Weber to Play For Rook Dance Tomorrow Night

Mixer Group Will Acquaint Freshmen With One Another

Walt Weber's orchestra has promised a special arrangement of the popular piece, "Modern Design," as a special feature of the annual freshman dance to be held in the Memorial Union ballroom Friday, January 16, from 8 to 11 o'clock.

Weber's band will be the first union band to play in the M.U. since the recent controversy regarding union bands. He features a nine-piece orchestra and vocals by Betty Toye.

Special prizes are being offered for one of the events of the dance; however the nature of this event will be kept secret until Friday night.

Because this dance is not only a means of entertainment, but also a means of getting the freshmen acquainted, a special mixer committee has been organized.

The proposed decorations for the dance will include cartoons depicting some of the problems of the average freshman.

The members of this committee will wear red, white and blue ribbons for identification.

Eugene White, senior in science, placed second in the twelfth state after-dinner speaking contest held at Linfield college last night.

White's speech, "Out of the Nostalgic Fog," compared the girls of pioneer days, of the gay nineties era and of the present times.

The title of Miss Hathaway's speech, which is self-explanatory, was "Bustle vs. Hustle."

The contest was highlighted by several Linfield co-eds who sang old songs in barber shop harmony style.

The general topic for the contest was "American Nostalgia" or "The Days of Yore."

White was accompanied to Linfield by Carolyn R. Winger and B. M. Marshall, instructors in speech.

In general, the contest was very good and highly entertaining.

Recent books on the war in the Pacific and the United States navy are now available at the main circulation desk and Beaver book room of the library.

Several books pertaining to the war of the Pacific are being displayed in the glass exhibit case and bulletin board on the second floor of the new wing.

"The U. S. Navy, Past and Present, in Fact and Fiction" is the theme of the exhibit on the main floor.

One Will Rule Junior Prom

21 Candidates Announced For Junior Prom Queen

Junior prom queen candidates were announced last night, by Harry Moss, junior in secretarial science and chairman of the queen selection committee.

The 21 candidates are Dorothy Nowotny, Nancy Franklin, Mildred Eastman, Mary Virdia Maw, Jean Sandidge, Jean Johnson, Kathleen Brown, Shirley Bryant, Marjorie Utterback, Esther Weibel, Wanda Turner, Jeannette Sims, Frances Mott, Jean Heatherington, Mildred Jernigan, Jean Read, Francis Grimstad, Leona Leonard, Phyllis Colver and Mary Beryl Switzer.

Five princesses will be selected from the group of 21 co-eds. Juniors who buy dance tickets will receive one vote per ducat to choose the queen from the five candidates.

Basic Art Essentials Vital in Ad Field

Fashion Illustrator Speaks at Forum

Learn the basic art essentials you'll have them at your fingertips, is the advice Miss Gerry Olinger, Charles F. Berg fashion illustrator, gave to the Kappa Kappa Alpha sponsored forum last night.

"There is no specific training for commercial work," she continued, but for those who are striving to work in the commercial art field should have a sincere love of the work.

"A knowledge of anatomy can be very helpful, especially when you draw from your imagination. It is good to know something about muscles," was her answer to the need for the study of this subject.

As the discussion was informal, she also mentioned the mediums used in making her drawings, her inspirations for faces for her fashion figures, her education, the amount of work expected to be put out in a day and the place of a free lance artist in Portland.

Miss A'leen Runkle, instructor in art, introduced the speaker.

Pledgings Announced

Delta Tau Delta announces the pledging of Don Barrick, freshman in engineering from Salem.

HE Girls Needed By Government

Exams Will Be Given To Applicants

Because of the many requests anticipated from government agencies for home economic positions next year, the United States Civil Service commission has announced an examination for establishing employment lists of home economists trained in all fields.

The examination will not be a written test, but applicants will be rated on their education and experience. Because of the demand for qualified eligibles, applications will be accepted for sometime yet.

Vacancies exist in such government departments as the bureau of home economics, rural electrification administration, surplus marketing administration, offices of education, defense, health and welfare services.

Positions will be filled for work in nutrition, clothing, household equipment, home economics information, home extension, school lunches and other fields. Persons experienced in the field of nutrition are especially needed.

Applicants must have completed a four-year college course including or supplemented by at least eight semester hours in home economics, or a closely related science, and must have experience.

To apply for positions which pay from $2600 to $5600 a year, applicants must write to the United States Civil Service commission, Washington, D. C.

White Announces Yell Leader Class

Yell leader Bob White announced yesterday that a class in yell leading will start within the next two weeks, and from this class four assistant yell leaders for next year will be chosen.

Any student interested in attending this class may register at the associated student's office in the Memorial Union now, White said. No previous experience is necessary and the size of the class is unlimited, White continued.

From the group of assistants, the yell leader will be elected to be in charge of all rally activities as well as hold a position on the student executive council.

Three to Be Initiated Into Eta Kappa Nu

Initiation of candidates into Pi chapter of Eta Kappa Nu, national honorary society for men in electrical engineering, is scheduled for tonight at 6 o'clock in the Varsity O room of the Memorial Union.

The students to be initiated are William Bentley and Glen Bredemeier, seniors, and John Wilkoff and Lyle Jakus, juniors.

