AS WE SEE IT

More on Oregon State-Trojan Contest

By BUD FORRESTER
Numerous letters have been coming from Los Angeles during the last twenty-four hours telling us all about the fine showing the Orangemen made against Southern California last Saturday. The Oregon State student body need not be one bit ashamed of that Oregon State football team. They fought like demons against the Trojans and looked like sure winners until Orv Mohler, Trojan quarterback, got lucky on a long pass. A winner's acclaim is due them from the bottom of the Oregon student body's heart, if any.

After looking very bad against Stanford the Orangemen took plenty of criticism from the all quarters, principally the newspapers. They had to learn to take the bitter with the sweet for it's a big thing in football training and when one is continually before the public eye. They stood up well under the fire and came back with all of the fight and spirit in the world.

The Oregon State student body wants the team to know that it is behind every football player on the squad and always has been. The team gave everything it had against the Trojans and the student body wants to give everything that it may in return. Every Orange player is admired and will be backed to the limit by every loyal Beaver.

The season is young, for the Orangemen have three more conference games to play and a good chance to end the season above the .500 mark. When they met Stanford and Southern California on successive weekends they filled the toughest assignment asked of any team in the country. They looked wobbly in the first trial but more than redeemed themselves in the second start. The student body will do everything in its power to give the team the necessary incentive coupled with its fight in hopes that wins over Washington State and Oregon may be realized.

To get back to these Los Angeles reports—the railbirds tell us that never have Trojan backs been tackled so hard. Not one Orange tackle was made half-heartedly and before the game was old the Trojan backs were getting up very slowly and laboriously. Orv Mohler, Trojan quarterback, reported to be another one of Howard Jones' all-American backs, asked for mercy on more than one occasion. He even moaned when Curly Miller patted him on the back claiming that Miller hit him.

Several Orangemen were disgusted with Mohler's spirit and playing as he has been mentioned so many times as an equal to Morley Drury, Glaus Shaver, Morton Kaer and Marshall Duffield, all great Southern Cal backs. Beaver linemen tell us that Mohler repeatedly slowed up before getting to the line of scrimmage, and only got loose when the powerful Trojan line opened a hole as wide as the Panama canal.

Herman Leaf, Orange letterman at left end last fall, has been moved to guard this year and looks good. Leaf got his first chance to make a showing last Saturday, and he came through in fine style. The big Jewish boy comes in for a lot of good natured kidding due to his readiness to comment on any issue in question. However, no matter how much he talks he can certainly play football and shows an admirable team spirit.

At Los Angeles Saturday he tackled like a demon. On one occasion Irvine Warburton, substitute Trojan quarterback, received a punt on his own ten-yard line. No sooner had he received the ball than Leaf hit him full force, in fact so very hard that Warburton took a spin three feet off the ground and went back for a big loss. The Trojan back escaped without injury, but Leaf was temporarily dazed by the terrific impact.

The big Orange lineman is much faster than one would judge at a casual glance. When he comes into an opponent's backfield he sails over the ground at a remarkable speed and hits full force. More than one fan was shocked Saturday when a white jerseyed figure came charging into the Trojan backfield early in the game, as it was taken for granted that the aggressive gentleman was Vic Curtin until the

VARSITY PIGSKIN SQUAD HAS EASY PRACTICE SESSION

Grind Starting for Last Part of Football Season; Little Time Remains Before Game With Washington State.

Oregon State football squad spent most of last night's practice session in an easy workout to get rid of sore muscles and other minor ailments before starting the grind in preparation for the last part of the 1932 football season. With little more than a week of actual practice left before the Washington State fracas, the Beavers will be in for plenty of tough workouts to put the finishing touches on the offense.

The State coaching staff put the linemen through a short session of blocking and charging. More snap and drive were being stressed and the backfield men went through their paces, working plays with more speed than has been shown before.

A surprising change seems to be in the offing as Russ Acheson, quarterback, is working out with the line. Acheson is getting plenty of attention from the coaches who seem to have him slated for a position at left end. Although he is new at that position, Acheson looks like a possible comer, having lots of drive and the ability to hit hard.

Passing work was featured by the backfield last night. Not only was offensive work stressed, but aerial defense was worked on for some time. A more or less perfected passing system is desired by the time of the Washington State contest. The Cougars salvaged a tie game in 1930 with an intercepted pass and ended an unmarred conference season of play. In the game in Portland last year the Cougars looked hopelessly beaten until a long pass was completed, being followed by a place kick which put the game on ice for Washington State.

