Britain Watches Iraq

LONDON — Britain fears that Germany may step into the Anglo Iraq conflict despite Berlin denials that the Iraq regime has requested Nazi aid.

Informed German sources say they know nothing of reports abroad that Iraq has asked for help. But the Berlin press is devoting much space to the outbreak near the rich Iraq oil fields.

Rome also is watching events carefully. And the Italians claim that the warfare may stir up the entire Mohammedan world against the British.

The British fear Adolf Hitler may send parachute troops and transports of soldiers to the little Iraq army, which opened hostilities with an artillery bombardment of a British airport at dawn yesterday. London quarters are agreed that the outbreak was fostered by the Nazis although some say it may have been premature. The oil fields of the Near East are most valuable in modern, mechanized warfare and both Germany and Britain regard them as rich booty.

Calles' Exile Ends

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — General Plutarco Elias Calles is on his way back to Mexico after five years of exile in the United States. The former Mexican president is traveling by train as far as Laredo, Texas, where his son will meet him Sunday night. They will continue on to Mexico City by automobile. On the same train as he left San Diego, was General Jose M. Tapia, former governor of Lower California. He announced that he also was enroute to the homeland which he left five years ago.

Labor Picture Bright

WASHINGTON — Strikes in the nation have been trimmed down almost to the vanishing point. Labor Secretary Perkins has informed the president that only two tenths of one percent of defense workers now are among the strike idle. At Washington, however, the defense mediation board has closed a second day of conferences in the General Motors dispute without any report of progress.

Projects Receive Loans

WASHINGTON — Low-rent housing projects are due for a boost. President Roosevelt has approved $9,000,000 in federal housing authority loans for construction of such projects in various parts of the country.

Areas in which loans will be made to local housing authorities include Los Angeles county, Kern county, Upland and Richmond, all in California; Champaign and Rockford, Illinois; and Seattle, Wash.

Halifax Visits Welles

WASHINGTON — British Ambassador Lord Halifax paid an unexpected visit to Undersecretary of State Welles yesterday to discuss the situation in Iraq.

The fact that the visit was unscheduled has led to speculation that the call might have been urgent.

Ex-King to Visit U. S.

Ex-King Carol of Rumania is on his way to the United States and thence to Chile—where he will live in exile. Carol and his companion, Magda Lupescu, have sailed from Lisbon for New York aboard the American Export liner, Excambion.

Editor Needs Help; Beauty Contest Eyed

Attention girls! Joe Ross, Barometer editor-elect, is searching for a private secretary. Qualifications are that she must be cute, small, efficient and a typist. The selection will be based mostly upon the former two.

Rumors are that Ross wants to hold a beauty contest to pick his secretary, but if he gets away with it Ed Allworth, Beaver editor-elect, will demand one to pick his prospective 80 private secretaries. Further details will be announced later.

OSC Log Roller Set To Meet Woman Champ

Classes to Wage Annual Tug-of-War; Water Awaits Losers

A log rolling contest between the women's log rolling champion of the world and the men's champion of Oregon State college will be a feature of the water sports program for Campus weekend. The event will take place Saturday morning, May 17, on Mary's river.

Bette Berkley Accepts

Bette Berkley of Longview, Wash., is the women's champion of the world, and she has accepted an invitation to give an exhibition in Corvallis for Campus weekend. Bill Christy, chairman of the water sports committee, said yesterday. The man who will furnish opposition for Miss Berkley has not yet been selected, but the committee expects to find some stiff competition from among the foresters or engineers.

War Starts at 9

The tug-of-war will start at 9 o'clock. The losers of this contest get a ducking in the mill race, although if the affair lives up to the standard set in former years most of the bystanders will be fortunate if they avert a similar fate.

Winners of last year's tug-of-war were the freshmen, although the sophomores won for several previous years.

The "burning of the green," which will also take place near the millrace, is the traditional time when rooks and rookesses make a funeral pyre of their green rook lids and green ribbons, becoming officially sophomores-elect.

From the mill race, the activities will next move over to the Mary's river canoe tilts and log rolling. Chairmen for these events are Don Bengtla, junior in forestry, and George Hoffman, junior in chemical engineering. Any one interested in entering either the canoe tilts or the log rolling contests should contact one of these men.

