Denizen Trots Out

For Weekly Guess

It's Saturday and time for the old denizen of the stables to trot to town and in his spare time guess on a few of the conference's football games. The old boy took a terrific beating Saturday when he said that Southern California would lose to Oregon-you know the rest, the Trojans won and how! Every week the proprietor of "stable by the pile" misses one and gents, does he miss it! However, do you remember way back when-he guessed them all right one Saturday-the only lad on the coast to turn the

The coast's big show this afternoon matches California and Stanford in the Memorial Stadium in south that before the game, mind you, the stadium has been sold out at $5.50 a throw general admission-80,000 fans. It's one of the largest and most colorful games of the season and always packs them in, no matter what the team's rec-keeper picks California to take and perfected by the Oregon State Stanford. In comparing the two teams he finds that California defeated Washington and that Washington took Stanford. That is not conclusive proof by any means for through various manipulations the tide could easily turn the other way but these figures are good enough

California has lost two confer- trucks. ence games—Washington State and Southern California-and has won two-Washington and Idaho. Stanford has lost three conference games-Southern California, U. C. L. A. and Washington - and has won only once - you know when. Although California's win over Idaho means little the Washington upset does mean something.

Many scribes figure that Stanford is coming and will pull an upset tomorrow. Fine, but what leads said dopesters to believe that the Indians are coming? Last Saturday's decisive win over the California Aggies certainly cannot be any basis for their opinion. California's last game was against Idaho and they won it, although they deserve little credit for the win when one takes a glance at the conference standings.

For the first time this season every available California man will be in a suit today. Honorable mention was given to Betty Thorne, senior in home economics, and Jean Oglesby, senior in business administration.

The name of the organization whose representative gains first place will be engraved on the perpetual cup, and that organization may keep the cup for one year, according to Margaret Merryman, chairman of the posture contest. Miss Sandoz is a member of Phrateres, national social organization for independent women.

Sport, street and formal clothes were modeled by Kathryn Clemens, Viva Young, Magdalene Mann, Marian Selberg and Thalia Larsin. The gowns were furnished by Nolan's.

Those in the receiving line were Helen Pietarila, president of W. A. A.; Fern Edwards and Miss Merry Pittman, secretary of Y. W. C. A.: Dr. Kate W. Jameson, dean of women, and Miss Laura C. Mc-Allester, faculty advisor of W.A.A.

Something New in Convos . . .

Oregon State students, faculty and townspeople will be introduced to the technique and mechanics of grand opera by Vera Curtis, noted opera star who will appear in a concert-lecture in the men's gymnasium next Tuesday night. There will be no charge for the program except for a few reserved seats near the platform.

.The convocations committee, in scheduling this special convocation, is not trying to make money but rather to test student interest for such a program. It is their hope that other entertaining and worth-while convos may be arranged for the school year, and already several outstanding men have been secured who will bring to this campus programs not only of variety and interest, but also programs of real educational value.

. Miss Curtis who was for many years with the Metropolitan Opera company has been in touch with opera stars all over the world and will present a program of music, personal glimpses of opera stars and some of the mechanics of the present day opera. She is recognized as an excellent speaker and entertainer.

This is an opportunity that we cannot afford to miss. The program was scheduled at night rather than for an afternoon convocation simply because it was too long for the regular convo hour, and yet it is not so long that it will take the entire evening. Such a privilege seldom presents itself to Oregon State students and should, therefore have the backing of the entire student body. It is just a sample of what is promised for the remainder of the year if it is given the support that it deserves. Let's show the committee that Oregon State students do appreciate programs such as this, and give it our hearty support.—W.A.R.

A professor at the New York College for Teachers recently said that if he were a dictator and could in one swoop abolish the existing educational institutions he would require everyone to go through two proceedures: first, to learn to speak and read the English language and, secondly, to study social science.

FACULTY COMMITTEE DECIDES AUTO CASES

Students Denied Campus Driving Rights: Permits Granted

The faculty committee on enforcement of motor vehicle regulations considered six cases of violations yesterday and seven applications for campus permits. Three students were denied campus driving privileges. Two car owners were brought before the committee because someone else nad used their cars to go on the campus. The committee inflicted no penalty but decided that in the future they would be held liable for the offense as this is the only possibility of enforcing the regulations. In one case it was decided there had been no violation.

The committee granted four campus permits and denied three others. The student body president and vice-president were granted permits to drive on the campus for student body business.

Johnny Wells, campus policeman, will be at the counter east of the main entrance to the Memorial Union building from 1 to 5 o'clock this afternoon to give out stickers. Student motor vehicles must display stickers and failure to do so will make the student liable to a penalty, Wells said.

Webley Edwards Has New Accomplishment In Seaplane Program

Broadcasting a Navy Day review n Honolulu from a seaplane, is one of the recent accomplishments of Webley Edwards, '28 in commerce. "We are conducting a broadcast from a giant Sikorsky Navy plane, and are now flying over Honolulu with the city spread out under us in a vast panorama of beauty and color," said Edwards, program manager of KGU, as the plane soared over the city in preparation of the aerial review. The aerial parade was staged with 47 planes and the maneuvers were described by remote control to listeners 4000 feet below. The roar of the motors of these planes was picked up by a sensitive microphone and also transmitted. As the Sikorsky plane from which Edwards was broadcasting circled the city a third time, it swooped low over the Argonaut, the world's largest submarine, while Edwards saluted it. This was a signal for the submarine to take over the broadcast. Edwards assisted in several other programs of

By Your Intramural Scribe Guessing the winners of different sports is a lot of fun, especially when you happen to make the right | urges all those that can turn out choice. Out of the eight intramural sports listed for this term and of the three events completed the intramural sports scribes have made three hits with no misses.

Batting 1000 per cent in dope selections is a mighty good average when one stops to consider the number of teams entered in the different tournaments

As the speedball season progressed and after the dopesters had a chance to judge the strengths of the different organizations they selected the Sigma Nu's to win the fraternity and all-school championship with Hawley hall winning first honors in the independent division. This choice hit the bull's eye dead center.

The Cinema

Oregon State There is more than the usual good measure of interest packed in "Doctor X," showing at the Oregon State theater, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The story centers about a group of doctors attached to a medical research center. Suspicion has been cast on them in connection with a series of mysterious murders committed only at the full of the moon. Doctor Xavier, head of the institution, conducts his own experiments to discover the murderer.

A young newspaperman, glib and witty, follows the course of the murder investigation against all odds. He comes in for several knocks himself, but nothing keeps him from getting his stories. He finds an added attraction in Doctor Xavier's daughter whose life he ultimately saves when the others are powerless to prevent the nurderer from getting her.

The cast includes Lionel Atwill Lee Tracy, Fay Wray, Preston Foster, Arthur E. Carewe, John Wray, Harry Beresford, George Rosener, Leila Bennett, Robert Warwick, Willard Robertson, Harry Holman, Thomas Jackson, Tom Dugan and Mae Busch.—F.A.