Immediately following the initiation ceremony, initiates, student members and faculty members will attend a banquet at the Benton hotel. The banquet will be followed by a short meeting presided over by William Huggins, chapter president. The speaker at the banquet will be Prof. E. C. Starr, professor in electrical engineering.

Girls Boost Army Morale

Rally members take a lesson from Sergeant Weihe's mechanized cavalry band after yesterday's Rose Bowl rally dance. Esther Weibel is in back with the trumpet while Joy Hoerner thumps out the bass at right. Note the ease with which Mary Louise Blish tosses the drumstick.

State Officials Will Attend Bowl Banquet

Sprague, Snell, Scott Will Attend; McKay To Act as Emcee

Governor Charles A. Sprague, Secretary of State Earl Snell and State Treasurer Leslie M. Scott will definitely attend the Rose Bowl banquet in the Memorial Union building Saturday at 6:30 o'clock, the local officials in charge of the banquet learned Tuesday.

Sprague and Snell will participate in the program, while Scott will be introduced as one of the distinguished guests. Warren Reid, manager of the alumni association and program chairman, said. Bob Glenn of Corvallis, will preside at the dinner.

Dr. F. A. Gillilan, acting president of Oregon State, will represent the college in saluting the team. Andy Landforce, president of the Associated Students, will speak on behalf of the student body.

For the principal feature of the banquet, each member of the team will receive an award of some type. The gifts will not be announced until the time of presentation.

Tickets for the banquet are still available at the alumni office in the Memorial Union for $1.00.

Phi Kappa Phi Winners to Meet

The 106 sophomores who received Phi Kappa Phi freshman scholarship awards fall term will meet with award winners of other classes tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

Members of Alpha Lambda Delta, sophomore honor society for women, are also invited to attend.

Presentation of award forum plans for this year and a review of forums held in the past will be made by Doris McWhorter, junior in home economics, who is chairman of the newly organized award forum council.

The group will be given an opportunity to make suggestions for the program.

The topic, date and place for the first forum will be announced by Betty Blackledge, junior in home economics, who will be in charge of the first meeting.

A social period will follow the business meeting.

Schmidt Performing

Don Schmidt, sophomore in agriculture, showed basketball fans how to handle the ropes Monday night during half-time of the OSC-WSC game in the men's gymnasium.

Schmidt appeared at Sun Valley, Idaho, every night last summer.

Capacity Crowd Swings to Music Of Weihe's Band

With the strains of Glen Miller's version of the "Chattanooga Choo-Choo" and "Yes Indeed," Sergeant Weihe's military "swing" band keynoted a capacity crowd of rally-minded dance goers in the Memorial Union ballroom yesterday afternoon.

The original celebration had been planned for the welcome of the team last Thursday, but the sudden death of H. T. Vance, dean of the school of secretarial science, caused the cancellation of the original plans.

Esther Weibel, junior in secretarial science and vice president of the rally committee, introduced members of the Rose Bowl squad who were present at the dance.

Bob Detman, half back, expressed his appreciation for the spirit of the Oregon State students.

Martin Chavez, captain of the Bowl game, is not registered in school this term because he has joined the United States air corps. After the football team was introduced, Gene Goodman and Phil Bink, members of the rally squad, led the student body in several yells.

Round Table 'Actors' To Give Melodrama

Mary Louise Shupe Director of Play

Round Table will present a three-act melodrama, "Remember When," for all ex-Seabeckers at 8:15 o'clock tonight at Westminster house. Under the direction of Mary Louise Shupe, sophomore in home economics, the drama is to be a get-together for all students and faculty members who have attended the Seabeck college conference in previous years.

Act one will find actors and audience the same as the Seabeckers see themselves in the colored movies taken at last summer's conference on Hood's canal in Washington.

Act two centers around the Westminster fireplace with the group eating apples and popcorn and singing Seabeck songs. The final act will be a bull session and gab-fest on last year's conference, with the curtain falling promptly at 10 o'clock.

Director Shupe urges all those who are coming to bring any and all snapshots taken at Seabeck, as well as their conference songbooks so that everyone may play his part in "Remember When."

When asked if he planned to attend the drama, Dr. O. R. Chambers, head of the department of psychology and in charge of student counseling work at the 1941 Seabeck conference, stated, "I'm going to be there with bells on. Why you couldn't keep me away. I want to see the pictures of ourselves in action, of course."

Engineer Dance Tickets Sold Out Reports Benson

Holman's Orchestra Will Furnish Music For Annual Ball

Tickets for the engineers' dance were completely sold out last night to members of the engineering technical societies. Tickets will not be available today as was previously announced, said Bill Benson, senior in industrial arts, in charge of sales.

Art Holman's orchestra from Eugene will furnish music for the dressy sport dance Saturday night. It will be held on the concrete floor of the engineering laboratory from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock.

Programs will be available Friday afternoon and Saturday at the campus store. Programs are in the form of a circular slide rule which rotates so that the dance numbers come up one at a time.

A special contest has been arranged in which the women may guess the strength of a chrome nickel steel bar which will be broken in tension in the 600,000 pound testing machine on the main floor during intermission.

The machine will then be reversed and a typewriter crushed in it. Other devices about the laboratory and special contraptions built by the students for the occasion will be demonstrated.

