June 26th -

Dear Mrs. Warner -

Here are the samples of the "Ben Day" process - I think it has great possibilities in the hands of a good engraver.

I shall be so interested to know how your Boston Publisher turned "out" and whether the book is again in your hands - Whether I do the illustrations or not — (and I want you to feel perfectly free about changing your plans, of course!)

I count it a special blessing of our Class to have met you!

With much love

Rhoda Chase.

"I was frightened, too,"
said Little Miss Muffet.

"What frightened you?"
asked one of the king's men.

"I sat on a tuffet eating curds and whey; and a great spider came by."

"And you ran away?"

"Yes, I ran away."

"Was the spider frightened, too?"

"Jack frightened the spider away."

"The spider would have run away