Ade Schwammel, Orange tackle, received a mighty ovation on more than one occasion at Los Angeles when a contingent of his old "buddys" from the aeroplane carrier S. S. Saratoga obliged with a bit of organized rooting. Sailors stick together and certainly never forget a friend. They'd have cleaned the Trojan rooters' section had Ade so much as lifted his small finger, in fact some half dozen 'gobs' did engage a group of Trojan rooters in the good old art of fisticuffs only to be kindly escorted from the stadium by as many uniformed city officials.

Schwammel played his usual good game Saturday. His speed is alarming for a man of his size. He can

CROSS COUNTRY TO START NEXT MONDAY

Twenty-Seven Groups Signify Intention of Entering

Twenty-seven organizations signify intentions of entering intramural cross country which starts next Monday, October 17. Runs will be held Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 4:15 to 5 and from 5:15 to 6 o'clock.

Every man entering cross country should turn in health cards and run the course at least three times before October 17 in order to be eligible. Cross country managers will be on the course from 4 to 6 o'clock each day.

In order to get entry points at least 10 men must be entered from an organization; more may be entered but only 10 best will count in final standing. The race will be over the regular cross country course starting from the stadium track. To receive entry points on all college trophy, five men must run twice a week for three out of four weeks.

PING PONG NEWEST INTRAMURAL SPORT

All-College Tournament Will Start October 31

Starting October 31, ping pong will make its initial bow as an intramural sport on this campus. Because of the intense interest in ping pong Ralph Coleman has introduced it on the intramural calendar. A singles, all-campus tournament is open to every student in college and will decide the all-college ping pong player.

This tournament will be in addition to the organization tournament to be held during the winter term. Coleman wishes to stress the importance of signing entries before Tuesday, October 25.

Rules
1. The champion of the college will be decided on an elimination basis.
2. The matches will be based on the best three out of five games.
3. Games will be 21 points.
4. Games will be decided by each player serving five times and a point made or lost on each serve.
5. In serving, balls must be bounced over the net.
6. The tables in the lobby of the men's gymnasium will be used. Games will be scheduled each evening.
7. A cup or statuette will be awarded the champion and a gold medal for the runner up.

Water Sports Attracting Many

By CONSTANCE AYER
"Reducing while swimming" is the latest recreative activity on the campus. Aquabats, women's swimming club, plans to sponsor one hour per week for this novelty feature. Another hour of swimming will be devoted to water sports, with emphasis on water polo. Class competition may develop.

Canoe tests will be given soon for all women interested in that sport, announces Miss Natalie Reichart, instructor in women's physical education.

Written and oral tests must be passed, and parents' permission received before a woman on this campus is permitted the use of a canoe.

The practical examination consists of being tipped from a canoe, undressing in the water, and remaining afloat for five minutes. Material for the written examination can be found in Eloa Jessup's "Boys' Book of Canoeing." The material covered in the examination is included in chapters on the use of the canoe as a life preserver, and wind ways and currents. The hours at which the test may be taken are to be announced later.

If you don't know how to play badminton, Miss Jacobson is giving instruction in this sport at the 5 o'clock free hour on Monday and Friday. Perhaps your organization would like to challenge another to a game.

Tonight the women's athletic association is giving its annual party for women who are new on the campus. Sports managers will describe their various activities, and games will be played. W.A.A. urges the girls to join in the fun.

Soccer is the new major sport being offered on the University of Idaho campus this fall. W.A.A. points are to be given on a basis of attendance. On this campus soccer has been given to only minors in physical education.

Twenty-five women participated in the events staged by Aquabats yesterday afternoon. The group was divided into two teams for the hour. The final score stood a tie of 25-25. Individual high point scores were made by Elizabeth Ott, Pauline Paul and Dorothy Gillanders.

The University of Montana women have started their intramural volleyball program. Ten teams are competing. An interesting feature is that one team is composed of faculty members, and another of faculty wives. Maybe the W.A.A. intramural program here will work up to this.

SPEEDBALL GAMES INAUGURATE NEW INTRAMURAL YEAR

Three Teams Stand Out in One Sided Contests; Sigma Nu, S. A. E. and Sigma Pi Men Shine; Good Title Race Due.

The intramural season was officially opened yesterday afternoon when the speedball teams swung into action on the intramural field west of the men's dormitory.

All of the scores were one sided and revealed three outstanding teams: Sigma Nu, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Pi, who outclassed their opponents enough to put them in the limelight for the championship race.

