A Completely New

ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITANNICA

NEW in plan and purpose—entirely recast from cover to cover—the new Fourteenth Edition of the Encyclopædia Britannica is ready. This is the superb “humanized” Britannica which has captured the attention of the whole civilized world.

The Last Word in Encyclopædia Perfection

Three years of intensive effort—the co-operation of 3,500 of the world’s foremost authorities—the expenditure of more than $2,000,000 before a single volume was printed—these are merely a few high lights in the preparation of the new Fourteenth Edition.

This new Britannica immediately takes its place as the one pre-eminent American work of reference—the last word in encyclopædia perfection.

Never has there been assembled together in one enterprise such a wealth of learning as is represented by the 3,500 builders of this great temple of knowledge. All the universities, all the learned professions, all the great industries, all the pastimes have contributed to the mighty sum.

Knowledge for All

It is a law library for the lawyer, a medical digest for the doctor, a universal history for the historian, a commercial university for the business man—and a compendium of all the arts and sciences for the average reader.

Here is “the cosmos between covers.” The whole whirling universe is brought within your grasp, obedient to your hand.

Nothing is too profound to baffle it, and nothing too familiar to escape its informing touch. And on every subject it speaks with the same finality and authority.

All the World’s Treasures of Art and Illustration

Among the many new features that will astonish and delight everyone who turns these pages is the wealth and beauty of the illustrations. This feature alone marks a tremendous advance. All the world’s treasures of art and

The Regicide

On January 30, 1649, all England shrank with horror. The victorious Roundheads had repudiated the "Divine Right of Kings," and His Most Christian Majesty Charles I was to be beheaded. Often in the past had nobles and archbishops plotted, assassinated, kidnapped, but never before had British commoners indicted their King for High Treason, tried him in open court, sentenced him to death. Puritans whispered scared prayers. Cavaliers cursed, vowed swift, gory vengeance.

Oliver Cromwell, almost the last to be convinced that Charles' death was necessary and hence the immutable design of Providence, had signed the death warrant. As TIME, had it been published February 1, 1649, would have reported the event:

.... Grim guards, gentlemen Roundheads, strode in at dawn to wake the King. Rising, His Majesty donned two shirts.... "So I may not seem to tremble," he said shrewdly, bravely. After cruel, nerve-shattering delays Charles I was led through subdued crowds to a scaffold set up outside the windows of his own banquet chamber in Whitehall. Thousands had come to gape, including most of the Roundhead leaders, but Oliver Cromwell was not there.

Standing fearlessly erect on the scaffold, Charles I looked out over the pikes of Roundhead soldiers, glimpsed a shuffling, uneasy throng in which there must be still some loyal subjects, tried to reach them with his voice. The crowd murmured, strained to hear. Soldiers clinked their weapons, making it impossible for the royal words to carry far. Few heard His Majesty say: "For the people, truly, I desire their liberty and freedom, as much as any body whomsoever! But.... their liberty and freedom consists in having government, in those laws by which their lives and goods may be most their own. It is not their having a share in the government; that is nothing pertaining to them. A subject and a sovereign are clear different things."

It was two o'clock. Charles by the Grace of God King, Defender of the Faith, took off his coat and doublet, looked up a last time at the English sky, spoke briefly to Bishop Juxon, and lay down full length with his head on the block. The crowd swayed, surged upon the soldiers. But pikes and swords cowed loyal hearts. Charles Stuart prayed a moment, waved his hand as a sign that he was ready.

It was two o'clock, four minutes. Whirling high and shimmering in the sunlight the axe descended, clove. With gibbering pride the black-masked executioner held high a dripping royal head, his first.

.... Body and head were united later; reposed that night in the once royal banquet hall, guarded by two nobles, one the Earl of Southampton. A black shroud up to the chin hid where the axe had fallen. Candles burned by the head.

