Another win for the fighting Beavers—this time 32 to 31, an overtime session was the straw that broke the Vandals' back up Moscow way—and it's now two wins and one loss in the bag. Not bad, Mr. Gill, not bad! Lanky Ed Lewis, Orange captain and sensational center, again had a big night and went to town to the tune of 16 points—just half of the Orange-men's total score.

A great ball club—two wins in three games against two of the toughest quintets in the conference. Another win tonight would be nice, but we'd be satisfied even though the Staters dropped one, for after all, four ball games in five days is mighty tough for any ball club and especially when those games are away from home.

More than one ardent Orange booster was pleased to see that flashy "Skeet" O'Connell, Orange forward, was "on" last night. O'Connell has been going bad of late, in fact his performance on offense in the two Washington State games was far from impressive.

Feeling that we understand O'Connell, we feel safe in saying that he will be "hot" again tonight for he plays that type of ball. When he's good, he's very good for a nice stretch, and then he slumps for no apparent reason and must be gradually coaxed up to top form once more.

Coach Gill started Bob Lucas in a first string guard position against the Vandals last night. Lucas' case is a peculiar one. He played little high school basketball and no rook basketball. Without preliminary warning he reported for pre-season varsity practice under Gill this winter and the Beaver mentor immediately recognized fine possibilities in his play.

He is coming along slow to be sure, but his improvement in the few weeks he has been practicing is truly remarkable. He is decidedly aggressive and learns fast so that Gill promises that he will be a much better than average ball player before the season ends.

ROOKS WILL PLAY PORTLAND SCHOOL THIS WEEK END

Orange Babes Meet Lincoln High Friday; Commerce High Here Saturday

The rook basketball quintet will meet Lincoln high school of Portland, Friday night in the men's gym. Coach Roy Lamb has not as yet chosen a first team, but is working two men at every position. The rook ball club also meets Commerce high school of Portland, on Saturday afternoon. These games will be steps in practice in preparation of the series with the Oregon freshmen.

Coach Lamb, with the help of Joe Mack, is working the men on clever offense plays and on close defense formations. The rook ball club is following the same defense formations as the varsity and is working out similar offense plays. The rook squad will be cut to fewer men so that the work carried on in practice can receive more personal attention from the coaches.

The rook basketball club played its first game of the season last Saturday, when it defeated the Corvallis high school quintet, 30 to 24. The game was slower than the brand of ball which the rooks have played during practice. The first half of the game was ended with a 20 to 6 lead over the high school team. Both teams were wild on their passing and the game was slowed up as the result. During the second period the Corvallis club found the basket and loaded in 18 points. The rook quintet was playing rugged ball and only counted up 10 points.

Bob Bergstrom, who was captain for the rook club, tied with Lefty Palmberg for scoring honors. Bergstrom counted for his buckets from the corner of the court while Palmberg made use of his clever left-hand shot from the foul line. Ed Creider, playing in the center berth, looked good in the defense play. Merryman, for the Corvallis club, was high point man with nine points.

The lineups:
Corvallis High
 Warren, f 0 0 1
 Torgerson, f 4 0 2
 Keiser, c 0 0 2
 Merryman, g 4 1 1
 Daily, g 0 0 0
 Sandoz, f 0 2 0
 Ingalls, c 0 0 1
 Patterson, g 2 0 3
 Totals 10 3 9
O.S.C. Rooks
 Palmberg, f 3 0 1
 Durland, f 1 0 0
 Creider, c 1 0 0
 Bergstrom, g 3 1 0
 Joslin, g 1 1 1

Experienced considerable difficulty in getting a story from Moscow tonight. We were not surprised, for it has happened in previous seasons. Apparently the operator at Moscow closes shop early in view of listening to the radio, surely not seeing the ball game, and forgets to come back for any late messages which might arrive.

A lengthy conversation was carried on with Moscow officials last night to little avail, for although we had everyone in town, including the storekeeper, searching for Statts Gill or George Baldwin, manager, we could not locate them any place.

Buxton Plays Fast Offensive Game to Beat Tri-V 14-0

Tau Kappa Epsilon won the consolation touch football championship Saturday afternoon from Kappa Delta Rho, 7 to 0, after playing five overtime periods. Buxton hall at the same time won the independent touch football championship from the Tri-V club, 14 to 0.

In the T.K.E. - K.D.R. game, the Tekes took the offensive throughout, but due to the stubborn goal line defense of the K.D.R.'s they had trouble putting the ball across the goal line. Many sensational "dead man" plays were worked by the Tekes, but this play finally proved fatal to the K.D.R.'s, when their pass was intercepted by Sieljky of the Tekes, who carried it the length of the field for a touchdown. Then Black took a short basket-ball pass for the extra point. Fosburg was the sparkplug on defense for the losers.

Buxton, with a strong offense, centered around Colasvomo and Prah, easily defeated the Tri-V's in 30 minutes of play. This victory places Buxton in the finals against the "Betans," fraternity champions, for the all-school touch football championship. This championship game will be played as soon as it can be arranged.

