

In the finale at Eugene, OSU played possum for three quarters before Enyart pounded the leaky Oregon defense for a 14-10 victory.

Donnie Summers, junior halfback from Grants Pass, scores against Washington State, far above. The tough 190-pounder was a constant threat on the counter play, gaining 370 yards for the season. Steve Preece pitches out to Billy Main, above, at the last minute for a good gain against Stanford.

Preece, Enyart Dominate Rush-Conscious Offense

Offense for 1967 was quite similar to 1966, featuring a devastating ground attack along with some well-placed passing. The rushing offense was fourth in the country, averaging 239 yards per game.

Leading the offensive attack was junior quarterback Steve Preece. The second team PAC pick passed for 737 yards, for three touchdowns, ran for six more and totaled 1,113 total yards, fourth in the PAC.

The inside rushing was handled by the Baby Bull, Bill Enyart. The 223-pound junior, top fullback on the coast, rushed for 851 yards for eight touchdowns. His bullish rushes gained him Back of the Week against WSU and UPI Second team All-American fullback.

One of Preece's top receivers on the option play was Bill Main, another second team PAC pick. The sophomore wingback gained 564 yards while junior halfback Don Summers, gained 370.

Along the tough offensive line were John Didion, second team A-A center, Dave Marlette, All-PAC guard, Clyde Smith, guard, Roger Stalick, Second team All-PAC, and Van Smith, tackles, Roger Cantlon, split end, and Gary Houser, All-PAC end.

Big Bill Enyart, above, booms through big hole in the USC line and into the open for big gain against the top rated Trojans. The big junior gained 135 yards against the top rushing defense on the coast. Steve Preece, Back-of-the-Week against Purdue, teams up with fleet wingback Billy Main, far above, on a 58-yard touchdown bomb during 35-7 rout of WSU.

Front Four Leads Defense in Three Big Upsets

Oregon State's defense, though spotty in some places, proved itself adequate and was the strong point in the big upsets during the 1967 campaign.

The defense against the rush, third in the PAC, was led by the rugged front four of guards Jon Sandstrom and Bill Nelson, and tackles Jess Lewis and Ron Boley. Sandstrom and Lewis, both juniors, were named to All-American teams, while Boley was the Lineman of the Week on the Coast for his work in leading the charge against National Champion USC.

Ends Harry Gunner, Most Valuable Hula Bowl Lineman, and Mike Foote along with linebackers Skip Vanderbunt, Mike Groff and Fred Milton contained any big gains and aided the front four on the rush. Co-Captain Vanderbunt, All-PAC, also intercepted four passes, three against Stanford.

Bombarded by 249 passes, the Beaver defensive secondary responded well against the pass-minded clubs the Beavers faced. Charlie Olds, Don Whitney and Mark Waletich were the defenders who led the 16 pass interceptions. Olds, who intercepted four passes, and Waletich, a second team All-PAC safety, were also great punt returners for the Beavers.

Mark Waletich, falling above, breaks up a WSU pass intended for halfback Joe Lynn. Skip Vanderbunt (42), Charlie Olds (24) and Don Whitney (39) rush up to apply pressure to the strong WSU passing attack.

Oregon State's two All-Conference Defensive Guards Ron Boley, left, and Jess Lewis, right, wrap up Stanford ace fullback, Nate Kirkman in opening 13-6 Beaver victory.

Preece Leads Beavers over Purdue in First

Steve Preece, opposite page, had a big day with the quarterback option against Purdue. Preece rambles here for 15 yards before this timely pitch to Billy Main adds 15 more yards in a 22-14 upset.

Big Upset

The Beavers entered the den of Purdue to face the undefeated and No. 2 rated Boilermakers, along with 60,000 partisan homecoming fans.

Using the pitchout to great success the Beavers rattled off good gains in the first period, scoring on an 18-yard pass to Roger Cantlon. Haggard's first field goal gave OSU a 10-7 halftime lead.

After All-American Leroy Keyes put Purdue ahead 14-10, the Beavers came to life with Bill Enyart busting big yardage, setting up another three-pointer. A timely fumble set up an Enyart touchdown giving OSU a 19-14 edge. As Purdue tried to rally, the stubborn underdogs held, while Mike Haggard added a 46-yard field-goal to put the game out of reach and give OSU its upset, 22-14.

Oregon State Rolls On, Deadlocks Bruins

Eager for national ranking following the Purdue upset, OSU traveled to L. A. to face the new No. 2 team, UCLA's Bruins.

The Beavers struck early as a Bruin fumble set up a brilliant 35-yard run by Steve Preece to the three. Billy Main capped the drive with the score giving OSU a 7-0 lead.

UCLA's Gary Beban, Heisman winner, brought his team back in a flurry at the half, giving the Bruins a 13-7 halftime lead.

Then early in the fourth period Enyart scored for a 13-13 tie, as Haggard's conversion hit the cross bar. UCLA's Andrusyshyn hit on a long three-pointer, but the Beavers rallied to the Bruin 11, where Haggard tied the game at 1:17 left. UCLA made a furious rush downfield, but a last second 20-yard field goal was blocked by Ron Boley for the tie, 16-16.

Ron Boley, top, blocks a field goal attempt by UCLA's Zenon Andrusyshyn with 10 seconds left. Mike Haggard, above, connects on a 28-yard field goal with 1:17 left to tie the game, 16-16.

Beavers Stun Top-Ranked Trojans, 3-0

After defeating Purdue and tying UCLA, both No. 2 rated teams, the Beavers were ready to face John McKay's top-ranked USC Trojans at home.

A jam-packed crowd of 41,494 watched as O. J. Simpson took the first carry, rambling 20 yards. By the time the Beavers could recover, the Trojans were attempting a field goal, which fell short.

Midway into the second period a jarring tackle by Don Whitney forced the ball loose from quarterback Sogge, with Skip Vanderbunt recovering for the Beavers. Three first downs later, Mike Haggard booted his eighth, but most important field goal of the season to put OSU in the lead at 3-0.

From here the defense took over, limiting USC to only three first downs the rest of the way. Mean while Gary Houser's booming punts put the Trojans in deep trouble. Charlie Olds, with a punt return, and Bill Enyart each thrilled the crowd with fifty yard runs, only to lose possession on fumbles.

With the seconds ticking away, Enyart plunged for a big first down at 28 seconds, giving the Beavers their biggest upset of all time, 3-0.

The scoreboard, far above, shows the story after the Beavers stunned previously undefeated USC. Mike Haggard boots his biggest three-pointer, middle above, as he provides the winning margin, 3-0. Charlie Olds, above, breaks into the open on his way to 56-yard punt return.

OSU Rallies to Defeat Stubborn

The Beavers faced 'The Fighting Ducks' of Oregon in the season finale at Eugene. The Ducks had compiled a mediocre 2-7 mark, while OSU was ranked eighth nationally.

Oregon State drove early in the first period to the Oregon three before fumbling. The Ducks capitalized on the break and scored first on a second period field goal, following a blocked Houser punt.

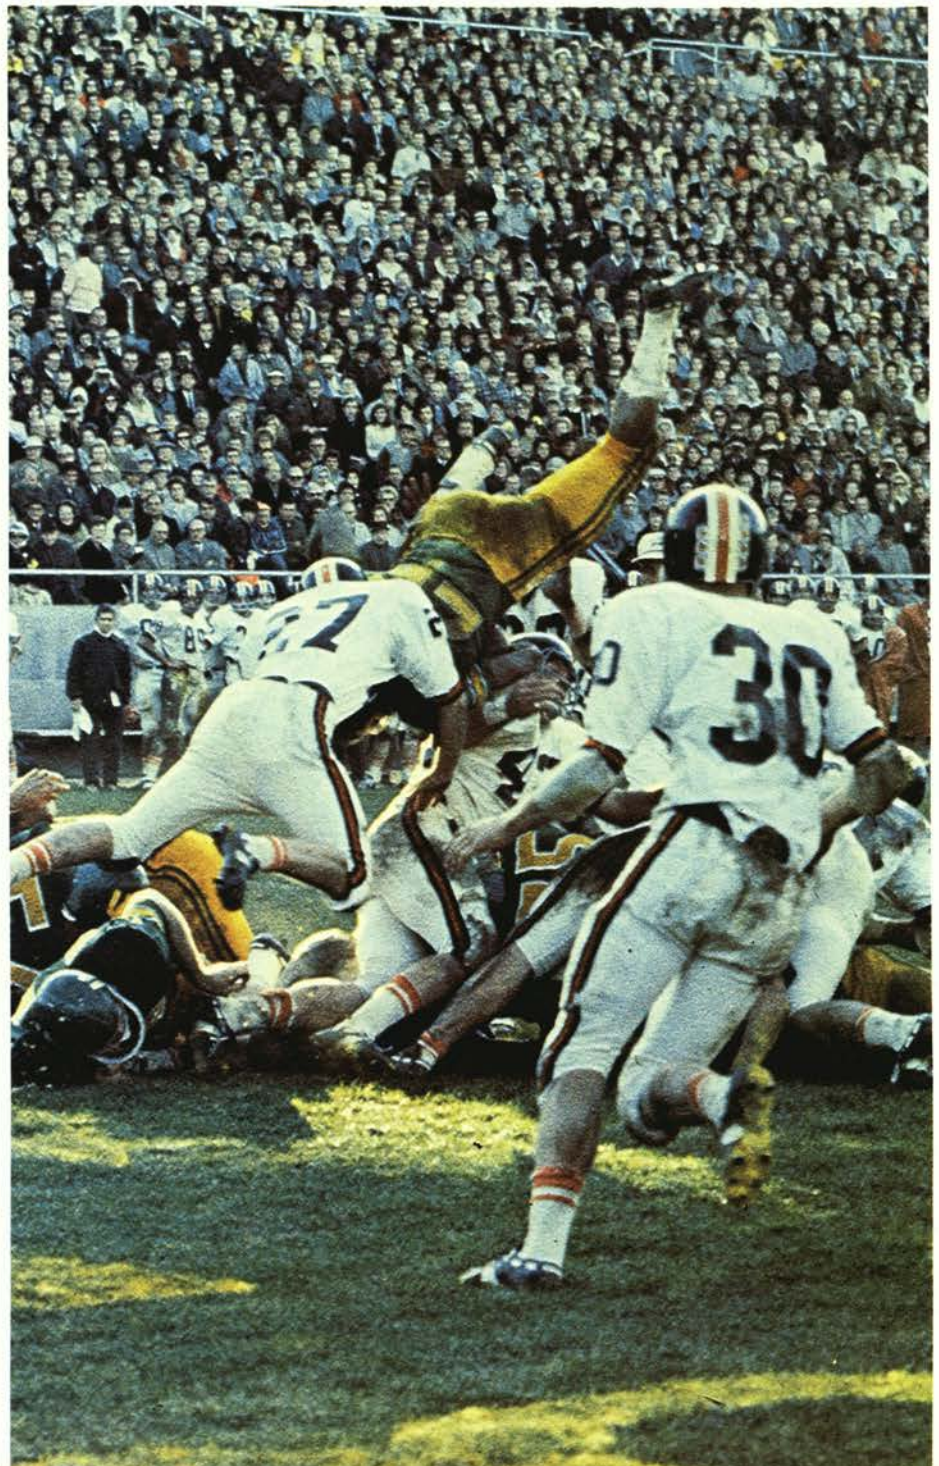

In the second half the Ducks turned OSU's fourth fumble into a touchdown by Claxton Welch, taking the 10-0 lead into the last period.

At the ten minute mark OSU caught fire and charged downfield with two key passes to Don Summers and Roger Cantlon. After Enyart plunged over from a yard out, the defense handled the Oregon offense, getting the ball back after a short punt. Enyart then punched out the yardage to set up a five yard TD run by Preece. A last ditch U of O pass was incomplete, giving OSU a 14-10 win.

Mike Haggard kicks off, far above, booming the ball deep into the end zone after the Beavers' second fourth period score. Roger Cantlon, above, makes a great catch on the one-yard line to set up Oregon State's first touchdown.

Individual Effort Bolsters Harriers

The Oregon State cross country team met stiff competition and came away with valuable experience and strong determination for an improved record next year. With just one letterman of the four who paced the Beavers to an NCAA seventh last year running this season, Coach Berny Wagner guided his young team to several top individual efforts during his third year as cross country mentor.

At the Central Washington Invitational, sophomore Mike Durbin paced Beaver harriers in finishing seventh for his best meet of the season. Durbin continued to run well until sidelined with a foot injury later in the season.

Junior Terry Thompson clocked 29:33 on the six-mile course at the Northern Division meet for twelfth place. The next day during Oregon-AAU competition, Thompson came across the finish just 3.5 seconds behind Jim Grelle, three-time Oregon AAU individual winner previously. This meet also marked the first competitive effort of Lew Dahlin since breaking his back while training last spring.

OSU's only representative to the NCAA Finals at Laramie, Wyoming, was senior Glen Knapp. Running the six-mile course under the adverse conditions of a 20 mile per hour wind, 25 degree weather and 7200 foot altitude, Knapp finished 92nd with a time of 35.27.

Coach Berny Wagner, above, encourages Oregon State distance runners at the end of a grueling cross country race. In his third season at the Beaver helm, Wagner guided his distancemen over varied courses in competition with both intersectional and league rivals.

Beavers Stung By Last Minute Losses

Coach Paul Valenti's hot shooting Beavers couldn't put the ball in the basket at the right times during 1968, bringing Paul his first losing season in four, and OSU its first loser in 8 years. 12-13 overall, the Beavers were fifth in the PAC at 5-9.

The Beavers opened with a non-league loss to the San Francisco Dons 63-52, before Vic Bartolome joined the club for a 67-52 victory over San Jose State.

After a third place finish in the Sun Devil Classic and a second in the Far West Classic, OSU sizzled the nets twice over .500 to defeat Cal and Stanford before two big road losses to WSU and Washington.

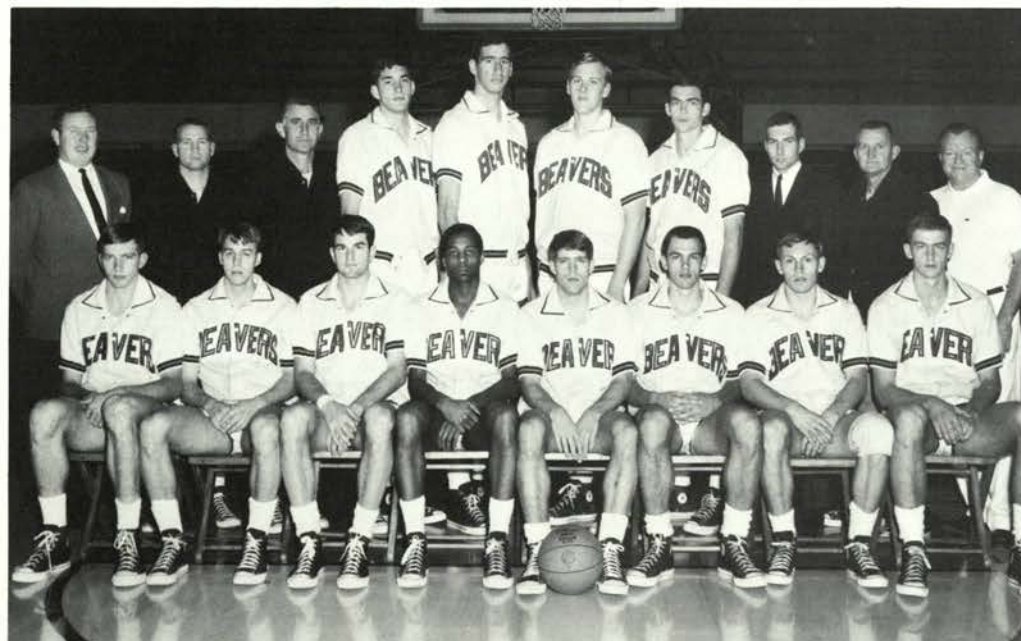

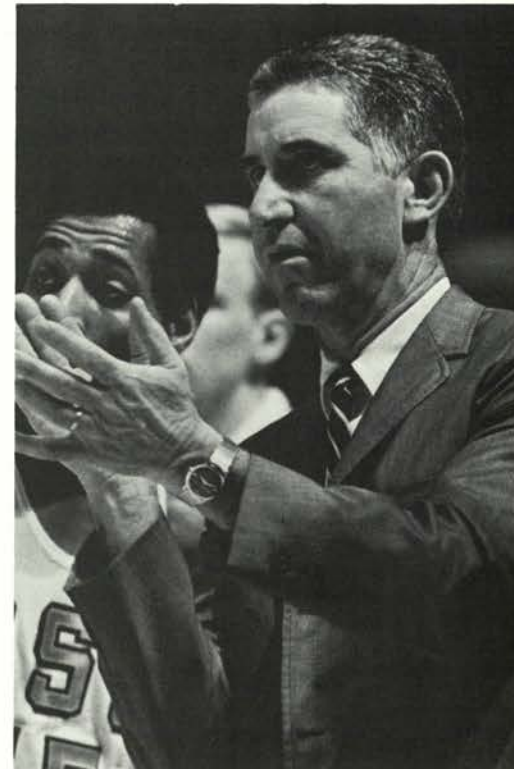

With Gary Freeman coming off the bench for 22 points, OSU defeated Oregon for the first of a four game 1968 sweep. The following week, Vince Fritz continued his hot t. v. shooting with 25 points in a 58-46 win.

After a two game split with Portland, OSU minus Fritz, faced national champion UCLA. A quick zone defense and good shooting kept OSU in the game until UCLA stalled out a 55-52 win. OSU promptly blew two games to USC before dropping another to the Bruins.

Stanford, in overtime, and Cal then dropped the Beavers before the seven game loss streak was halted with a 74-72 squeaker over Washington. After an overtime loss to WSU, the Beavers dumped Oregon twice, 80-65 and 93-54, with Loy Petersen scoring a career high 32 points in his final game for OSU.

Beavers Rebound For Second Place in

Oregon State took time off from its Christmas vacation to play in Portland's Far West Classic, the finest holiday tournament in the country. Represented this year were fourth-ranked North Carolina, seventh-ranked Utah, thirteenth-ranked Princeton, and unranked but tough Washington State. Also included in the 1967 field were Stanford, Texas, Oregon, and OSU, winners of ten of the previous 11 tourneys.