After midnight, while the watchers sat sunk in melancholy revery, a figure muffled in a dark cloak quietly entered the hall, paced slowly toward the body, stood looking down at the face of Charles I. Turning on heel at last the figure stalked away, muttering "Cruel necessity!" It was Oliver Cromwell...

Cultivated Americans, impatient with cheap sensationalism and windy bias, turn increasingly to publications edited in the historical spirit. These publications, fair dealing, vigorously impartial, devote themselves to the public weal in the sense that they report what they see, serve no masters, fear no groups.

Daily broadcasts of market reports from KOAC, Oregon State college radio station, which began August 19 bring a new type of service to the Oregon farmer. This service is made possible through cooperation between the college extension service and the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics whereby the bureau's leased wire from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., is tapped at Albany, Ore., and a loop brought to the campus. A telegraph operator takes off the market reports and they are prepared for release by radio and the press under the direction of L. R. Breithaupt '10, agricultural economist for the extension service.

This service is broadcast by KOAC twice daily. The first program is from 12:45 p.m. to 1:15 p.m. The second begins at 6:45 p.m. This is the most complete market news service ever attempted in the state. Farmers are enabled to keep in touch with the most up-to-the-minute prices, the service bringing information all the way from 12 hours to several days ahead of newspapers.

Gus Hagglund and John Warren, both seniors, are assisting Wallace Kadderly in the campus radio work this fall.

All the Oregon State football games whether at home or away will be broadcast by KOAC this year. The Alumni association is sponsoring these broadcasts. Games on the campus will go out play by play from the field while those away from home will come in over Western Union leased wire and be broadcast from the campus over KOAC play by play.

can Legion organ program from the Whiteside theater in Corvallis.

Special programs are listed for the evenings each week at 7:30. Mondays are reserved for the 4-H club, Tuesdays for musicale by department of music students, Wednesdays for radio shorthand contest, Thursdays for the Collegiate Sportlight by Art Taaffe '26, Fridays for Forum on New Things in Science.

The radio shorthand contest begins October 16 under the direction of Professor Vance. It is designed to assist students and stenographers.

Plans are being made by the Alumni association to put on an all-college program once a month. The first one will be Thursday October 24 at 8 p.m. and will be a general aerial frolic preceding Homecoming. College music, sports talks, by coaches and athletes, fun and the like are planned.

Dean A. B. Cordley of the school of agriculture, venerable chairman of the board of control, was on hand again for the opening day of grid practice this fall. Dean Cordley says that he has been turning out for football at Oregon State for 34 seasons but has not yet made a letter.

Homecoming October 25-26

Oregon State Gridmen to Clash with Idaho on Bell Field in Feature Event of Week-end

WHEN the air fills up with the tang of Oregon rain and the smoke disappears from the hills and the geese start flying south—then the Old Grad hunts up the calendar and starts counting the days 'til Homecoming. He turns to the sports page to investigate the football situation at the Alma Mater and then begins to recall old times, past games, former friends, classmates—and logically next digs out a time table and makes reservations for Corvallis.

Homecoming. Ask the average person one meets what he is going to do Homecoming. Likely he will look at you blankly and conjure up a hazy image of Thanksgiving or Christmas with the wife's relations. But ask the Old Grad that question and see what happens. For somehow it is the one thing that the alums look forward to the year around. As soon as the Big Game is over and the crowds start packing up to go home one hears the cheery word that so-and-so is coming back for Homecoming next year. Or perhaps the alum comes from a distance and has to space the returns farther apart. Letters come in to the Alumni office all during the year with news of alums and a large percent mention somewhere that they will be back for homecoming. Possibly not this year, nor the next, but a date has been set and return they will.

Neville Huffman, senior in commerce, has been named student Homecoming chairman for this year. Although having but three weeks after the opening of school in which to do much preparation he and his corps of assistants are digging in strenuously and prophesy a bang-up celebration.

This year Homecoming is early in the season coming the last week end in October instead of sometime in November. The festivities will begin Friday October 25 and climax with the football game Saturday afternoon October 26.