Out of the 31 fraternities, which represents a total of 816 men, 499 men participated in some event, for an average of 61.1. In the 11 independent organizations representing 500 students, 161 participated, for an average of 32.2.

Weatherford hall took first honors with a participation average of 88. Other leading fraternities and clubs were Kappa Delta Rho and Hawley hall, 82; Phi Kappa Tau, 80; Kappa Sigma, 76, and Theta Xi, 75.

The number of men participating in each of the fall sports was: speedball, 233; cross country, 148; turkey run, 50; basketball, 351; touch football, 274; golf, 19; ping pong, 76, and Sigma Delta Psi, 116.

Women Hoopsters Work

By MARGARET MERRYMAN

Basketball practice opened the women's recreational program with a stiff workout yesterday afternoon in the women's building. Perhaps part of the enthusiasm resulted from the new rules adopted by the rules committee of the women's section of the American Physical Education association. Objections to the efficiency of the game caused the elimination of the former overguarding rule, and personal combat is now the only limitation regarding this rule.

Junior and senior minors elected Miriam Beamaster and Irene Davis, respectively, as class managers and acting coaches. Freshmen and seniors will practice on Tuesday and Friday, while sophomores and juniors will occupy the floor on Monday and Thursday. These are open hours and are not restricted to minors.

Another feature of the term's program is that 25 W.A.A. points will be given for regular attendance at any activity meeting twice weekly with three cuts allowed. This is to encourage participation by those of lesser ability.

Today's program includes natural dancing, free swimming and badminton at 4 o'clock, with basketball and aquabats at 5 o'clock. Interclass, interhouse and single elimination tournaments in badminton will be held during the term. If interest runs high enough, new classes will be formed.

The first W.A.A. meeting of the term is scheduled for Thursday in room 107 women's building at 5 o'clock.

MURAL MAT MEN MOVE SCHEDULE

All-School Meet in February Covers Donut Wrestling

Intramural wrestling has been changed this year as the semi-final and the final bouts of the intramural teams will be held in the all-school meet in February. This eliminates the possibilities of having more than one champion in each weight division. Last year a man could win the championship in a weight division in the intramural matches while another could claim that title in the same division by winning the all-school meet.

Each house and hall team is to be composed of a minimum of five men, with as many men in each weight division as they wish. Ralph O. Coleman, director of intramural athletics, urges all to turn out for this sport because there are very few chances of injury, and there are no professional stars. Each man is pitted against someone of his own approximate skill and experience. No previous knowledge of wrestling is needed as an interest in physical development and athletic competition is the only requisite.

SCHISLER'S RECORD AT ORE. STATE UNIMPRESSIVE

Oregon State's unimpressive football record under the guidance of Coach Paul J. Schissler reads 17 victories and 27 defeats. For nine years Coach Schissler has been at the helm of the Beaver eleven and only once in that time has his team won from an upper division eleven. It was in 1930 that the Orangemen accomplished this feat by defeating the Oregon Webfoots, 15 to 0, on Bell field. An upper division team is one which won half or more than half of its conference games during a season of play.

In the main, Schissler's victories have been over non-conference and intersectional teams. In 1924, when Schissler made his debut at Oregon State, the Beavers won from Washington State and lost to Southern California, Washington, Idaho and Oregon. They placed seventh in the conference.

Winning from Montana, Idaho and Oregon and losing to Stanford and Southern California, the Beavers tied with Southern California for third place in the conference in 1925. Oregon State tied with Washington State for first place in 1926 when they defeated Montana, California, Idaho and Oregon, lower division teams, one game was lost to Southern California.

During the 1927 season the Beavers scalped Washington State, Oregon and tied Stanford, lower division teams, and lost to Southern California and Idaho.

The 1932 season proved to be the most disastrous since Coach Schissler came to Oregon State. The Orangemen won only from Montana and lost to Southern California, Stanford, Washington State and Oregon. Two intersectional games with Fordham and Detroit were lost. The Beavers tied with Idaho for eighth place in the conference.

SWIMMING VARSITY HAS SIX LETTERMEN

Men Back for Orange Squad Practice Daily Although Sport May Not Stay

Oregon State has possibilities for the best varsity swimming squad in years with the return of six lettermen to school and with the addition of several varsity reserves, and strong contenders from last year's rook squad.

Although swimming may be cancelled, due to lack of finances and indefinite schedules, the swimmers are daily churning the waters of the men's pool. The water polo players are limbering up their throwing arms and building up their endurance.

Oregon State is well fortified in the diving by Harvey Johnson, Pacific northwest champion; in the sprints by Vic Smith, last year's sensational rook sprinter, and Ray Schwarz of last year's varsity. In the distance events are Herb Eisen-schmidt, state champion and holder of several records, and Eldon Ball. In the breaststroke is Al Van Gilse and Les Richards; in the backstroke is Roy Mueller and Tom Robbins. All these men, with the exception of Robbins, are from last year's varsity.

