

Collegiate Spotlight

You're a Liar
Now I'll Tell One

By WILLIAM PERRIN

Editor's note: This column today presents a different interpretation of the small percentage of students voting in a campus election from that in Saturday's column. Warren Reid, author of that column, still sticks to his argument and is preparing a rebuttal. The question of conceding offices is deserving of campus comment and contributions will be welcomed by the editor.

In Saturday morning's Collegiate Spotlight column, my good friend Warren Reid, editor-elect of the Barometer for 1933-34, says that a lack of interest was shown by students in the student body elections this year. I do not agree with this analysis since facts brought to light after the former article was written led me to a different conclusion.

"It is surprising," says Reid, "how little interest and enthusiasm was aroused and how comparatively few students voted." I believe that Reid has drawn an erroneous conclusion from the facts of the case. Last year, 1596 votes were cast for the candidates for president of the student body. The enrollment was 2574.

These figures indicate a 62 per cent vote cast. This year, 1104 votes were cast for president with approximately 1820 eligible voters. The percentage vote of the total enrollment is 61 per cent.

A table showing the percentage vote for student body president during the last six years follows. The first figure shown is for the year Grant McMillan, an independent, was elected on a straight fraternity-independent contest:

President	Yr.	Pct.
McMillan	'28	92
Meinke	'29	89
Knutsen	'30	77
Leishman	'31	53
Buckhorn	'32	62
Saling	'33	61

McMillan, Meinke and Knutsen were elected in contested elections while Leishman, Buckhorn and Saling were selected in campaigns in which the Independent political party, as a group, did not support any candidate. It is these last three years that the conceding of offices is blamed for the decline in vote.

It is said that "comparatively few students voted" this year but the table above does not show any alarming decline in the per cent of students voting since the conceding of offices has been inaugurated.

Another factor to consider is the dishonest elections of the past when much proxy voting was done and members of the election boards voted as hard as they could. Such corrupt practices must account in a large measure for the high percentages of '28 and '29 at least and years previous to it. I believe that all parties were equally guilty of dishonesty.

"This 'calm' around election time has partially been brought about by the arrangement between the two major parties in contesting the principal offices," Reid continues. Now I presume that he means conceding of offices rather than "contesting" since at various places in the column he indicates that the conceding is the cause of lack of interest.

I wonder if it is the conceding which causes this "calm" or rather that a different conception of politics and the rights of individual students and parties has entered the minds of campus political leaders. In my dealings I have certainly found the leaders of the Associated party earnest in their desire to place the best men on the ballot. The mass hysteria and bitterness of voting by proxy is giving way to voting for individuals on their merits. Students are thinking.

BOARD MEETING PUT OFF AGAIN

State Higher Education Group Misses April Session

The April meeting of the state board of higher education, which was scheduled to take place in Eugene yesterday, was postponed because of the inability of members of the interim committee, composed of legislative members, to meet at that time. Appointments of George B. McLeod of Portland and C. A. Brand of Roseburg to membership on the board were to have been confirmed.

The postponement of the meeting makes it possible for the new appointees to sit as members at the board's next meeting if they are approved by the interim committee at a meeting sometime this week.

The April board meeting is the most important one of this year because at this meeting new board officers are selected and the budget for the fiscal year of 1933-34 is submitted by Chancellor Kerr.

PACIFIC LUTHERAN CHOIR TO GIVE CONCERT TONIGHT

The choir of Pacific Lutheran college from Parkland, Wash., will sing tonight at the Methodist Episcopal church. The program consists of sacred and classical music, piano solos by the director, Prof. Joseph O. Edwards, and vocal numbers by Miss Anna Mikkelsen.

The concert will start at 8 o'clock and there will be no admission charge. The choir has charged 50 cents admission at all previous towns included in this tour, but in order to give every student of Oregon State college a chance to hear an evening of the world's finest music, the Parkland college will give its program free.