The University of Idaho will form the opposition to Oregon State in the Homecoming-tilt. This is the first time in a number of years that the Vandals have appeared on the State campus. A new coach is at the helm at Moscow and a crack Idaho team is looked for. At that the Vandals have given the Orangemen a good tussle in the past, having won the last encounter which was played in 1927.

Since the two teams first met in 1913 Oregon State has kept ahead in wins. The Orangemen won the first five games. It was 10 years after beginning of relations before Idaho got a win. History of Oregon State-Idaho football games:

Year	Oregon		Year	Oregon
	State	Idaho		State	Idaho
1913	3	0	1924	0	22
1914	26	0	1915	16	7
1915	40	0	1926	3	0
1916	26	0	1927	7	12
1917	26	6		—	—
1923	0	7	Totals	147	54

If numbers and enthusiasm mean anything the rook class of this year ought to build a record breaking bonfire in which to consign the Idaho bogey to oblivion. The freshmen have this bonfire down to such a science now that they build the thing in a half a day, not in several hectic days and nights as in the not very distant romantic past.

The arches and general campus decorations will be prepared by the students. Meanwhile the various houses, clubs and dormitories will vie for honors in welcome and other types of signs which will begin operating Friday evening.

Thursday night the pre-rally dances at the various houses will start the week-end off. The majority of the alumni will arrive Friday morning and will have that time and Friday afternoon to getting re-acquainted and general visiting. Headquarters for the alumni will be in the Union building as last season. Various changes in the Union will make the building of even greater service to alums. The cafeteria, open from 7 in the morning until 12 at night, is now going full blast on the ground floor. An information bureau has been instituted. The huge ball room has been hung with drapes.

Along about dusk Friday evening the house signs will be turned on. Then after dinner the traditional noise parade will form and wind its way through town. This event is becoming bigger and noisier every year. The annual rally with pep talks and the like will precede the bonfire which will be ignited around 9 o'clock.

Saturday morning alumni registration will be continued as many alums do not get into Corvallis until the day of the game. The morning is left open for the old timers to get a breathing spell. At noon the alums will meet in the Union for luncheon.

The afternoon is given over to the main attraction of the week end—the football game. Following the game will be the annual Alumni dinner which will be in the Union. In the evening there will be the alumni dance.

Alumni have been given first choice of seats for the grid games this year. Carl A. Lodell '21, graduate manager, sent out thousands of ticket applications to alumni at the beginning of the season. In this way alums could file their applications as soon as they wished while general sale to the public was not thrown open until two weeks before each game.

A particular event of interest to the old timers is the annual Varsity "O" parade around Bell field before the football game. Here the veterans of other days have their quarter hour before flaming youth cuts loose in its big 60 minutes.

Ransome Meinke '30, president of the associated students, will be host to the past student body presidents Saturday morning at their traditional breakfast.

Coffee Shop in Union

The Co-op book store opened the Coffee Shop in the location provided in the Memorial Union building with the beginning of the fall term. The Co-op, transferred its stock from the building on Jefferson near the Armory which was maintained last year. New fixtures and the latest in coffee shop arrangements have been installed.

The Coffee shop is divided into two sections. The part under the main stairway of the Union is reserved for smoking and is for men only. Outside this section in the east wing opening off the main ball room, counters, tables and booths have been installed for serving both men and women.

Four-H Clubs Enjoy Annual Session at College

By BERNARD JOY '30 A

Only one unhappy hour marred that two weeks enjoyed by the 645 boys and girls who attended the annual 4-H summer school—that being when they had to say "Good Bye" to newly made friends and leave for their homes in all corners of the state. From June 10 to 22 there was something to do every hour and everyone enjoyed the entertainment and instruction received while at Oregon State.

The 645 boy and girl club members represented every section of Oregon and one boy came from Idaho.

The girls who outnumbered the boys by about three to two, stayed at Waldo and Kidder halls. The boys lived in the men's new dormitory. Meals were served to the girls in their halls but the boys ate in the dining room of the Memorial Union building.