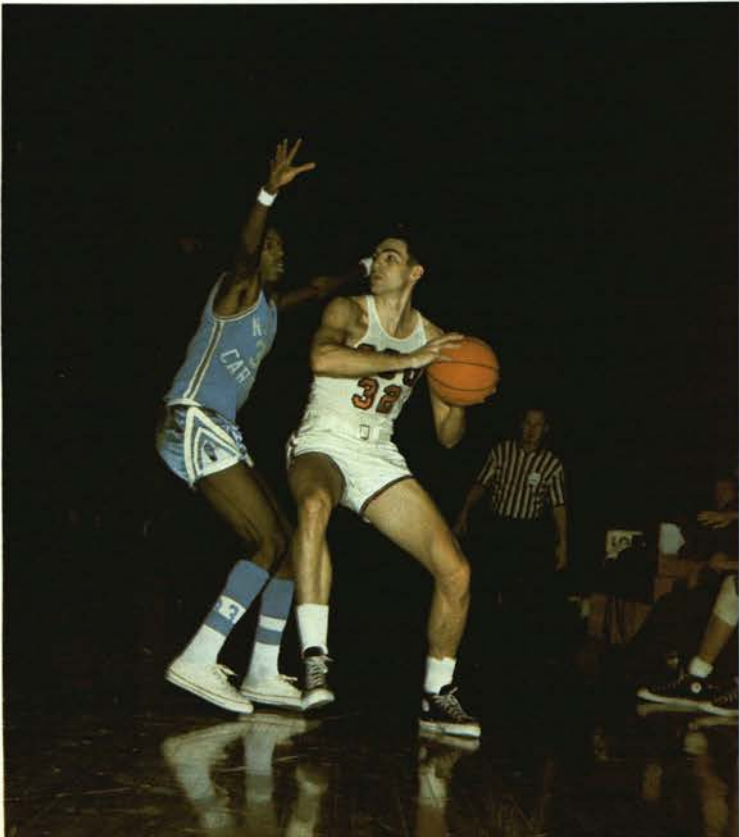

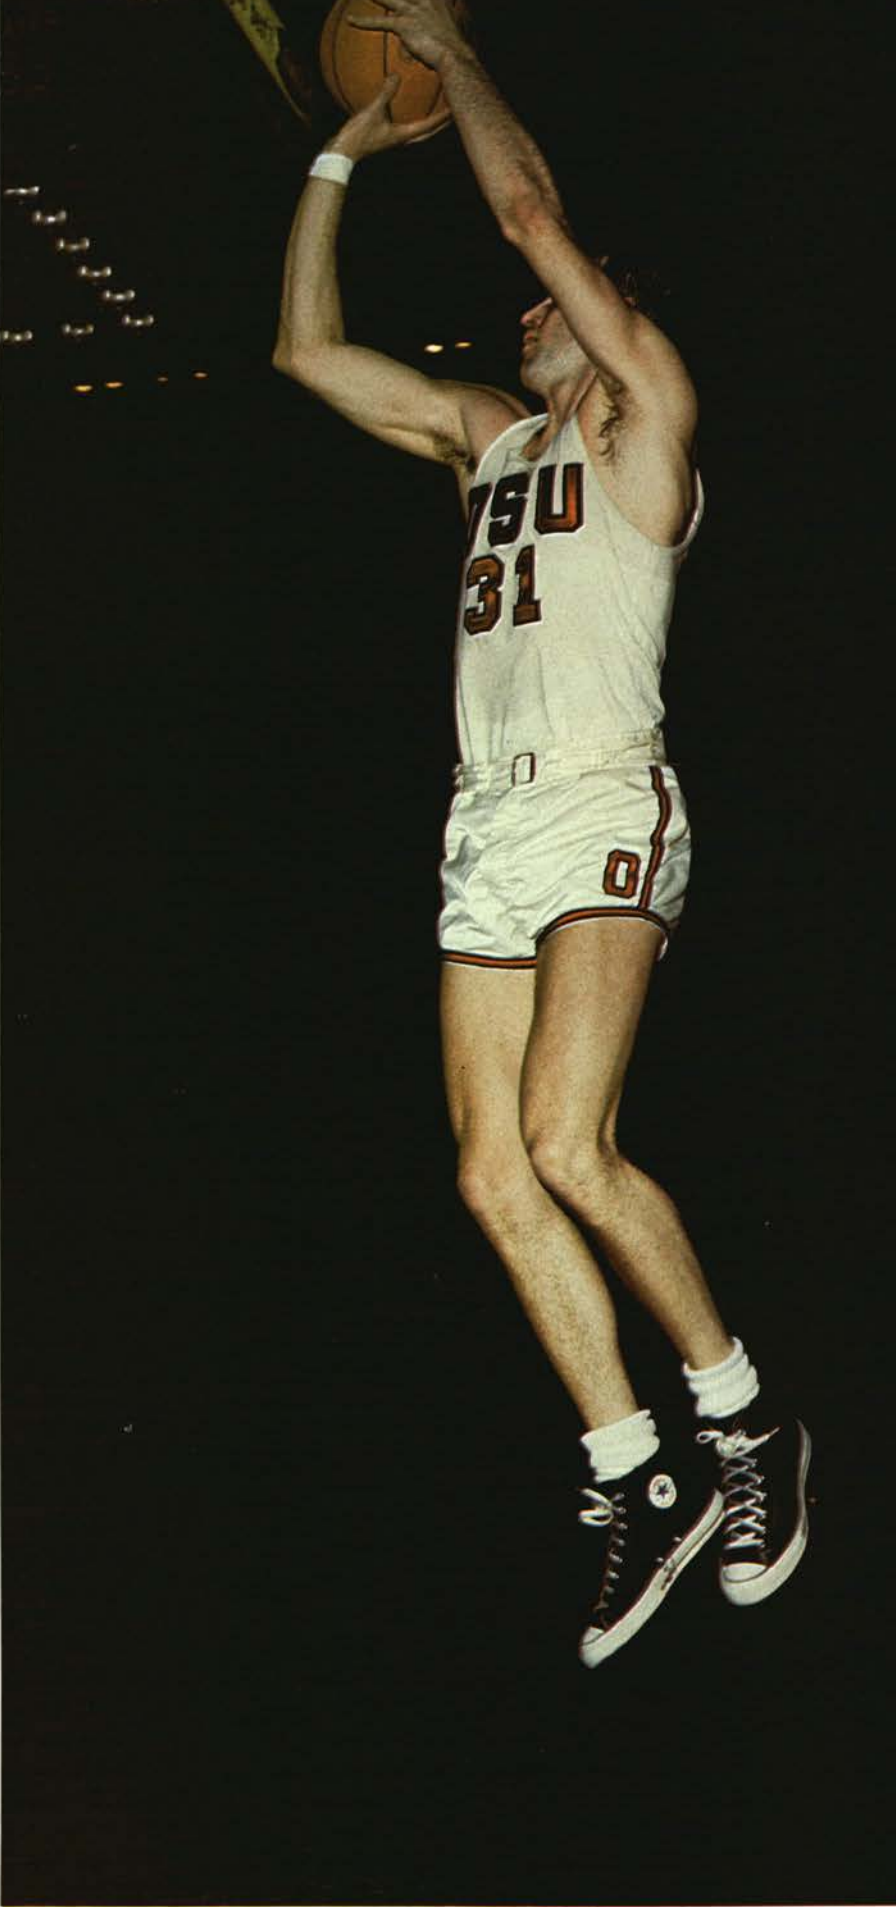

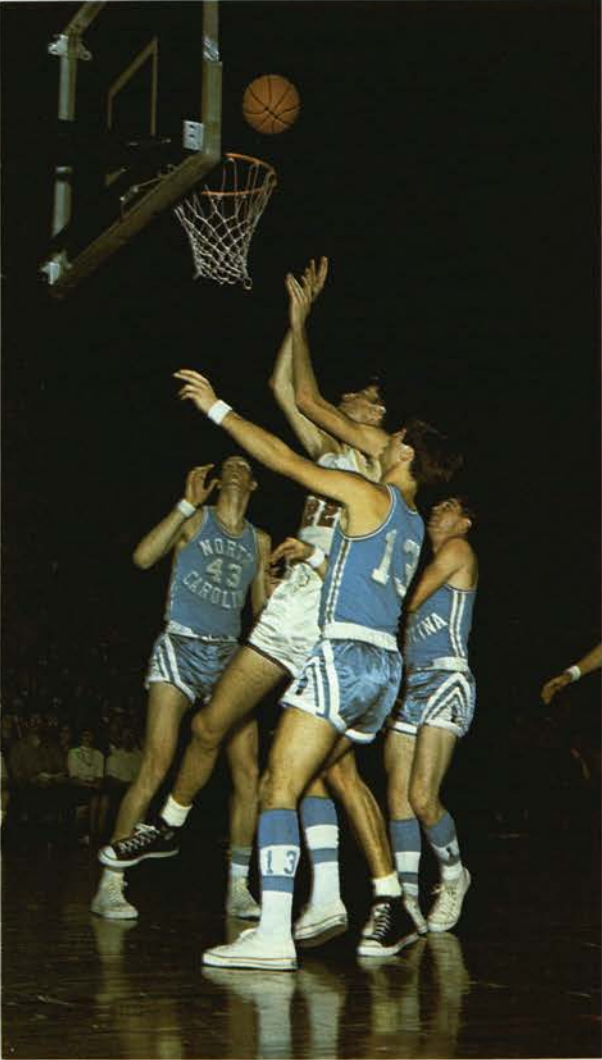

With an eagerness to erase last year's last place embarrassment, OSU toyed with shorter Texas in the opening round, winning 54-42. In the second round, Oregon State faced the tough and tall Cougars from WSU. Despite many fouls, the Beavers were helped by great shooting from Vince Fritz and Gary Freeman, leading them to a 62-61 win.

In the finals against the tough Tar Heels from North Carolina, the Beavers faced Larry Miller, All-American candidate. Senior Loy Petersen got the job of guarding him, and did well through the first three quarters, as OSU held a slim lead. Vince Fritz, an All-Tourney pick, bombed in 10 of 13 from the field to keep the Beavers close, but 33 fouls finally caught up with OSU as UNC won, 68-61.

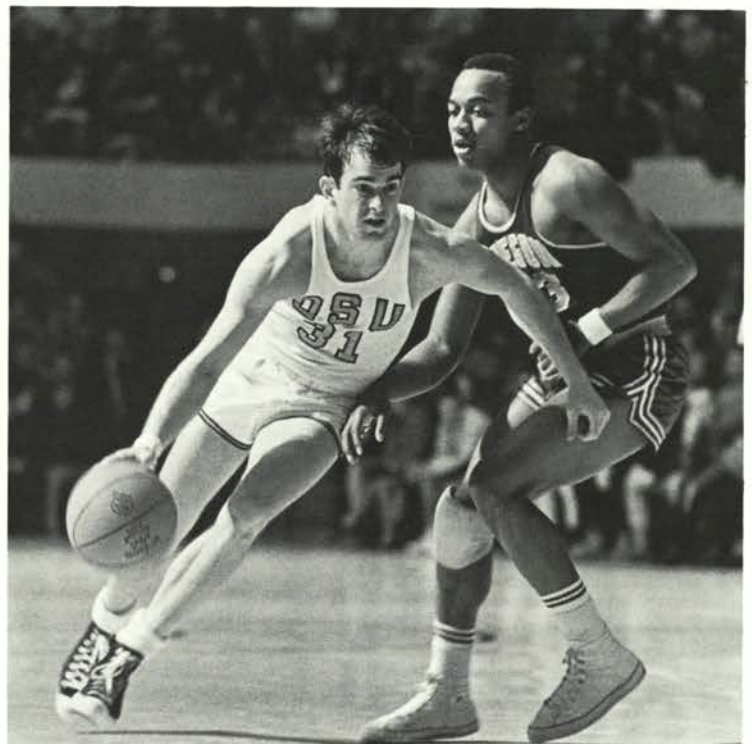

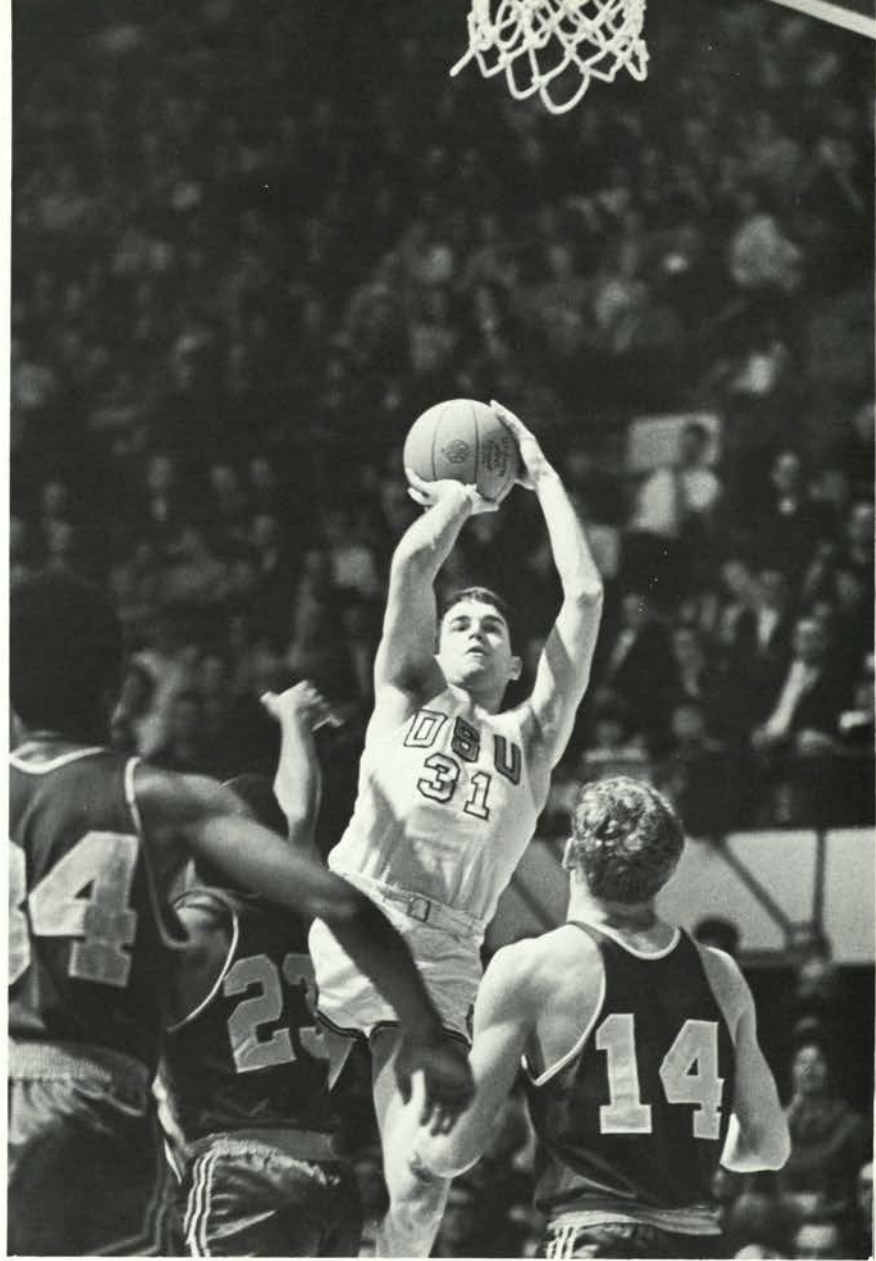

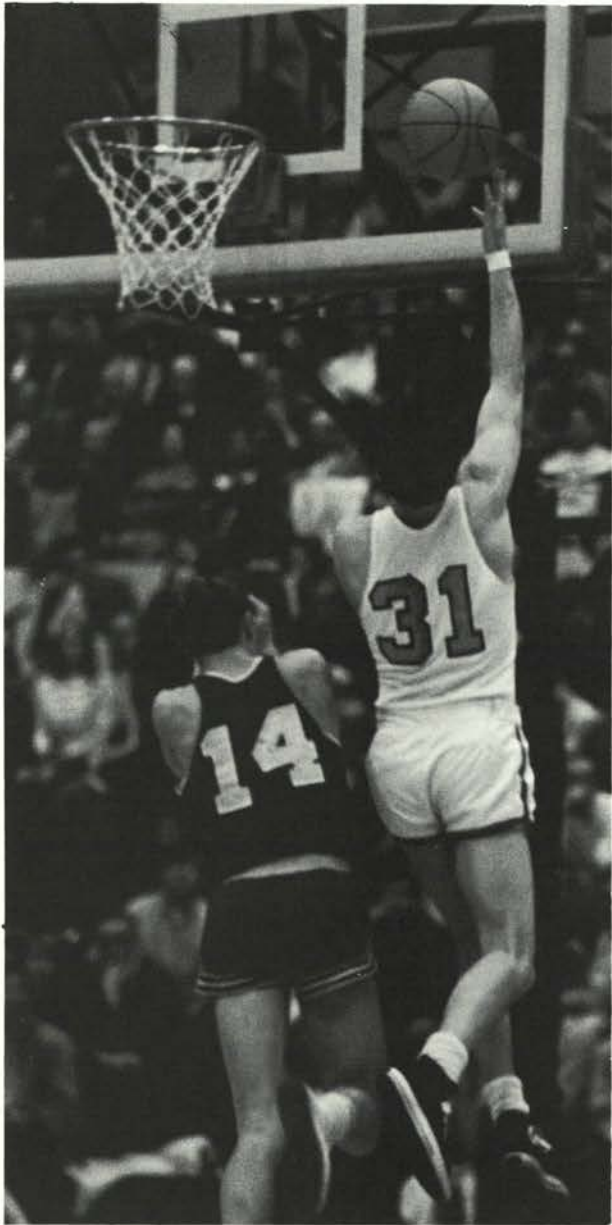

Sophomore Gary Freeman, above, hooks against WSU's Ted Weirman in 62-61 thriller. Freeman, with 14 points and Fritz (in background) with 26 points, led the scoring. Vic Bartolome, right, checks NC's Rusty Clark's shot as Loy Petersen blocks out the tournament's MVP Larry Miller.

Far West Classic

Oregon had its troubles stopping Vince Fritz, as he scored at a 20 point clip in 1968. Above Vinnie throws in a driving lay-up against Rick Abrahamson. On TV, he drives around sophomore Billy Gaskins, right, and goes up for a jumper over the leaky Webfoot zone for 25 points.

Vince Fritz Leads Scoring Parade Again

Junior Vince Fritz again led the Beavers in scoring in 1968. The Central Catholic product averaged 18.2 points per game on 418 points. Fritz was the man the Beavers looked to when they needed two points, as his accurate long jumpers brought him a place on the All-Coast team.

Hitting at .447 from the field, Fritz had ten games of 20 points or more, scoring 26 against Oregon, Portland, and WSU. His finest effort, however, was against NCAA runner up North Carolina in the Far West Classic finals. Shooting his patented long jumpers, Vince scored on 10-13 against the Tar Heel defense, good for 23 points and an All-tourney honor.

Once again Fritz led the P.A.C. in free-throw shooting, sporting an .840 mark. In league games Vinnie averaged 19.0 points a game, sixth in the P.A.C.

Loy Ends Career With Big Game

Lanky Loy Petersen ended his college career at OSU in the same thrilling manner in which he broke into the Beaver basketball program. The 6-5 captain ended the 1968 season with 254 points, fourth on the team, a 10.2 average. He was the third leading rebounder, picking off 122 missed shots.

Petersen's final game was his finest of all three years, as he scored 31 points before fouling out against Oregon. Hitting on 12 of 20 from the field and 9-10 from the foul line, Loy moved to fifth place among the all time OSU scorers, with 1015 total points.

Among the Anaheim star's many talents was his tenacious defense. In successive games, he held All-American Larry Miller, Russ Critchfield and Art Harris far below their averages.