Field Trip Scheduled

Food industries students of the vegetable canning class are planning a field trip to Salem Saturday, May 10, where they will visit eight vegetable, berry and fruit canning plants in Salem.

Signing Up for the SDX Field Trip

Heloise Lee and Kay Seberg get a sales talk from Dick Highland, president of the society, and Harry Smith, president-elect. Included on the trip will be visits to the Crown-Willamette paper mill at Oregon City, James Kerns & Abbott Printing company, the Journal building and the Beaver Engraving company. Any student interested in journalism is eligible to go. The price, $1.65, is payable in the journalism office, Memorial Union 213, before Monday night.

Greetings to Campus Visitors:

The Oregon State campus is a beautiful campus, nobly planned by eminent landscape architects and patently and persistently developed through two generations. Its "shady slopes and vine-clad halls" have been so ordered as to serve well the needs of the present and to allow for future growth. It is a place of special friendliness on Campus weekend, when its gates swing free in welcome to our guests. Other friends of Oregon State are coming to share in the spirit of Beaver brotherhood. Oregon State bids you welcome, all who come. Please remember that we want YOU to feel that our campus is YOUR campus, too; enjoy it and feel at home.

(Signed)
F. L. Ballard,
President,
Oregon State College.

Head Arranges Pass-out Ducats

Dancing to the music of Paul Seibert's orchestra in the Memorial Union ballroom and Johnny Lee's in the men's gymnasium will be the last official event of Campus weekend.

This dance will introduce the Memorial Union with its newly renovated ballroom to the guests for the first time, however, since the crowd is expected to be large, the men's gymnasium will be opened to dancing. Dale Ashenfelter, dance chairman, announced last night. Ducats may be used at either dance, and pass-out tickets from one may be used at the other.

Committee Reports Pharmacists Shortage

Recent reports from the committee on status of pharmacists in government service indicate that there is an acute shortage of pharmacists throughout the United States. The committee reports that in an average year, 2900 pharmacists are lost to the profession through death, retirement and other causes. During the last three years an average of 1695 pharmacists graduated leaving a shortage of 1205 during the three year period.

During the current year there are twice as many calls for pharmacists as the Oregon State college school of pharmacy can fill, members of the staff here say. As a result, salaries and hours of employment are better than at any time during the last five years, they add.

The school of pharmacy has the unusual record of placing all of its graduates during the past 25 years. During these years the school has kept a directory of alumni and followed the careers of its graduates.

Requests for pharmacists come from distant places, such as Hawaii and Alaska.

In the Shade of the Old Trysting Tree

On the lower campus students and guests gather for the all campus luncheon and the announcement of awards of Thanos and Talons for the coming year. Paul Seibert's orchestra will play for this year's convo and lunch will be served to all when the noon whistle blows.

Soloists Chosen For Concert

Symphony Orchestra Will Play Sunday

The Oregon State symphony orchestra, composed of 51 students and conducted by Delbert Moore, will present a concert Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the museum building.

Featured soloists will be Nita Marie Moore, violinist, playing "Adoration" by Borowsky; Katherine Thomas, pianist, the first movement of the Concerto in G Minor by Mendelssohn, and Vernon Satter, baritone, "Carmen" by Bizet. The complete program for the concert follows:
Lucio Silla Overture ..... Mozart
Adoration ..... Borowsky
Nita Marie Moore
Overture to the Gypsy Baron ..... Strauss
Concert in G Minor, Mendelssohn
Katherine Thomas
Toreador Song from Carmen ..... Bizet
Vernon Satter
Marche Militaire ..... Schubert

Dr. Brainard to Lead Wesley Forum Sunday

Dr. Bertha Brainard, assistant physician in the health service, will lead the Wesley Foundation forum Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock in Wesley hall, speaking on the topic "If I be Lifted Up." Dr. Brainard will discuss and use as a reference, the book, "Is Christianity Realism?" by E. Stanley Jones. Pete Larson, worship chairman, will lead the service and introduce Dr. Brainard. Wesley mixed quartet consisting of Wanda Howe, Gordon Hay, Nona Zimmerman and Pete Larson will sing "Fight the Good Fight," and "Now the Day is Over."

