Dear Dr. Casanowicz:

I have just returned from a most interesting six months trip to Japan where I continued my investigations on the Shinto religion, its shrines and festivals.

I did not bring many of the things you wanted, but I did get a collection of Shinto Charms, which I have labeled with explanations. We are now making an inventory of them. If you still think that they would be of interest to you, I will send them on as soon as this inventory is finished. I also have some of the Shrine maps. They are not here yet, but can be sent on later if you would care to have them.

About the Seven Gods of Good Luck, which I remember you have been hoping to get, I looked for them at different places. The cheap ones I did not consider good enough, and a set in bronze which I liked very much was a little more expensive than I wanted to afford at this time, because my trip was very expensive, everything costing two or three times as much as it used to in Japan. I am sorry I cannot send them to you.

Hoping that you are well, and with kind regards to Dr. Herdlicka, I am

W

Very sincerely yours,
