FORMALS FEATURE SOCIAL SCHEDULE

Sophomore Cotillion to Be First Major Function of Term; Junior Prom Last

DANCE LIST CROWDED

Memorial Union All-college Event to Honor Building

The Sophomore Cotillion will be the first of several major functions this term. The winter quarter will be featured with all-school formals as well as numerous fraternity and sorority formals.

Because of the fullness of the social schedule it has been necessary to make February 1 an open date although the "Ag-Home-Ec" ball is scheduled for that date. The crowded schedule resulted from the closing of the week end of February 23—that of the Educational exposition.

New Formal Planned

A new all-school function has been added to the list. It is the Memorial Union formal to be in the Memorial Union building, February 9. This dance will be an annual event in honor of the building to which all students are invited.

The Junior Prom, which will be the last formal of the term, is scheduled for March 2 in the Memorial Union building. Late permission will be given women for this affair.

The Madrigal and Glee clubs will give their annual operetta January 8 and 9. February 2 is the date for the Y. W. C. A. waffle breakfast.

COACH WILL RETURN TO O. S. C. CAMPUS

Former Mentor Now Studying For Master's Degree at Columbia University

Ralph O. Coleman, former varsity baseball coach and instructor in physical education for men, who is now studying for his master's degree at Columbia university, expects to return to the campus in September, in time for the opening of the fall term.

Mrs. Coleman and daughter Carolyn expect to return to Corvallis some time in June, while Mr. Coleman is to stay for summer school to complete his degree, according to a letter received by C. A. Lodell, general manager of the associated students.

Coleman says he is becoming accustomed to riding in subways and pushing his way through the mass of humanity on the sidewalks of New York, and thinks that by the time he returns to Corvallis he will be an accomplished fullback.

RELIGION CLASS LARGE

Sixty students attended the first meeting of the one-credit course in religion dealing with "The Sermon on the Mount." The class is conducted by E. W. Warrington, professor of religious education.

Five Beaverton Students Make Highest Exam Marks

Beaverton high school, with five students sent to institutions of higher learning as freshmen last fall, tops the list of 107 Oregon high schools this year in records made by entering students in the fifth annual uniform placement examination in English given by institutions under the auspices of the committee on higher English of the Inland Empire Educational association.

The combined results of the examination have just been issued by Dr. M. Ellwood Smith, president of the Inland Empire council of English teachers and dean of basic arts and sciences. His complications show that a total of 2369 students took the test, which was composed of 135 questions or elements, many of which

ROOK DANCE PLANS READY FOR TONIGHT

All First Year Men Requested To Have Bibles Stamped By Beaver Knights

The rooks and rookesses will meet in the Memorial Union building for their only social event of the year tonight. Definite plans for the evening have been completed by the committees in charge and everything is set for the yearlings' frolic.

"All rooks must be present with their rook bibles to have them stamped at 10 o'clock," reports Edwin Keltner, duke of the Beaver Knights. "The rooks without dates at the close of the dance will be paddled, after which they will serenade."

"Upperclassmen who come to the dance will be taken before the group to give some form of entertainment in addition to the features already planned," said Helen Reid, vice-president.

NEARNESS OF ORIENT CITED BY DR. LEWIS

Closer Contact Aids Nations In Fellowship Problem

"We, of the world of today wish to be world minded, not worldly minded, and should think in world terms and living empires," said Dr. Ida Belle Lewis, of Columbia university, former president of the Women's college in south China, in speaking before the home economics club. "We cannot appreciate that we are much nearer to the Orient than Boston was to Philadelphia in the early days. Gradually we are coming into closer contact with China, Japan and India. College men and women all over the world are studying the same things, speaking the same language, and using the same texts in the classroom," continued Dr. Lewis. "By getting in touch with these countries, we not only contribute to other countries, but they in turn contribute new ideas and customs to us. This interchanging of ideas contributes largely to international fellowship."

Gladys Powell, senior in home economics, who presided at the meeting, announced that Miss Jeanette Cramer, home economics editor of the Morning Oregonian, will speak on "Home Economics in Journalism" at the next meeting.