The annual presentation of the Sigma Tau award to last year's outstanding freshman engineer will be made by Ed Sidor, senior in electrical engineering and president of the organization.

Arrangements have been made with radio station KOAC to broadcast music from the dance from 9:15 to 9:45 o'clock.

"Everything is proceeding according to plans and we expect to have one of the best engineer's dances yet held," said Corwin McLean, senior in mechanical engineering and general chairman of the dance.

Coats and hats will be checked in the balcony in order to eliminate some of the confusion of past years when the checking was done in the basement.

Refreshments will be served shortly before intermission and during the remainder of the dance.

February 1 Deadline For Beaver Pictures

Individual pictures for the 1942 Beaver must be taken before February 1, announced Ed Allworth, Beaver editor, at a meeting of the editorial board.

Appointments for pictures may be arranged at Ball's and Howell's studios. Students who have not yet been contacted for a picture will be in the near future.

Studios have asked students to please comply with the arranged sittings so that time and money will not be wasted and to eliminate rescheduling. The time remaining is so short that rescheduling may be impossible, so students who desire to have their picture in the Beaver should follow the schedule, Allworth added.

Pictures of clubs will be announced in the lower left hand corner of each edition of the Barometer, and club members should watch for the time pictures are scheduled, Allworth said.

Winter Formal at Snell Scheduled January 30

Marguerite Johnson, sophomore in secretarial science, announced plans for the Margaret Snell hall winter formal which will be held in the west ballroom of the Memorial Union on January 30.

Miss Johnson, chairman of the affair, reported committees will be chosen soon. Walt Weber's orchestra, formerly Paul Seibert's, will play for the dance.

Important Decisions

Eyes of Oregon State students have been drawn rather strongly to the next meeting of the state board of higher education by a few rumors circulating the campus of what is planned.

The bid for restoration of the commerce school to OSC, proposed elimination of final exam weeks and spring vacation and an investigation into the administration of the forestry school are three of the biggest items before the state board, at least in the eyes of students.

Forestry students and faculty are watching what appears to be a feud between the present forestry school administration and the administration of a few years back. From what information is available, it appears that a concerted effort is being made to change the administration.

Apparently, a petition to this effect has been sent to the state board. The board will probably make its decision at its next meeting. If the board sides with the present administration, there will probably be little change in the set up. If the board does not, however, a guess would be that the new administrative head would be someone not connected with the Oregon State forestry at present.

No Gym Dances

When the question of difficulty with union bands in the Memorial Union ballroom arose at the close of last term, renewed interest in the use of the gymnasium floors for student dances was voiced by many students who asked why union bands couldn't play in the gymnasium.

It is not unwillingness to cooperate which prevents dancing in the gymnasiums. A gymnasium floor is not a dance floor. A gym floor, as students know, must be smooth and waxed. Though the wax may be scrubbed off following a dance, the scrubbing does not prevent its working up through the cracks to cause trouble and increased accidents several days later. No dance can ever be worth a serious accident to a school athlete.

The women's gym is too small for most student dances, and the men's gym is already used up to capacity. Even under present conditions the Wednesday convocations disrupt the athletic program, and the gym class schedule is so full that basketball and intramural teams must practice after hours.

After the repeated sandings of years, the flooring in the men's gym is wearing thin. Its period of future usefulness is probably limited, and present war conditions make replacement doubtful. This factor has led gymnasium directors to caution against adding any further burden to its crowded program.

For these reasons dancing on gym floors has been discouraged at Oregon State. Gym and dance floors are two different things and just can't be mixed successfully.

Champs Without Wheaties

Nothing heightens enjoyment as much as participation, whether it is an athletic contest, card game or even the grim but necessary duty of war sacrifice.

Since most Americans are naturally energetic and ingenious, the task of sitting on the sidelines while the other man is doing his job is harder than performing the actual service. For instance, when sitting on the sidelines watching a basketball game, isn't it instinctive to twist and turn in an effort to aid the hard-fighting players?

Even though the physical twisting and turning is not experienced when reading a war communique; with most patriotic Americans there is undoubtedly a mental uneasiness and an urge to pitch in and assist the gallant soldiers instead of continuing with comparatively normal activities.

The country asked especially that college students remain in school until they are called for service, but that is no reason for them to slide into a state of amnesia and disregard the services that should be performed to help keep the uniformed men supplied with armaments and medical materials.

It is a game of sacrifice that each person must enter before appreciation of the country's need can be experienced. Not every Oregon Stater can be a champion football player, but each can be a champion patriot.

In the Mail . . .

Editor, The Barometer:

After several seasons of receiving the Barometer I am quite well inured to weak and pointless editorials, but feel that the lack of good taste and courtesy expressed in this morning's discussion of the social acceptability of service men on the campus calls for some protest.

The question of whether people are to be invited to a party is one for private decision, not neighborhood gossip. As for printing it in a newspaper, it just isn't done, you know.

The 115th Cavalry is a former National Guard regiment and its members came voluntarily from civilian occupations ranging from punching cattle to banking. There would seem to be little question of their fitness to mingle with college students who are separated from them only by frantic appeals to their draft boards.

Some of the many councils and committees on this campus should be able to make a decision on such a matter without the publishing of an insulting editorial. If not, we need some new members on these bodies and some new deans to advise them.

Yours very truly,
James S. Smyth.