Vic & Gary Add Offensive Punch

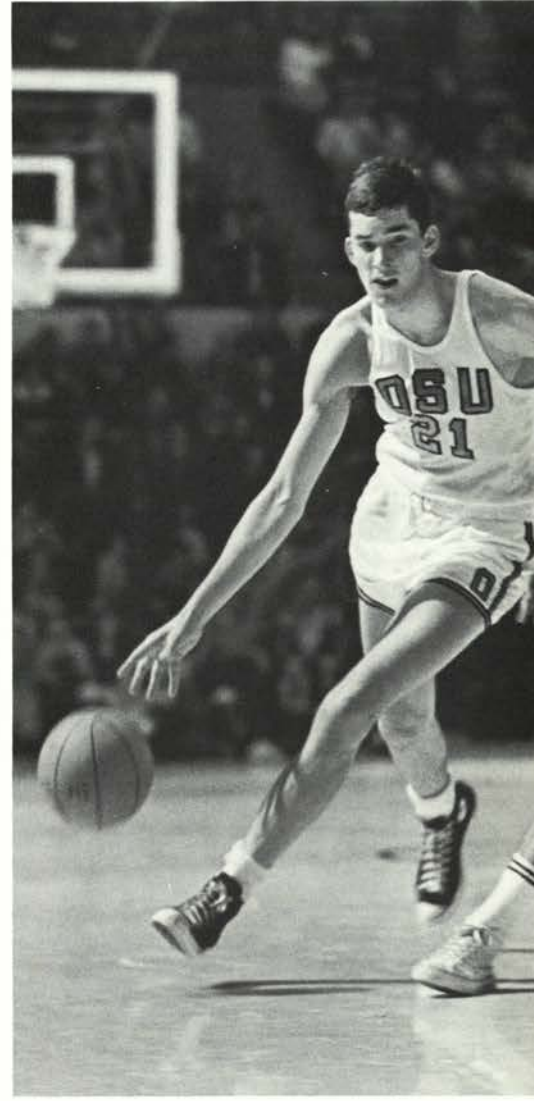

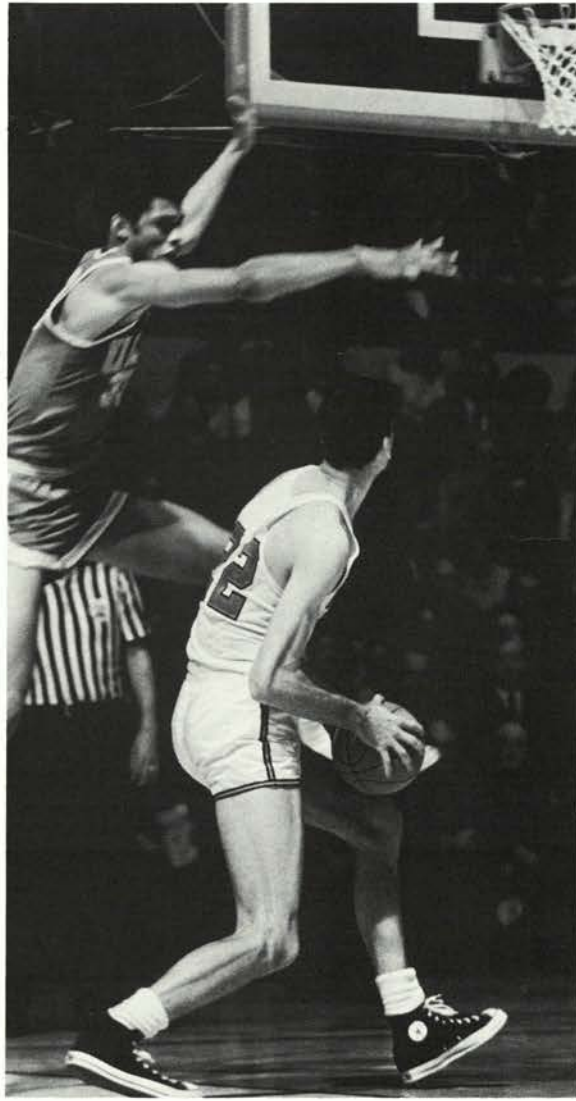

Two pleasant additions to the 1968 Beaver basketball team were tall sophomores Gary Freeman and Vic Bartolome. Besides leading the team in rebounds, this duo finished 2-3 in scoring, giving them honorable mention for their league play.

Seven-footer Vic Bartolome was the mainstay at center, scoring 310 points, a 12.9 average, second only to Fritz. The Santa Barbara sophomore shot at a fantastic .661 clip, an OSU record, and listed among the tops in the nation. Shooting .733 from the charity stripe, Vic proved that he could also shoot the outside shot. Against UCLA's All-American Lew Alcindor, Vic shot 8 for 11, many from outside of 10 feet. Vic's best game of the season was against Oregon, in which he scored 18 points in the first half, finishing with 21.

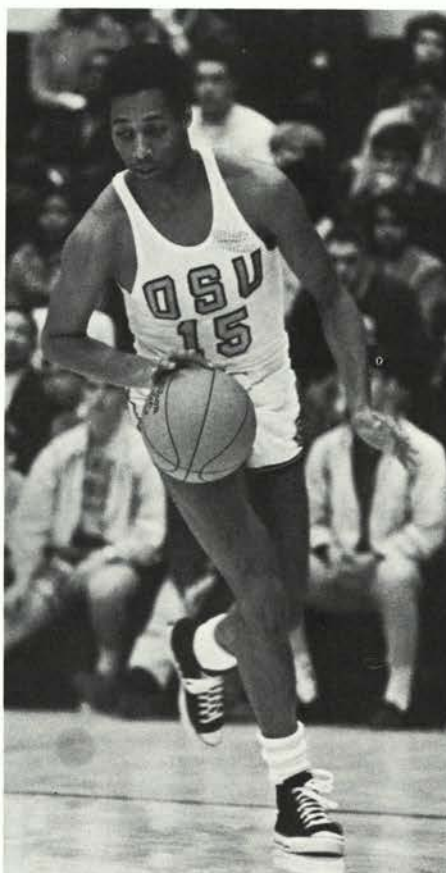

Gary Freeman at 6-9, scored 258 points, third on the club, but captured the rebound title from Vic with 164. Freeman's great outside shooting, .599 on the season, kept defenses loose all season. Against Oregon, Gary scored 22 and 23 points as his long jumpers found the range, breaking two of the games open.

Gary and Vic both had big series against Oregon. Above right Vic hooks for two against Oregon's Pinkstaff, while below right, Pinkstaff is again victim, this time to a Freeman jumper.

Seven Serve Reserve Role

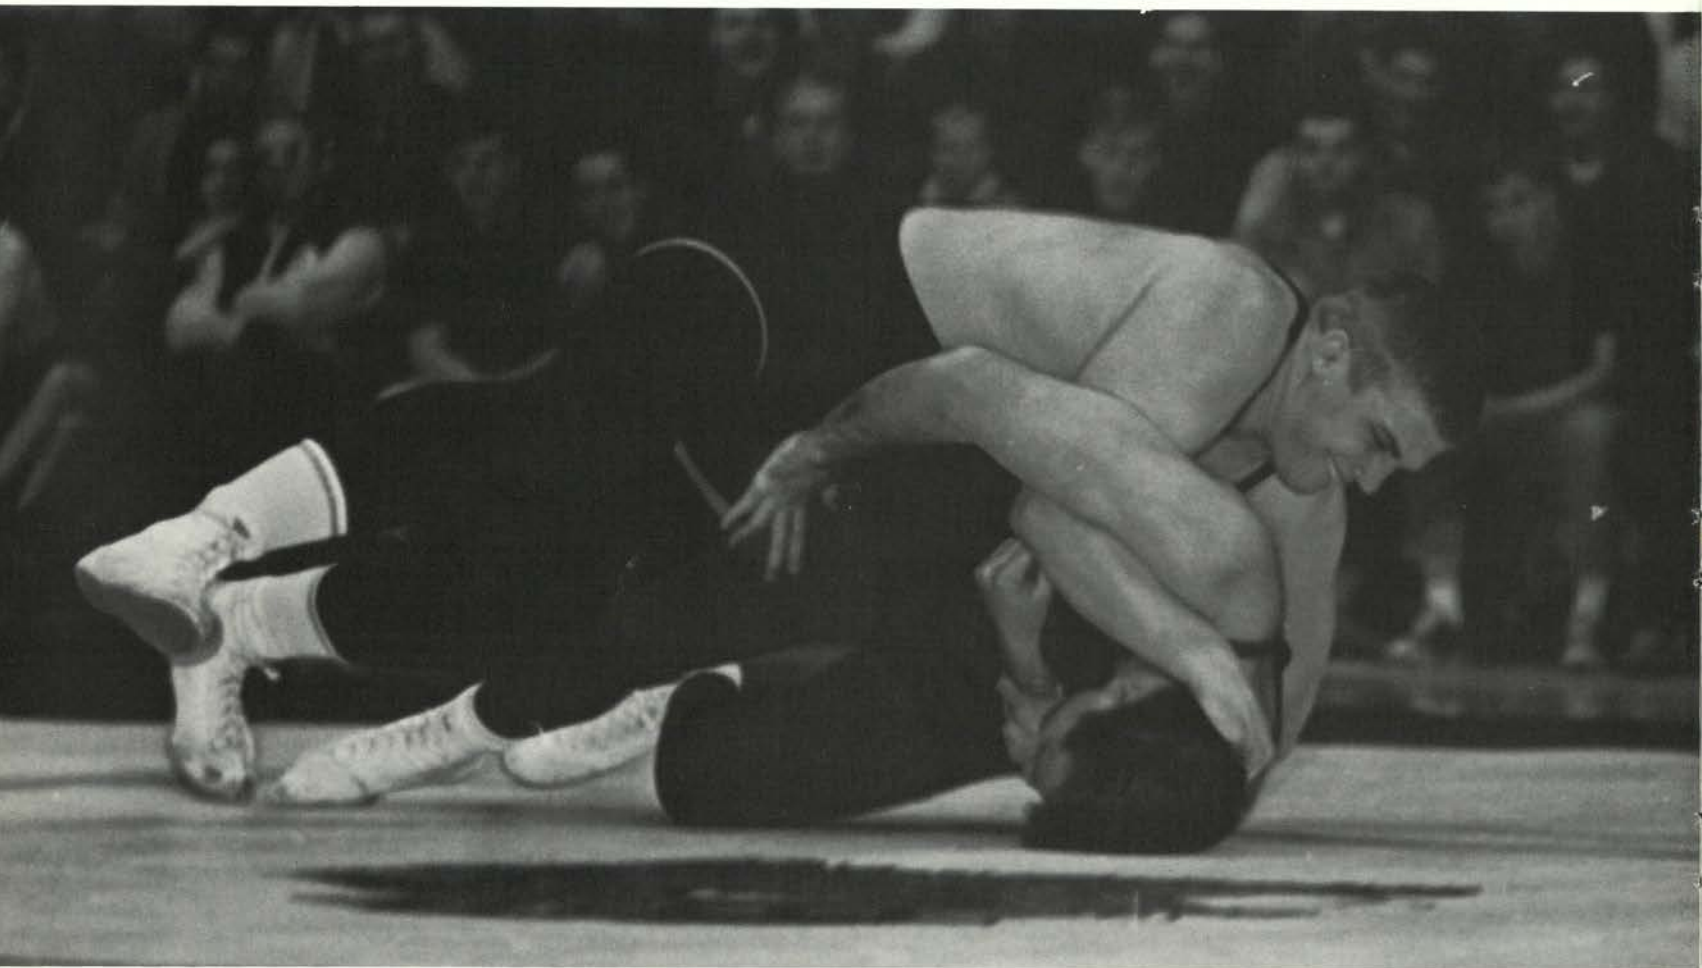

Like any strong basketball team, the Beavers had good bench strength in 1968. Seven men made up the main reserve list, with four of them filling frequent starting positions. These seven contributed 352 points, 170 rebounds, and shot at a .451 field goal percentage.

Leading the crew of reserves was senior guard Bob Franz. The ex-starter filled in well in 18 games, adding 86 points, 11 in the finale over Oregon. Sophomore Gary Carroll played in 20 games, many in starting roles, as he compiled 71 points. Leading the reserves with a .481 shooting average in 17 games, 5-9 guard Mike Markham tallied 63 points, including 20 in the two UCLA games. Junior Dave Moore saw action in 12 games, scoring 15 points.

Scoring 53 points, Junior Forward Jeff Kuter led the reserves with 22 appearances and 42 rebounds. Sophomore Bruce Bertrand, the top foul shooter at .857, appeared 14 times for 40 points. Starting the first game of the season, Bill More slipped to the bench and appeared in seven more games for 24 total points.

OSU Wrestlers Sparkle in Dual Competition

All American Jess Lewis, Captain Jerry Chapin, and senior Steve Woods led the Beaver wrestlers. Lewis had a perfect 16-0 record and was one of the top heavyweights in the nation while Woods was 12-0-2 for the season. Jerry Chapin posted a fine 15-1 record. Also contributing valuable points throughout the season were Jim Blackford, Jim Vandahay, Phil Frey, Kim Snider, Lauren Johnson, and Murrit Davis.

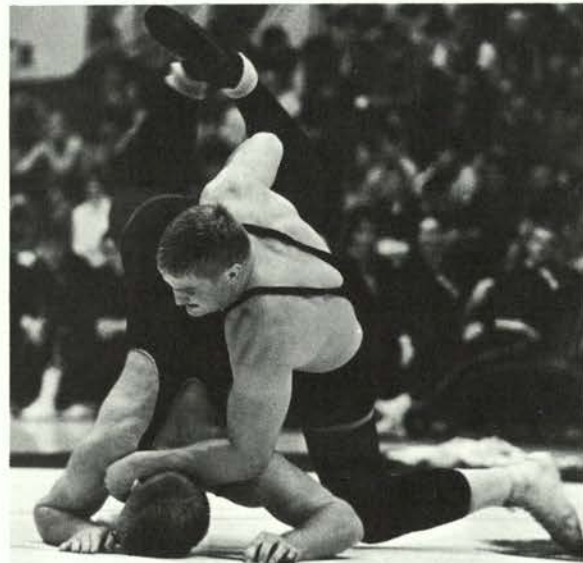

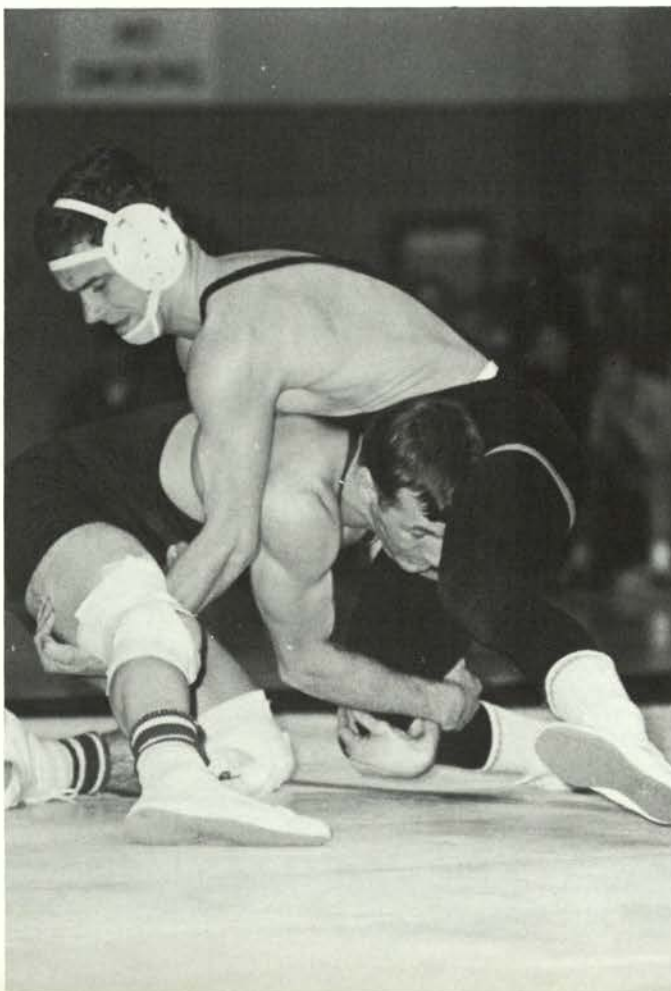

As the dual meet season came to a close, the OSU matmen were pointing for the P.A.C. Championships to be held at Stanford. The Beavers were after their fourth straight title and the twelfth in the last thirteen years.

Top, Jess Lewis drives a half nelson into this opponent enroute to a fall. Jess was also chosen as an all-American wrestler. Above, Steve Woods tries to turn his Cal victim over for the pin.

Grapplers Take Fourth Straight PAC Title

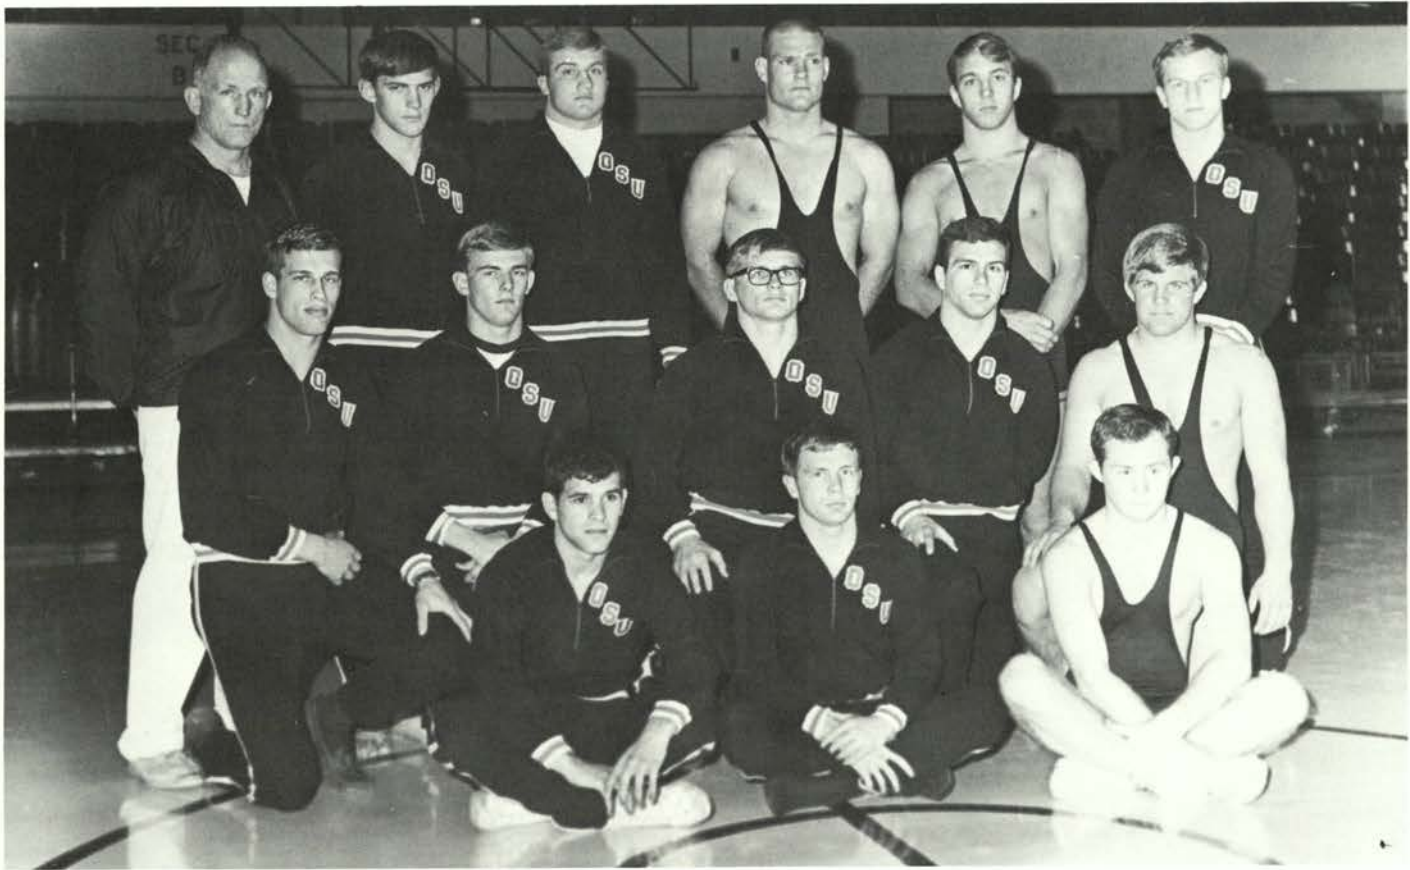

The Beavers entered the P.A.C. championships playing second to UCLA but when the tournament was over, OSU had the first place hardware, three individual titles, and a share in the outstanding wrestler award. The Beavers also claimed four second place trophies.

