Dear Gertrude

I have your telegram about the changes you suggest in Mother's will.

I don't think you quite understand my present position. I am far from well myself Edith is not so well. John doth upset her greatly. I am at my wits end to know what to do about her. I have five children scattered over the country & don't know how I am to look after them. Mother is not well, been in bed several weeks & in no condition to have such a matter brought. I have got in addition to make all ^{domestic & household} plans for her & keep track of her condition & arrange for getting her to Peterboro.

Furthermore your part of her will was all gone over with you & John & Sam & Mother not so long ago when her last will was made, Sam went to Chicago to advise about it. It was then arranged ~~to~~ every one satisfaction in so far as possible. It's a big task for her to change it, & a very depressing one. I suggest you talk it over with Sam & get his views on the entire situation.

I don't now know when I shall be able to leave here & probably shall have to come back as soon as possible.

your brother