HISTORIAN WILL GIVE AFTER DINNER SPEECHES

Dr. J. B. Horner, director of Oregon historical research, will speak at several social organizations during January and February on the growth of moral and religious education in Oregon. The after dinner speeches are conducted under the auspices of the local Christian associations.

The following schedule has been announced: Bachelor's club, January 16; Delta Zeta, January 23; Margaret Snell hall, January 30; Alpheus club, February 14; and Alpha Chi Rho, February 20.

STUDENT'S FATHER DIES

Marjorie Todd of Portland, sophomore in commerce, was called home due to the death of her father who has been an invalid for some time.

ATHLETIC CODE NEAR WATERLOO

Practical System Designed to Replace Present Methods of All Colleges

UNIFORM RULE PLANNED

National Students' Federation Has Final Say in Matter

A plan to draw up a new and practical athletic code with a uniform definition of amateurism throughout the country, is being supervised by the national committee on athletics, according to a report by M. A. Cheek, Jr., chairman of the committee, and an ex-Harvard football star. This plan, if accepted, is expected to be adopted by every conference and individual institution throughout the country. Any institution not adopting it is to be boycotted in athletics.

Uniformity Needed

The lack of a uniform definition of amateurism leads to injustice to athletes in some cases and lax rules in others. The matter is now up before the National student's federation of America for final recognition. There being no organization with the proper scope and standing to formulate these rules and definitions, the committee voted that the students federation, being representative of all parts of the country, was the natural association from which such action should come. The committee on athletics recommended the student federation to begin agitation for a committee chosen from students, athletic directors, coaches and athletic experts and to meet and draw up the new code.

The present wide difference in eligibility standards in various parts of the country, was decided an evil. That the problem of summer baseball, athletic scholarships, athletic jobs and like problems, should be dealt with, and the rights of individuals and institutions clearly defined, was another decision of the committee.

OREGON STATE MEN FINISH SOILS TRIP

Several Days Spent on Pumps And Systems of Drainage In Irrigation Work

M. R. Lewis, drainage specialist, United States department of agriculture, and Arthur King, student in the soils department, have returned from a two-week trip to California where they spent several days looking over types of pump and well equipment. W. W. McLaughlin, associate chief of the division of agricultural engineering, and several different manufacturers and dealers made the trip.

The men spent considerable time in Merced, Modesto and Turlock, investigating a new system of drainage wells used by pumping—drainage land and pump out for irrigation. At Davis a conference was held with members of the department of soils, and heads of the department of engineering at California Agricultural college.

HISTORY OF MT. HOOD RELATED BY GEOLOGIST

Dr. E. T. Hodge, professor of geology, of the University of Oregon, spoke on the history of Mt. Hood and the geology of the surrounding country, at a dinner given by Dean and Mrs. J. H. Hance to the Miners' club in the Memorial Union building.

Mt. Hood has been the result of the junction of two large earth fields which intersected and created a weak spot in the earth's crust. This allowed the escape of lavas from great igneous reservoirs below, is the opinion of Dr. Hodge.

ALEXANDER IN HONOLULU

Gordon Alexander, sophomore in commerce, who was not able to return to college this term on account of illness, will spend the next few months in Honolulu. He plans to return next term.

CO-ED STUNT SHOW MANAGER SELECTED

Annual Competition Between Women's Organizations Scheduled April 5-6

Lucille Morton, senior in commerce, has been selected manager of the annual women's stunt show, scheduled for April 5 and 6 at the Majestic theater. Miss Morton was chosen from a list of 10 women eligible for the position, and is making plans for a meeting of the representative managers of the groups.

Sororities and the hall taking part are asked to select their individual managers this week and to begin planning their stunts. Gamma Phi Beta placed first last year and Phi Beta Phi took second prize.

BANKERS TO ATTEND THREE DAY COURSE

Judging and Milking Contests Will Feature Program

Individual invitations to all bankers of Oregon to attend the second annual January 23-25 have been extended by Dr. W. J. Kerr, president of the college, in letters just sent. The short course is sponsored jointly by the agricultural committee of the Oregon Bankers' association, and the extension service here.