FORENSICS GROUP PLANS BANQUET, ANNUAL PICNIC

Delta Sigma Rho, national honor fraternity in forensics, held a special meeting at a luncheon yesterday in the Memorial Union tea room. Dorothy Druschel, senior in education, presided at the meeting.

New pledges whose names will be revealed at a later date were elected. Plans were discussed for an initiation banquet honoring the initiates and faculty members of the organization in May. Plans were also made for the annual picnic in May.

PLAYERS CHOSEN FOR COLLEGIATE ROMANCE DRAMA

"A Rose o' Plymouth Town" Will Be Presented Soon by Workshop Group

Casting for "A Rose o' Plymouth Town," four act romantic comedy by Beulah Marie Dix and Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland, which will be presented at the Workshop theater by the advanced community drama class with the assistance of National Collegiate Players, national honor society in drama, May 4, 5 and 6, has been completed. Miss Elizabeth Barnes, associate professor of speech and dramatics, will direct the production.

The cast of eight characters is composed of four men and four women who depict early American colonial life. The period of the play, the early seventeenth century, calls for the quaint speech and simple habits of our Puritan ancestors who were not as narrow-minded as we have been led to believe.

Leads Chosen Anita Post, junior in education, takes the part of Rose de la Noye, vivacious Huguenot lass for whom the play is named. The roles of her two admirers, Garret Foster of Weston's men and John Margeson of the Plymouth colonists, are portrayed by Kenneth Munford, junior in education, and Howard Douglass, senior in business administration.

Miles Standish, doughty Captain of Plymouth, lives again in the person of Robert Fuller, sophomore in education. His wife, Mistress Barbara Standish, is played by Betty Steel, sophomore in education.

Comic Characterized Mistress Restole Story, aunt of Captain Standish, is characterized by Mary Thayer, freshman in education. She supplies most of the comic element with the assistance of Philippe de la Noye, Rose's brother, who is in love with Mimiam Chillingseley, a fluttery little Puritan maiden. The roles are played by Howard Beckendorf, junior in electrical engineering, and Joan Robertson, sophomore in education.

With the exception of Munford and Fuller, the cast is comparatively new to stage work, although most of its members have worked on previous plays. Their debuts mark the first of the neophytes to carry on with the tradition of fine acting established in former campus productions.

FORMER O.S.C. STUDENT TO APPEAR IN CONCERT

Marie Milletich, ex'33 and student of Albert Creitz, professor of violin and director of the Oregon State college orchestra, will appear in a concert tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Neighbors of Woodcraft building in Portland.

Miss Milletich was concertmaster of the Oregon State college symphony orchestra and a member of Euterpe, honor society for women in music.

PARR IN ROSEBURG TODAY

Dr. F. W. Parr, professor of secondary education, will speak today to the Roseburg high school assembly, the Roseburg Kiwanis club and the Oakland high school assembly. He will also talk at a father and son banquet sponsored by the Oakland Development club.

NEW DEADLINE SET FOR SENIOR ANNOUNCEMENTS

Seniors may place their orders for announcements all day today and tomorrow at the Co-op book store. This will enable seniors who have not yet ordered them to do so, but this date is positively the deadline for ordering announcements.

The price of the announcements is 12 1/2 cents each and must be paid for at time of ordering.

SERVICE SOCIETY WILL FUNCTION AS LOCAL GROUP

Organization to Continue Work Under Different Name, New Constitution

Spurs, national service honor society for sophomore women, will function on this campus no longer as Spurs with national affiliations. This decision was made by the local chapter this week after discussion of the results of the national convention here two weeks ago and trial of the various advantages and disadvantages of national membership. The girls plan to continue their work as a local organization under a different name and constitution which have not yet been completed.

Several detriments of national membership have led to questioning during the past two years, and the group has formulated several reasons for their present decision. The most important of these is that the money paid for national dues and convention taxes could be better used in furthering projects on this campus which they would otherwise not be able to finance.

Other reasons are that the national organization lacks unity and adult leadership, that too little attention is paid to meeting the needs of the local groups, that the cost of new uniforms is too high and that they can function more efficiently and for more to the benefit of the campus if less time can be spent in work for the national organization. The plans are to continue as a sophomore women's service honor society and pledging will take place at the honor convocation during Mothers' weekend.

