Dear Mrs. Warner:

I learn with much concern that you, and over one hundred other members of the Academy, have allowed their memberships to lapse. Looking at the matter from an individual viewpoint you might easily think this would cause the Academy no great hardship. I regret to say this is not the case. The Academy has no endowment and depends almost entirely on its membership dues to carry on its work.

The Academy has been trying staunchly to do its part in the advancing of a better understanding of the complex economic conditions. Its programs have sought to grapple with fundamentals and it has focused public attention on national and international problems.

The program for the Annual Meeting on November 14th is attracting wide attention and the acceptances indicate a large and representative gathering at all three sessions. I feel sure you will wish to receive The Proceedings of this meeting.

May I express the sincere hope that you will send your membership dues to the Academy now.

Faithfully yours,

Ogden L. Mills
