

May 24th, 1937

My dear Jessie:

I had not expected to arrive in New York before you did, but here we are. We have been to the Metropolitan and have done a little shopping and I have order a new spring outfit for myself.

My Association meets on this coming Saturday-the 29th, if you arrive over the week end, please call me up. Remember, please, that I do not know where you will be in New York and consequently I am depending upon you to look me up.

It is hard to tell how long we will be here, if I know when you are coming, perhaps I can wait to see you, as this is probably the last time that I will see you for some time. I am looking forward to seeing the two bedspreads that you told me about with great anticipation.

From here we are going to Boston to the Copley-Plaza Hotel, Copley Square, so that if you arrive in N.Y. after we leave, you will know where we have gone.

With loving greetings to you and Elizabeth

Very affectionately yours,

Gertrude Bass Warner

May 24th, 1937

My dear Jessie:

I had not expected to arrive in New York before you did, but here we are. We have been to the Metropolitan and have done a little shopping and I have order a new spring outfit for myself. My Association meets on this coming Saturday-the 29th. If you arrive over the week end, please call me up. Remember, please, that I do not know where you will be in New York and consequently I am depending upon you to look me up.

It is hard to tell how long we will be here, if I know when you are coming, perhaps I can wait to see you, as this is probably the last time that I will see you for some time. I am looking forward to seeing the two bedspreads that you told me about with great anticipation.

From here we are going to Boston to the Copy-Plaza Hotel, Copy Square, so that if you arrive in N.Y. after we leave, you will know where we have gone.

With loving greetings to you and Elizabeth

Very affectionately yours,

Gertrude Bass Warner