Extension Service Plans All-Out Aid

An all-out effort to aid national drives and programs in connection with the war is being planned by the Oregon State college extension service.

Local newspapers and radio stations are becoming more and more important in carrying on adult education in agriculture and probably in other fields as well, according to leaders in the extension service.

Newspapers always have constituted an important medium for reaching the people with agricultural information, these officials said, but with transportation curtailed through tire rationing, papers have become even more important. The number of farm meetings and gatherings within the next year will be reduced through the car and tire rationing.

Newspapers called upon for more important service face certain problems. War conditions will reduce advertising in some lines and the price of newsprint will rise. Recommendations are being made to staff members supplying material to papers to write their news in the fewest possible words, according to the extension service.

After last week's unique little weather demonstration, we just don't know what to expect next. Since the weather man is probably in the same boat, we thought he might like a few helpful suggestions. They came from station WOR's screwball Henry Morgan, by way of the NYU Heights Daily News.

FORECAST:

1. Sheets of ice, blankets of snow: cold comfort.
2. Fair and blond, followed by howling males.
3. Slight dew, followed by installment collectors.
4. Forecast for people asking for a raise: into the boss' office like a whirlwind, followed by cold feet.
5. Squalls followed by quickly changing mothers.
6. For Nome, Alaska: fair, warm, balmy breezes—Nome was never like this.
7. Forecast for soft drink stands: Sloppy, Joe.
8. Puzzling weather: faint flurries, with nobody getting the drift.
9. Snow—followed by little boys with sleds.

A coed should hold her youth but not when he's driving.
—Oklahoma Daily.

The Fresno State College Collegian has compiled a volume known as the "Omnibus of Boners," a collection of classic honers pulled by high school and college students. We trust that none of you have ever been guilty of anything like this:

"A spinster is a bachelor's wife . . . Shakespeare lived at Windsor with his merry wives . . . Pope wrote principally in heroic couplets . . . A vacuum is an empty space where the Pope lives . . . The dome of St. Paul's is supported by eight peers, all of which are unfortunately cracked . . . Contralto is a low sort of music that only ladies sing . . . In Christianity a man can have only one wife. This is called Monotony . . . The Gorgons were three sisters that lived in the islands of the Hesperides somewhere in the Indian ocean. They had long snakes for hair, tusks for teeth, and claws for nails, and they looked like women only more horrible . . . The highest peak in the Alps is Blanc Mange . . . Napoleon had three wives: Josephine, Maria Theresa and Elba . . . A grass widow is the wife of a veterinarian . . . A mayor is a he horse."

When Noah sailed the ocean blue,
He had his troubles same as you;
For forty days he drove the ark
Before he found a place to park.
—Idaho Argonaut.

Why not bring popular songs up to the tempo of the times? True love can be expressed in something besides tender lyrics, so why evade the issue? An editorial writer of the Idaho Argonaut staff has several bright ideas for modern, up-to-the-minute song titles:

For example, "You Look Cute in a Gas Mask," "It's Harder to Dodge Love Than Bombs," "They Can Ration Tires, but Not My Love For You," "Let's Make It a Blackout for Two."

An American soldier on leave would feel more romantic crooning "Tanks for the Memory" than the age-old June-moon-noon routine, while bombs crashed about him. A Modern Miss would feel more recipient toward "Let's Hold Hands in an Air Raid Shelter" than the haunting strains of "By the Light of the Silvery Moon."

"My Love for You Is Hotter Than an Incendiary Bomb" would probably speed up youth's emotional palpitations more than any of the sentimental ballads now making the rounds. With a little cooperation from song pluggers, airmen could soon swing their way across the far east chanting "She's the Sweetheart of Pursuit Squadron Number Seven," in tune with the rattle of a machine gun. What's the matter with substituting "When I Go A-Bombing" for "When I Go A-Dreaming"?

Shhh. Military Secret Visits Baro Office

Another military secret walked into the Barometer office last night—this time being in the form of an OSC graduate, Lieut. Carter Miles, formerly an aggie engineer.

Even though his army service has been relatively short, since November 25, Lieut. Miles was overwhelmingly impressed by the cute coeds at Oregon State. In his own words he said, "All soldiers like girls, after being isolated from them for a few months, even to see them walking around our beautiful campus is a real treat."

Camp Roberts, Miles explained, is a training camp where recruits undergo an extensive drill period of eight weeks. Most of the officers are graduated ROTC men, therefore do not have the friction sometimes caused between the ROTC men who are commissioned as lieutenants, and the regular army lieutenants who had to work years to attain the same rank.

Many Oregon Staters are now stationed at Camp Roberts, Miles said. Among those in the field artillery unit that he recalled are Ted Velde, Rex Caffal, Tommy Harper, Mils Edin, Ked Phieffer and Stan Coates. There are other Oregon Staters in the infantry unit, but he has not been able to contact them lately and doesn't know who is left.

Lieut. Miles is on leave at the present time, and awaiting orders for transfer—to where, he does not know, it's another one of those military secrets, as is his present occupation.

"Well, I'll see you in Singapore," he laughed, and the door closed slowly behind him.

RED WING, Minn. (U.P.) When the towboat Franklin D. Roosevelt went on the rocks in the Mississippi river near here, the towboat Herbert Hoover came along to pull it off.