Sigma Pi overwhelmed their rivals to the tune of 16 to 0. Their passing attack and dribbling were too much for the Sigma Phi Sigma team. Kappmann of the Sigma Pi team was high point man of the game with five markers to his credit. O'Connell of the Sigma Pi's and Wilson of Sigma Phi Sigma played a fast brand of ball.

Another one-sided game was the contest between Sigma Nu and Sigma Phi Epsilon, with the former on the long end of a 15 to 0 score. Jack Byrne was high point man for the Sigma Nu team with five tallies. Sigma Phi Epsilon had only five men on the field, but in spite of this handicap they put up a stiff fight.

Sigma Chi met a stone wall when they faced the S.A.E. aggregation, the latter leading with a 15 to 3 score as the final whistle blew. Cuthbert of the S.A.E. team was easily the best man on the field with six points. Tau Kappa Epsilon forfeited to Theta Chi.

FORTY-ONE TEAMS ENTER BASKETBALL

Much Interest Being Shown in Casaba Tossing Season

With 41 teams entered, interest in intramural basketball is fast reaching a point of prominence in campus activities. Thirty of these teams will wear house insignias, while the other eleven will strive for the good of clubs and independents.

Practice for the regular season, which starts October 24, is now under way. Those not having made arrangements for workouts should (Continued on Page Four)

College-trained engineers revisit the athletic field

ON more than a hundred floodlighted fields, football is being played and practiced in the evening hours, before larger audiences than ever before—with fewer injuries and in better conformity with classroom duties.

This constructive revolution in athletics is largely the work of college-trained engineers— young men personally familiar with the needs of college and school. They are dedicating the technical experience gained in the General Electric Test Department to the practical service of undergraduate athletics—designing and installing floodlighting equipment for virtually every sport—football, baseball, hockey, tennis, and track.

Other college men in the General Electric organization have specialized in street

First Tryouts for Sigma Delta Psi Slated Today

Tryouts for Sigma Delta Psi will be held today from 4 to 6 o'clock on Bell field. The first events listed are the 100 yard dash and the baseball throw. The javelin throw may be substituted for the baseball throw. Officials have been selected and will be stationed on the track and field to check all entries.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS AWAY TO BIG START

Sigma Delta Psi Begins Today; Much Interest Shown

Intramural sports got away to a quick start with the opening of the speedball season last night. Interest is running high and a close battle is expected to decide the winners. All teams seem to have a good knowledge of the game and the contests were run off without a hitch.

Sigma Delta Psi will start today at 4 o'clock and all participants are requested to report to officials on Bell field. The first events to be held will be the 100 yard dash, baseball throw and javelin throw. To qualify in the dash the distance must be covered in 11 3/5 seconds. The baseball must be thrown 250 feet and the javelin 120 feet. Several athletes have been holding individual trials for the past several days and most organizations have signified their intention of entering.

A ping pong tournament is to be added to the list of intramural sports this season. Interest in this game has been running so high that Ralph Coleman decided to make it an intramural game. A singles tournament is to be run this fall and is open to all students in college. An organization tournament will be added in the winter term. It is important for those wishing to enter this tournament to sign entry blanks in the intramural office.

Trial runs were held last night for intramural cross-country runners. The regular runs will start next Monday at 4 o'clock, and times will be clocked. All participants must have run the course at least three times before next Monday. Scores for several of the golf matches have been turned in according to Coleman. All matches must be played before Monday, October 17.

Keith Ed. Davis Finishes Football Career This Fall

Ed Note:—This is the first of a series of biographical features on football players.

Keith Edwin Davis, junior in agriculture, playing his last year of football for the Beavers, might well be classed as one of the most versatile and dependable athletes at Oregon State.

Keith entered Oregon State in the fall of 1929 after compiling an enviable record while attending high school in Nebraska. He immediately turned out for rook football and was a quarterback. Because of his long spiraling punts he soon earned the reputation of being one of the best kickers on the coast.

On the varsity Keith was transferred to left end in an effort to bolster the forward wall. Playing this position he has developed into one of the best triple-threaters in the conference. Keith still carries the brunt of the kicking duties and is often called upon to pass or carry the ball.

Not only is Keith a football star but also a member of the basketball and track squads. He is six feet tall, weighs 190 pounds, is 23 years old, and is a senior in agriculture. He has a peculiar knack of being able to diagnose plays and scintillates in his ability to break them up.

Keith's versatility is shown by his ability to enter into any sport with a minimum of practice.

