far a - part they sat and talked with man - ners most se - date, — And par - lor lights look kind of sick a - long tow'rds half - past ten — But home she sent her Ro - me - o just on the stroke of eight! — And still they're much too bright and so they low - er them a - gain! — Then when they part - ed, Grand - ma used to pout her pret - ty lips — And May peeks out and whis - pers, "Pa an' Ma are both a - sleep" — And let her sweet - heart come up close and kiss her fin - ger tips! — Jack says "Aint that Sad" while May feels bad e - nough to weep! — might be shocked if she were liv - ing now —

Grand - ma would fold her hands and sigh, "Dear mel" (yawn) It was hot to day! "And First time Jack kiss'd his May he swore, He'd nev - er, nev - er kissed be - fore! And he'd say, "Yes, in - deed I think it will!" — Then May said, "Yes, I see you don't know how." — When Grand - ma's Pa would come in - side and talk him - self to death Till Jack said, "May is that your Dad I hear out - side the door moth - er called down stairs, "It's time to go" And May said "That's the milk - man down be - low" Jack when at last they said, Good night, Dad stuck a - round like glue; That's grabbed his hat and said, "By gosh it's three o' - clock, I'll go" Oh how it was when Grand - ma had a beau!

 times have changed since Grand - ma had a beau!