Lewis, Chapin and Woods made their first trip to the tourney and each came away with a gold medal. Steve Woods captured the 137 pound title while Jerry Chapin won the 160 pound trophy. Jess Lewis took the heavyweight title and was co-holder of the outstanding wrestlers award.

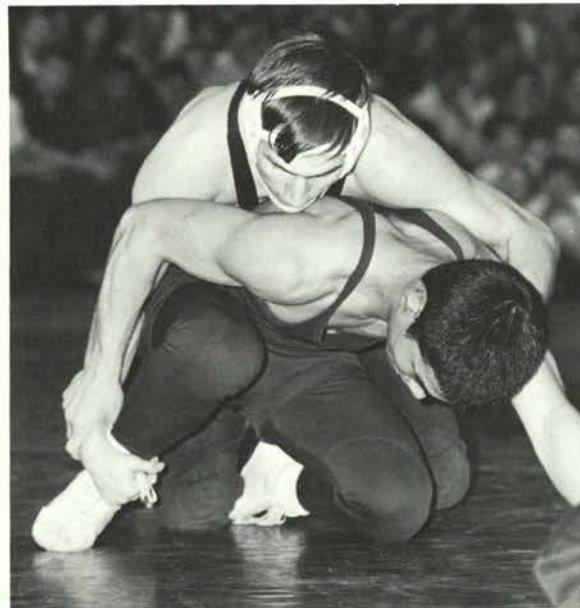

Jim Blackford failed to retain his 177 pound title but gained second place honors. Phil Frey also gave up his title for runnerup honors in the 145 pound class. Kim Snider and Bill DeJager claimed second place awards while Jim Vandahey took consolation honors and Ken Larsen, a third place.

Records Fall In Beaver Wake

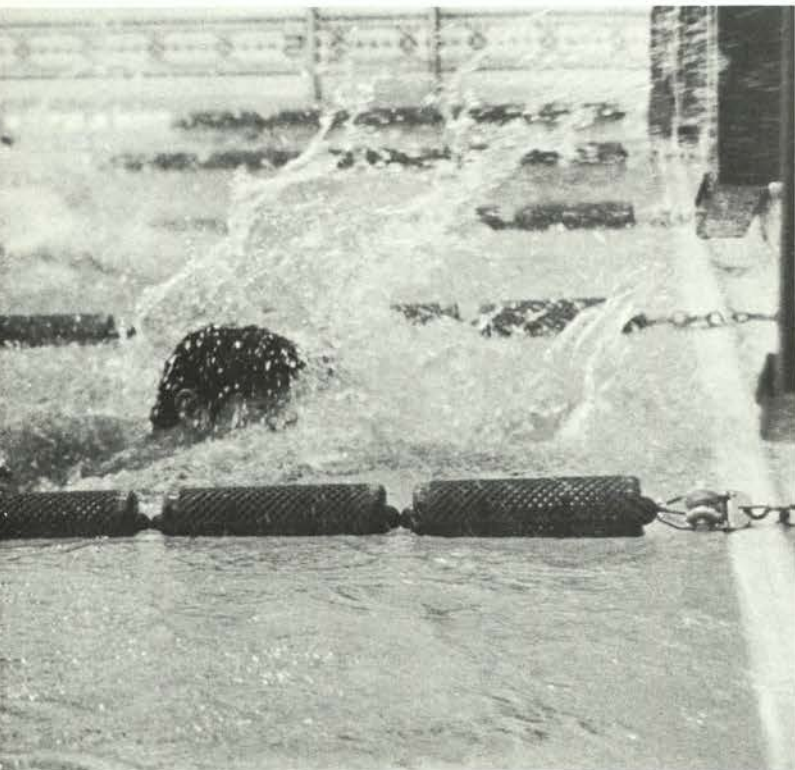

Enroute to seventh place in the ruggedly competitive Pacific-8 conference, the 1968 Oregon State swimmers rewrote the school record book ten times. Under the vigorous coaching of Bill Winkler, the Beaver tanksters improved team scores from showings in previous years to finish with a 3-9 season.

Sophomore Garth Huffaker captured seven of the ten new varsity swimming records. His outstanding performances came in the 66- and 100-yard freestyle, in the 200-, 266-, and 400-yard individual medley, and in the 400-yard medley and 800-yard freestyle relays. Scoring 148 1/2 points during the season, Huffaker also set a new OSU individual points-scored record.

John Josephson, another sophomore, set new marks in the 200- and 1000-yard freestyle events. Senior Dan Zenor completed the 200-yard backstroke in record time.

With the loss of only co-captains Craig Eisenbeis and Dan Zenor to graduation, coach Winkler looks to continued team improvement in the future.

Senior Dan Zenor, left and below left top, swam to a new record in the 200-yard backstroke in 2:04.5. Below, Zenor springs off the starting block in a meet with Oregon. Co-captain of the team, he was also a member of the 400-yard medley relay team which turned in a record 3:43.1 time. Below left bottom, a Beaver diver leaves the board during competition.

OSU Nabs AAWU Fourth, Phillips Goes 17'

Oregon State varsity trackmen compiled a 6-2 dual meet record and captured fourth at the AAWU Championships. Coached by Berny Wagner, the 1967 Beaver spikers turned in over 30 individual performances that rank in the top five of OSU all-time records.

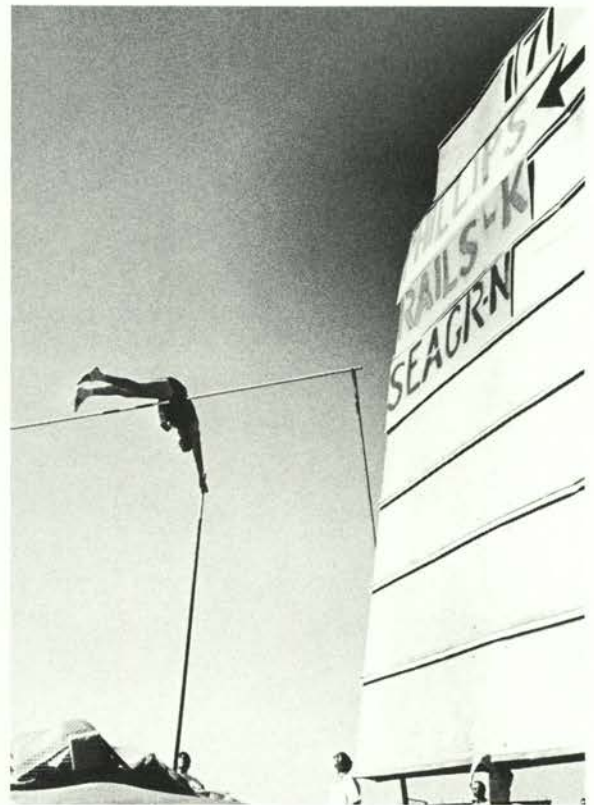

Supposedly a building year with eight returning lettermen, 1967 saw the sophomore-laden team finish third in the Northern Division meet and 13th in the NCAA finals. The young Beavers set five OSU records.

Following the 100-30 opening rout of Fresno State, the Beavers posted a second-time win over ex-OSU coach Sam Bell's Cal Bears. Stanford fell 98-47 to the Stater onslaught, and Oregon State easily trounced Washington State 104-41. Washington rallied before losing 76-69 to OSU. USC had to battle a fired-up Beaver team for a 76-66 win. OSU split a two meet series with Oregon, 73-72, and 86-58.

Dennis Phillips completely rewrote Oregon State pole vault records. The national junior college pole vault record holder became the first 16 foot plus vaulter in Oregon State track history with a 17-0-1/2 leap in the first OSU-Oregon dual meet. The junior transfer from San Mateo JC is only the seventh vaulter in history to hit the 17 foot mark.

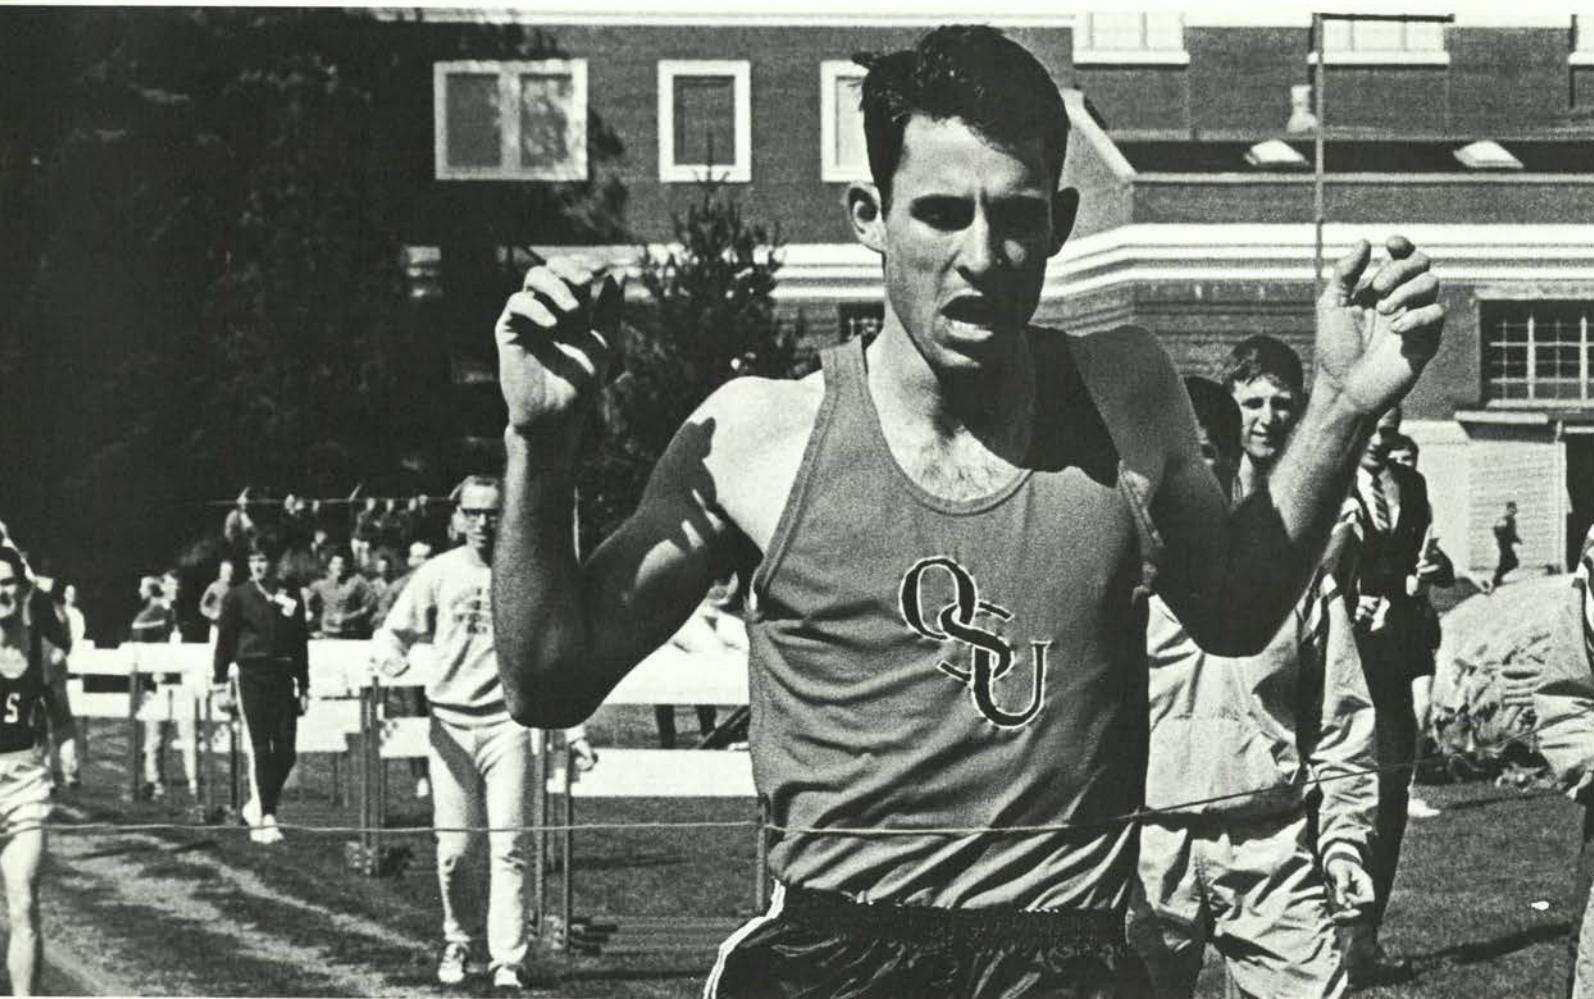

At California, Phillips passed until 15 feet, cleared that on his first attempt and made 16-0 on his first try for the win. A 15-6 showing against WSU set a new meet mark, but a 15-0 bound over the bar at Washington placed him third in a three-way tie on the basis of more misses.

Bothered by a sprained hand, Phillips was unplaced against USC, but at the Northern Division Championships he sprang 16-7 to a new conference record. Leaping to 17-1 in the AAWU Championships, Phillips set a new OSU record and tied with UCLA's Dick Railsback for the Pacific-8 title.

A "pillow" of foam cushioning awaits OSU vaulter Dennis Phillips as he bends the pole on the way up. In an instant the pole flexes back and falls away, sending Phillips soaring above and then over the bar. For a moment, Phillips mimics the birds, right, as he flies to an OSU record-shattering 17' 1" vault.

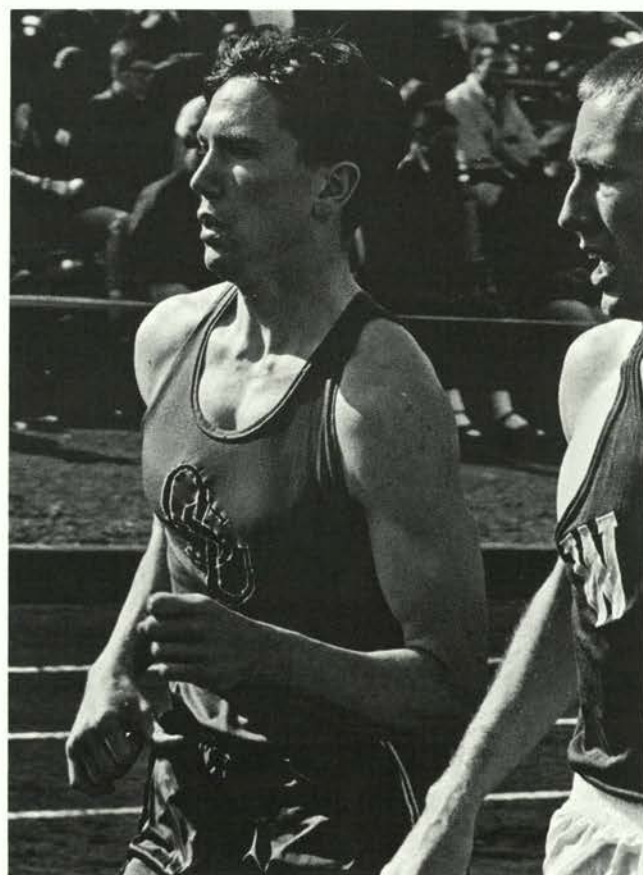

Beaver Spikers Win

Beaver cindermen kicked their way to some impressive wins. Running away in the final 300 yards, Terry Smith upset WSU's Gerry Lindgren for a meet and Bell Field record 4:02.0 mile.

Steve Pancoast snatched the PAC-8 title in the 440 with a 46.3 time that tied the conference record and set a new OSU high mark. The spiker team captain anchored the Stater 440 relay team against Stanford for a new 40.8 OSU record.

Dramatically improving his time in the 2-mile to 9:04.4, distance man Lew Dahlin gave his all, but USC's Bruce Bowman overtook him in the final 200 yards for a second placing that helped the Trojans to their dual meet win.

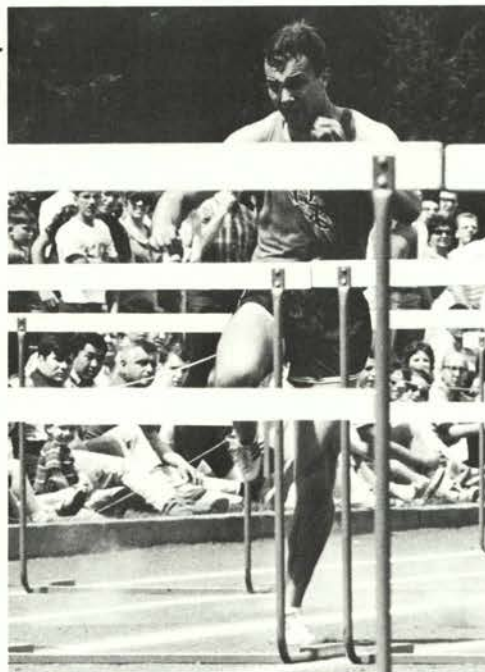

Sprinter Steve Davis burned up the 100 in 9.5 against Oregon to tie an OSU mark. Veteran hurdler Bob McLaren stretched to a 52.0 finish ahead of the Ducks for a Canadian record.