Members of Cap and Gown who will go around to the living groups on the campus and explain the basis for selection of pledges to the organization were appointed at a meeting of the group last night at 7 o'clock in the Memorial Union lounge. Those selected are Amy Aldrich and Betty Jelinek, seniors in business administration; Elizabeth Fletcher, senior in home economics, and Nadine Millhollen and Adena Joy, seniors in education.

DEAN JAMESON WILL LEAD IN SELECTIONS

Committee Head to Be Assisted by Large Group in Choosing Future Big Sisters

Dr. Kate W. Jameson, dean of women, will head the committee to choose future Big Sisters. Those assisting Dean Jameson are Dr. E. W. Warrington, professor of religion; Merry Pittman, secretary of the Y.W.C.A.; Mrs. R. H. Dann, president of Y.W.C.A. advisory board; Marion Dunham, president of the Y.W.C.A., and Gertrude Steel, chairman of Big Sisters. This committee will discuss the qualities necessary of a Big Sister in dealing with freshman girls.

Conferences with freshman women will continue each afternoon this week. A meeting of all girls who desire to be Big Sisters will be held in library 100 at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Each roomer who is interested in becoming a Big Sister must attend this meeting whether or not she has had an individual conference. It is not necessary that a girl be a member of the "Y" in order to be a Big Sister.

Dr. O. R. Chambers, professor of psychology, in an interview regarding Big Sisters said, "Freshman women have a two-fold problem when they come to college, that of not becoming homesick and that of not being able to get started in the best way." He believes that the Big Sister organization should be continued by all means. "The Big Sisters have been organized to give freshman women someone to aid them in adjusting themselves to the many difficulties which they find it necessary to encounter. The movement has been improved each year. The main factor in choosing Big Sisters will be their ability to prove helpful to the freshman girl."

Pillow, ninth corps area commander; Major James H. Tierney, head of state reserve work except in Multnomah county, and Lieutenant G. A. A. Jones, assistant professor of military science G. W. Peavy, dean of forestry, will represent the college.

DR. F. W. PARR SPEAKS TO WESTMINSTER GROUP

After the banquet, Scabbard and Blade members will elect officers for the coming year.

DR. F. W. PARR SPEAKS TO WESTMINSTER GROUP

That "bull sessions" in which members of the opposite sex are discussed are probably natural as expression of student interest, but whether they are right or wrong depends upon the plane of conversation was one of the conclusions reached by Dr. Frank Parr, professor of secondary education, in his consideration of modern conduct problems at the Federated church Sunday morning.

Dr. Parr's talk was the third in a series of seven comprising a special course for college students on love, courtship and marriage, sponsored by the Westminster council. Intent plays a large part in determining the ethical quality of behavior toward members of the opposite sex it was agreed. This is especially true with regard to the problems of necking and petting in which physical intimacies for their own sake constitute an unworthy intent.

BEACHES HAVE DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Beach are parents of a daughter, Sallie Lou, born recently at the Salem general hospital, Beach, '29 in industrial arts, is teaching industrial arts at Roseburg.

Insurance Against Collapse . . .

"Where are we going" is a common question. It is being asked by thinking people everywhere with a universal lack of definite answers. No one seems to know. And the federal bureau of education puts into print its idea of what is due in the education of the future. The bureau's latest report says in part:

"The purpose of education is to teach the youth an intelligent interpretation of what is happening around him, not only in the matter of politics and business, but also socially, so that he may be better fitted to 'find' himself in this swiftly moving world." The report continues naming the four major problems of public education as "the collapse of home influence, the liquor problem, automobiles and 'petting' and absolute disrespect for authority on the part of youth." It predicts that "tomorrow's written English may be judged only by its clarity and ease of interpretation . . . There even may be a place for good, expressive slang words in our accepted vocabulary."