Other varsity men working out are Bud Nock, John Mizulo, Jim Wilson, Den Mayer, Morrie Stanton, Bill Demme and Forrest Lindsay.

P. J. SCHISSLER MAY HAND IN RESIGNATION

(Continued from Page One) gymnasium yesterday morning and it was generally thought that his return to the campus was merely to offer a farewell to assisting coaches and friends.

In reply to interrogation last night Dean Rogers, chairman of the board of control, told press representatives that he did not attend yesterday's meeting at the chancellor's office and knew nothing of any action which might have been taken upon the matter of Schissler's resignation as the board of control had not met as yet this year.

Should Schissler's resignation be offered, administrative action would first be taken by the board of control, then by the chancellor and finally by the state board of higher education before it might be officially announced as definite.

Through grapevine telegraph methods it was ascertained last night that Schissler had three jobs on the line after Oregon State's game with Utah at Multnomah stadium, Portland, in 1931 but that he stayed on here in order to keep things going in the athletic department.

Apparently remaining here was against his will but he thought that he might have better luck with the Orangemen during the next season, just past. He lamented the fact that he had to play his ball teams on muddy fields in the northern division of the conference and said that it was nearly impossible to put out a winning eleven under such conditions.

Action Necessary Action should be taken on the Beaver tutor's resignation shortly for spring football practice sessions start within five weeks and should a new coach be hired it is thought that it would only be fair to him to allow a settling-down period before jumping into spring practice.

Operative No. 13 informed late last night that from all indications said operative gathered that Schissler had something definite on the line should he leave Oregon State. This was not accepted as surprising for it is generally known that the coach has been doing considerable investigating in the east during the past two months for apparently no other motive than that of seeking a new position.

As We See It

(Continued from Page Three) We finally dropped the chase and turned to Portland where we found satisfaction—at least got the score through intricate manipulation and, of course, that was all we were interested in at that late hour. It might be said here with all due respect to Mr. Baldwin, that it is his task to send special stories to the Barometer on ball games which are played on the road.

We note with considerable interest that little comment has been published on Jonathan Butler's long-awaited report. Press associations evidently figured that the coast conference commissioner would publish something "hot for publication" in his pretty but mild little pamphlet, but nary a word do we find that should hurt anyone's feelings. Well done, Mr. Butler, if we may say so.

Of course, enthusiasts knew that things weren't just right in the conference, as Mr. Butler no doubt did and does now, but wouldn't it have been terrible had anything come out of Butler's report which in any way jeopardized the standing of a conference institution. Yes, you know which side your mackerel is buttered on, Mr. Butler, you gave them what they asked for, but still they howl—they like it!!

Season Basketball Seat Sale Proving Success

Season ticket sale for Oregon State's coming home basketball season is progressing nicely at Graduate Manager Carl Lodell's office in the Memorial Union. Tickets went on sale a few days ago and have been going so rapidly that Lodell suggests that home town fans apply for their reserved seats immediately in order to be sure of securing them. Many requests have been received from out-of-town patrons and more are arriving hourly.

Seats have been reserved in the front row upstairs and as soon as those are taken a section will be set aside downstairs. A ticket holder has the same seat for every game and need only present his ticket at the door to gain admission immediately without going through the usual form of standing in line at the box office during a pre-game rush.

Season tickets sell for $2.50 which amounts to 27 cents a game, truly a depression price unequalled here in some time. Fans must hurry, however, if they wish to obtain best seats at this shockingly small price.

This sport is open to all regularly enrolled students, except varsity basketball men and men on the freshmen basketball team. No health cards are required for this sport.

Sigma Phi Epsilon won the college championship last year for the third consecutive year. Shepard, Sigma Pi, was the highest individual scorer last year with 79 points.

The rook hoop squad will play a fast, clever game next Friday and Saturday, when it meets the Portland high schools. The team has worked hard to take the ragged points from its play. The games this weekend will show great improvement over the game last Saturday. The Portland teams have shown good in their pre-season games and will be good competition for the rook club. Although a first team has not been chosen, a good combination will be sure to start the Friday night game.

The sales for the 1932 Beaver were 37 per cent of the student body for the year and the books sold for $5.00 each. On the same basis, considering the size of the student body this year, the Volume XXVII Beaver could not be published. In reality, the assignment plan is the difference between a Beaver or no Beaver this year, as otherwise it is improbable that sufficient quantity of copies could be sold to justify its publication.

BEAVERS WIN GAME FROM VANDAL FIVE

(Continued from Page One) games of the conference race with the Cougars Skeet O'Connell, who was being touted highly as a point getting player, failed to live up to his reputation, but tonight's performance in which he garnered 10 points again puts him in the class of a highly dangerous ball player.

Lewis, by his play tonight, marked himself as perhaps the most dangerous scorer in the conference and brought his average per game for three contests to nearly 14 points.

The Orangemen will wind up their road trip against the Vandals tomorrow night in the last game of Oregon State's initial northern journey.