Individual Marks Pace Field Event Wins

OSU dominated field events in most dual meet action. Steve Kelly made 6-10 1/4 against Stanford and reached 6-10 in the 73-72 Beaver win over Oregon. Soaring backwards over the bar, Dick Fosbury cleared 6-10-3/4 for an Oregon State record and a ND championship. After a 6-9 win in the PAC-8 championships, Fosbury took fifth in the NCAA contest at 6-10.

Jumper Charlie Olds made his best mark of 24-6 1/4 in the long jump against Washington and captured fourth at 48-8-3/4 in the triple at the PAC-8 finals. George May sprang 25-0-3/4 in the long jump for the ND crown and set a career record at 49-5 1/2 in the triple for third spot at the AAUWU contest.

Weightman Don Tollefson put the shot 58-10 1/2 against Oregon and hurled the discus 173-2 1/2 against USC for career bests. Tim Vollmer marked his career best against Stanford with a 52-11 shot heave and tossed the platter 176-1 to top USC.

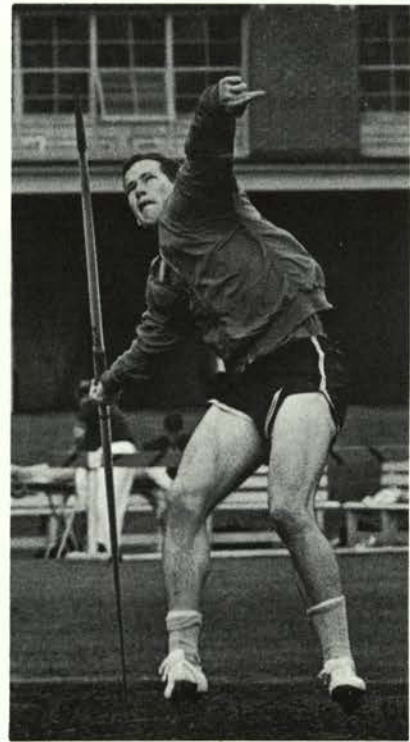

Phil Lowry threw the javelin 243-1 for third at the NCAA finals. Against USC sophomore Roger Stalick hit 233-5 for a career record.

Tanselli's First Season —

Surprises and Hopes for Future OSU Baseball

Featuring upsets along the way, the 1967 Oregon State baseball club finished a strong season with a 25-13 record. The Beavers faced three number one rated teams during the season, winning three of seven against USC, Stanford and the 1967 national champion, Arizona State.

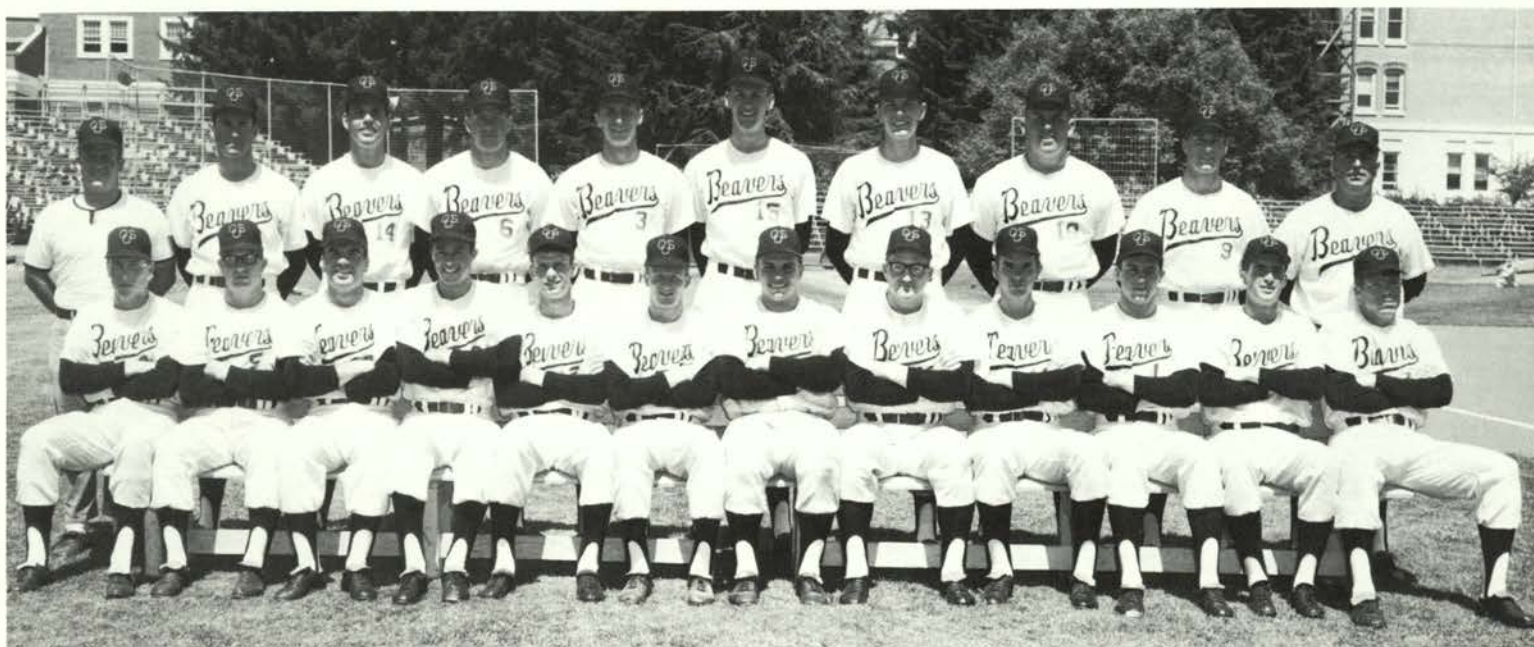

Opening a convincing 16-7 non-conference season, the Orangemen racked up wins over Arizona State and Colorado State. Winding up the tough Southern tour, the Beavers lost some tight decisions and came home 5-5.

Against the Northwest competition, OSU outclassed the smaller universities with eleven of 13 victories, as Beaver batters rattled opposing pitchers for over six runs a game. In the same period, OSU pitchers gave up over one run on just five occasions, and never over five runs. Against Portland, Eric Selberg, Jim Powell, and Cleve Benson combined for an 11-0 no-hit victory.

Leading the sluggers in non-conference play were Bob Kaiser, Darryl Summerfield, Steve Crow, Tom Jones and Steve Renne, all who hit well over the .300 mark. Captain Bill Bonser collected five home runs, Renne had four and Outfielder Jim Skoog had three. Jones, Renne and Summerfield had over ten runs batted in. Third baseman Summerfield added three triples and six doubles; Lute Barnes had five stolen bases.

In the pitching department, Ken Forsch won three against no losses, supporting a superb 0.64 ERA. Ace right-hander Jack Humphrey had three victories also while Jim Powell, Denny Tower, Cleve Benson and Eric Selberg added two victories each.

The Beavers then headed into conference play following one of the most successful pre-season campaigns in OSU history. The great first year coaching of Gene Tanselli along with great team balance were the keys to Beaver success.

Beavers Close With Flurry To Gain Third in PAC Race

Bill Bonser, above, senior catcher, was a steady cog in the Beaver offense during the 1967 season. The burly receiver socked five home runs on the season and was such a threat in PAC games that he was walked 20 times.

The 1967 Beavers faced the cream of the nation's crop in the PAC. Against such nationally ranked powers as USC, Stanford, UCLA, Oregon and Washington State, the Beavers battled their way to the third spot in the final standings.

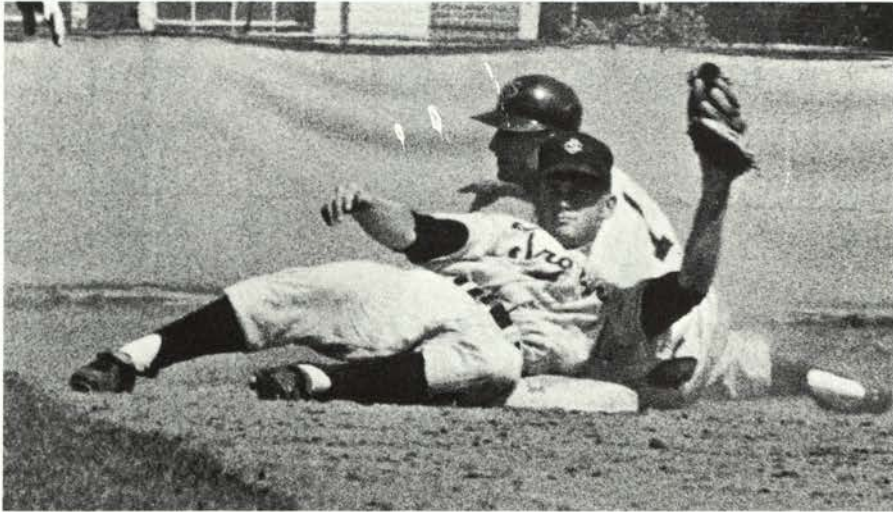

Opening against Stanford, the Beavers dropped two tough decisions to the eventual NCAA semi-finalist Indians. After splitting a pair with California, OSU returned home to edge Washington 8-5, as they began to find their hitting shoes again. The Beavers picked up steam as they edged WSU's Cougars twice behind Ken Forsch and lefty Denny Tower. Two tough throwers, WSU's Doug Brown, and Oregon's Jon Wheeler then each beat the Beavers to temporarily slow them down.

Accomplishing the near impossible, Oregon State dumped second place UCLA, before Jack Humphrey stopped USC, 5-0, on five hits. The Trojans came back to salvage a 6-1 win, before two season-ending OSU victories over sagging Oregon sent the Ducks into fifth place.

Senior hurler Jack Humphrey, 4-0 in conference, Bob Kaiser and Tom Jones were all named to the second team of the All-PAC squad. Humphrey's 1.13 ERA was third in league, while Jones' .348 was fifth, and Steve Crow's five thefts led the league.

Coach Gene Tanselli, above, in his first year as Beaver mentor, led his Beavers to a 25-13 season. The unsilenced coach added excitement to the games with his harassment of umpires and players.

Jack Humphrey, right, top OSU pitcher with a 4-0 PAC record, throws a swinging third strike, above, to complete his 5-0 shutout, a five-hit beauty.

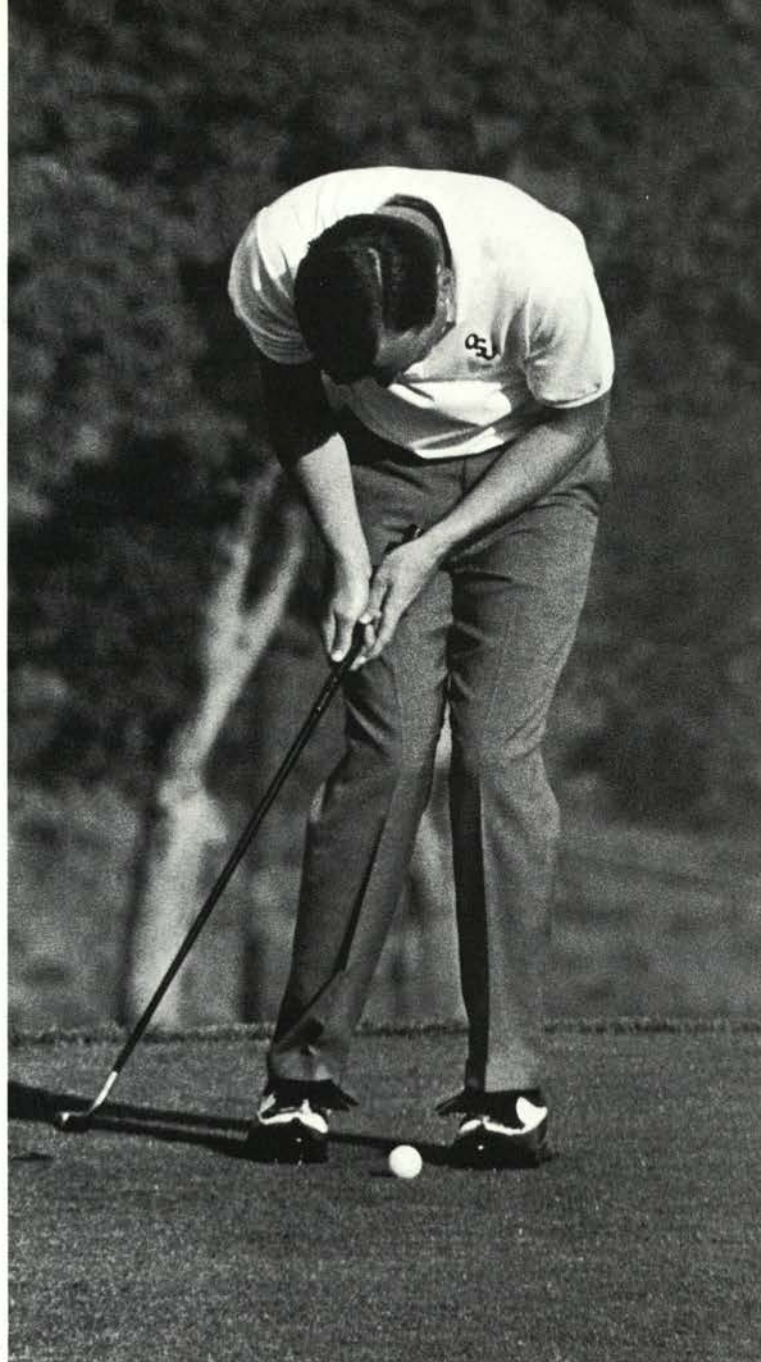

OSU Golfers Surprise PAC For Third Place

The 1967 Beaver golf team was another of the pleasant surprises of OSU spring sports. Coached by first year man Ed Larson, the experienced team compiled an 11-1 record, breezing by every Northwest opponent except arch rival Oregon. The team for 1967 was comprised of Seniors Larry Hartley, and co-captains Bill McCrae and Lloyd West, Juniors Tom Clark and Barry Niles and Sophomore Steve Smith, the lone newcomer to the team.

The Beavers made a surprising showing at Corvallis in the PAC-8 tournament. Picked for fifth place, the Beavers finished strongly to finish third, just three strokes behind second place Stanford. Leading the home clubbers were McCrae with a four-round total of 289, Clark, 294, while Niles and Hartley had 295's. McCrae was fifth individually, Clark was tenth.

In Delaware, the Beavers missed the Pacific Coast and drifted to a disappointing 29th in the NCAA tourney. The disappointment was overlooked by the shadows of a great season and hopes for a better one to come.

Olmedo Sparks Beaver Netters To Wins

Alberto Olmedo led Oregon State's 1967 tennismen through the best season yet on the OSU records. Paced by the Peruvian's consistent wins, the Beavers swept through a 16-1 season for the Northern Division championship.

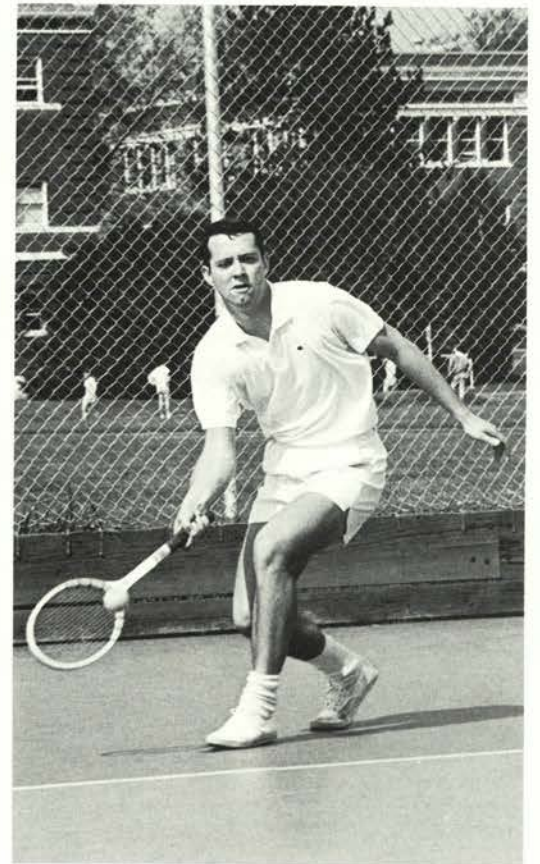

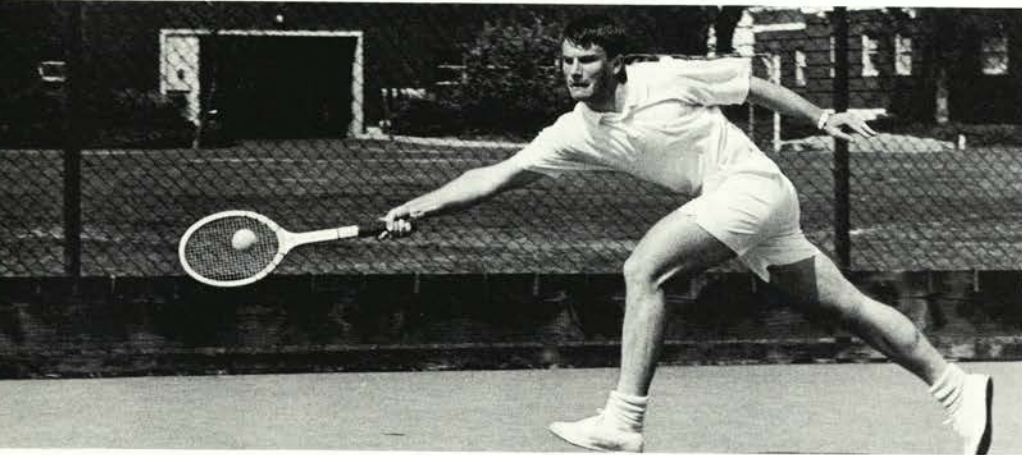

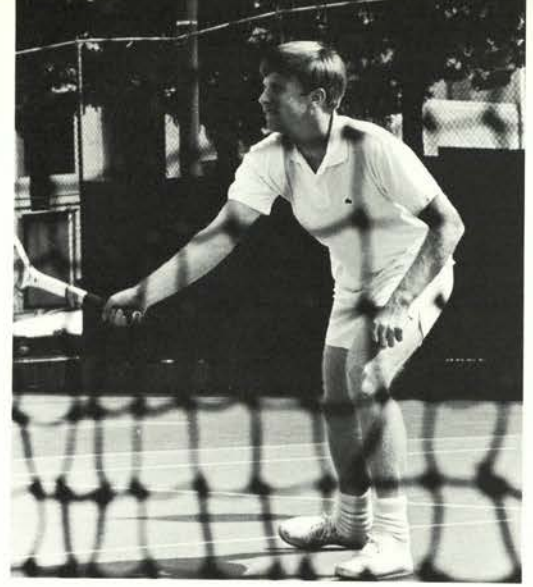

Top-ranked northwest collegiate tennis player, Olmedo was undefeated in conference play. Highlights of the Beaver ace's collegiate tennis career include hard-fought wins over California's Chuck Darley and Stanford's Stan Leek.

