"Taint Gonna Rain No Mo"
Arranged by Director
in Novel Feature

The twentieth annual concert of the Military band in the men's gymnasium Saturday night will be open for all students and Corvallis townpeople. The program will be the same as presented on the 10-day tour through the lower Columbia river valley during spring vacation. The 53 musicians are expected to give a good program as they have put in many hours practicing and have gained additional experience with the selections while on the tour.

"The band gives the program I have selected this year in a very creditable manner," says Captain H. L. Beard, director. "The program is played in smoother and more satisfactory manner than any I have selected in the past and according to the amount of favorable comment I have received from the program, I can justly say that it is the best the band has played in many years."

Basketball Captain Optimistic for 1926

LORIS R. BAKER

BAKER ASSISTS COACH IN TRAINING HOOPERS

Varsity Basketball Captain-Elect
Thinks Prospects for Next Year's Team Good

Loris Baker, captain-elect of the varsity basketball team is working with Coach "Bob" Hager in developing the new men out for spring practice. He will be the matman of the Aggie team next year. "Baker" was given honorable mention on the mythical all-coast team this year.

"Baker is the only man of the first five who will be back next year, all of the others being lost by graduation," says Coach Hager. "Loris had had a wonderful year and filled the shoes left by Slats Gill as pivot man on the percentage offense in a creditable manner. He is an accurate shot and has worlds of speed. This coupled with his cool generalship, will make him a valuable hub around which the Aggie offense will be built."

As for spring practice and prospects for next year Captain Baker says, "Spring practice will prove valuable in developing the men from the freshmen squad. Even though we lost the three stars of this year's team, O. A. C. will not trade prospects with any team in the conference."

ATHLETIC DELEGATES GO TO LOS ANGELES

NEWLY INSTALLED PRESIDENT
ATTENDS CONFERENCE

Program Includes Closed Meetings,
Round Table Discussions, and Social Functions

Delegates to the fourth western sectional conference of the Athletic Conference of American College Women at the University of California, southern branch, at Los Angeles will leave this morning at 11 o'clock.

Helen Moser, newly installed president of the Women's Athletic association, is official delegate for O. A. C. Margaret Wait and Wilma Leach were appointed by the executive board of the local Women's Athletic association to go as unofficial delegates.

The conference is scheduled for April 9, 10, and 11. The program includes round table discussions on problems which are common to all associations, closed meetings to determine policies of the national organization, and social functions including picnics, luncheons, a swimming exhibit, and a dance drama. Miss Moser will give a toast at the banquet on Friday evening on some phase of the local W. A. A. program.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN

Coach Coleman Plans Game to Determine Men for Varsity Positions

Beaver flingers came out from their places of hibernation last night and scampered over the diamond in mid-season form. The men were full of "ginger" as a result of the unexpected sight of "old Sol." and hammered the ball to all corners of the lot as well as putting on an infield practice that would be a credit to a team at the end of the season. The few days of outside work and the work in the gymnasium has removed all traces of sore arms, and the men are now ready for the pre-season practice games.

Batting practice was first on the program, the men all taking their turn at the rubber, and although the chasers were not putting over any "hooks," the manner in which the hitters were leaning on the ball gave indications of a hard hitting team this year. Schumacher, Riddings, Escallier and Sigrist poled out hits that would have gone for extra bases in a regular game. Tebb, Woodward, Sly and Murdock alternated in the pitchers box and put the ball over the plate with worlds of speed.

WHERE IS THAT CLASS SPIRIT?

The O. A. C. student body is vastly more than a mere group of students attending college. Certain rules, regulations, and divisions have been necessary for governing and classifying this great throng of academically hungry knowledge seekers. A great array of student organizations, some for social purposes and others for progressive student enterprise, have naturally evolved themselves and have become a part of the life of the college.

In the way of student organization, the government of the student body as a unit is probably the most distinctive and pre-eminent of all. Then the class organizations of freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors are supposed to display enough activity to justify their classification under such a name, rather than have that name indicate just a mere step in their progress through the institution.

The freshman class gave a splendid dance Friday evening that was, more than any other first year function this year, strictly freshman. The sophomores and juniors have had the cotillion and the prom. They created quite a ripple on the campus pond when they broke out with the sweaters, scarfs, and red sweat shirts; and have done some other things but could do infinitely more to liven the spirit within their own classes. The seniors are taking their start for this, their last term, in the form of a bust and dedicatory function for the senior table top tonight. It's a good move and they will show more of them before the term has closed.