Teaching a new Army old "tricks" in telephony

The telephone plays a vital role in army communications. So the Bell System is helping to school Signal Corps men in practically every phase of telephone construction, operation and maintenance.

This training job is but a small part of the tremendous task Bell System people are doing in this national crisis. They're setting up telephone systems for new camps, bases and factories—handling an enormous volume of calls needed to coordinate the Nation's war effort.

Throughout the country, Bell System people are wholeheartedly cooperating in the drive for victory. To men and women of their high caliber, there is real satisfaction in a difficult job well done.

Bend Ze Knees

A drastic change in the freshman gym program has taken place since the start of the war with the army issuing orders for the lads in the beginning classes to go through a strenuous 40 minutes of gym work consisting of calisthenics, rope climbing and five or six laps around the gym. No wonder some of the rooks have been coming home moanin' and groanin' about their sore muscles and the like. Don't worry fellows, the army needs men like you.

Well, after two nights of hectic basketball games, Oregon State's hoop squad can settle down now to iron out the mistakes made during the last couple of contests. After the type of race horse basketball seen at these games, one wonders if there could be anything faster in basketball, but just you wait and see this Washington outfit next Monday and Tuesday nights. According to advance notices, the Huskies make the Cougars look slow. Coach Jack Friel of the Cougars says that the Huskies are about the fastest hoop team that he has ever seen.

Huskies Steal the Ball

For instance, when the Huskies were playing Kansas State on a barnstorming tour in pre-season games, the Kansans had a hard time getting the ball past mid-court without some Husky ball-hawker snaking it out of his hands and before you can say Jack Robinson, the ball is in the hoop for a Husky score.

Last year Slat's Gill, Oregon State's brilliant basketball coach, played a zone defense which stop, to a great extent, the effectiveness of their speed. The Beavers split with the Huskies last year winning two games here in Corvallis and losing two at Seattle.

Superman, Bill Morris

Probably the fastest man on the Washington squad is Bill Morris, six feet tall and agile like a cat. He is the first Husky player down the court on a fast break and you just watch him go.

Bob Lindh, senior this year, and the Northern Division's high scorer in his sophomore year, has taken to wearing glasses on the maple court and since, has been a high scorer in practically every game. He is famous for his looping one-handed shot from the sideline and fading away from the shot at the same time. This makes the shot practically impossible to block.

Fortunately the schedule says that Oregon plays the Huskies the Friday and Saturday before the Oregon States, so that might help in slowing them down, but after watching Washington State seemingly get stronger by more games played, it might prove the opposite.

Hand Quicker Than the Eye

Everyway one looks at it, the coming series with the Washington Huskies ought to be a lulu. We, the people in the stands, might not see everything that happens during these coming ball games but we can at least be there to cheer the Beavers on.

At Oregon State

Romantic mix-ups, a crooked real estate scheme that backfires, spectacular thrills in a runaway plane parade the new smash comedy, "Look Who's Laughing," playing now at the Oregon State theater. In its notable cast of radio and film personalities, the offering stars Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy, Fibber McGee and Molly and Lucille Ball.

Bergen, in his real-life role of a famed radio ventriloquist, and McCarthy, as his partner, are flying away from business worries and romantic pangs due to Bergen's secretary getting engaged to his business manager, when their plane is forced down in the mid-western village of Wistful Vista.

Taken into the home of the town's would-be leading citizen and head of the Chamber of Commerce, Fibber McGee, Bergen becomes interested in the altruistic efforts of his host and wife in trying to induce a big airplane manufacturer to locate. The project is opposed by Gildersleeve, a shady individual who is striving to interest the manufacturer in a site in a rival village.

Bergen promises to invite the plane executive to a big banquet personally financed by Fibber, but the meddling Charlie McCarthy, anxious to leave the sleepy town, spoils everything by faking a telegram from Bergen's secretary stating that she is ill. The anxious radio star immediately flies to New York, leaving Fibber holding the bag. Learning belatedly of Charlie's duplicity, Bergen returns to Wistful Vista, virtually kidnaping his pretty secretary.

Sig Ellingson Ski Club Prexy

Sig Ellingson, junior forestry, was elected president of the Suski Ski club last night following the resignation of John Duffy. Other officers elected were vice president, H. E. Paulson and treasurer Ed Hunt.

Plans were made to obtain George Henderson, Timberline Lodge publicity director, to show the club technician ski pictures at a future meeting.

Bob Carter, a representative of the Helonski club, spoke to the Suski members on the facilities for skiing at Hoodoo Bowl.

Following the adjournment of the meeting the members danced the chotishe and polka in the Spanish ballroom.

Slides Will Highlight Flying Club Meeting

The showing of a set of slides entitled "Radio Air Traffic Control" will highlight the meeting of the Oregon State Flying club tonight at 7:30 o'clock in room 317 of the physics building. The slides will be furnished by the Civilian Pilot Training board.

In the last part of the meeting Gilbert Quimby, senior in electrical engineering and president of the club, will lead a discussion of the new government restrictions on civilian pilots.

The activities of the flying club have been somewhat curtailed, said Quimby, because of the recent federal restrictions on civilian pilots and the entrance of many of the student fliers into the air corps of the nation.

Speakers and other forms of entertainment are being arranged for future meetings in order that the interest in the club may be maintained.