"No one can appreciate more fully than you the importance of every constructive effort to improve and develop the agriculture of the state," wrote President Kerr. "Individually in your respective communities, and as an organization acting through the agricultural committee of the Oregon Bankers' association, you have accomplished much for the betterment of agricultural conditions in Oregon and general years."

The first two days of the course this year will be on the campus while the third will be spent in Portland inspecting the facilities of the Pacific Cooperative Woolgrowers association. The program this year is built around dairying and sheep raising and is designed to acquaint Oregon bankers with their responsibilities in putting these branches of agriculture on a sounder basis.

A sidelight of this year's program is a series of judging contests for the bankers. In the first the bankers will try to pick the highest producer from a herd of officially tested cows. The winner will receive a silver cup offered by Eugene Courtney, Woodburn, chairman of the banker's agricultural committee. A milking contest will follow, the prize being a cup offered by Paul V. Maris, director of extension. A third contest is to judge the weight of fleece on a class of ewes upon which life records have been kept. Ted Cramer, secretary of the association is offering a cup for the winner.

NEWMAN CLUB ARRANGES FAREWELL COMMUNION

The Newman club members will give a farewell communion breakfast for Father F. P. Leipzig, chaplain of the club, Sunday following the 8 o'clock mass. He will leave for Eugene Monday to take direct charge of the Catholic parish. He will also be chaplain of the Newman club at the University of Oregon.

Speakers at the breakfast will be Grant McMillan, president of the student body; Howard Maple, well-known football quarterback; Herbert Mickelbrook, former president of the Newman club at the college and Leonard Sylvester, president of the club.

The breakfast will be in charge of Doris Kirby, vice-president of the Newman club.

DEPARTMENTS CREATED

Courses in the school of pharmacy have been segregated into departments for the first time since the establishment of the school in 1898, announces Dr. Adolph Ziefle, dean of the school of pharmacy. This plan has been made possible through the employment of competent instructors.

HANKS SPRAINS KNEE

Lester Hanks, freshman in engineering, who sprained his knee while skiing at Mt. Hood during vacation, has been forced to drop his college work for the term.

EDUCATORS NAMED ON SUMMER STAFF

NEW COURSES OFFERED

Most of Faculty to Be Chosen From O. S. C. Instructors

Educators from many noted institutions will be on the 1929 Oregon State summer session staff June 17 to July 26, as announced in a summer session advance bulletin just issued by Dr. M. Elwood Smith, director of the summer session. Emphasis will be placed on requirements for master's degrees, the work being arranged so that students may pursue these courses through successive summers.

An outstanding feature will be the operation on the campus of a branch of the Parson's school of applied arts of New York and Paris under the supervision of James R. Patterson in charge of interior decoration in the New York schools and manager of the firm, Consulting Decorators, Incorporated. Mr. Patterson has spent a number of years in Paris, Italy and England as an instructor and in research work.

Dr. Hedger to Return

Dr. Caroline Hedger, medical director for Elizabeth McCormick Memorial Fund, Chicago, will return to Oregon State after an absence of several years. Dr. Hedger is not only a practicing physician but a student of modern psychology, familiar with the entire parental and pre-school movement in America. During the World War she served in Belgium in a campaign for the control of the typhoid epidemic. Dr. Hedger will give a course on "Child Development."

BLACKSMITH SHOPS UNDERGOING CHANGE

Forging and Welding Material In Industrial Art Rooms Being Reorganized

Extensive division and reorganization of equipment in the forging and welding laboratories is being made by the industrial arts department. The welding equipment dates from the time when all men students were required to take a certain amount of carpentry and blacksmithing.

While the wood shop has undergone changes there has been little change in the blacksmithing equipment. Under the present conditions it is impossible to conduct instruction in the modern methods of drop forging, welding and heat treating. This has proved a serious handicap since the shop is primarily used by engineering students who are interested in modern developments. The plan of revision will incorporate electric and acetylene welding, drop forging and heat treating of steel as important units of instruction.