A large number of the boys and girls came on scholarships that they had won at the state and county fairs. Some were sent with money earned by their club through candy sales and entertainments. Others paid the $15 out of money they had earned on their projects or out of prize money that they had been awarded.

Among the speakers who lectured at assembly were President W. J. Kerr who welcomed the club members to the campus; Governor I. L. Patterson; Major-general U. G. Mc-Alexander, Rock of the Marne, spoke on flag day; P. V. Maris, director of extension service.

O.S.C. Football Material Plentiful but Green

MORE THAN 50 players reported out to Coach Paul J. Schissler in mid-September for the opening practice of the 1929 football season at Oregon State. Among the 50 were 17 lettermen, only five of which were regulars from last year. The loss of both regular guards, a regular tackle, a regular end, and the incomparable quarterback, Howard Maple, made a considerable dent in the Orange outlook.

With the prospect of having to build a new line practically Coach Schissler received additional jolts during the summer when Russ Striff, end, and Fred Schell, tackle, both regulars, were reported out because of illness. Striff appeared in camp after season opened but was in no condition to be counted on.

Despite the loss of Maple the backfield was not the department that caused the coach particular worry. No very promising guard material loomed up so he put Chief Thompson, the Indian fullback, forward to guard. Jack Cox, a sophomore, was worked in to the other first string guard job. The season opened with two lettermen tackles on hand in Chuck Stout and Sayles Young. Harry Kent, another letterman tackle, was laid out with a knee thrown out before practice was a week old.

At center the coach has the veteran Bob Geddes. As understudies there are Homer Lyons and John Nagel, sophomores, with Milt McLeod and Chuck Troyer, reserves from last year.

Bob Geddes, regular center has two letters to his credit.

Carl Gilmore, two-year veteran fullback.

Oregon State 1929 Football Schedule

Sept. 21—Willamette University.....	Corvallis
Sept. 28—California Aggies	Corvallis
Oct. 5—Southern California	Los Angeles
Oct. 12—Columbia University	Corvallis
Oct. 19—Stanford University.....	Palo Alto
Oct. 26—University of Idaho	Corvallis
Nov. 2—Washington State	Portland
Nov. 16—University of Oregon.....	Eugene
Nov. 23—University of Detroit.....	Detroit

In the backfield Ralph Buerke and Roge Montgomery are the quarterback bets, both lettermen, while Brice Nosler, a bit small but very willing, is in reserve. Regular halfbacks are Henry Hughes and Cecil Sherwood with Carl Gilmore at full. The coach has a host of fine looking backfield material from last year with promising recruits from the '28 yearlings and from junior college transfers.

At the wing berths are Bill McKalip, a letterman, and Snowy Gustafson, the other sophomore to break into the first string. Sandy McGilvray, a reserve is showing up well, while Russ Striff is on hand if he gets in condition.

Floyd Owens and Hughes, halfbacks, and Thompson, guard, have been looking best in punting practice. Carl Metten, Tom Drynan and others can also boot the ball when occasion demands.

The passing of the Staters is weaker than last year as Maple was uncannily accurate and steady. However, the coach has put in considerable work on this branch this fall and results should be forthcoming.

Rowdy Kerr, Bill Head, John Essman, Babe Peterson, Owens, Kretzmeier are among the other backfield men. The coach has a lot of line material with plenty of beef and speed but it is woefully inexperienced.

Critics rather generally among the sports writers and followers on the coast this year are not rating the Orangemen to finish very high in the conference. Sixth, seventh or eighth places are variously picked for the Orange.

The schedule the Beavers has is plenty hard. Two trips to California, one to Detroit, and short jaunts to Portland and Eugene account for five games. The homecoming game with Idaho October 26 is the headliner of the home games which include the Willamette and Cal Aggie games already played and the Columbia tilt October 12.

The same regular coaching staff as last season is assisting Coach Schissler. Vern Eilers, all-coast guard with the Orange who completed his football career last season is student assistant coach.