CPT students and all persons interested in the flying club are urged to attend.

Amelia Joubert, senior in science, is in charge of refreshments which will be served at the close of the meeting.

Magazine Poll Says Basketball Coaches Against Center Jump

While the public voted in favor of lifting the freshman rule in college athletics in the Esquire sports poll for February, the basketball coaches and sports editors of the country held out for a "business as usual" policy. The public voted in favor of four years of competition by a 56.47 percent. The basketball coaches were against it 57.38 percent, and the sports editors stood by them 55.12 percent. In many of the smaller schools, it was pointed out, the rule already has been abrogated.

Basketball coaches of the nation don't want any part of the center-jump in any shape or form. This was conclusively reiterated in the poll, which put the rotation center-jump idea up for consideration. In this system the players would be rotated in the center-ring like the baseball batting order. Whereas the entire vote was 72.35 percent against restoration of the center jump in this manner, the cage coaches themselves hiked the ante up to 83.33 percent against it in their own group. Ken Loeffler, Yale basketball coach, said, "Basketball has arrived at a point where any change in regard to the center-jump could not better the present game."

That the Manhattan monopoly of Mike Jacobs in boxing is not liked very much across the country was shown by the 84.61 percent vote that "interest in boxing would be increased over the nation if the championship bouts were not confined so exclusively to New York City." On sports writer wrote, "I'd like to say 'yes', but I'm dubious because New York gets the crowds." Boxing also ran second to ski-jumping as a hazardous sport, in the opinion of 68.91 percent of the people polled.

Umpires Liked
Big league umpires walked off with the laurels in the count-up on which sport had "the most competent and honest officiating." The umps wheeled in with 49.67 percent of the total vote. College football placed second with 22.98 percent, followed by tennis with 10.47 percent and track with 3.83 percent. Twenty-six sports in all received nominations. It was noteworthy that the basketball coaches rated the officiating in their own game in only 6.16 percent of their ballots.

A majority of 62.68 percent voted against permitting the use of abusive language in the process of "riding" an opposing ball player. The minority voters, however, thought that if the "razzing" were taken out of baseball the bleachers might as well be torn down.

Venus an Athlete?
Next to the poll on the Jacobs monopoly in boxing, the highest tally was the 73.32 run up in the belief that excessive competition in sports tends to coarsen a woman's appearance.

In the question as to just how Bobby Jones would do against the competition of today, the Atlanta wizard lost out by the slim margin of 53.29 percent, although the basketball coaches expressed confidence in him to the score of 52.77 percent in their bracket.

A majority of 59.90 per cent

Huskies Next; Durdan May Boost Morale of Cagers

Gone from the minds of the Oregon State basketball team today is the memory of the Washington State series, for the Beavers have another, admittedly much faster, and supposedly better team from the state of Washington for which to get ready between now and next Monday.

Oregon State plays the University of Washington Huskies in its second two-game conference series of the season next Monday and Tuesday.

A big boost to Beaver morale is expected this week in the person of Don "Spanky" Durdan, who will join the team Friday Durdan, fresh from starring in the Oregon State Rose Bowl victory over Duke, is naturally not in shape for basketball and, according to basketball coach Slatts Gill, will probably not be able to play for about two weeks yet. However, Durdan is an inspirational type of player and his return to the lineup might be just the shot in the arm that the team needs.

Squad Gets Aid For Opener

Tonight's Workout Is Last Before Game

With only two practices behind them this week, the Rook basketball squad faces its final drill this evening in an effort to whip into shape for tomorrow night's season-opener against Silvertown high school in the men's gymnasium.

The Babes' roster has been bolstered by the addition of Ken "Spike" Johnson of Jefferson high school in Portland and Bob Keizur, a former teammate of Lew Beck at Pendleton high school. Both men enrolled in school for their first time at the beginning of this term and are having their initial workouts this week. Johnson's appearance at practice gives the yearlings three ex-first stringers from Jefferson. Mickey Brophy and Hal Martenson also holding diplomas from that institution.

Half of last night's session was devoted to scrimmaging against the first and second string varsity teams in preparation for the Washington series next Monday and Tuesday nights. The other half of the practice was spent in working on their own plays, special stress being placed on fundamentals.

Squad Agile
The squad, according to Rook mentor Bill McKalip, possesses more agility than those of the past two years, the main problems lying in getting them to function as a unit after so few practices. There will be no "sky-scrapers" on this year's team, the tallest man measuring six feet four inches, which, while not exactly dwarfish, still manages to miss the ceiling by a safe margin.

While refusing to make a direct statement regarding the season's prospects, McKalip expressed satisfaction with the workouts to date. He indicated that the Silvertown encounter will provide a good indication of what to expect for the rest of the schedule.

Foul Throwing Gets Good Start; 150 Participate

Phi Deltas, SAE's Lead First Night of Hoop Tournament

Paced by Ethan Dale of the Phi Delta Theta, the intramural foul throwing tournament continued last night after nearly a four week lay-off.

Dale scored 43 baskets in 50 attempts to lead all other contestants. While the Phi Deltas five top men qualify for the finals had 43, 41, 38, 34, 34 out of 50. Close behind Dale was a teammate Ray Weston with 41 in 50 tries. Eight other Phi Deltas hit 30 or better during the evening.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon house had five men over thirty. Highest with 38 and Schobbe, Harvey, Eitrem and Gustafson all with 34.