What a far cry from the days, not so long ago, when the three R's received all the emphasis and the major crime of spoken or written English was the split infinitive. Educational institutions of today have vastly more difficult problems, yet right now they are victims of budget cuts which will handicap them tremendously. Attacks have been made on the grounds that educational programs have emphasized the expensive physical plant and the so-called "college life." In rebuilding, educational leaders will do well to keep in mind the purposes named above. It may save them the embarrassment of another "educational collapse."

What Others Say

OBIT—JOE COLLEGE
The campus at large has not yet noticed it—but it has happened, nevertheless. That lethal agency, depression, has accomplished the almost complete extinction of the picturesque type classified a few years ago under the collective heading, Joe College.
Joe was the subject-matter of untold thousands of younger-generation-is-going-to-the-dogs editorials. He provided inspiration for all those college comic magazines. His escapades were choice copy for the city editor to lay before avid readers, who could righteously exclaim at the frightful laxity of morals on college campuses. Jokesmiths sweated out reams of those co-ed-walking-back-from-an-auto-rider quips. Joe's brain content was low, but his alcoholic content was high.
Classes were annoying breaks in his day's routine, for most of his time was devoted to impressing the fair inhabitants of sorority row, the rest to seeking dance chairmanships and playing campus politics. Or he would lounge about his favorite eating place, discussing women, clothes, women, football and women. Cartoonists fitted him out with a fur coat and a pennant and made him the symbol of the college youth of America.

Colleges headed by business men and politicians instead of educators tolerated him—even solicited his attendance.
If his indiscretions exceeded all bounds of decency, he was expelled. This pleased the newspapermen. But Joe himself was not dismayed. There were always more colleges.
But nowadays, at least, he's strangely missed. Fathers haven't the money to send their sons to college as a stop-gap between high school and hard work. Fraternities have to some extent been purged of the baneful influence—and for the last two years, the nation over, fraternity scholarship averages have been slightly higher than non-fraternity. At the University of Oregon attendance has dropped off considerably, but grade averages have mounted. Spring term is several weeks old, yet campus political cliques, instead of being en-

The majority of students now are primarily interested in getting an education. They're willing to live on a pitifully few dollars a month to get it. Fifty per cent of Oregon's students are earning half or more of all the money that college costs them.

Early in the 17th century, tobacco seed from America was taken to Turkey. Different soil, different climate, different temperatures night and day, and different farming methods produced an entirely new tobacco—small in size, but very rich and aromatic.

Four certain spots are famous for the quality of their Turkish tobacco—Xanthi and Cavalla in Greece; Samsoun and Smyrna in Turkey. And it is principally from these places that our buyers get the Turkish for Chesterfield.

These Turkish tobaccos are blended, in just the right amount, with Domestic tobaccos. It is this blending and cross-blending of just the right amount of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos which gives Chesterfield a flavor that neither possesses alone.

Asteroids, Boreas, Contained in Menu At Stellar Spread

Asteroids, pommes de terre and milky way boreas with spiral nebulae composed part of the menu of the Stellar spread held at the Westminster house Friday night. The annual banquet, which was held for the purpose of installing officers for the coming year, was featured as a hi-jinx and was composed entirely of student talent. Mary Stevenson, junior in education, was chairman for the banquet and worked out the plan of stellar decorations and program.

Fifty-six students attended the annual banquet and listened to speeches on "The Aurora Borealis," "With Westminster Around the Zodiac," "Mercury, the Messenger of the Gods" and "The Cosmic Kettle." Dick Bars, sophomore in education, was toastmaster. Speakers were Mary Whitlaw, sophomore in education; Ruth DeArmond, junior in home economics; Lloyd Lillie, ex'34 in mechanical engineering; Elaine Williams, graduate in science, and Rich Warrington, sophomore in pre-medicine.

Astronomical harmonics and a lunar lullaby were part of the musical program. Those taking part in the stunts were Charles Taggart, senior in agriculture; Bruce Martin, sophomore in education; Bill Lawrence, sophomore in education; Evelyn Collins, freshman in home economics, and Rich Warrington. Bruce Martin and Bill Lawrence featured the new Westminster song which was sung for the first time Friday.