Thane President

Gordon Green, sophomore in engineering, who was elected to lead the Thanes for the coming year.

Green Elected Thane President

At a meeting of Thanes last night, Gordon Green was elected president for the coming year, and members of good standing were awarded keys.

Todd Bailey was elected vice president; Bob LeTourneau, secretary-treasurer; Cal Schmidt, Gordon Weber and Jack Wittkopf, council members. New Thanes for the coming year will be announced during campus weekend when they take office.

Thanes for the past year elect the council and pick freshmen from the living organizations for the coming year. Every organization including halls, co-ops and so on, will be represented 100 percent.

Colorado Calls Kids To Bar-Beaver Bust

Colorado lake, here we come! Do you know what that means? It's the annual Barometer-Beaver bust scheduled for next Wednesday. The affair has been combined this year for the first time announced Todd Bailey, chairman of the bust committee.

Smooth music for the affair will be provided by Jack Merrill and his nine-piece orchestra. The dancing pavilion is big and roomy and has accommodations for many couples.

Any staff member who has worked on either the Barometer or Beaver during 1940-41 is eligible to go and should sign up at the Barometer workroom, Memorial Union 209; editor's office, Memorial Union 205, or the Gazette Times office before noon today. Girls must obtain late leave permission from their living groups.

Transportation will be provided for the group by the Ag bus. The bus will leave Corvallis at 5 and return at 11 o'clock. A picnic lunch will be furnished and boats have been rented for use during the day.

Novelty Numbers Mixed in 'Mixer'

A series of novelty numbers featuring campus talent were highlighted at the third Memorial Union "mixer" of spring term held last night.

Sam Stidd and his hillbilly orchestra from the Phi Delta house featured a special version of "Beat Me Daddy, Eight to the Bar." Stew Lay played "Boogie-Woogie" and accompanied his whistling partner, Vic Brown, in "Heart Aches" and "Star Dust." June Wilcox and Dick Lahti gave an exhibition of their juggling to the tune of "Little Brown Jug."

Also included in the entertainment were the colored movies of a horseback trip along the Skyline Trail from Portland to Mexico.

Paul Seibert and his orchestra provided music in the ballroom for tag, ladies' choice and regular dancing. The west ballroom was opened for games and extra ping pong tables were provided.

Marshall Names Cast For 'Night Must Fall'

The cast of "Night Must Fall," three-act play, to be presented by the Oregon State college speech department May 22 and 23 in the workshop theatre, was announced last night by B. M. Marshall, instructor in speech and director of the play.

Bob Morse, freshman in lower division, will play the leading role of Dan.

Dorothy Randall will be cast as Olivia; Florence Rosholt, Mrs. Branson; Jessie Forrester, Mrs. Terrence; Elma Huston, Mrs. Alice; McConnell, nurse Libby; Bill Howard, Hubert; and Howard Holt, Belsize.

Thermopolae and Kayser Join Ranks for Show

By Heloise Lee

Hellenic minded this year? Good! Because Hellas and all of her glory are taking over the Campus weekend show in true Greek fashion. Melerdrammer? But definitely!

Harry Johnson, chairman of this year's show, guarantees never a dull moment (trite but true) and has even scheduled Kay Kayser and his college of musical knowledge to accompany the thickening plot.

Yes, true to the old tradition Oregon is going to be compared that way with the Mighty Orangenmen of Oregon State.

Act one. Action! Camera! Opening scene finds Handsome Osc, the incomparable hero, saving prospective college man from the hands of Villainous Oregon. Involved in the theme of this story is the girl he left behind him. Thermopolae (that's the handle of the prospective Greek) leaves the one and only on a dark and stormy night, and sets out on his hitchhiking trek to dear old Corvallis.

Act two. Almost same as the first. As Thermopolae sits under the mighty Olympus clad in his Grecian himation with golf clubs slung over one shoulder and a cigar smoking in his hand and with 80 miles yet to go on his journey into the garden of Eden—on to the scene comes Kay Kayser! And Thermopolae and Kay go on to Oregon State.