Other leaders were Dixon of Phi Gamma Delta with 32 and Paulson also a Fiji with 31. Both made 50 attempts.

Parkhurst of Phi Sigma Kappa had 32. Don Smith, 33, Kallibak, 32, and Julian, 30, led the scoring for the Alpha Sigma Phi club.

Teams turned out strong to night and as a result there were some high scores run up. Almost 150 fellows took part.

Pitney to Lead Retreat Of Wesley Foundation

Mary's River Grange Hall Scene Of Outing Saturday Afternoon

The winter retreat of Wesley foundation will be held under the leadership of Jim Pitney, senior in agriculture and president of Wesley foundation, at the Mary's river grange hall north of Philomath on Saturday afternoon.

The group will leave Wesley hall at 1:30 o'clock and the retreat will extend until 9 o'clock. Cars will return to the campus at dinner time for students who must return at that time.

A hike and outdoor games directed by Frances Watenpaugh, junior in home economics, will lead the program.

The activities of Wesley chorus, Wesley players and other departments of the foundation will be considered during the conference and discussed by leaders from 3 to 4:30 o'clock. Bob Winniford, junior in science, will present the work of the World Student Service fund. Plans for the Easter drama will be discussed by Lauren Godard, senior in forestry.

Betty Zeller, junior in home economics is in charge of dinner arrangements.

Student led communion service will be held at 6:30 o'clock around a rustic worship center made of natural greens. Mildred Cherry, senior in education, and Jean Countryman, junior in science are in charge of the worship.

The sing will be conducted by Nona Zimmerman, junior in secretarial science. The programs have been organized by Dorothy Roetter, senior in home economics; Dawn Dunton, junior in home economics; and Matt Small, junior in agriculture.

Archie Fanger, junior in mechanical engineering, announced that students wishing to attend the retreat should sign on the bulletin board at the entrance to Wesley hall or telephone the church office by Thursday night.

Jim Smith and Monte Click, seniors in engineering, who have arranged for transportation, report that a fee will be collected for transportation and food.

Miss Sybil Tucker, director of Wesley foundation and counselor of the retreat will accompany the group.

Library Will Maintain New Reading Hours

Additional hours for the Beaver book room in the library were announced yesterday by Lucia Haley, assistant librarian. The recreational reading room will be open this term on Friday evening and on Saturday afternoon, in addition to the hours kept during the fall term.

Students may now browse through the open-shelf collection and charge out books during the hours of 8:30-12 o'clock, 1-6 o'clock, 7-9:30 o'clock on Monday through Friday; 8:30-12 o'clock and 1-4 o'clock on Saturday.

Deferment Denied if Married After Dec. 8

Deferment from the draft will not be granted men who were married after the United States declared war on Japan, December 8, according to new regulations sent to the state selective service headquarters in Salem Tuesday.

Men married between September 16, 1940, and December 8, 1941, will not be eligible for draft exemption unless they can prove they were not married in an attempt to evade the draft.

A man's dependents must depend upon the majority of his income for the man to be eligible for draft exemption, according to the new regulations. Before the war declaration it was possible for men whose wives were working to receive deferment but this is no longer possible.

A child 18 years old or older is no longer considered a dependent. Dependents may include a wife, child, parent, grandparent, brother or sister. Such persons must live in the United States and must be economically dependent.

Deferments in cases where a man is necessary in vital occupations including agriculture, shall be granted for six months or less as may be deemed necessary to secure or train a replacement for the registrant.

At the Whiteside

"You're in the Army Now," the new Warner Brothers picture, will begin at the Whiteside theater Thursday and run until Saturday. The new picture promises to be an all-out for the defense of fun type of comedy, with Jimmy Durante and Phil Silvers pooling their considerable talents as comics in the story of two rookies trying to get along.

Pretty Jane Wyman and Regis Toomey carry the romance, and the supporting cast also includes Donald McBride, George Meeker, Joseph Sawyer and William Haade.

Briefly, "You're in the Army Now" tells the story of two vacuum cleaner salesmen who try to sell their wares to an army recruiting sergeant. They're good salesmen, but he's a better one, and before they know it they have signed themselves into a three-year's enlistment.

To All New Freshmen

All freshmen entering Oregon State for the first time this term may get rook bibles at the ASOSC office in the Memorial Union.

The following are Oregon State traditions for freshmen:

All freshmen are to wear rook lids while on the campus and while going to and from the campus.

Tin pants are the conventional type for rooks.

Rook bibles will be stamped for attendance at all regular Wednesday convocations.

Painting Facsimiles On Display at Kidder

A collection of full-colored facsimiles of paintings by leading contemporary American artists will be on exhibition for the remainder of January in the foyer of Kidder hall. This exhibition by the department of art and architecture, through the sponsorship of the convocations committee, is on display from 8 to 6 o'clock daily except Sundays.

The works in this exhibition were created from the original paintings by the American process of gelatone. These reproductions simulate water color, pastel and other mediums. These pictures distributed by the Associated American Artists of New York City may be purchased for private portfolios for home decoration.