BETTER HITTING SHOWN BY STATE BASEBALL TEAM

Weekend Games Help Batting Averages; Practice Begins for Willamette

By CHUCK BUXTON
Having apparently found their batting eyes over the weekend, Oregon State baseball players returned to practice last night in preparation for the coming two-game series with Willamette university this weekend. The first contest will be staged here Friday afternoon and the second encounter will take place in Salem Saturday afternoon.

Two victories over the weekend did much to improve the general play of the team and helped to improve several meager batting averages. Although the Beavers were able to connect for only eight safe blows in the 6 to 5 win over Linfield college Friday, they uncovered real batting strength against North Pacific Dental college and collected a grand total of 13 hits in winning 9 to 2.

Coach Gill had plenty of worries during the opening games of the season, as his charges seemed bound nowhere in the batting percentages and looked little better afield, but now the Beaver nine is taking on the appearance of a heavy-hitting crew and the fielding has picked up. Several of the men who were counted on to be the big hitters this year have yet to connect with anything approaching regularity when at bat while other supposedly weaker hitters have been pounding the horsehide to all corners of the lot.

With the reputation of lots of speed but little power at bat, Bill Callan fooled all the wise railbirds by hitting three for four in the first game of the weekend and coming back with two impressive swats in four times up Saturday. Not only did the little second baseman shine at the bat but his fielding was par excellence and several times he ran wild on the bases, stealing apparently at will.

Although he was able to collect only one hit against the Dental college hurlers, John Biancone stole the show Saturday in three sensational one-handed catches which brought the bleachers to their feet each time. In the opening inning, Biancone pulled Boyd Rasmussen, starting Orange pitcher, out of a tough spot by galloping from deep center almost into right field to make a shoe-string catch of a ball which more than likely would have gone for a home run on the hard surface of the outfield.

Rasmussen not only turned in a creditable performance on the mound, but his home run in the fourth canto started the fireworks which ended only when Oregon State had counted up four runs. Ward, first man up in this inning, was put out. Bud Keema started the ball rolling by getting a clean single, putting him on first, where he scored ahead of Rasmussen on the home run. Hits by Clarke, Hibbard and Biancone, coupled with a Dental college error, accounted for two more scores.

From this point on the game turned into a walk-away for the Orangemen with Rasmussen and then Jack Woodard holding the Doctors well in hand while their Orange teammates were pounding the offerings of two Dental college hurlers for the victory.

The freshmen gym classes have been organized into indoor baseball leagues, each class having two teams.

The classes were divided equally into two sides and captains chosen. The captain appoints a coach for each game who designates the position to be played by each player.

Six games are to be played in each class. The teams seem to be well matched in all gym periods, judging by the close scores. Along with this the freshmen are practicing the shot put form and racing starts.

The remaining horseshoe schedule is as follows: Phrateres, with Mildred Raasini and Mabel Sandoz play, vs. Alpha Omicron Pi, with Marie Dew and Inez Lehrback; Alpha Xi Delta, with Evelyn Reekman and Myra Moy, vs. Chi Omega, with Mildred Grognehm and Lucy Hart; Waldo hall No. 2, with Marie Peterson and Jean Sibbald, vs. Delta Delta Delta, with Helen Haynes and Frances Downing; Waldo hall No. 1, with Frances Kyle and Frieda Fisher, vs. Alpha Chi Omega, with Flora McMath and Helen Comer, and Alpha Delta Pi, with Marian Beegley and Betty Jelinek, vs. Kappa Alpha Theta, with Marie Hornbeck and Jean Miller.