The underclassmen or the upperclassmen may say that some rule or some restriction of the college or the student body has curbed and hampered them, and that even now they could not spread their wings in the way they would like to without incurring the ill will or wrath of not a few. Of course there are rules, but they are not so cramped in their very nature as not to permit frequent effusions of good wholesome class spirit, in the form of a party, feature entertainment, picnic or what not.

Two months of the term and the college year remain. There is pride in the name freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior, most assuredly there is, but why not let it be more evident through the cooperative display of class spirit?

THINKING OF COLLEGE 20 YEARS HENCE

Just as sure as rain falls in Oregon, the year 1945 will be a reality 20 years from now. But what of it? What has that to do with this season's baseball outlook or the price of 1926 Beavers?

Just this much. You will want to look back upon your college days and muse in happy memory upon the life and activity of your undergraduate years. Each succeeding year in the interim between this year and that, a few more of the tasty memory fragments of those college days, will slip from your power of recollection, if there is not some "jogger" of the memory to recall them and fix them indelibly with you for all time.

Just what can it be that will serve that purpose? The 1926 Beaver will be of priceless consideration to you then when all the successes of business and the joys of prestige in the world as an influential man or woman of affairs could not be taken for one evening, glancing through the treasure-laden volume of undergraduate memories.

The ones who make progress and take the steps ahead are the ones who look to the future, keeping the present in mind. As you turn the pages of the 1926 Beaver, 20 years from today, before your eyes will be revealed the best kind of a moving picture, more dear and near to your heart than any you could ever hope to see on the screen.

The 1926 Beaver will be distributed campus week-end, less than six weeks away. The circulation staff needs your subscription to assure the book's financial success, and you need the Beaver to insure your satisfaction and to guarantee your enjoyment now and later. If you have not yet decided in favor of a Beaver purchase, cease to hesitate. Never could you spend five dollars more profitably. The Beaver circulation drive opens tomorrow. "Every Beaver Buys a Beaver" should be the slogan.

PROFESSOR TO SUBMIT TEXT-BOOK REVISION

Comprehensive Set of Annuity and Interest Tables Also Will Go to Publishers

F. C. Kent, professor of mathematics, has been requested by the McGraw-Hill Book company of New York, publishers of his books on finance and statistics, to submit an early date copy to be used in the revision of "Mathematical Principles of Finance." This material is to be available for the third printing of the book which will be necessary this fall.

At the same time Professor Kent will release for publication a comprehensive set of 10-place interest and annuity tables for rates from one-fourth per cent to 10 per cent and for one to 300 periods. Solution of many practical problems calls for monthly conversion of interest up to as high as 25 years. It will be possible to obtain directly from the tables the factors necessary for the solution of such problems without the usual difficulties encountered in problems of this character.

The Monroe electric calculating machine provided with an extra wide carriage is employed in these computations and reduces material-ly both the time and labor involved. Professor Kent expects to have this material ready for the publishers before June 1. These tables will be bound separately from the texts.

BAND CONCERT COMES ON SATURDAY EVENING

V. Skinner, written by Bergson; "Song of India," feature by Rinsky-Korsakow; "Le Feria," suite Espagnole by Lacomme; "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," baritone solo sung by Guy Craig, written by Lockhart; "Taint Gonna Rain No Mo'," feature arranged by Captain H. L. Beard, a storm for every instrument; "Pussyfoot March," saxophone quartet novelty, by White; "Songs From the Old Folks," patriotic medley by M. T. Lake.

Solos Win Much Favor
"Egmont" and "La Feria," overtures, are considered among the first grade overtures as they contain many passages that bring out the technique and training of the band. Wm. V. Skinner, in his clarinet solo, "Scene and Air," won much favorable comment on his tone, technique and expression while with the band on its tour. Guy Craig, baritone, was also well received with his solo "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise." Mr. Craig plays a solo trumpet in the band.

Two novelty features of the program considered the most popular are "Taint Gonna Rain No Mo'" and "Pussyfoot March." "Taint Gonna Rain No Mo'" is Captain Beard's own arrangement of this harmonious "ditty." It is true to its description "a storm for every instrument." The saxophone quartet composed of Lyle Burnaugh, Ted Wetzel, Edwin Blake, and Kenneth McGrath play "Pussyfoot March" in true Tom Brown fashion.
