Sunday afternoon.

Dear mama,

This morning it looked like rain so I hurried Murray & Samley out after breakfast. We cut down an old decayed apple tree. We shall have to cut down nearly all our apple trees very soon, because they are dying fast & act as the hosts for all sorts of bugs & blights that attack the other trees.

The boys had a fine time cutting down & up the tree. Now it is nearly all cut

A little before eleven Murray & I, & Samley & Helen went to church. I do not think the boys get much out of church, except a peaceful rest.

I have just called the boys in for a rest. Shirley the Wares & their two children are coming up for supper. Jimmy Ware is Samley's best friend. Mrs. Ware is French & Mr. Ware teaches Chinese at Howard.

Samley's second best friend is Neal Nathanson, a red-headed Jewish boy. I never before heard of a Jew with flaming red hair.

up most of the wool carried either to the cellar or the dump.

As several of the neighbors' children joined in the work & I did not want too many asses flying in a small space, I alternated the crowd between chopping & playing paddle tennis, so that there were never more than two or three working at a time. Further this kept the boys from getting tired of chopping & hauling off the branches.

I assume that you will come east to your association meeting this year as usual.
Since I am looking forward to the pleasure of seeing you again in a little over a month or half.

With lots of love
from Sam

P.S. I am only occasionally sending you copies of my letters to Harry & Uncle Robert, because usually they are not intelligible unless you know also what they have written me.