As captain of the Beaver net squad, Olmedo led OSU to another ND title with his good form and quick action. Coupled with his agility and accurate returns, the Beaver tennisman dominated court play against almost all opponents. Selected outstanding tennis player for the year, Olmedo's overall collegiate record stands at a glittering 38-6.

Olmedo traveled to the NCAA Championships with fellow netter Ted Jackson to represent Oregon State.

Peruvian Alberto Olmedo, left and above, wields a potent racquet. Whether making a lightning serve or nimbly returning a shot, the Beaver team captain shows the form which has resulted from a lifetime of practice.

OSU Racqueteers Are ND Champs

Taking the season opener 6-3 against the Los Altos Tennis Club, Oregon State tennismen, coached by Don Megale, triumphed over all but one opponent in a 16-1 campaign for the Northern Division crown. Tip-off to the power of the 1967 squad came with the 5-4 upset of California.

Stanford axed Beaver hopes for an unblemished season by downing OSU 6-3 in the last dual match. However, the Orangemen whipped Oregon 7-2 and 9-0. Washington Husky racquetmen also bowed to the powerful Staters in a mid-season 8-1 OSU win.

At the Pacific-8 Championship Tournament, the Beaver tennis team garnered fifth berth. A revenge-seeking California squad took the Beavers 6-3, but OSU bounced back to sweep all sets 9-0 from Washington State and Washington.

Graduation took net stars Alberto Olmedo, Dave Shuford, and Owen Lucey, who was chosen most inspirational player on the 1967 team. But coach Megale is counting on sophomores Bill Bower, Bill Rombeau, John Kearney, and Craig Cooley to bolster Beaver tennis fortunes during the 1968 season.

Senior Ted Jackson, left, undefeated in singles court play, represented OSU at the NCAA finals. Bill Rombeau, above, came through with many wins during 1967, his first varsity season.

Rooks Post 3-2 Record

The 1967 Rook football season opened with an impressive win over the Oregon Frosh. Quarterback Gary Barton guided the Beaver offensive attack. Relying primarily on a strong ground game, the Rook's won 19-7.

The following weekend, the Rooks hosted the Washington State Couabes. Once again, the Rooks relied on the strong running of all-stater Dave Schilling, Bill Carlquist, and Larry Watson as the Rooks won 56-13.

The Rooks crushed the University of Washington Pups, 34-7, at Seattle. The next game was against Treasure Valley, the fourth rated junior college in the nation. Onia Bates ran the opening kickoff back for the first score but the chuckars were not to be denied. After a hard fought battle, the Rooks finally went down 30-26. The season finale against Oregon was an offensive battle with the Rooks losing 48-34.

Above, Gary Barton, ex-Baker star, is brought down by a host of Couabes. Gary was at the helm most of the season directing the Rook attack.

Rook Cager Battle Proven

Coach Bill Harper's Rook cagers duplicated their 1966-67 record by posting a 17-7 season. The Rooks played fine defense during the year and were led in this department by ex-Corvallis star Gary Edmonds. The Rook offensive machine was led by talented Tim Perkins.

This year for the first time, the Rooks accompanied the varsity on the Washington tour. The Pups and Couababes responded by dumping the young Beavers twice but when the Pups came to Corvallis it was a different story.

The Oregon Frosh and the Rooks played a four game series with the Frosh winning three and the Rooks one. During the season Perkins was the main Beaver threat but Hose, Weber, Phipps, Parsons, Skilley, and Haller all scored effectively.

Left, Gary Edmonds goes high in the air to gain tip from Oregon defender. Above, Tim Perkins sets to drive down the key against the Frosh.

Rooks Show Future Promise

Track

The 1967 Rook track squad had only one dual meet but it was a big one. The Rook spikers took 11 out of 17 events to top the Oregon Frosh 78-67. Willie Turner sparked the thinclads with victories in the 100 and 220. The rest of the season was spent participating in relay meets. Consistent performers throughout the season were Billy Nickleberry in the long jump, John Lilly in the mile and 880, John Radetich in the high jump, and Steve Norris in the pole vault.

Baseball

The 1967 Rook baseball team had a very successful season in posting a 17-10 record. Coach Harper's diamondmen put together consistent pitching and clutch hitting to support the record. The pitching duties were carried out by Jerry Johnson, Terry Lee, Steve Phillips, Dale Shultz and Jeff Gredvik. The steady hitting was led by all-stater Bob Beall, Jay Widmer, Larry Rich, Tom Shoupe, Gary Carroll and Chris Johnson.

Golf

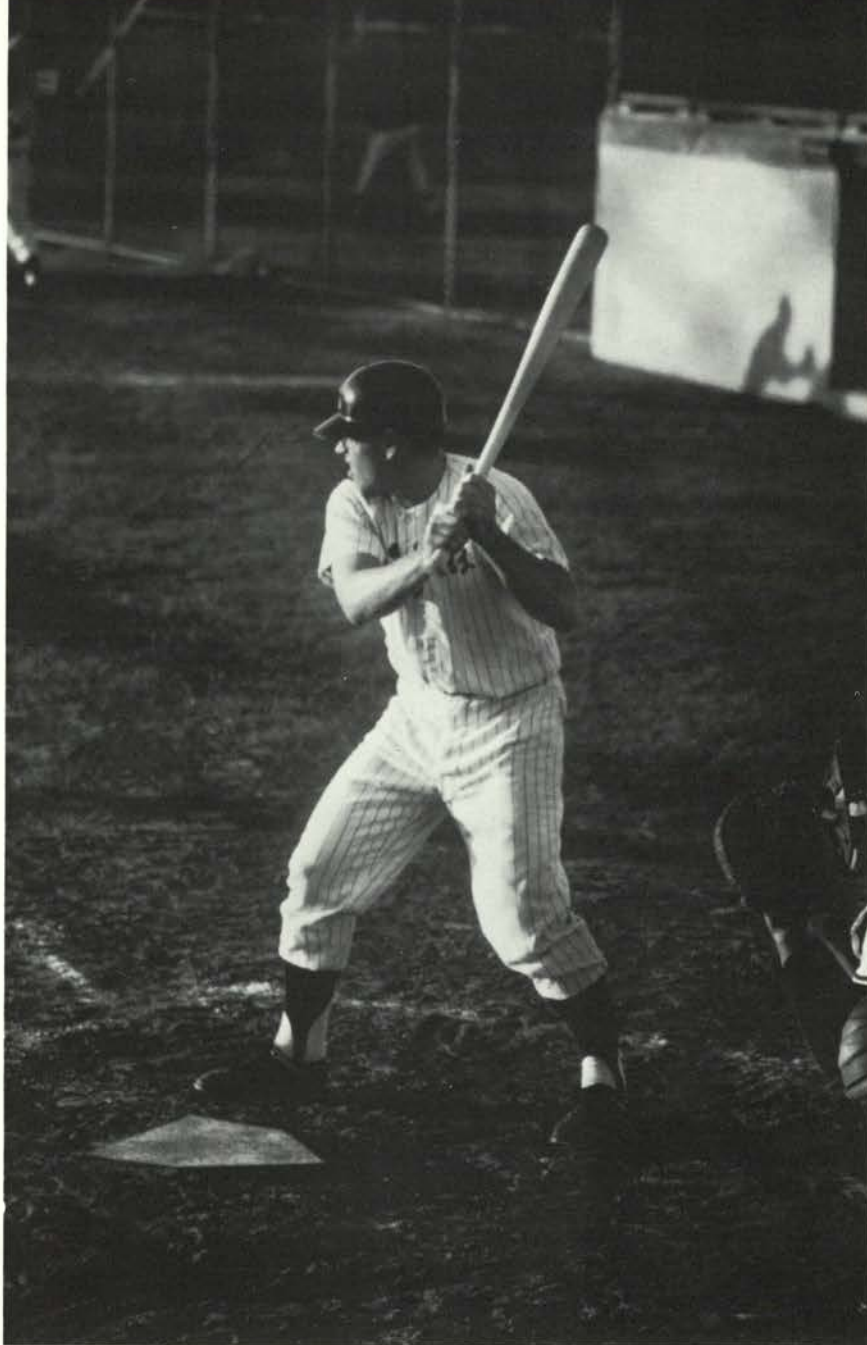

The 1967 Rook golf team had a very successful year. Led by Bob Allard, Paul Ramp, and Van Williams, the Rook Squad had key matches with Oregon Frosh, various country club teams and several high school teams. All members benefitted from the practice and experience and are looking forward to next year's varsity competition.

Tennis

Under the fine coaching of Bud McCoy, the Rook netters compiled a 7-7 mark. Highlight of the 1967 season was the win over the Oregon Frosh. Bill Reinig, the Idaho champion paced the Rooks throughout the year. Terry Childress, Roger Beck, Craig Leavy, Tim Adsit, Roger Hamreus, Dick Krumvieda added valuable wins during the year.

Top, Bill Reinig returns serve to opponents. Above, John Radetich clears cross bar against Oregon. Right, Willie Turner crosses tape in 9.7 against Oregon. Turner also won 220 and anchored winning relay team.

Swimming

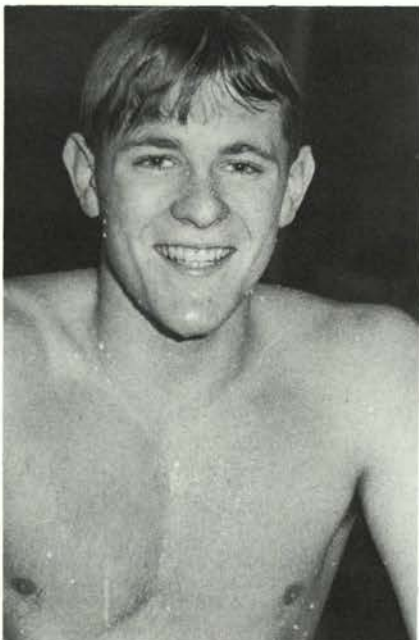

The 1967 Rook swimming season was highlighted by a dual meet victory over the University of Washington. This was the first time in the history of OSU that this feat has been accomplished. The tankers also placed second behind Oregon in the Northwest Freshmen Championships at Gresham.

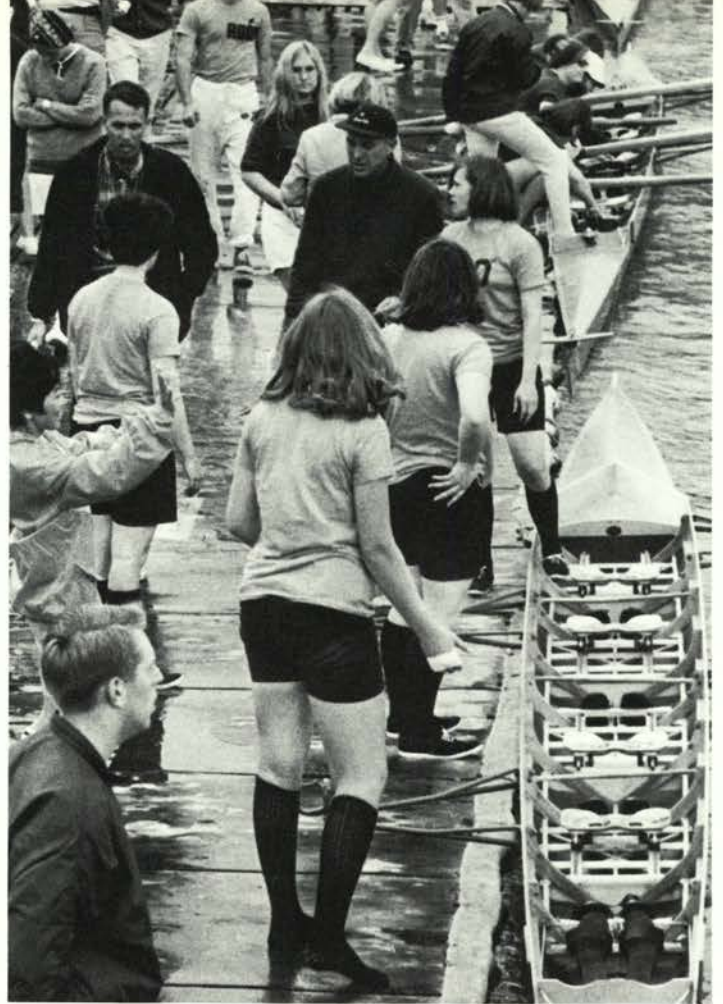

Leading the team was Joe Ott in the breaststroke and individual medley. Doug Johnson also swam the breaststroke and individual medley while Wayne Richards held down the butterfly event and Jim Farrell was the freestyler.

Wrestling

The Rook wrestling squad was loaded with high school state champions this season but were still dumped twice by the Oregon Frosh. Coach Jim Pond's matmen were led by 160 pound, two-time state champ, Captain Bob Tomasovic; 123 pound, Randy Boone; 130 pound, Lee Garoian; 137 pound, Roger Weigel; 145 pound, Nick Darley and Doug Hardesty at 152 pounds.

Lightweight Oarsmen Are Champs

In its fortieth season the Oregon State Rowing Club met 139 opponents and finished ahead 77 times. The lightweight varsity-8 successfully defended its championship on the 2000-meter course at the Western Sprints for the second year in a row.

Unbeaten last year, the OSRC lightweights edged past San Diego State and USC in 6:56.7. This win topped a 1967 season that included nine straight victories for the lightweight rowers.

With races scheduled against crews from Canada to California, the Oregon State RC, coached by Karl Drlica, becomes the ninth major sport at OSU in 1968. Heavyweight varsity, junior varsity, and Rook crews will race under the direction of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. Light varsity will continue as part of the OSRC, and women rowers will race as a recreational sports club.

The OSRC again sponsored the Fourth Corvallis Invitational Regatta. More than 300 men and women competed in 37 races. Oregon State rowed to first spot for the fourth consecutive year with 63 points for the combined team. The Lake Washington RC won the varsity race 2.7 seconds ahead of the OSRC crew to set a new course record of 6:02.5 on the Willamette River.

Rook oarsmen stroked to 15 wins and 8 losses during the 1967 racing season. At the Western Sprints, the freshmen pulled to fifth place in 6:40.9.

Oregon State RC president Bill Lyman was named most valuable oarsman and outstanding senior for 1967. Doug O'Connor, was tapped for the Order of the Orange Oar, and named to the Deek Rowing Society were Jerry Marks, Bill Lyman, Bruce Sickenger, G. Lowell Lewis, and Steve Walker.

OSU Ruggers Win Battles

Building on experienced forwards, the 1968 edition of the Oregon State rugby team finished 3-2 in league action. This ranked them third in the Northwest Rugby Conference. Dr. Mike Roberts coached the Orange and Black ruggers.

The Dad's Weekend game with the University of Washington provided many thrills for the spectators. In the course of the game, the lead changed many times. With less than a minute left in the final period, the Beaver ruggers scored for the 16-15 victory.

At the invitational Monterey Tournament, Oregon State finished 12th with a 2-2 record in a field of top west coast rugby squads.

Wally Johnson, playing in the flanker position, led the Beavers as top scorer during season play.

Soccermen Beat Oregon

The OSU soccer team, coached by Iain MacSwan, tallied a 6-2-2 season in the Oregon Intercollegiate Soccer League. Oregon State and the University of Portland battled for second spot in league play behind the Oregon Ducks.

Highlight of the season came when the Beaver kickers beat the Ducks 2-1. This was the first time the Webfoots had been beaten all season by any team. The Oregon State soccer men were "up" for the game and played hard to come away with the victory.

Goalie Dave Harmon and fullback Herbert Wanyanga were picked as outstanding players by coach MacSwan. Wanyanga also served as captain for the 1968 OSU soccer team, which boasted several experienced returnees and many new men.

OSU Skiers Win Events

Oregon State's ski team, paced by the women's contingent, finished fourth in the Oregon Collegiate Ski Conference. Coach Corky Barrell guided the Beaver team to numerous individual and group victories in the nine-meet season.

Jeanne Evans, women's captain, and sophomore Cindy Pattison paced the OSU women skiers to a second in the Northwest Women's Collegiate Championships. Evans swept to wins in all three events — slalom, downhill, and giant slalom — at the Eastern Oregon Winter Carnival.

Starting with a relatively inexperienced team, the Beaver men skiers finished fourth in conference competition. Captain Rick Walters, fourth-ranked in conference competition, and senior Tom Ford led the men's team to wins on the slope

OSU Rifle Team Shoots on Target

Randy Pitney and John Strong led the OSU rifle team, coached by Dr. Gerald Fowler, to national prominence with top scores in intercollegiate shooting matches.

At the sectional match of the Intercollegiate National Championships held at OSU, Beaver riflemen took 11 of 21 awards. Strong won individual honors in both conventional and international competition. Over all, the OSU teams were second in conventional and first and third in international-style contests.

Traveling to Reno for the Nevada Invitational Intercollegiate Rifle Tournament, Beaver sharpshooters won 6 of 10 matches to place second in the tourney, just nine points behind the winner. Pitney, pictured center left, captured individual honors; Strong was third.

In the non-collegiate Willamette Valley League, OSU has a 7-4 record at mid-season. According to coach Fowler, Pitney and Strong are prime candidates for All-American awards. OSU has had twenty sharpshooters so honored previously.

Bowlers Strike Out

Led by Larry Sturm, Vern McLean, and Larry Sievers, the OSU men's bowling team rolled a 2865 three-game total to capture first place in the Association of College Unions Regional Tournament, displacing Oregon, the perennial winner. Sturm, with a 190 game average, was third ranked in league standings. Beaver bowlers finished in a second place tie with OCE in league action.

Intramurals -

In Spring Intramurals of 1967, action was concentrated about the highly contested All-University Track Meet. Fiji footballers Bill Main and Steve Preece finished first and third in the 100-yard dash, with Beta Bob Kaiser getting second. Preece came back to win the 220, before anchoring an upset in the relay over Wiley Smith and Phi Delta Theta. Sigma Alpha Epsilon racked up valuable points in the field events to overcome the Fiji's and gain their second straight title.

In dual competition, Beta Theta Pi, led by sprinter Larry Austin, captured the all school championship over Heckart Lodge. Erich Hoffman, Phi Psi, in singles, and a Phi Delt pair won the tennis crowns.

Delta Upsilon upset the Beta's for the fraternity softball crown, but were defeated by Aahper for the final crown. In golf, Jim Wise, a DU, won the A crown, with Steve Simonson of Quorth Logar and Glenn Asato of Siegal Hagall winning the B and C titles, respectively.

Football quarterback Steve Preece, top right, finishes his winning anchor leg of the 660-yard relay. The victory for Phi Gamma Delta over the Phi Delt's gave the SAE's their second straight All-University Track title. Dave Cutsforth and Clay Nelson, below right give Sigma Phi Epsilon the B Doubles Tennis crown.

A 3200-Man Business at OSU

Fall and Winter intramurals were dominated by three living groups, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Upsilon.

The Phi Deltas took the flag football title behind the passing of Shev Aguillar, as they defeated Heckart Lodge for the title. The Phi Deltas also claimed the volleyball fraternity title, losing to the powerful sextet in the finals.