The schedule for archery has been released and although the matches must be played by Friday the competition has not yet started. The week's program will include the following houses: Phrateres with Inez Gilbert and Esther Stahl shooting, Delta Delta Delta with Dorothy Lachmund and Jean Freeborn, Alpha Delta Pi with Mary Jane Davidson and Catherine Cleghorn, Kappa Alpha Theta with Vera Bardwell and Helen Schrader, Alpha Chi Omega with Constance Ayer and Jane Barnes, Waldo hall No. 1 with Ruth Warnke and Mary McCarthy, Waldo hall No. 2 with Marie Peterson and Lucy Crosssett, Sigma Kappa with Thurely Ernest and Waivo Lenon, Beta Phi Alpha with Alice Purvis and Inez Outfield, Chi Omega with Ellen Johnson and Marjorie Lunn, Alpha Xi Delta with Ruby Atkinson and LaVerne Hessler, and Alpha Omicron Pi with Helen Pietarila and Mary Lou Collins.

CREW CAPTAINS ARE SELECTED

Wright and Opdenweyer to Head Class Rowing Teams

Joe Wright, senior in agriculture, and Al Opdenweyer, sophomore in engineering, were elected captains of the senior and sophomore crews respectively Saturday. Wright has six men definitely lined up for the senior crew and hopes to get the two more men necessary to fill the boat for the first regular practice which will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock.

Leonard Davis, sophomore in education, will be coxswain of the sophomore eight this year, and workouts are planned for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons at 5 o'clock with special turnouts coming during the weekends.

The seniors have a lot of experience and size on their side of the ledger, but a large amount of rowing will be necessary to overcome the advantage held by the rest of the classes because of the work they have already done. Opdenweyer reports that the sophomore will soon be working Tuesday and Thursday mornings in addition to their regular periods on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Saturday, the sophomores ran into some trouble when they struck a submerged log, tearing a hole in the "Orange Owl." Although the hole was quite large, the canvas lining saved the crew from a thorough ducking. The shell will be repaired by members of the Rowing club.

ROOK TRACK STARS TRAINING FOR MEET

Olsen and Guggisberg Will Be Mainstays for Babes

Rook trackmen will now begin serious preparation for the Oregon frosh relays to be held May 5. Although one meet, the competition with Corvallis high school, will come April 28, it should be nothing more than a breathing spell for the rooks and will take no intensive training.

Because of a lack of sprinters, men from other events will have to be worked in on the 440 and 800-yard relay teams. Hurdlers, jumpers and distance men probably will get their fill of dashes in the process of finding material for the shorter aces. As there is a total of nine sprint races in the coming relay meet, these speedsters will have a heavy workout before the day is over.

ROOK BALL CLUB STARTS PRACTICE WITH NEW SPIRIT

Orange Babes to Play Against Salem High School Ball Twirlers Saturday

With an overwhelming win chalked up in their favor, the rook ball club renewed practice last night with new pep and spirit. Only a game with Salem high school remains before they meet the Oregon frosh here May 5.

Coach Roy Lamb has a little better opinion of his squad after seeing them in action Saturday against Albany college, than he had before the season started. With a little more practice in fielding and development of some more batters who can be depended upon to hit in the pinches, the rooks should be able to give the frosh a tough battle.

The weak point in Lamb's team was supposed to have been the pitching staff, but from the way Zanello and Sheller fanned the Albany boys in Saturday's game should disprove that point beyond a doubt. Zanello struck out seven men and Le Sheller accounted for five strike outs in the last four innings. With a little more control, which will come with experience, these chuckers will be able to lead the team through a successful season.

Loose fielding seems to be the main difficulty which the rooks will have to overcome. Air-tight fielding will of course not be expected until the boys have had more of an opportunity to work out this trouble in actual competitive games.

WEATHER PLAYS HAVOC IN GAMES

High Winds Make Fielding and Batting Difficult

Adverse weather conditions made fielding and batting difficult, but there were several close and exciting games. The high winds made the landing spot of the flies uncertain and made the pitchers hesitate to use their slow ball.

The best game of the evening was between Sigma Phi Sigma and Sigma Phi Epsilon with the score ending 3 to 0 in favor of the S. P. E's. Both John Gearhart, Sigma Phi Sigma pitcher, and Delbert Ball, pitcher for the winners, turned in good games. Although nothing but fast balls were thrown, batters on both teams found the ball hard to hit. The losers especially showed the lack of batting practice and were easily fanned by Ball. The game was featured by good fielding on both teams. The plays were short and snappy in spite of the cold wind which made hands and fingers numb.

