

Mrs Warner presented Mrs Burt Brown Barker to the A.A.U.W. when she read a paper on "Chinese Tomb figures" at the Museum Library January 13th, 1937.

Ladies.....

I cannot begin to tell you how happy I am to stand here and express to you my appreciation <sup>with my gratitude</sup> for the great service that Vice-president and Mrs Barker performed in going over to Japan to <sup>please</sup> ask the Society for International Cultural Relations to send an outstanding scholar of Japanese art to our University. The Barkers hoped that they would send us a man whom we would admire, respect, and love and they did; a man whose ability, judgment, and wisdom were outstanding; a man whose learning and achievements were outstanding; and above all a man whose love for humanity was outstanding, and such a man was sent.

The members of the Society for International Cultural Relations of Tokyo, Japan knew, that if Vice-President <sup>and his wife</sup> Barker of the University of Oregon made the effort to go over to Japan to make this request, that the man whom they would send, would be received with kindness, with gratitude, and with love and so they sent us Mr Jiro Harada.

Ladies...this service that Vice-president and Mrs Barker performed has added <sup>great</sup> prestige to the University of Oregon.

And then, this last summer when Vice-president and Mrs Barker were in England, Mrs Barker made a study of Chinese tomb figures at the British Museum and the results of her investigations, she is bringing to us today.

Ladies...Mrs Barker

Mrs. Warner presented Mrs. Tom Barker to the A.A.U.W. when she read a paper on "Chinese Tomb Figures" at the Museum Library January 13th, 1937.

Ladies.....

I cannot begin to tell you how happy I am to stand here and express to you my appreciation for the great service that Vice-president and Mrs. Barker performed in going over to Japan to ask the Society for International Cultural Relations to send an outstanding scholar of Japanese art to our University. The Barkers hoped that they would send us a man whom we would admire, respect, and love and they did; a man whose ability, judgment, and wisdom were outstanding; a man whose learning and achievements were outstanding; and above all a man whose love for humanity was outstanding, and such a man was sent.

The members of the Society for International Cultural Relations of Tokyo, Japan knew that if Vice-president Barker of the University of Oregon made the effort to go over to Japan to make this request, that the man whom they would send, would be received with kindness, with gratitude, and with love and so they sent us Mr. Iino.

Ladies... this service that Vice-president and Mrs. Barker performed has added prestige to the University of Oregon. And then, this last summer when Vice-president and Mrs. Barker were in England, Mrs. Barker made a study of Chinese Tomb Figures at the British Museum and the results of her investigations are in printing for us today.

Ladies.... Mrs. Barker