Recorded Information

From the picture writing of antiquity down through the ages to the elaborate means of today, the story of progress in depicting history is told in "Recorded Information," the mural painting recently installed in the college library.

The mural, a gift by the Class of 1925, was painted by Professor J. Leo Fairbanks, head of the department of art, and is a companion painting to "Traditions" another panel in the library.

Some 45 symbolical figures have been worked into the huge canvas.

The mural was formally presented to the college by Bob Theiring president of the '25-ers last spring.

Other panels are available in the library for murals while provision has been made in the Memorial Union building for similar decorations. Professor Fairbanks has studied art widely both in America and Europe, having attended schools in Chicago and New York in the United States and France and Italy in Europe.

Strong Alumni Association Indicated By Growing Life Membership Roll

THE ADDITION of 21 new life members to the Oregon State College Alumni association during the past year increased the total number of lifers to 147. Besides the 21 who completed their payments a number more began paying, there being a total of 167 additional alumni making payments on life memberships.

The life membership payments go into the general trust fund which is being gradually built up with the idea of eventually becoming the means of supporting the association. The interest from the fund is now used to help cover association expenses but the principal cannot be touched. The fund passed the $10,000 mark last spring.

The life membership may be taken out either by paying $40 in cash or by distributing the payments over 10 years and making a $5 payment each year. When the $40 is paid the entire amount is placed in the trust fund; but when the 10-year plan is used $1 from each $5 goes for general expenses.

An amortization plan has been worked out whereby any alumnus after making one or more payments who wishes to take up his whole remaining sum in one payment may do so at a reduction.

While several of the classes have more than 10 percent of their living members on the life member roll the class of 1881 is the only one to go 100 percent. It is incidentally the oldest class to list a life member. Ida Burnett Callahan and Thomas L. Charman, the two living members of the class, are both lifers.

The life membership includes life subscription to the Oregon State Monthly. The trust department of

General College Placement Bureau Offers Services to All Alumni

HERE to organize an institutional placement bureau at Oregon State that will have for its motive the placing of student graduates in all departments in positions open to them throughout the west and middle west, Professor Carl W. Salser took up his duties at the college this fall. Professor Salser comes from Emporia, Kansas, where he has been connected with the Kansas State Teachers' college for more than 15 years in charge of the placement service.

The appointment is of interest not only to prospective graduates but also to alumni that are out in the field since any alumnus may work through Professor Salser for a position. This applies to alumni from any school on the campus and as far back as classes were graduated.

The work of Professor Salser will not displace that being done already on the campus by May Workinger in vocational education or by the deans in commerce, pharmacy and other schools to place graduates. Instead the work of the new placement man will be to collaborate with the placement divisions already operating and to help form new contacts seeking to bring the job and the graduate together.

Feeling the need for coordinated work President W. J. Kerr has organized a committee of four known as the Educational Policies and Procedures committee. Dean J. R. Jewell of the school of vocational education is chairman. E. B. Lemon '11, registrar; Dean Ava B. Milam, home economics; and Dean Harry S. Rogers, engineering, are the other members.

Professor Salser will work with this group as a sort of executive secretary. A placement man needs to know what is going on in the actual training of a person for a position so Professor Salser will work through the committee and keep close contact with the college.

The committee will not be a destructive force but will rather be a coordinating body that examines educational policies and programs and reports findings to the president.

Acting on the principle that if one is going to place a man in a position, he must begin with the person in college considerable attention is being given to personnel work. Dr. Frank W. [Continued on page 69.]

Five Departments Merged into School of Health and Physical Education

A NEW SCHOOL has made its appearance on the Oregon State campus with the reorganization of the various physical education departments under a single head. All campus work in student health, physical education for men and for women, hygiene, and intramural sports is coordinated into the school of health and physical education, which will be non-degree granting. The change was authorized by the board of regents last May.

Dr. Clair V. Langton, formerly director of health and physical education, has been named dean of the newly created school. He will continue as head of the department of physical education for men also.