The game which Sigma Nu won from Tau Kappa Epsilon with a score of 7 to 5 was interesting. "Dodo" Larson, pitching for Sigma Nu, was the outstanding man on his team and played a good steady game. The peculiar windup which Howard Jacquot, T. K. E. twirler, used in addition to his fast ball did its part in confusing Sigma Nu batters. The Sigma Nu boys took the lead early in the game and maintained it until the end although they were threatened by a last minute rally from the losers.

The Sigma Chi vs. Lambda Chi Alpha game was also undecided until the end. Both teams played pretty good ball and Lambda Chi Alpha finally came out on the long end of the 10 to 7 score.

The other four games were featured mainly by their large scores and uneven fielding. Chi Phi took the prize for the high score of the evening when they defeated Beta Kappa, 41 to 9. Poor fielding was really the reason for the Beta Kappa's defeat. Kappa Delta Rho and Alpha Gamma Rho called their game in the fourth inning when the score was 17 to 7 in favor of the former.

The other games ended, Delta Chi 33, Delta Upsilon 1, and Phi Sigma Kappa 28, Delta Tau Delta 1. Seven more games will be played tonight and sports fans should be on hand to get a line-up on the probable winners and the mythical all-star team.

SWAPPING the BULL Stories of Wild Life

Old Zeke believes that the fastest and most powerful runner in Oregon has never been on a field track. Bob Wright, the runner, never goes into the outside world for even a day, but keeps fit by racing with deer about his mountain home on Green ridge.

His home and a small garden are surrounded by an 8-foot log fence which prevents deer from destroying the garden produce. One night last summer, a large buck jumped the fence and was still feeding on the garden when Bob and Zeke slipped out of the door in the early morning. Without hesitation Bob sped after the deer as it raced across the garden. With a lunge forward, he caught the deer by the hind leg as it leaped upward over the fence.

Now any hunter knows how powerful the hind legs on a deer are, for in a single leap, a buck often clears 12 or 14 foot clumps of brush. Bob succeeded in swinging the deer over onto its back and held it in this position while Zeke stepped into the cabin for a knife. Such a feat of strength and speed is almost incomprehensible to civilized people. Zeke stated that judging by the mere strips of clothing that remained on Bob, it was almost too much even for him.

Humble Dandelions In Danger of Death From Co-ed Golfers

A thousand dandelions bow their heads as the co-ed golf classes drive and putt their way across the field behind the men's dormitory. It is a case of either bowing their heads or losing them, for each woman strokes at every yellow blossom that appears.

The co-eds are enthusiastic about the use of dandelion blooms as golf balls because instead of searching for an elusive white ball, they have only to glance about for another defenseless dandelion head.

This practice is so convenient that one wonders what the golfers will do when dandelions are gone. It might be advisable for flower enthusiasts to buy wire netting to protect their blooms, for if this should become a fad, there is no telling how far the followers of the idea might go.

Golfers who have a hard time keeping track of their balls might investigate the possibilities of having dandelions planted at convenient places on the golf course, thus eliminating the cost of buying balls. Perhaps someone could invent a never-die plant with a rubber-stemmed bloom which would take care of the problem for the whole year.

The Cinema

A lively comedy-drama that exposes the ballyhoo racket and which is alive with personality, "The Half-naked Truth," which comes to the Whiteside theater on April 25 and 26, parallels some of the real life exploits of the late Harry Reichenbach, generally conceded to have been the most spectacular press agent Broadway ever knew. Lee Tracy plays the role of the press agent. Lupe Velez plays opposite him as the girl who became famous through high pressure publicity.

It was Reichenbach who conceived the idea of having a lion brought in a trunk to a hotel room occupied by a Mr. T. R. Zann. After this story "broke" it was revealed that "T. R. Zann" was none other than Tarzan, which at that time was the tale of a silent motion picture about to open on Broadway.