The SAE's swept all three basketball leagues with convincing wins in the title games. The A's were led by Bob Allard and Paul Norris in dumping Aahper, 71-53. Larry Barnes and Chris Haag led the B's to a 62-35 win, while Don Welch, Craig Hanneman, and Ron Holloway led the C's to a 59-39 final triumph. The SAE's reached the golf finals, by taking the fraternity division. Gar Ilix took the title away from them in the finals, however.

The DU's captured the fraternity bowling title, while Avery Lodge took the overall title. In swimming, the DU's were led by Ken Hammer and Steve Thorsted in taking the dual and All-University tank titles.

In the All-University, John Blackstock of SAE won two titles and anchored the winning relay. Jerry Marks, a Phi Delt, also won two events, both in freestyle, while Sigma Chi's Fred Waite took the 300-yard freestyle.

Acacia took the horseshoes title in 1967, while John Hudson, an independent won the tables tennis title. Hudson then doubled with Daryoushi for his second straight doubles title. Ten new winners were crowned in the All-University finals, with Tyr Feoh Kaun winning the team title. Rich Shiraishi took the first judo title, and Craig Chambers captured the handball crown.

Two hurdlers cross the last hurdle and head for the finish in the All-University meet, left. Above, Fiji Bill Main, left, wins the 100 in 9.9, closely pursued by Bob Kaiser of Beta Theta Pi and Fiji Steve Preece.

Athletic Department Directs Intercollegiate Sports at OSU

Kline Swygard

The Oregon State Athletic Board, composed of faculty, students, and alumni, conducts the business of the Athletic Department through Jim Barratt, Director of Athletics. An OSU graduate of 1950 with 17 years of experience in Beaver athletics, Barratt attributes Beaver successes in sports competition to strict compliance to the policy of "it's good for athletics, only if it's good for Oregon State."

Assisting Barratt in the Athletic Department are John Eggers, Sports Publicity Director; Comm Henness, Business Manager of Athletics; and Dennis Hedges, Assistant to the Athletic Director. Other staff members include the following: John Chaplin, Ticket Manager; Bill Robertson, Head Trainer; Eddie Ferrell, Assistant Trainer; and Don Shelley, Equipment Manager.

Sea Horses and WRA Offer Coed Sports

Sea Horses is a group of OSU coeds who are especially interested in aquatics and synchronized swimming. These women, under the advisorship of Miss Jeanette Masilionis, meet weekly to improve skills, to learn new stunts and figures, and to practice rhythmic swimming. Activities include swimposiums and clinics, swimming meets, and participation in the Northwest Aquatic Art Festival. Practice during fall and winter terms culminates in the annual water show on campus each spring during Moms' Weekend.

All Oregon State women are eligible for membership in the Women's Recreational Association. Leisure time exercise as well as intramural and extramural sports competition are offered to all participants. Miss Velda Brust is the chief advisor with other Women's Physical Education Department staff members coaching specific sports.

Competing with women from other schools, OSU women in the WRA extramurals program participate on tennis, volleyball, hockey, crew, bowling, softball, swimming, track, and basketball teams. Extramural Manager Paula Keeney supervises this program of intercollegiate activities.

Living group teams as well as individuals compete in WRA intramurals, headed by manager Dana Shaw. Included are games and tournaments in archery, tennis, billiards, table tennis, bowling, badminton, volleyball, basketball, gymnastics, softball, and swimming.

And in the beginning, there was rush . . .

... a time of "original" conversation... "What is your major?"... "Where are you from?"... and a new way of life begins.

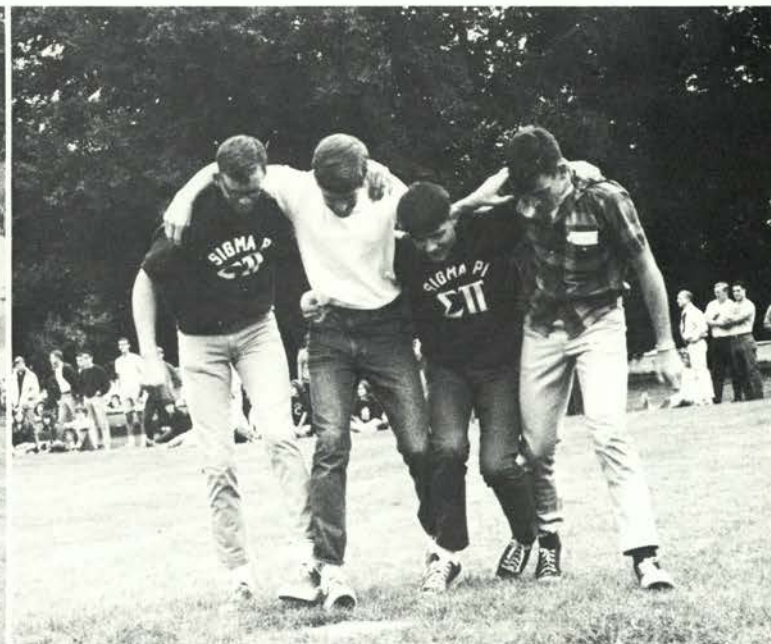

OSU can safely boast that they have one of the strongest Greek systems on the West Coast. With thirty-two fraternities and sixteen sororities, 18% of the student body is associated with a Greek organization.

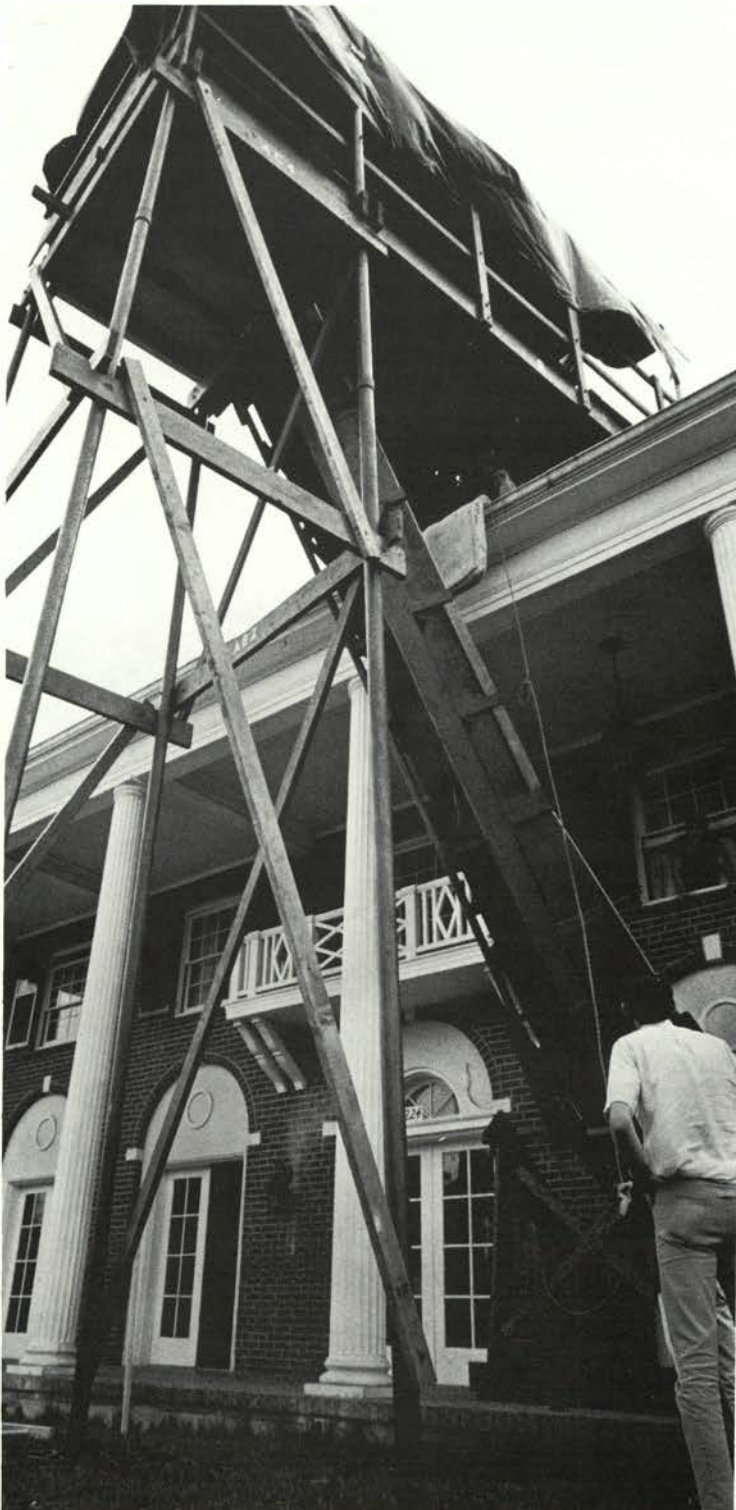

Greek Week was held this fall for the first time. The highlights included exchange dinners, speakers, community service, and afternoon of relay games, and the Bob Hope concert.

Student governing bodies attempted to handle their problems internally. A special rush to aid Zeta Tau Alpha sorority was conducted winter term. As a result of disciplinary action for various social functions eight houses were placed on social probation.

... A life busy with Monday night chapter meetings, study table, Thursday night exchanges, house dances, and pledge duties.

CO-OPS

Co-operative living . . . a real sense of co-operation
. . . doing your share of work jobs . . . serving meals . . . oh-oh, the heads again . . . group living with time to yourself.

Co-operative living offers something that no other living organization offers. They combine both greek and dormitory living and benefit from group activity, lower cost, and independence.

In years past, co-ops were separate from the school, but as of last year, they became a part of the University housing, while still maintaining internal control of their houses. Co-ops have been a part of O.S.U. for many years and they will continue to be a distinctive type of living on this campus.

Birthday showers in the backyard . . . water fights . . . fire crackers on the sleeping porch . . . an endless chain of initiating and repaying R.F.'s.

INDEPENDENTS

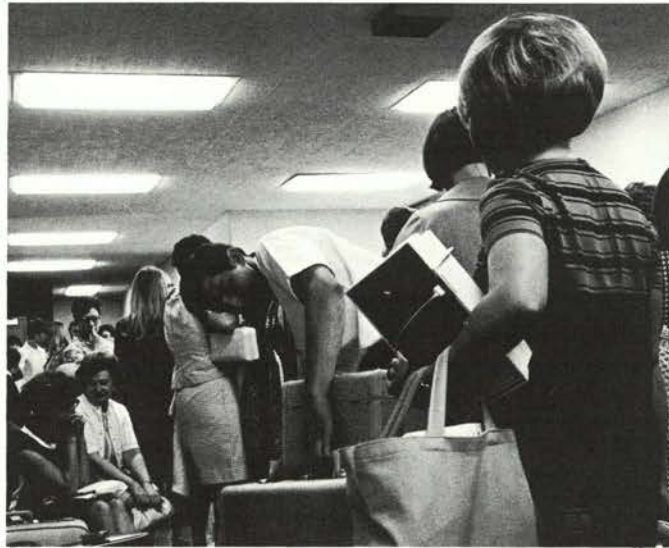

With the completion of Finley Hall and plans for two new residence halls, the dorm population accounts for 30% of all OSU students.

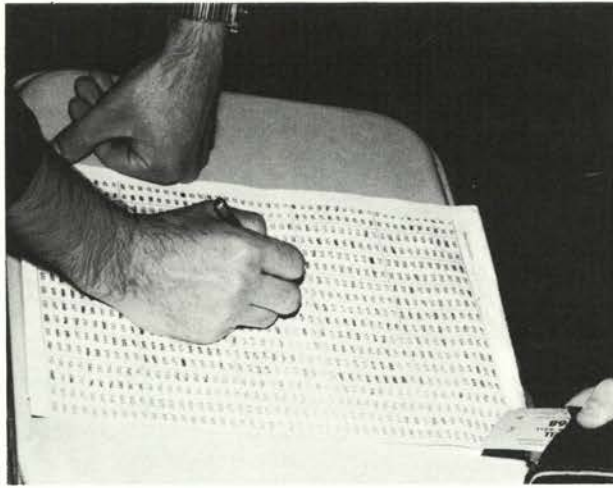

Poling Hall was closed after fall term and is destined to become an office building.

Life in a residence hall can provide as much unity or independence as the individual wants. OSU halls have displayed a great deal of unity and spirit this year.

This was evidenced by the participation of Callahan women in the IFC sing, a show-erathon by Wilson men, and a relay from the quad to the U of O football game by Finley men.

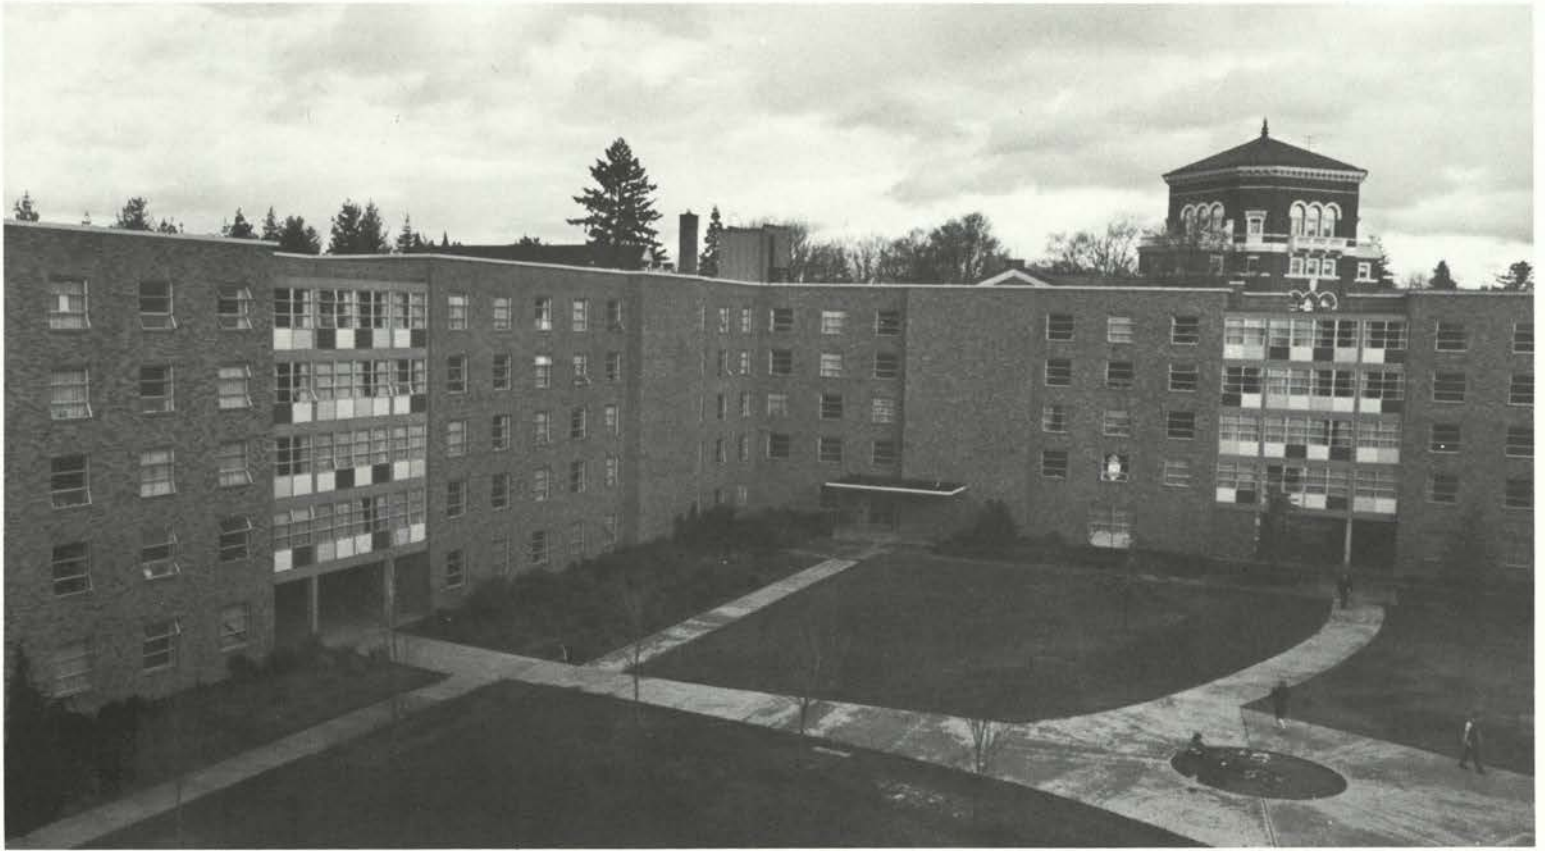

Dorm life, group living with independence. . . educational experience for freshmen. . . 6 a.m. fire drills-in the rain. . . artistic and intellectual window displays.

Long, long cafeteria lines . . .
the ever busy elevators . . . buzzers adding to the constant sound of activity . . . a mass effort when saying goodnight at closing . . . telescopes in the rooms-for star gazing?