SOILS CLUB ARRANGES ANNUAL SPRING TRIP

The annual spring trip of the soils club is set for April 4 to 8. The 1000-mile tour will be through central Oregon visiting Grants Pass, Klamath Falls, Bend, Moro, Hood River and return. The irrigation work at Klamath Falls and other places will be examined. Hood River orchards and the Moro branch experiment station are included in the trip.

The club will give a winter party in the home of Dr. W. L. Powers, professor of soils, January 18. Cards and dancing are planned.

DONNELL IS PRESIDENT

Merrill Donnell, '18 graduate in pharmacy, has been elected president of the Wasco County O. S. C. club of The Dalles.

INSTRUCTIVE FILMS VIEWED BY STUDENTS

Jar Making and Scenic Pictures Shown to Industrial Club As Program Feature

Instructive films on glass jar making, astronomy and scenic films of the Columbia river were shown for the benefit of industrial art club members in the class room of the mechanical arts building.

C. A. Bergman, instructor of mechanical drawing at Salem high school, was to have lectured the club in conjunction with the showing of the films, but was forced to postpone the engagement on account of illness. The club will arrange to have him on the program at a future meeting.

Officers of the club have been formulating a plan to furnish a reading room for the convenience of industrial arts students. A committee for furnishings has been appointed.

CHEMISTRY CONTEST OPEN TO FRESHMEN

Many Money Awards Offered For Essays on Science

Fifty-four prizes are open to all freshmen of university and college rating, announces Neil E. Gordon, chairman of the prize essay contest, which is sponsored by the American chemists society. Prizes are awarded by Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Garvan of New York city, in memory of their daughter, Patricia.

The contest is to stimulate a greater familiarity with science, especially that of chemistry, says Mr. Gordon. Six prizes of $500, six of $300 and six of $200 will be awarded to the first, second and third best articles on each of the six topics.

The topics are, "The Relation of Chemistry to the Enrichment of Life," "The Relation of Chemistry to Agriculture or Forestry," "The Relation of Chemistry to National Defense," "The Relation of Chemistry to Health and Disease" and "The Relation of Chemistry to Industrial Development." Aspirants may have their choice of any important branch of any of the subjects.

The theme is to be the student's original work of not more than 2,500 words. Details about the rules may be obtained from any instructor in chemistry. The essay is to be in the hands of the secretary on prizes, American chemists society, 85 Beaver street, New York city, not later than March 1, 1929.

Miller's Cords Dirtiest, Desision of Junior Judges

One pair of cords—the dirtiest in the ballroom at the Junior cord dance last night—was so uniformly grimy that the owner, Fred Miller, junior in commerce, was presented with a creamy white pair. Miller was obliged by request of the crowd to elevate himself on a chair and exhibit what the judges considered to be the dirtiest of dirty cords.

Clean cords, filthy and even filthy cords were on display and very much in evidence as the shuffling mob of upperclassmen syncoated, bumped and crowded each other in the Hotel Benton ballroom. While most of the couples were dancing—or trying to do so—some took refuge in the lounge in the lobby of the hotel. Dancing was practically at a standstill when

Varsity Ahead Sixteen Points At End of First Half

By NICK ZYLSTRA

The Oregon State basketball team, playing in tap-nock form, handed the fast Willamette university five a 46 to 22 defeat on the local maple floor last night before one of the largest crowds attending a pre-season game this year. The fast and clever forward, George Scales of Willamette, was high point man with 13 markers. This flashing forward proved to be a threat to the States during the entire game.

Wascher, Orange guard, who was next in the scoring with 12 tallies, was equally as dangerous on the local team. Wascher showed plenty of speed and was exceptionally accurate in shooting baskets from difficult angles. Ballard, Oregon State forward, was third in scoring honors with 10 points.

Wascher Scores First

Willamette took the opening tip off, and, after a few minutes of play, Wascher intercepted a Bearcat pass and dribbled in for the first score. Litchfield of Willamette evened the count with a long shot, and followed with a successful free throw after Torson had fouled him. The Bearcats went into the lead by this point.