"Hello students" opens act three and Kay begins his show . . . and the genuine entertainment begins. The Gamma Phi quartette singing the background music for their Hawaiian dancer elaborates the romantic moods of all the moody students. And all the campus talent available is going to be on deck for that show!

Flashing back to dear old Thermop in act four shows him on this date and that . . . very green Greek that he is . . . and smooth sophisticated college girl really leads him around.

But all good Greeks must go home, so Thermopolae, too, returns to his loved ones which brings on the super grand finale.

Don Fields, senior in education, is the originator of the script for this production and Frank Watkins, freshman in lower division, is his assistant impersonator.

Last, but not least, the butterfly man is going to be on hand to whistle those blues away as he chases butterflies from the end of his bamboo pole. But it won't be long until the Greeks invade the place, and more prospective Greeks and students monopolize the campus . . . and that Campus weekend show.

Newport or Bust - - Perhaps Both

I must go down to the sea again With a thousand other guys, And all I ask is some free crabs (The other stuff I'll buy) And a clear day And no flat tires And some gay, true buddies, Then a sunburn And a stomach ache— And the next week's studies.

—W. C.

Orchesis to Show Modern Dance Trends

Recital Scheduled For May 9 and 10

Pictures from old Beavers and dance costumes of 10 years ago, as contrasted with examples of the modern trend, make up the displays in the Co-op bookstore, the college library and Nolan's display windows this week. In celebration of its tenth year, in this campus, Orchesis, dance honorary, is presenting the development of dance on the Oregon State campus as the theme of its annual dance recital, May 9 and 10.

Some of these old-style costumes will be seen again in this year's recital, when a number of favorite dances from past programs will be presented. In "Born Twenty Years Too Soon" the costumes are copied from the 1921 Beaver, and those participating in the scarf dance will wear costumes identical with the ones used when the dance was composed and first presented 10 years ago.

Other costumes for repeated dances will suggest but not duplicate the style of that period.

"Most of the older costumes were roughly made, consisting mainly of two squares of cloth sewed together and held in at the waist by a cord," said Betty Lynd Thompson, director of the recital. "At present all costumes are either fashioned on a leotard or"

20 Houses Plan Dances Tonight

Dance themes ranging from a night in Arabia to the most modern in firemen's balls and from a tropical island to the gay nineties will be carried out tonight when 20 living organizations entertain.

Alpha Gamma Rho is giving a "Story Book Ball" at the Corvallis hotel. "Knights" and "Ladies" will enter through a story-book gateway and dance in a courtyard. A picture of a castle on the back wall will add to the atmosphere.

Members and guests of Pi Kappa Phi will dance in "Araby" beneath an Arabian tent. Flowers along the center of a long tent will decorate the entrance. Temples and Arabic scenes will decorate the walls inside.

A unique type of "Firemen's ball" will be the Sigma Phi Epsilon dance theme. Men will call for their dates in a car parade accompanied by sirens and bells. The front of the Sig Ep house will resemble a burning building with colored spotlights playing on cardboard. To reach the dance floor the guests must climb a ladder to the second floor and descend a slide which reaches across the floor. Pink, yellow and red paper and pictures of the devil and Smokey Stover will decorate the walls inside. This is the fourth year that the Sig Eps have given a dance of this kind.

Delta Upsilon will give its annual formal tonight. Hawthorne will decorate the ceiling; roses and other flowers will cover the walls. Refreshments will be served on the front patio which will be enclosed with fir boughs. The DU crest in flowers will decorate the back wall. A bandstand has been erected for the orchestra and a flowered arch will cover it.

Members of Chi Omega will become colonial dames tonight at their "Colonial Cotillion." Fuchsia colored flowers will cover walls and ceiling. Weather permitting, 60 colored lanterns will be strung over the back lawn and refreshments will be served there.

"The Gay Nineties" will be the

New Year's Day...

Grandfather 1940-1941 is growing old. With only two weeks to live, the veteran senses his death in the eagerness of the students to greet the new year. He totters in his last remaining strength, seeking only rest for it has been a hard year.

Old grandfather 1940-41 saw a lot of things happen this year. He saw a hard-fought but clean political campaign end in the election of what records show to be the third independent student body president in the history of Oregon State college. He saw the junior class bring Bob Crosby to the campus for its annual prom. He saw the Memorial gates installed at the lower campus entrance and he saw the state legislature approve an enabling act which may pave the way for construction of an athletic pavilion.