Ralph O. Coleman '18 will resume his position as director of intramural athletics following a year's absence for advanced study. Miss Ruth Glassow will continue as director of the department of physical education for women.

The greatest reorganization has been in the student health service. Complete renovation of the quarters has been made during the summer, with refinished walls and new floor coverings for all rooms. The various offices have been remodeled to care for the added equipment made necessary by the larger staff and the plans for one of the best college health services in the country.

The building in which the health service is housed is rich in traditions on the campus. Although very small—having but a half dozen rooms—it has seen a varied career being at one time the Science hall. The student infirmary, located on Ninth and Harrison near the campus, is a student project entirely as it was purchased by students with their own funds and is so maintained.

Dr. D. C. Reynolds, formerly assistant director of the University of Michigan health service, will be the new director. Dr. C. R. Mathis, venerable director, has retired as director emeritus. Old grads will recall the genial figure of Doc Mathis with his inevitable battered black bag haunting football games and other athletic events, or mayhap recall the gruff but kindly service ever meted out at the health service. Dr. F. B. Smith will continue as a physician in the service.

For the first time the health service will employ a woman physician to devote her entire attention to the co-eds and supervise the medical portion of the work

E. T. Reed Represents Oregon State At Convention of College Editors

EDWIN T. REED, college editor, represented the college this year at the annual convention of Agricultural College Editors, held July 9 to 13 at Durham, New Hampshire, seat of the University of New Hampshire. Mr. Reed took an exhibit of college publications, news service, radio programs, etc., and a trio of attractive panels bearing photographic illustrations of the college and its work and of the scenic attractions of Oregon. He repeated the invitation presented to the convention at Baton Rouge last year by Professor McIntosh, urging the editors to meet in Oregon in the near future. The convention has never met west of Colorado, and has comparatively few members in the far west. Mr. Reed urged the wisdom of a Pacific coast meeting, as a matter of geographic justice, and for the sake of convincing the editors of the far west of the value of the association. The 1930 convention goes to West Virginia, but the association seemed inclined to come to Oregon within another year or two.

New Hampshire, under the leadership of H. B. Stevens, agricultural editor, entertained the convention in a truly regal fashion, providing excellent accommodations for the meetings, the exhibits, and the entertainment of the editors. The State Chamber of Commerce and other development agencies sponsored a shore dinner at Portsmouth and an excursion into the famous mountain resorts of Crawford Notch and Franconia Notch, with a view of the lake region and the Great Stone Face.

"After enjoying the hospitality of the State Chamber of Commerce and the State Publicity Bureau," Mr. Reed declared, "the visiting editors could easily understand how the state of New Hampshire, only one-tenth the size of Oregon, could rank next to her among all the states as enjoying the third largest tourist traffic—California ranking first and Oregon second."

The University of New Hampshire, located only a few miles from the sea and within easy reach of the mountains, and in the midst of many historical and traditional landmarks of old New England, had many in child care. For this position the college has secured Dr. Edith P. Sappington. She received her B.A. degree from the University of California, her M.A. majoring in physiology from Stanford, and her M.D. from California. She served her internship at the New England hospital for women and children at Boston and holds the Metropolitan Life Insurance company's fellowship for study of health essentials for children.

Erna Plagman, trained nurse, has also been added to the health service staff of nine members.

attractions for all the delegates, but was peculiarly interesting to an Oregonian, Mr. Reed states, because of the fact that Ralph D. Hetzel, who organized the Extension Service at Oregon State, and won a host of friends throughout Oregon, was the guiding genius who engineered a new and larger career for the institution during the ten years or more that he was president. Though he had recently gone to Penn State to energize that institution as he had New Hampshire, Mr. Reed found that he was most cordially and gratefully honored in New England.

In the editorial competition comprising 12 classes, New Hampshire and Ohio State universities were tied for sweepstakes, Ohio, which had won the honor for several years preceding, withdrawing in favor of New Hampshire. The Oregon exhibit was rated the most attractive, and won several individual honors.

