 William L. Finley Talk Set for Tuesday at High School.

What are said to be the most remarkable films of their kind will be shown here Nov. 8 by William L. Finley when he appears in the high school auditorium Tuesday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock at the November general meeting of the Woman's club. His moving pictures were made last summer which he spent, as he says, "getting familiar with the wild life of Alaska and especially the Kodiak bear."

Mr. Finley, an Oregonian, has a national reputation as a naturalist, author and lecturer, as well as a most successful photographer of wild animal life. Thru his articles in Nature Magazine, the National Geographic, the Atlantic Monthly and other national publications, he has become known to thousands of people who have never heard him lecture or seen his remarkable motion pictures. Three large federal wild bird reservations in Oregon stand as a record of his efforts in arousing popular interest in the conservation of our outdoor resources. These were created by special executive proclamations by President Roosevelt.

Cruise Coastline.

For the past 20 years, Mr. and Mrs. Finley have cruised the coastline, packed and camped thru all the wilder mountainous country of the west, from Alaska to Mexico. Their travels have produced some two hundred thousand feet of motion picture film and over twenty thousand still negatives, which constitute the greatest photographic record of American wild animal life ever made.

This will be the first showing of the remarkable moving pictures Mr. Finley made in the northernmost part of the United States, in which he is shown on quite familiar terms with the wild and ferocious Kodiak bear. Finley's narrative of his experiences on this expedition is filled with thrills as well as having many humorous incidents scattered thru it.

Good Story Teller.

Mr. Finley is an excellent teller of stories and has spoken in every state in the union. There is scarcely a city of any consequence in the United States that has not had from one to ten of his lectures during the last 10 seasons. He has been bringing the great outdoors of this continent to the dwellers in our towns and cities.

Among the many interesting films shown will be a whole series showing the famous and dangerous Kodiak bear. Another and perhaps the most amazing of the series of reels, shows two whales jumping far into the air and landing in the water on their backs.

None of the pictures have ever been shown and may be seen only in connection with Mr. Finley's personal appearance.