OFF CAMPUS

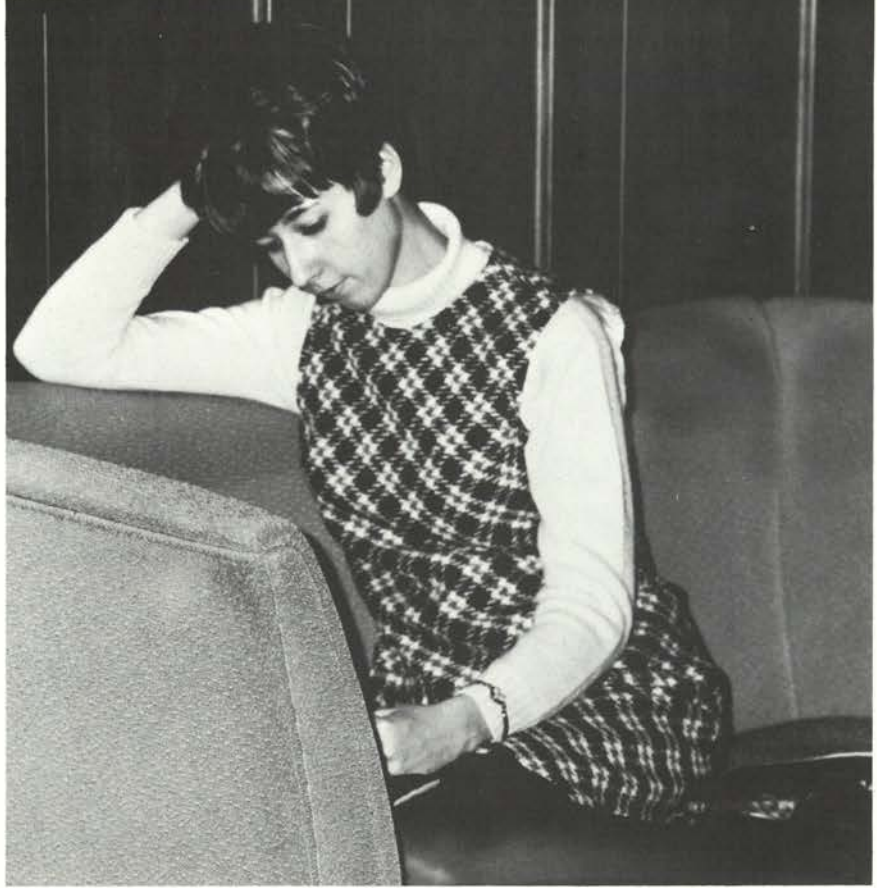

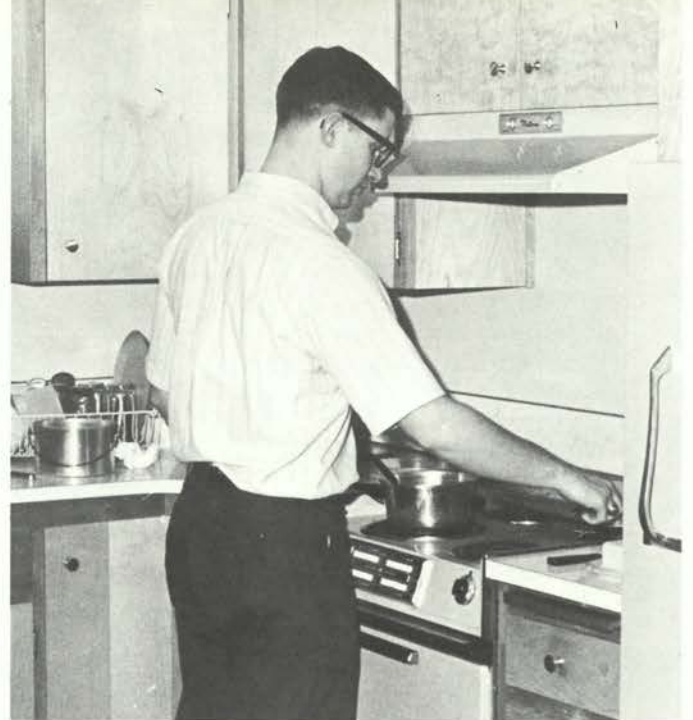

With the privilege of off-campus living extended to juniors, more and more students are moving into apartments. The percentage has increased from 44 to 47% of O.S.U. students.

Along with this increase has come an increase in apartment construction. The national chain of College-Inn, a privately owned residence hall, completed a new hall in Corvallis last fall.

Apartment life, a new freedom . . . no meetings, no restrictions . . . bills to pay . . . a long walk to campus . . . no parking places . . . rent due at the first of the month.

Learning to cook . . .
studying sandwiched with KP . . . cupboards to fill
. . . a quiet refuge . . . a handy place for a pre-function.

SENIORS

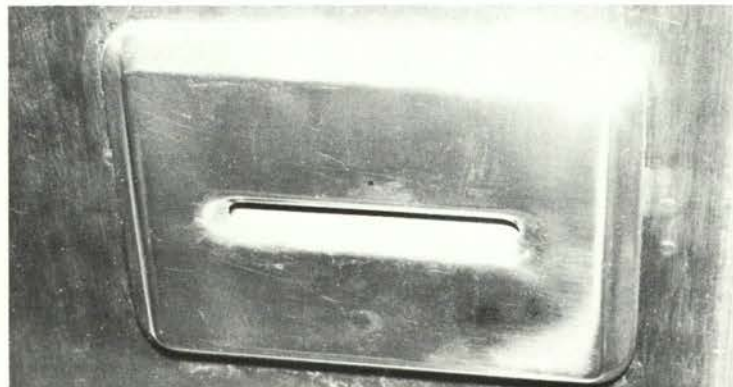

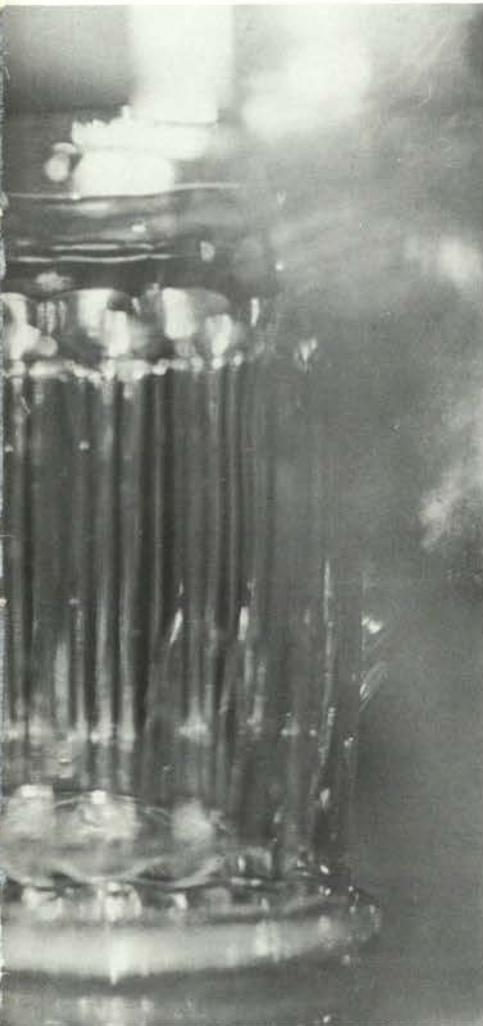

This is it . . . the culmination of our college life — knowing that we've changed attitudes, matured, known people. — three years resulting in a common ground for all who have gone through it . . . a unity tangible only to the senior.

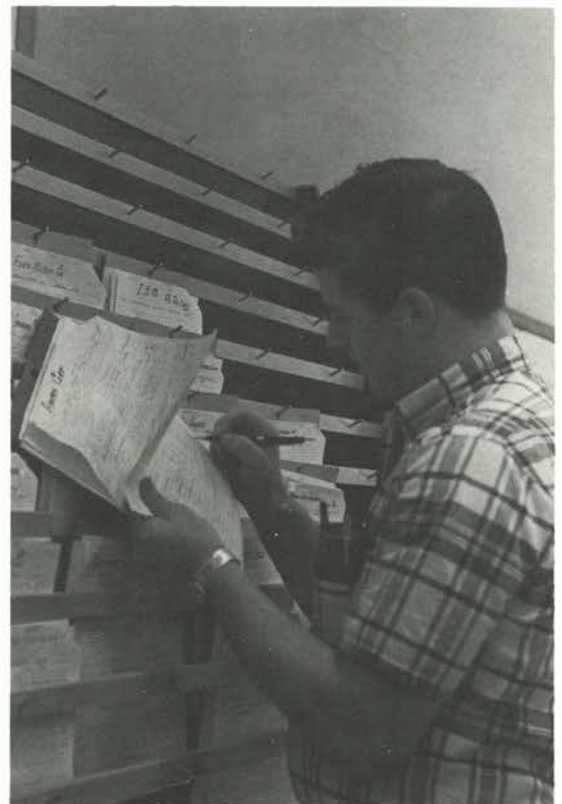

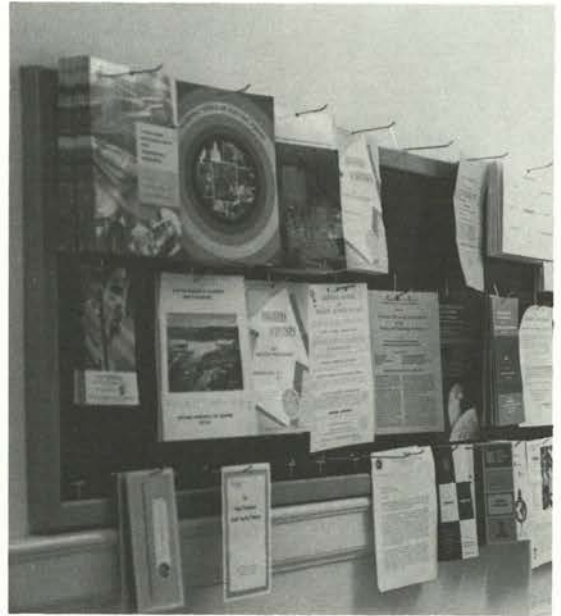

Casual is the attitude of the senior. Mid-terms, papers, finals produce little anxiety. The senior carries on with his "what-the-heck, it'll-get-done," attitude. The flimsiest excuse will bring the cry "let's hit the Hut." There might be a change of scenery — PJ's, Price's, The Falcon's Lair, Peacock — but the familiar faces and happy thought will be waiting there.

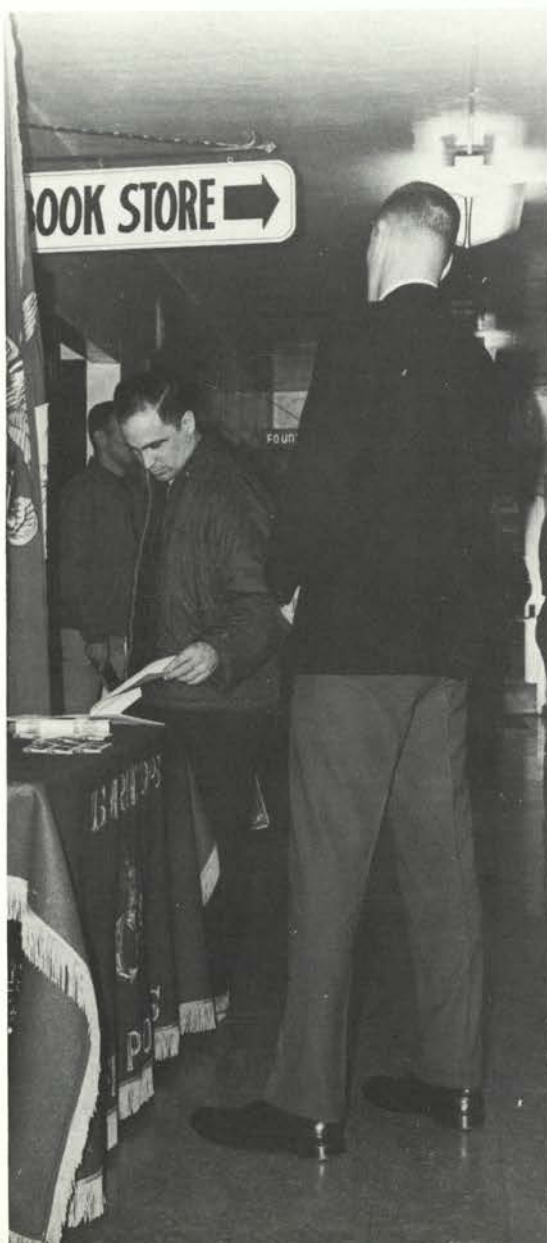

Is it so casual? Now, after four years, it's serious. The interviews — do I want the job? What's more, do they want me? I'm full of preparation — but qualification? Corvallis won't be waiting for me next fall. What will be?

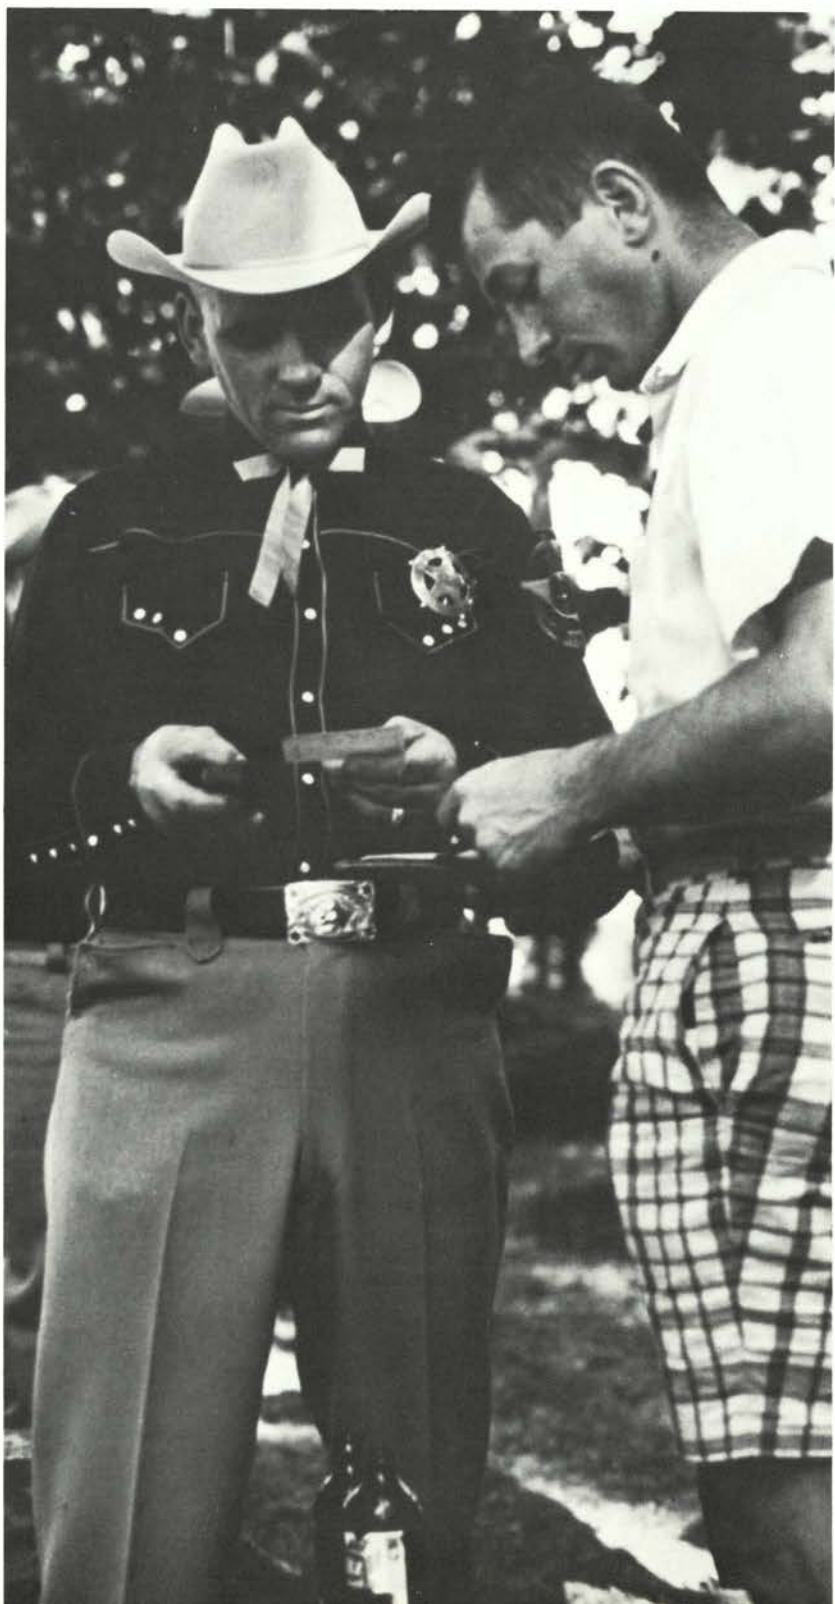

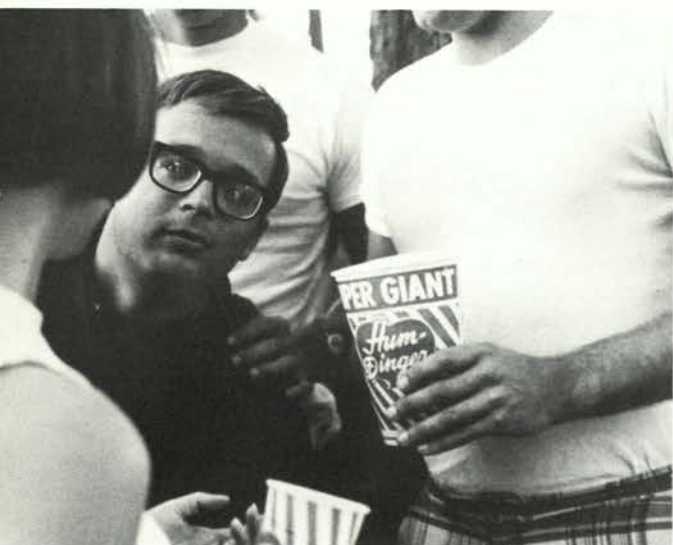

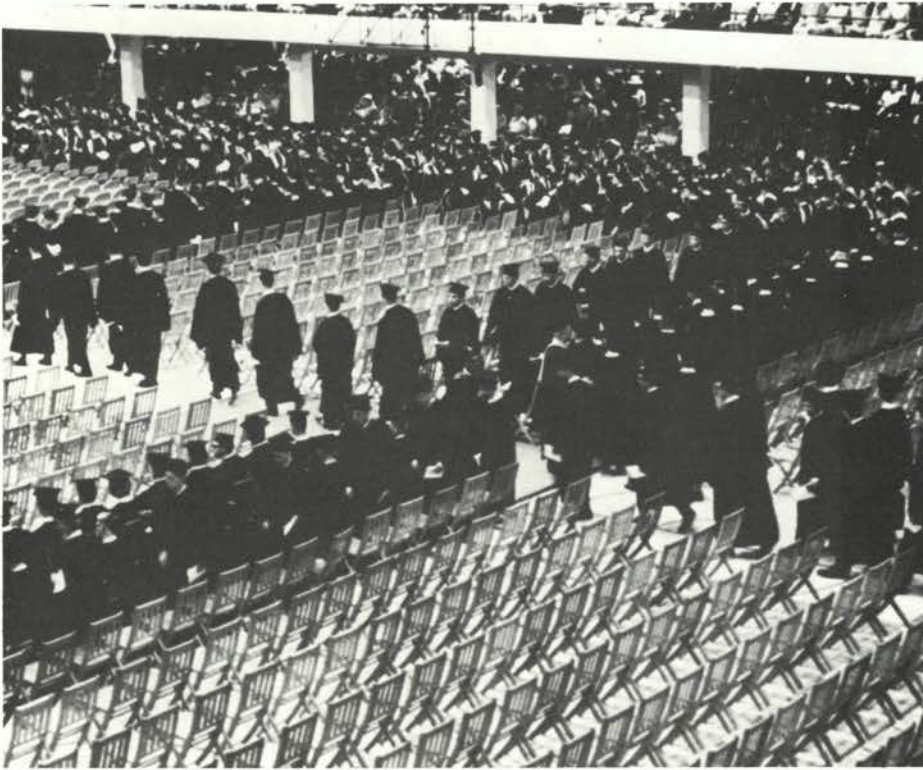

For some, the future is less questionable, at the same time it's new — this future is shared.

The right is mine, yet who makes this future decision — me, or Uncle Sam?

Sun, steak, beer, friends — no studies, no schedules.
This time is ours, it's carefree, it's welcomed.

Graduation isn't the ceremony or the day — it's all of those days, triumphs and traumas. We might be sentimental, relieved, amazed — yet our college life is over and a new environment awaits us.

"The key to the world's future is Education. It is the duty of every individual to make the most of his knowledge and pledge it to the betterment of his fellow man. Education was not destined to be misused in creating the crisis of yesterday and today, but in establishing a more secure foundation from which we might understand the many problems of our complex society."