Incident to his trip east Mr. Reed visited his old haunts at Harvard, and at Soldiers Field attended the field meet between the English universities, Oxford and Cambridge, and the American universities, Harvard and Yale. At New York he had a conference with E. R. Leibner '11, president of the Oregon State club of New York, who recounted the unpublished details of the great Thanksgiving victory of the Beavers over the New York Violets. To this game Mr. Leibner sold 450 tickets, chiefly to West Coast people, most of them Oregon State grads, but some of them graduates of the University of Oregon and other Pacific colleges, all of whom joined heartily in rooting for the West against the East.

Willamette Downed in Grid Opener

Oregon State opened its 1929 grid season with a slashing 37 to 6 win over Willamette university, which is coached by Spec Keene '21. With only a week of practice and one scrimmage behind it the Orange eleven appeared rather bewildered in the first half, scoring only one touchdown. In the same half with second and third stringers in the line-up Oregon State let a touchdown through on a well-timed pass and line offense by the Bearcats. The Orangemen came back strong and scored five touchdowns in the second half, using no deception and scarcely any pass but relying on straight smashing football.

Cecil Sherwood scored three touchdowns; Carl Gilmore, Brice Nosler and Rowdy Kerr, one each; and Honolulu Hughes tallied one try for point. Oregon State made a net gain of 350 yards from scrimmage compared with 13 for Willamette. Willamette had the edge in passes with seven out of 13 completed for a net of 61 yards. Oregon State completed one out of five for five yards. Oregon State's green line showed too much anxiety to get into action as 10 o'side penalties were called on the Orange.

it is getting to be that time of year again the thoughts of the alumni naturally turn to Homecoming. What a wealth of past memories and present enjoyments are tied up in the homely word "Homecoming."

For after all the campus is home to the alum. His earthly travels may be far-flung and he may claim many homes but there is only one place where he is really remembered. Changing one's home and then going back to the old stamping ground out in everyday life usually results in somewhat the situation of the old story. It seems that the native of a small village left for new fields in the prime of life. Ten years later he returned to his native town and started out to renew acquaintances. The first five persons he met did not know that he had been gone and the next five had never heard of him.

Somehow coming back to the Alma Mater is different. There are others coming back, hundreds of them, who are looking for old time friends and classmates. There are the professors who were many of them at Oregon State a quarter of a century ago. And the campus itself is ready to welcome all.

Those on the campus today are inordinately proud of the old timers and of the Alma Mater. The students turn out eagerly and dress the campus up in holiday attire for the alums. That hesitant feeling the alum often gets after losing touch with the college a few years following graduation is like earwigs or the seven year itch. It really has no place in the social swim, so to speak. The whole student body gathers in returning grads regardless of age and eagerly drinks in the tales of old times and thoroughly enjoys playing host.

But aside from the student body there are other factors that go to make Homecoming highly enjoyable now. The many who thronged the Union building last year readily testify to the value of the Union as a general headquarters and meeting place for returning alums. This year the tea room and banquet halls will be running full blast in the Union and in addition there will be open the new lunch counter and confectionery just off the ball room.

Homecoming is early this year—October 26—before winter gets in its damp grip on the campus. The University of Idaho with its veteran team forms the opposition for the football game. Renewed acquaintances, football, good times, old friends—that's Homecoming.

See you at O. S. C. Homecoming—October 26.
Save the date.

A GREAT DEAL depends on connotation of a word rather than on the dictionary definition. For one thing few persons would consider a Lifer lucky. A tangible vision of a striped uniform, a ball and chain, bread and water, and armed pacing sentries is the average reaction to Lifer.

Yet an Oregon State Lifer is particularly fortunate. He is a life member of the Alumni association which carries with it all association privileges including life subscription to the Oregon State Monthly.

Then, too, he has the pleasure of knowing that he is helping his Alma Mater tremendously. The joy of lending a helping hand, particularly in a cause in which one's heart is wrapped, is an ever present source of satisfaction.

