Mrs. Gertrude B. Warner,
Osburn Hotel,
Eugene, Oregon.

Dear Gertrude:

We were glad to have Sam drop in on us last evening at the house in Evanston. He and Helen both looked fine which we thought was remarkable considering the excessive heat they had during their drive.

Sam is now in the office and this letter is being written at his suggestion.

We have talked a little about his and your affairs which have been conducted through Perkins' office. There being no one to carry on Perkins' business, our plan is to close the office as soon as it can conveniently be done. I asked Sam what disposition he wished made of his affairs also his opinion of what you might wish to do with your affairs which had been done through Perkins' office. We both agreed that the logical thing was to have it done through Mr. Edmonds' office. If this concurs with your ideas, we would be pleased to send over to Mr. Edmonds all papers pertaining to your business upon receipt of the enclosed authorization signed by you.

Mame is still holding up wonderfully well and in a day or two expects to go with her sister Bess to her brother's place in Wisconsin for a few days change. Jean and her daughter are still with us and, to my mind, that will be a big problem to Mame for some time to come.

Hoping that you are feeling fine and will have a good summer, I am

*Yours
Jim*