PAULSON DISCLOSES GRADUATES POSITION

Examples of Outstanding Work Told by State Supervisor At Ag Club Meeting

O. I. Paulson, state supervisor of agricultural education, spoke at a meeting of the Agricultural club on the position of an agriculture graduate in his community.

Mr. Paulson discussed the place of the Smith-Hughes worker, the county agent, the farmer, the field man for banks and creameries and of the science teacher in high schools.

Examples of outstanding work of graduates were cited. Fred Entemill of Baker, '20 graduate in agriculture, is an outstanding breeder of pure-bred livestock. Marvin Thomas, Dushutes county farmer, is appearing on a program in Medford as one of the finest dairymen of his community and of the state. Mr. Thomas had had no farming experience before coming to college.

Raymond Hatton of Portland, soft shoe artist, entertained the merry-makers with his clever footwork. His "Buck" dance, the main feature, caused laughter and cheers from all corners of the ballroom. Several encores were given.

The dance did not get into full swing until after 8:30 o'clock because many of the juniors were attending the basketball game.

All the tickets were sold early in the evening and the demand for them at the dance was heavy.

Judges who determined the prize winning pair of cords were Jesse May Irvine and Mae Johnson, juniors in home economics, and Leonard Sylvester, junior in commerce.

Cheating and Honor

At last the worthy editorial writers of the Barometer have received comment on some of their writings. Not this writer, particularly, but others who are very desirous of having their editorials commented upon, favorably or otherwise. It took an article by a "rookie" editorial writer to start all the commotion. But that same writer will have to answer for his own arguments.

The prize comment of the day came to the editor yesterday and is reprinted on the same page. C. L. R. wishes for the abolition of the honor code, which we think to be one of the most outstanding institutions of the whole college. The honor code is a lovely ideal and is looked up to by most of the State students. There are always those who would cheat under any conditions but that does not alter the situation that more good can be done by a lofty ideal than none at all.

It is very tempting, to be sure, but the resultant penalty should counteract any temptation that should even enter the student's mind. Maybe the A and B students are the victims of the cheaters—these cheaters are cheating no one but themselves. While our honor code is being used at O. S. C. we should try to follow it implicitly and not try to get away with anything. This same code that we follow here was favorably mentioned at the National Students Federation of America by many of the student body presidents.

Genius in Disguise

California authorities are amusing themselves by playing, cat-and-the-mouse fashion, with a girl who has succeeded in bluffing the public for more than two years. No crime has been perpetrated, yet the young lady in question is facing a term of years in the Golden State's summer resort for persistent characters, at Sacramento.

Two years ago this master at deception arrived in the sunny south from a neighboring state and started to play an amusing game with human pawns. To make a sad story seem more sad, she met another young lady with whom she decided to amuse herself. Being garbed in the attire commonly attributed to the use of males, she wooed and won this invigled member of her sex and they were married.

Everything went well until the bride's parents decided to live with the happy couple, sometime later, and the pseudo-man called for hearts and someone slipped in the joker, so the roads of the two diverged—until yesterday. The cops took a fancy to the well-dressed young man and decided to pay "his" board and room for some reason or other, explanations unnecessary. It was then that the two-year hoax was out. The "man" admitted that "he" was not a man and proverbially speaking, "hopped from the frying pan into the fire."

Since it was impossible to charge the prisoner with violating the Mann act and the cops being somewhat ashamed of themselves, decided they could not let this out without doing something, and entered the prisoner under the charge of violating law number (take your choice) passed two years before the gold rush of '49, to wit: women were not to wear disguises or masquerade costumes on the

Since the past customs have been for men to impersonate the opposite sex, the only thing remaining is for some theatrical genius to come to the rescue of the police by taking this young woman off their hands and give her to the public. Student Editorial

Condolences Personified Judging from the immediate attention caused by the editorial "Why Student Instructors?" in Tuesday's Barometer, the writer begins to be more convinced that would at first seem to be the case. P. M., in replying, shows decided Chinese characteristics by reading things from the bottom up, thereby destroying the purpose of an editorial and at the same time misinterpreting the original idea.