When the green lids are tossed into the flames during Campus weekend, the grandfather will breathe his last sigh and the cherub 1941-42 will make his bow. Freshmen will laugh as they dance around the bonfire happy that they have lasted out their first year, yet wondering where it has gone. Sophomores will discard their moleskins for the cords of upperclassmen. Juniors will smile as they look over the program that they planned and carried out. Seniors are thoughtful for college will soon be a memory.

During the New Year's day of Oregon State college, students release their pent-up emotions of the year in a burst of fun in a crowded schedule of events organized by the junior class. They bring their guests from high schools and other colleges to Oregon State to see the campus on parade. Then it's all over and we tired students go back to our studies hopeful of what the New Year will bring — J. R.

Novice Scraps to Feature Weekend

"There are only three more weeks to sign up for the Novice Boxing Tournament, so you had better hurry and get your name on the list. This is going to be the biggest boxing tournament in the history of the school and the fighters will fight before the largest crowd to witness a tournament at OSC. It is very important that the school put on a good show for the prospective students this Campus weekend," Jim Dixon announced.

According to Arnold Hildebrandt, of the Mouser-Hildebrandt stables, his stable has some promising men and should be near the top when the titles are handed out. He expects a lot from Handford Reed, a heavy-weight. Hildy says that this one hundred and ninety-five pound boy will show some of the boys something of speed and clever boxing. He combines a hard right with deception and is a boy to be watched.

In the 145 pound class, Hildebrandt has three fighters with almost equal ability. They are Joe Mathes, Bob Nielson, and Jack Blackburn. Joe is a man who likes to get in there and throw leather, and he can hit with the best of them. Nielson is a bobbing and weaving fighter, who always throws punches with anyone. In the same stable, is Beryl Wycoff, a 127 pound boxer who is a natural fighter. Hildebrandt expects him to be near the top.

By virtue of his heavy hitting against Idaho and Washington State, Lyle Specht, Beaver first baseman now leads the regular starters in batting against northern division competition. Specht has swung the ash for a total of eight hits in 21 trips to the plate, for an average of .381. Following Epecht in percentage is Elwin MacRae, who has eight hits in 23 times at bat, or a percentage of .348.

The list of Oregon State .250 or better sluggers is as follows:

	ab.	r.	h.	Pct.
Wade	1	0	1	1.000
Olmstead	1	0	1	1.000
Shaw	8	0	4	.500

Fly-Tying, Blasting, Love Listed in Courses at OSC

Like to be a fisherman, glass blower, airplane pilot, powder man, expert milliner or a home economist? These are a few of the courses offered at Oregon State college.

The chemistry department and the research departments of papermills in Oregon and Washington have been experimenting with the waste products of wood to find some practical value for this otherwise harmful product.

One of the largest cold storage plants in the world is located in the apple raising district of Oregon not 150 miles away. This work is emphasized in a refrigeration course which pays special attention to this industry as it applies to the northwest.

A rod-making course is offered to fishermen. Students learn to wrap poles, tie flies, make spinners and other types of tackle. It has been proved practical for this equipment has caught fish.

Perhaps bee raising would be of interest. The habits, life history and honey production of bees are all studied with live bees as laboratory equipment.

A class in psychology or sociology travels to Salem every spring term to visit the state penitentiary and feeble minded home. These studies in abnormal cases are believed to have practical value.

Photography classes learn about flash light pictures, indoor lighting, color, light filters, developing and printing photographs with their own cameras and equipment.

Two terms' work in community drama acquaints a student with theatre life from all sides. Practical work with college productions in makeup, stage craft and lighting give experience considered useful in theatre work.

An electrical equipment class learns how to repair burned out irons, fuses and toasters. Voltage problems concerning electrical stoves, outlets and switches are discussed topics.

Child development courses use as a laboratory the college nursery school where children, ranging in age from two to four years, are taught by the students with the guidance of a supervisor.

Imnumerable courses such as astronomy, acoustics, airplane designing, blacksmithing and blasting may be added to the list. A statement that if a college student took every course offered at Oregon State that person would be approximately 85 or 90 years old when he graduated contains more fact than fiction.

