

January 12, 1932.

Mr Perkins B Bass
140 South Dearborn Street
Chicago, Illinois.

My dear Perkins:

I am enclosing a copy of a letter that I am sending today to George. Please keep it, so that you will have record, as well as I, of what I am trying to bring about.

In dealing with George I am reminded of a story of my fathers: A woman told her son something that they knew she had told him many times before. When she was asked why she told him this twenty times, she answered: "Because nineteen times were not enough".

I can not help wondering whether I am really helping George by allowing him to lean on me instead of meeting his problems.

I am feeling very well and I am able to go both up and down stairs whenever the occasion requires it. I do not use a cane anymore and if I am not taking walks now it is because we are having so much rain, and when it stops raining I am busy.

Your affectionate cousin,

COPY

January 12, 1938.

Mr Perkins B Bass
140 South Dearborn Street
Chicago, Illinois.

My dear Perkins:

I am sending today to George. Please keep it, so that you will have record, as well as I, of what I am trying to bring about.

In dealing with George I am reminded of a story of my father's: A woman told her son something that they knew she had told him many times before. When she was asked why she told him this twenty times, she answered: "Because nineteen times were not enough".

I can not help wondering whether I am really helping George by allowing him to lean on me instead of meeting his problems.

I am feeling very well and I am able to go both up and down stairs whenever the occasion requires it. I do not use a cane anymore and if I am not taking walks now it is because we are having so much rain, and when it stops raining I am busy.

Your affectionate cousin,

COPY