The writer proudly admits that he is enrolled at O. S. C. and has been for a sufficient time to allow the acquiring of such experience necessary to warrant the passing of judgment on the matter and desiring the advancement of his Alma Mater. Mere enrollment in an institution does not necessarily mean satisfaction to the student. Other factors enter into the reason for his enrollment. Seldom does a high school graduate consider the standards of a school when making his selection. Friends often have much influence on his choice.

It may be consoling to P. M. and P. H. H. to know that the writer is not finding the present standards too high and if such were the case would not desire to pass the "back" to the shoulders of our student instructors. In fact, he has had no close relations with student instructors so would see no reason for such. The editorial was based on the dissatisfaction expressed by various students on the campus.

Nor does the writer forget that these student teachers are under the supervision of our faculty. However, supervision can do little toward supplementing inexperience and the little knowledge of the subject acquired during a part of their college course. —L. W. B.

STUDENT COMMENT

To the Editor of the Barometer: Honor systems or not? It's a lovely ideal, to use the expression that, perhaps, a co-ed might use—but that is as far as it goes. Even college students are human—and it is human to err. Temptation has caused the downfall of many who would not have succumbed otherwise. So why put temptation in their way?

Those who will not cheat, WILL NOT cheat under any circumstance. Those who could not cheat profitably—as under the watchful eye of the instructor—might be induced to actually learn something in order to pass an examination.

It is for these poor mortals, and for the impatient ones who must bear to see an indolent student profit by their efforts, that this writer advocates discard of the honor system.

If this seems rabid, investigate the success of the honor system in the University of Texas, where a system considerably older than the one at Oregon State, was discarded a few months ago as a failure.—C. L. R.

Basketball Captain Plays Stellar Games In Spite of Injury

Frank Patterson, captain and forward of the Oregon State college basketball team, is probably one of the best talked of players on the Orange squad, being one of the two twin-stripe lettermen around which

Coach "Slats" Gill is building his team. In spite of the fact that he has been handicapped with an injured leg during most of the season, he has shown up well, being especially good on long shots.

The clever forward came to Oregon State from Salem, where he starred on the Salem high school team. During his freshman year here, he earned a numeral on the rook quintet and the following year played regularly on the varsity. Last season Patterson played stellar basketball and proved to be a threat to all opponents.

"Patsy," as he is known to many basketball followers on the campus, weighs 163 pounds and is five feet 11 1/4 inches tall.

The pen of a student must clear the track for THINKING by eliminating all pen troubles that might interrupt the train of thought. It must give the brain the Right of Way to insure proper concentration.
We wanted to know how the Parker stood in face of these requirements, so we made a test in fifty-five of the best-known institutions of learning to determine the real facts.
Fifty-five professors simply handed students question which these inquiries were written: "Which fountain pen do you own now?" and "Which will you buy next?"
The result showed that 47% more students owned a Parker than the next most favored pen . . . and in addition, 14% of those now owning other makes would change to a Parker next time they buy a pen.
Thus the world's most critical users, as a class, gave their preference to Parker.
Parker Improvement Number 47, known the world over as Pressureless Touch, is one reason for this preference. Another is Non-Breakable Parker Permanent Barrels, 28% lighter than rubber.

The annual intramural handball tournament which will be under the supervision of William Burr, in charge of intramural athletics, is scheduled to start Monday evening on the large handball courts in the men's gymnasium. Much interest is already being shown by players of the various groups who will compete, and it is believed that the scramble for the college title will be hard fought. The winners of the all-school title will receive a silver loving cup offered by the Winkley's Creamery company of this city.

The tourney will be a double and on the percentage basis. Teams will be divided into leagues of four teams, each team playing three games, and the winners of each will play for the championship of their respective league. The winner of each league will receive a plaque as has been done every year. All games will be played according to the handball rules and those used by the intramural department. Games will be played every evening from 6 to 9 o'clock.

Last year the all-school championship was taken by the Theta Chi team, represented by Graap and Fellman. These handball artists defeated the fast local league champs, Alpha Pi Delta, in a one-sided contests.