OSC Speech Professors Will Attend Conference Earl W. Wells, professor of speech, and Carlyn Winger, assistant professor of speech, will attend the eleventh annual Oregon Speech association conference to be held Saturday, May 17, at the University of Oregon. Wells and Winger are past presidents of the association.

Dr. Wells, director of the Oregon State college speech clinic, will preside at a sectional meeting on speech correction. Winger will participate in a panel discussion dealing with the present system of debate in the educational program.

Off The Record

By Fred Lemke

The Georgia senate decided the other day that to be eligible to serve on a jury a woman must have won a beauty contest within the two years prior to jury service, be less than 45 years old, and wear perfume agreeable to the judge and attorneys.

When E. G. Cahill, manager of public utilities received a report that a woman offered a conductor a can of sardines for her fare, which is five cents he asked railway officials if the conductor accepted the sardines. "If so, I do not believe he is to be censured, as this appears on the basis of frequent reports reaching me to be merely payment in kind," he added.

Like Demosthenes, Horace Heidt leader of one of the large musical organizations in the popular field stuttered when young. But one day at Culver Military Academy he couldn't get the word "halt" out of his mouth in time, and his company marched into a stone wall. Determined, he tried the pebble treatment, later he used marbles and finally small dice, speaking lines such as "She sells sea shells on the sea shore." Thus he conquered stammering.

Outstanding among costumes for the 1941 recital are the bright red reversible satin crepe bodice tops and very full skirts worn by Miss Thompson and Madlyn Stearns, junior in education, in the opening dance, "Unpredictable." Various combinations of red, white and blue make up the costumes for "The Suite of American Dances."

"Three Jazz Preludes," which is done to music by Gershwin, will be costumed in the modern manner, using two shades of purple. Dancers appearing in "Selective Service" will wear white leotards, very brief red and blue skirts, and red, white and blue epaulets.

Beaver Sports Menu Claims Variety

Makin' the Rounds

By Jack Vermuel
Assistant Sports Editor
Barometer

Call it what you like, but it sure looks like a busy day for the Beaver athletes with every sport that one can think of scheduled for the Oregon State campus today, so lads and lassies, bring your blanket, your sandwiches and what have you, and see for yourself what goes on in today's sports program.

If you're aching for a glimpse of the Beaver prospective football squad for next fall's gridiron season, come out to Bell field today and get a preview of the Orange pigskin squad in action. This will be your last chance to view the brawny men until next fall when the regular season begins. This will be the fourth and last of a series of practice games that have been held every Saturday and most likely next year's squad will be chosen mainly from this group showing.

Coach Lonnie Stiner has a big problem on his hands, refilling the places of such men as Jim Kisselburgh, Vic Sears, Leonard Younce, Johnny Leovich, Kenny Dow, Bob Olson and Bud English who were mainstays of the Beavers last year.

Not only that but guess who the Staters meet in their first, second and third games next fall? None other than Southern California, Washington and Stanford consecutively. What a tough beginning. So when the boys come back next fall they will have but about two weeks of practice and then, wham, the Southern Cal Trojans down at Los Angeles.

For today's game, Stiner has divided his proteges into two outfits, the Orange and the Whites.

Orange Staters

Starting for the Orange are George Zellick and Lew Hammers at the ends. Both of these boys are lettermen and a lot is expected of them next fall. At the tackles are George Bain and Bob Saunders. On the shoulders of Bain rest the responsibility of taking Sear's place at left tackle. Saunders was the regular who played right tackle last year.

At the guards are Norm Newman and Martin Chavez. Newman is a varsity reserve from last fall and Chavez is a letterman. Center spot is ably taken care of by Quentin Greenough, who is a letterman and alternated with Bud English last fall at the pivot post.

Two New Halfbacks

Halfbacks of the Orange are two men from the rook squad last fall, Everett Smith and Bill McInnis. Smith is one of the fastest men on the squad and McInnis is a deadly left-handed passer. Both can use a little experience but are expected to go far next fall.

At quarter is veteran George Peters who is one of the best blocking backs on the coast. When Peters throws a block into one, you know you've been hit.