Soldier on Leave Pops Up Trainee Group

PUEBLO, Colo. (U.P.)—When parents, sweethearts and friends began weeping on the shoulders of 23 newly recruited draftees in the Pueblo Union station. Pvt. Merwin C. Woodward decided to cheer the boys up.

Home on furlough from Camp Ord, Cal., Woodward jumped upon a platform in the station and delivered a "pop talk." He told the new soldiers the army was great, the food was fine and that the parents and sweethearts should be proud to have their boy in the army.

High-Pressure Selling

HAMMONTON, Pa. — (UP) — When Hammonton firemen found they were short of patrons for their annual Thanksgiving turkey sale, they employed drastic methods to muster a clientele. The central firehouse siren, used only to call out volunteers on a serious fire, was set shrieking loudly and scores of residents came rushing to the scene. There were no hard feelings and every turkey was sold.

Hawthorne Memorial Planned

BOSTON—(UP)—A duplicate of the Little Red House in which Nathaniel Hawthorne lived and wrote will be built at Tanglewood in the Berkshire hills by the National Federation of Music clubs. The Hawthorne memorial will be constructed on the site of the original cottage which was destroyed by fire in 1890.

Local Unit of U. S. Army Thinks Corvallis Is O.K.

Frankly and rankly, what does the Corvallis unit of the United States army think of Corvallis and the people in general? A survey of the members of the 115th Cavalry band (who seemed to please the students at the rally dance yesterday) showed that the band, at least, thinks OSC is all right.

Sergeant Richard S. Adams, 19 years old, from Cheyenne, Wyo., gave his opinion of the State of Oregon as "Wonderful, especially OSC," and gave the same answer to the query on girls.

Technical Sergeant Karl Weihe, the leader of the band, from St. Joseph, Mo., thought the hospitality of the townspeople and college was "very fine" and said he would like to come back after the war. Sergeant Weihe, made no comment on the girls.

First Class Private Joe Shickich, age 20, from Cheyenne, Wyo., stated: "I believe I would like this state if only it would not rain so much, it does really." When asked about girls, Shickich said "Come to Wyoming, buddy, but I'm a bashful boy and can't say!"

Roy Brown, of Cheyenne, gave his opinion of Oregon as "Fine, but my toes are growing together."

The band members all seemed to think Oregon was a bit too wet for comfort; Jack Van Winkle, aircraft mechanic from Cheyenne, gave his opinion as "Not bad—they tell me it's going to rain one of these days."

This questionable comment, "Ssssssswell," on the Beaver state came from Corporal Leon H. Ayle, age 24, from Cheyenne. His opinion on girls was "I'm hooked, your too late."

Clancy Molzer, age 20, who played in a band at University of Wyoming before entering the army, thought Oregon was fine, and replied to the girl question "I lost count."

Sergeant Johnnie Cash, 22, ex-aircraft mechanic from Cheyenne, when asked about Oregon, replied "Great, only come and see Wyoming." His only comment on girls was "Army secrets."

An enthusiastic "M-m-m-m, oh boy!" was the comment on the girls here from Lee Call, from Afton, Wyo. He thought Oregon was "Okay, but a trifle damp." As to hospitality, he said "We soldiers think that the people of Corvallis and OSC are swell. Their excellent hospitality is greatly appreciated."

All in all the band seemed to think the girls were swell, the weather fair and the hospitality wonderful. Let's have some more of the army!

Razorback Mascot Too Greedy

CAMP BARKELEY, Tex. — (UP) — Little Audrey just ate and ate — and finally ate herself out of a home. Theta Sig's Discuss Annual Matrix Table

Arrangements for the Matrix Table banquet sponsored annually by Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism honor society for women, were discussed Tuesday. Marjorie Bainter, president of the group, presided at the meeting.

Heloise Lee, senior in home economics, reported on plans for the banquet and Alice West, senior in education, was appointed to obtain a speaker for the banquet.

Genevieve Cockerline, senior in secretarial science, told of plans for the job symposium, and annual affair which was begun by the organization last year. Members discussed speakers and a possible date for the occasion.

Phyllis Gray, senior in home economics, was appointed chapter chairman for national defense.

Mixed Recreation Hour Planned for Saturday

"But the position at the University?" "I didn't apply for any position."

All this, interspersed with frequent side comments on things in general, constituted the interview with Lon Stiner. Don't get the idea that he is unapproachable. Quite to the contrary, he'll talk about anything. That's just the trouble.

Maybe there wasn't anything in particular to talk about in the first place. After all, he's only the youngest coach in the conference. His teams over the past eight years have only compiled the best win-and-lose record in the Northwest. His team only beat Duke 20-to-16 in the Rose Bowl game, against betting odds of upwards of 3-to-1. After all, what if...

AWS President Calls Legislative Meeting

To revive spirit and enthusiasm, AWS President Adele Knerr has scheduled a supper meeting for the AWS legislative council on Monday at 5 o'clock in the WAA room of the women's building.

"Plans for AWS activities for winter term are to be discussed and organized," said Miss Knerr, "including the carnival slated for February 20, and an all girl convo to be held the latter part of the term for election of next year's officers."

Researches Started

Dr. J. S. Jones, professor of agricultural chemistry, reports that this department is starting research projects which will have economic value in the present crisis. These projects in the line of nutrition work in humans and animals are being carried on in cooperation with farm crops, food industries, animal industries and other departments, Jones said.