POLO BANQUET GIVEN HONORING CLUB MEN

Colonel H. R. Richmond Speaks
On Evolution of Ponies
In National Game

The Oregon State polo club initiated 18 men into the organization at a banquet in the Golden Pheasant restaurant. Preston Varney, senior in forestry, was toastmaster. Besides the 18 initiates 20 other members and army officers were present.

Colonel H. R. Richmond, professor of military science and tactics, addressed the meeting on the evolution of polo ponies in the United States army in the past 21 years. Colonel Richmond has had many years experience with the cavalry unit of the army, having been an instructor at the cavalry officer's school. He designed the saddle now used by army polo teams throughout the country.

Major F. W. Bowley, head of the field artillery unit at the college, spoke on the two kinds of polo men—those who have money and who do nothing except play and those who love and train their own horses. Major Bowley has had much experience with polo and carries a three-goal handicap. He will assist Lieutenant M. L. Stockton in coaching the varsity team here this year. Lieutenant Stockton welcomed the men initiated to the club and related his personal polo experiences, beginning with his debut on the dusty plains of Texas.

Men who were initiated at the banquet were S. Burkhardt, G. Higgins, L. Hindman, R. Smith, T. Wheaton, C. Boeske, H. Peares, C. Bockmon, W. Manlove, C. Ranney, G. Bohannon, K. Kellogg, H. Drewis, R. Jones, T. Bailey, R. Apperson and R. Black.

BEAVER SOCCER MEN TO PLAY JEFFERSON

Teams Will Meet Here Today
With Hopes of Renewing
Old Sport on Campus

Soccer, a dead sport on the campus for several years, makes its first attempt at resurrection at 2 o'clock this afternoon when a group of ex-high school stars, playing merely because of love for the game and a desire to restore it as a recognized sport, meet the team from Jefferson high of Portland on the roof field.

The team, because of lack of practice, is not yet in perfect condition and its true strength is unknown. Since it contains several experienced men who shone in prep school competition it is expected to put up a real battle. Today's game will enable George Duffield, manager, to get a line on his material and pick the smoothest working combination. For this reason practically every man on the squad will get a chance to show his ability in competition this afternoon. Duffield asks that all men be in suit at the field by 2 o'clock.

INTRAMURAL SWIMMING RELAYS TO START SOON

Intramural swimming relays will start January 19 with local teams competing. Each organization is to be represented by a team of six men, each of which swims one length of the tank.

First and second place winners of each heat will enter the finals. Third and fourth place winners of each heat will swim in the semi-finals, and winners there will enter the finals. Semi-finals and finals will be run off some evening of the following week. The winner of the final will receive the local championship plaque, and will swim against winners of the other divisions for a silver loving cup which goes to the school champions.

The pool in the men's gymnasium is open for practice every evening from 4 to 6 o'clock and many organizations are getting their teams in condition.

ROOK HOOP SQUAD WINS SALEM TILT

Babes Victorious by Count of 32 to 17; Fagans Scoring
Ace With Ten Points

The Oregon State rook basketball team fattened its winning column last night on the local floor when they defeated the strong Salem high school squad to the tune of 32 to 17. The game was fast and much roughness was displayed by both teams. Fagans, lanky rook forward, was high-point man with 10 markers scored on field goals. Lyman and Duffey were second with six points each.

The babes took the lead from the start when Fagans looped a basket in the first few minutes of play, to be followed with one by Lyman. The Capital city hoopers held the short end of the score throughout. The first half ended 16 to 7 for the Beaver yearlings. At the third quarter the rooks led by 18 points. Both teams used many substitutes.

The Oregon State freshmen will migrate to Portland, where they will tangle with the Benson high team, January 18. Besides Salem, they have downed Franklin and Washington high schools of Portland by decisive scores here.

Rooks (32) (17) Salem High

IMPROVEMENTS PROVIDED FOR VARSITY ATHLETES

The physical education department is constantly improving the facilities of the men's gymnasium to aid the athletic program. One of the basement rooms has been cleared, and a jumping pit put in.