Fullback spot for the Orange will be handled by Joe Day, smashing and hard driving lad, who just won't let anything stop him.

White Starters

For the Whites we have five men from last fall's rook squad starting. At the ends we have Lee Gustafson, last fall's rook and a mighty sticky fingered boy who won't let go of that pigskin, and Ken Pruitt, a varsity reserve.

Tackles for the Whites will be veteran Stan Czech and a newcomer, Theo Ossowski from the rook squad. Guards are Orv Zelaskowski, a varsity reserve and Ralph Harper, up from the rooks. At center will be Boyd Clement, another varsity reserve from last year's team.

At quarter will be Warren Simas from the rook squad. He played on the line as rook but is now breaking in as a back.

Bob Libbee, a transfer from Sacramento J. C. and Bob Leichhardt, another man from the rooks, who by the way is another left-handed passer, will fill in at left half and right half respectively.

Veteran Jim Busch will be at the fullback post and a harder, plunging driver like Jim is hard to find.

So you have it, with the preview scheduled for 3:15 on Bell field. By the way while still on the

Beavers Face Husky Batters In Double Bill

Jupe Permitting, Shaw and Elliott To Handle Mound

"The Oregon State college and University of Washington baseball teams will meet today," was the announcement issued yesterday morning by Percy Lacey, director of athletics. "Beavers to play Huskies," said the Oregon State Barometer. The Oregonian, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, the Spokane Spokesman-Review, The Journal, the Astoria Budget and the Salem Statesman echoed the statement, and such widely scattered dailies as the Coos Bay Times and The Dalles Chronicle were in complete agreement about the matter.

The only dissenting vote was cast by the weather man, who predicted: "the game will be cancelled on account of rain." That the majority does not always rule was proved yesterday afternoon when the weather man had the last word and the game was called off.

The two teams will meet in a double header beginning at 1:00 this afternoon at Jupiter Pluvius relents. These two games will be the last home games for the Beavers, except for one final game with the University of Oregon May 26.

Mural Golf

The second round matches of the intra-mural golf tournament are being held up by the delaying of the first round.

Only three matches have been played thus far. Kappa Sigma won from Theta Chi, Delta Upsilon from Poling and Alpha Tau Omega from Pi Kappa Phi.

This leaves four unplayed tilts of the first round; Phi Gamma Delta vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Buxton vs. Beta Kappa, Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Delta Chi and Beta Theta Pi vs. Lambda Chi Alpha.

These games should be played enable the second round matches to get underway, as reported by Howard Raabe.

subject of football, Leovich, who gave up college for a try at major league baseball, is doing right well for himself with the Philadelphia Athletics, as I see by the papers that he is catching regular and in Thursday's ball game with the Cleveland Indians knocked out a double to count for some of his team's runs. Nice going, Johnny.

Huskies, Beavers Try Spikes at Stadium Today

Oregon State cindermen meet the University of Washington track squad on Bell field track this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The Husky aggregation is one of the strongest to represent the school in recent years, and boasts some of the most outstanding performers on the Pacific coast.

Coach Grant Swan's fighting Beavers will enter the meet crippled by the absence of Russ Nillock, star 440 yard dash man. Doubt continues to loom over the condition of Captain Don Vallancourt, whose hip injury forced him to take second place in the meet against Idaho last Saturday.

Both teams will enter the meet undefeated, the Huskies boasting a conference win over the University of Oregon and the Staters having defeated the Idaho Vandals last weekend.

Pre-meet dope has singled out the Huskies as the team to beat for the conference championship this year. The invaders figure to sweep the weights with Ullman, Yantis, Edmundson and Heaton who have turned in consistently good performances in early season meets. Kjell Qvale, sensational sprinter, also is counted on to provide the Washington team with first place points in the dashes. Qvale has hung up times of 9.7 in the century and 21.1 in the 220 and is numbered among the most formidable dash men in the country.

The outstanding feature of the meet promises to be in the 440 yard dash, where Oregon State's red-headed Tommy Blair will match strides with Todd and Long of Washington. The latter two men have posted outstanding times in the quarter-mile event this year and all indications are that a great race will ensue.

