Mrs. Murray Warner,
Hotel Touraine,
Boston,
Massachusetts.

Dear Mrs. Warner:

Your letter of October 8th just received, and I hasten to reply and I hope to reassure you a bit as to things at your mother's apartment. As you probably know, I came on from Peterboro with her and every day since then either Miss Fordham or I have visited her. I think quite well of Miss Gray. I know that your mother does also. In a quiet, unobtrusive way she is quite efficient. My observation is that with the departure of Miss Daly a new and better situation was created. I talked with Miss Gray yesterday about the matter of her going to Tucson, and I know she has no other thought other than to stick. If there is any change from this it will be due to something yet to happen. Having lived in the house as you have, you know how Lillie handles herself. She has always taken advantage, and this was equally true while Miss Breaux and Miss Ames were there. However, on our trip west she was most attentive to your mother, and I know from my conversation yesterday that Lillie is at this time almost vital to her comfort. I think I am in a position so that Miss Gray feels free to take up any questions with me. Yesterday your mother spoke to the Doctor about possibly staying in Chicago all winter but he was emphatic in his statement that she must be away by the first of December. I am at present corresponding with the manager of the Conquistador, arranging for a four room bungalow.

My understanding of the intention with regard to Miss Breaux is the same as yours, and my memo shows that the resitances are to be made over a period of one year. I don't know just how the six months idea crept in, but you can rest assured that I will continue the matter for a year as directed.

I do not understand from your letter that you want me to send the jewelry on to the Touraine so shall not do anything until I hear from you further. Sam told me about your fall, and you have my very deep sympathy. I certainly hope you will be able to move before very long.

Very sincerely yours,

H. C. Edwards.

Mrs. Murray
Hotel Touraine,
London,
Massachusetts.

Dear Mrs. Murray:

Your letter of October 2nd just received, and I hasten to reply and I hope to reassure you a bit as to what your mother's apartment. As you probably know, I came on the boat and every day since then Miss Grevy has been in my office. I think quite well of Miss Grevy. I know that your mother does also. In a quiet, unobtrusive way she is doing a great deal of good. My observation is that with the departure of Miss Grevy a new and better situation was created. I talked with Miss Grevy yesterday about the matter of her going to London, and I know she has no other financial obligations. It seems to me that she will be able to come to London if she wishes.
 Having lived in the house as you have, you know how Miss Grevy has always taken advantage, and she was really very kind. Miss Grevy and Miss Grevy were never, however, as you say, the same. I know your mother, and I know how you feel about her. I think I am in a position to say that Miss Grevy was never the same as you. Yesterday your mother spoke to the doctor about possibly staying in Ontario all winter but he was sceptical in his statement that she must be away by the first of December. I am at present corresponding with the manager of the hotel, regarding for a four room apartment.

My understanding of the situation with regard to Miss Grevy is the same as yours, and my own view is that the money she is to have over a period of one year. I don't know just how the six months has come in, but you can rest assured that I will continue the matter for a year as directed.

I do not understand from your letter that you want me to send the jewelry on to the Touraine so I shall not do anything until I hear from you further. Can you let me know your call, and you have my very deep sympathy. I certainly hope you will be able to have before very long.

Very sincerely yours,

R. D. ...