Cinders were hauled in to make a substantial floor and the place is now available for use. This makes a place where Sigma Delta Psi aspirants can practice and varsity track men can keep their muscles limbered up during the winter months.

ENGINEERS WILL MEET

Dr. J. H. Hance, dean of the school of mines, and J. H. Batcheller, professor of mining engineering, will spend the week end in Portland and attend the annual meeting of the Oregon section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgy Engineers, of which Professor Batcheller is the secretary-treasurer.

OARSMEN TO BEGIN PRACTICE FOR FETE

Another Shell House Planned;
Class Races Scheduled

The first crew practice for this term in preparation for the spring regattas is scheduled this afternoon for 2 o'clock at the shell house. The sweepsters will take the training barge out for a short workout and an effort will be made to find a suitable location for a permanent shell house.

Although completion of the club house is not expected for two or three years, plans are being made so a definite campaign will be adopted. The new house would provide storage for the shells as well as locker rooms and shower rooms.

Practice sessions will probably take place every Saturday but only the training barge will be used. George Lindauer, junior in commerce, who has been in charge of reconditioning the shells reports that they will not be ready before the middle of February.

The first few workouts will be made to get a line on the rook and sophomore class crews to get an early start for the class races. The senior crew which won the championship last year is almost intact but the junior crew will be without Bob Seelars, stroke, as well as two or three in the regular lineup.

Besides interclass competition scheduled in the spring the rowing club will meet the junior crew of the University of Washington here on the Willamette river. The definite date has not been announced.

ORANGEMEN DOWN BEARCATS, 46-22

The next play to give his team a lead which was held during the remainder of the game. Ballard increased the Orange lead by a clever short shot. Callahan, O. S. C. forward, dribbled through the entire Cardinal team for another basket.

Wascher continued to score during the latter part of the first half. He scored eight points before the visitors formed a defense to stop his speedy attack. The period ended with the Orange and Black short-panters on the long end of a 24 to 8 score.

Ballard opened the second half with a basket in the first seconds of play. Torson, lanky guard and center, then looped two field goals in rapid succession, and the Beavers had a 22-point lead. Scales then began his one-man offensive attack which the Orange quintet could not stop for a short time.

The fighting Bearcats gradually overcame the Stater's margin, but were halted before the score became too close. Ballard, Torson and O'Bryan swelled the Orange total with several baskets. Many substitutions were made by both quintets during the closing period.

Last night's victory gave the O. S. C. squad the final and deciding game of the three-tilt series with Willamette.

The Orangemen showed a decided improvement in their last two contests here, and if they continue to flash as clever teamwork, are likely to defeat the Washington State Cougars in their opening conference tilt, January 19, in Pullman.

AT THE THEATERS

Whiteside
Those who have seen "The Melody of Love" playing today at the Whiteside for the last time, pronounce it to be appealing and wholly realistic. A full house every night has indicated the popularity of the picture.

As the "Glorious Betsy" starting at the Whiteside tomorrow, Dolores Costello is said to be at her height. "Glorious" Betsy Patterson, a true daughter of the south, possessed not only beauty and charm, but the traditional daring and forcefulness of character of her ancestry. She had fallen heir to the unconquerable spirit which has been the mark of high-born southerners in all times. The costumes of 1804 are picturesque, and the colonial restraint is in marked contrast to the splendor of the court of Napoleon and the brilliant French manner.

Majestic

Hoot Gibson still holds his own and gets the laugh from his audience in "Clearing the Trail" playing at the Majestic today for the last time. Situations, novel and unusual, keep the story moving rapidly, and thrill and comely scenes are built upon each other with breath-taking speed.

BUDGET PLAN OUTLINED FOR HOUSES ON CAMPUS

A budget plan has been outlined by the co-operative manager's association whereby each house manager may compare his expenses per man with those of other houses on the campus.

Each month all houses send in a report of expenditures. These reports are compiled in the manager's office where they will be kept until the end of the year when the actual percentages will be determined as to the cost per person for each individual item as meat, wood, cook's salary or any other items of expense.