Main hope for the Beavers rests on the shoulders of Jim Holloway in the hurdles, Don Findlay in the high and broad jumps, and Vallancourt and Willard Nelson in the distances, provided the former rounds into shape in time for the meet.

An interesting sidelight on the meet lies in the fact that the schools are represented almost entirely by men from their home states. With one or two exceptions, the Beaver team is composed mostly of local boys and the Huskies are almost to the man natives of the Evergreen state. This fact provides greater interest and lends an added incentive for both teams to "shoot the works."

Mural Musings

By Bob Ohling
(Mural Editor)

So far in this column I have done nothing but hand out posies to the boys who have made really good showings in intramural sports. Now, I am primed to throw a few bricks in the direction of those who are holding up the program. It seems too bad when a few sincere persons work their heads off to try to put over a thing as big as this intramural program and then get no cooperation or appreciation whatsoever from the ones they are trying to help. About half of the tennis matches so far won were won on forfeits. Not more than four scores have been turned in by the intramural golf teams, although seventeen living groups signed up to enter. Since the teams who are doing their part in the program cannot wait for the other teams to finish their first round forever, it is necessary to say that any fraternity which does not have the match played and the score turned in by Monday will be dropped from the schedule and will not get credit for participation in golf. Come on, boys. Let's show a little appreciation for the fine work that Howard Raabe is doing as director of intramural sports.

Good weather gave dual track a chance to get under way during the last couple of weeks, and several houses have shown up with real talent. Although the track program has not gone far enough to show where the real competition lies, the Phi Deltas with two wins so far have a powerhouse outfit, and the Sigma Chis looked pretty good this week against the Phi Sigs. The time for the hundred in the Sigma Chi-Phi Sig meet was 10.3, which is only one tenth of a second slower than the winning time in the varsity meet with Idaho last Saturday.

So far there are still twelve unbeaten teams in softball, but some of these are behind on their schedule and have not met any real competition yet. For the pitcher of the week let me nominate Bob LeTourneau of the Spees who won a tough hurling duel from Sigma Nu's Ben At-

Varsity and Rooks Face Busy Afternoon

Track, Baseball, Football Vie For Top Spot on Slate Today

By Bill Vessey
Barometer Sports Editor

Starting with a varsity golf meet at 8 o'clock this morning with the University of Idaho, Oregon State college teams do battle on seven fronts here in what will be the busiest athletic weekend of the term. The varsity and rook baseball and varsity and rook tennis teams are the only events standing a chance of being rained out.

These are the events of today's sport docket:

8 a.m.—Golf: OSC vs. Idaho, Corvallis Country club.

10 a.m.—Tennis: Rooks vs. Frosh, tennis courts.

Baseball: Rooks vs. Molalla high, Coleman field.

1:30 p.m.—Baseball doubleheader:

OSC vs. Washington.

Track: OSC vs. Washington, Bell field.

Tennis: OSC vs. Oregon, tennis courts.

3:00 p.m.—Football: Final spring intra-squad contest, on Bell field.

The varsity golfers open fire against the Vandals, who are an unknown quantity, or quality. To date the golfers, paced by Ray Weston and Benny Bates, have captured a pair of wins against one loss to the University of Washington linksmen at Seattle last week. This meet will be on the local course.

Rook Baseball, Tennis

Tennis and baseball follow at 10 o'clock pitting the rook netters against the frosh in what should be the real test for both, and the rook nine engages in a return bout with the Molalla high school nine.

The rooks won earlier in the week from the Indians.

The OSC - Washington track meet bids strongly for the afternoon's spotlight beginning at 1:30 o'clock the same time as a double header baseball game between the same two schools and a varsity tennis meet with the University of Oregon. The undefeated Beaver tracksters also face an undefeated Husky outfit.

Weather permitting Coach Ralph Coleman will send his inexperienced Beavers against Washington in the most important series thus far. The Huskies are undefeated having previously won a pair from the Cougars.

The final spring intra-squad football game is the final event of the day at 3 o'clock. This is the last chance the boys will have to earn a coveted starting post for next fall in the first conference meeting with Southern California. This game will go the route on either Bell or poultry field.

Incidentally, this is also an ideal time to pre-view the Beaver grid machine that will play three games at Corvallis and two in Portland next fall.