Trial runs were held last night for intramural cross-country runners. The regular runs will start next Monday at 4 o'clock, and times will be clocked. All participants must have run the course at least three times before next Monday. Scores for several of the golf matches have been turned in according to Coleman. All matches must be played before Monday, October 17.

ROOK BALL MEN PICKED FOR TEAM ON FIRST SHOWING

Coach Eilers Selects Eleven on Ability Brought Out in Chemawa Tilt; Fundamental Work Being Stressed.

Last night Coach Verne Eilers selected eleven of the outstanding rook players from Saturday's game against the Chemawa Indians, and scrimmaged them against the remaining rooks, endeavoring to improve the blocking and line work. The rooks will play the Oregon freshmen on Bell field October 21. This will resume the "Little civil wars" between the first year men. In last year's tussle the frosh were victorious.

The rooks plan to trounce the freshmen this year as they have a much better line than that of last year and the backfield is equally as good.

Woodrow Joslin, brother of Harold Joslin, playing left half in Saturday's game made 62 yards from scrimmage, while the passing combination of Makela, fullback, and Jessup, at left end, netted two touchdowns in eight plays. With such combinations as this great things may take place in the coming frosh games.

"Located for Your Convenience"

The Cinema

Oregon State "The Monster Walks," starring Rex Lease, plays at the Oregon State theater for the last time today.

The story centers around the attempts of relatives to keep Ruth Earlton, the heroine, played by Vera Reynolds, from getting possession of an estate left by her father. Their attempt to murder Ruth are thwarted by Lease, playing the part of Ted Clayton.

Besides Lease the cast includes Vera Reynolds, Sheldon Lewis, Micha Auer, Martha Mattox and Sidney Bracy.

Fox Majestic

Tallulah Bankhead will be seen in her best picture "Thunder Below" at the Fox Majestic theater October 12 and 13. An outstanding cast of Charles Bickford, Paul Lucas and Ralph Forbes support her in this tropical picture of the South Sea islands.

Charles Bickford, engineer and boss of his crew, is the husband of Tallulah, but not loved by her. Instead she is madly in love with Paul Lucas and one would even think sometimes with Ralph Forbes. See Miss Bankhead at her highest and find out whether she is loyal to her blind husband or not.

Fox Whiteside

"Where Is My Daddy?" little Dickie Moore asks of his mother, the exotic Marlene Dietrich, in "Blonde Venus" showing at the Fox Whiteside, October 13-14-15. The picture, directed by Josef von Sternberg, is a real screen achievement combining a gripping theme with pure acting genius.

The "Blonde Venus," as might be supposed, is not an "adored parasite" but a powerful character including a wife, mother, intriguing night club entertainer, hunted woman, international stage success and sweetheart of a beneficent politician. Attempting to secure funds to send a sick husband abroad to a specialist who can cure him, Marlene obtains work as an entertainer in a Harlem night club. There she falls in love with her benefactor. Her husband forces her to leave home without her little boy. The mother steals him and, after a kaleidoscopic series of happenings, achieves success bringing the picture to a dramatic close.

Little Dick Moore, who lends all the charm of his adorable six years, has spent eleven-twelfths of his life before the cameras! Ever since he was six months old, little Dickie has added childish appeal to many pictures—you will love him in "Blonde Venus." Other supporting roles are well portrayed by Herbert Marshall as the husband and Cary Grant, promising young screen player, as the lover.—L.G.

GROUP TO EXPLAIN CONSOLIDATION BILL

(Continued From Page One) few months that many students and others hardly know or understand just what the import of the measure is. It is with this in mind that the Barometer is running, starting with this, a series of articles which will explain in a straightforward manner, the nature and probable results of the bill. The articles will endeavor to place enough facts at the disposal of the readers so that they may draw their own opinions.

The general nature of the Zorn-Macpherson bill is simply this: It is a measure to consolidate the institutions of higher learning in the state in order to eliminate, in so far as it is possible, duplication of courses in the curricula of the various schools and to reduce taxation. The change in title from the Zorn-Macpherson consolidation bill to the Zorn-Macpherson moving bill has given rise to a belief in the minds of many voters that the purpose is the physical moving of the plants, such, however, is not the case. The various plants are to be utilized but in a different manner.

The plan was initiated by the Marion County Taxpayer's league with headquarters in Salem, which invoked the referendum upon the $1,181,000 appropriation for higher education which had been made by the state legislature. The league has estimated savings to taxpayers of Oregon at millions of dollars in a few years time, beside the increase in the efficiency of state higher education.