Supporting Tracy and Miss Velez in "The Half-naked Truth" are Eugene Pallette, Frank Morgan, Shirley Chambers, Mary Mason and Robert McKenzie. Gregory La Cava directed the production.

In a double bill feature, "Lucky Devils" will be shown in connection with "The Half-naked Truth." Bill Boyd plays the popular role in "Lucky Devils" and provides plenty of fast action and thrills for all theater-goers.—M.S.

CINDERMEN TO MEET OREGON IN RELAYS

(Continued From Page Three) be stressed somewhat in practice, as little time has been given to this practice so far. Although no definite team has been chosen, the coaches will know after tomorrow who will run Friday.

When the all-school meet was run off last Saturday the results were given a twist and new prospects came to light that were rated a trifle slower than their opponents. Bob Patrick, who had been on the track for only a week, as he had practiced football all term, came through with so short amount of training and took first in the century and 440-yard dash.

Although Chuck Prah! failed to take a first place, he made a name for himself, as he took four second honors. In a tie for second place in the pole vault, Prah! cleared 12 feet in his fourth attempt which was as high as the winning jump, but failed to do so in the required number of trials.

Edell Bryant's mile run in 4:32 and Skeet O'Connell's broad jump of 22 feet and 7 inches were two outstanding results of the meet. Both men made a fine showing and may better their marks before the season is far advanced.

O'Connell and Norm Franklin tied for second in the 100-yard dash. Conner took second in the 880-yard run with Chapman third. Gleason came in second in the 220-yard dash with O'Connell taking third. Prah! took second and Kidder third in the 120-yard high hurdles. Dave Bronson took second and Colasovono third in the 440-yard dash.

Guggisberg was second in the mile with Turner third. Kidder took second and Rice third in the 220-yard low hurdles. Shot put had second honors taken by Rushing. Wedin took third honors. Pole vault, Prah! second and Wood third. Discus, Keith Davis second and Little third. High jump gave second honors to Stoop and Prah!. Javelin, Larson second and Woodard third. Broad jump, Prah! second and Loken third.

Whether or not this plan, Reid adds, "will continue in future years remains to be seen, but it hardly seems fair that if both parties have men equally well-qualified for some major office, that they should turn around and give it to the opposing group just because it had been done the year before."

A study of offices conceded in the recent election will show that as far as the independent political party was concerned, there was an opening for its men in every class because of the conceding of offices. Our men running for conceded

If one looks down the roster of the newly-elected officers, both student and class, I believe he will come to the conclusion that all-in-all, they are as capable a set of men and women as ever held the reigns of Oregon State's destiny. And more than that, I believe that a capable and well-qualified individuals were defeated by these candidates.

These defeated candidates will be given appointments next year and I think that is right. Why should half the student body be denied campus activities because they happen to belong to the wrong side.

Last year, Merritt Nash was defeated by Elmer Buckhorn in the race for student body president. When a man was needed for Homecoming chairman, Buckhorn appointed Nash, the defeated candidate, because he was the man best able to do the work.

Four years' participation in campus politics has taught me that it was not always thus. The defeated candidates, often the best men and women, were denied campus activities while the choice plums were distributed to loyal party workers.

Several years ago, a fraternity jumped on the wrong side of the fence, and received as punishment an ousting from student body elections. One of its members, one of the most outstanding men on the campus at that time, was denied the opportunity of running for a class presidency. All this disciplining was brought about because at that time it was political faction against faction and not individual against individual. This year more voting was done on merit than ever before. That is as it should be. No man or woman should be denied the opportunity of holding an office because he or she happens to belong to the wrong party.

Whether or not this plan, Reid adds, "will continue in future years remains to be seen, but it hardly seems fair that if both parties have men equally well-qualified for some major office, that they should turn around and give it to the opposing group just because it had been done the year before."

offices were capable individuals and are qualified to hold office. I can say that I think the same is true of the Associated party candidates.