President Kerr pointed out at the Alumni banquet at Reunion that the alumni play a vital part in the life—in the very existence—of the college. There are those who seek to discredit Oregon State. The alumni are the most potent defenders of O. S. C. and can best combat these knife thrusts in the back. But to defend Oregon State knowledge of the college is necessary—a complete and a constantly up-to-date knowledge. As members of the association and subscribers to the Oregon State Monthly alums have the weapons to defend the college.

Life members have this and they are closely knit to the college. Their's is a noble cause and one which they are serving nobly. Many alums are keeping in touch with O. S. C. and are telling the general public the truth about the college. O. S. C. is proud of her alumni.

SAD DAYS are among us. The farmer who used to be the backbone of the nation has ceased to count. At least in Oregon.

It seems that a voice came out of the wilderness crying that the thing to do was to compile a "Who's Who" for Oregon. Nothing wrong with that, not at all. Picking the "Who" out of Oregon was when the difficulties appeared.

Naturally it was a tough job to pick from a million persons those eligible to appear in the all-star compilation.

But a happy thought struck the compilers. The persons not picked might object and the thing to do would be to pick the skilled objectors for the "Who's Who" and leave out the unskilled objectors.

And so it befell that a mighty array of lawyers were ensconced in the "Who." For who, if not lawyers, could be more skilled in objecting. And the meek though mighty farmer who through centuries of disregard has come to take his lot in silence was assigned to the "land where the woodbine twineth."

Here is the situation as the Oregon Voter puts it in its own inimitable way:

"* * * We did not know there were so many distinguished lawyers in Oregon. There are only about 1200 so-called lawyers in Oregon—yet 40 percent of them have attained civic prominence sufficient to get them into Who's Who.

"Of 60,000 farmers in Oregon, only 43 landed in both college and Who's Who. To say nothing of their wives. We know many a farmer's wife who is worth a flock of lawyers when it comes to real usefulness. * * *"

See You at Homecoming October 26.

SOME 2833 DISTINGUISHED Oregon citizens were named in the Who's Who in Oregon. Of these 2020 were college or university alumni. Of the 2020, there were 883 that attended Oregon institutions of higher learning.

The alumni of Oregon were distributed as follows among Oregon institutions according to figures given in the Oregon Voter and compiled in the registrar's office at the U. of O.:

Oregon university	441
Oregon State college	138
Willamette university	114

WONT IT BE NICE when the students can file into their classroom, have someone put a dime or a quarter in the slot in a metal Robot on the platform, and listen to a "canned" lecture? Preposterous! But why? We contend that there is not an alum who has not at one time or another existed through a semester in which some prof lecturing in some certain course might have been a Robot for all the life he showed. In fact he might better have been a Robot for such mechanical contrivances can be regulated to do the right thing. At least that is what is indicated from the following extract from "The Dartmouth:":

COIN-IN-THE-SLOT COLLEGES

A representative of the Consolidated Automatic Merchandising Corporation of Boston installed the only automatic talking salesman in New England, outside of Massachusetts and Connecticut, in College Hall yesterday. * * * Just now it sells * * * cigarettes, besides having a compartment which makes change for quarters. Each cigarette compartment requires three nickels, while only one must be deposited for the chewing gum and chocolate. Wrong coins and slugs are returned by a device which includes magnets and accurate micrometer measurements.

After each sale the robot says pleasantly, "Thank you; visit our cafeteria," "Thank you; they're toasted," "Thank you; not a cough in a carload," "Thank you; they satisfy," or "Thank you; mild as May," according to the way it has been set. He says nothing at all when making change, unless some foolhardy person deposits a slug. It is returned immediately, and a voice, entirely different from that of the cheerful salesman, remarks sarcastically, "Please use good coins only!"

WRITING OF THE EARLY history of Indiana University, Professor James A. Woodburn, '76, states that when the university first flung open its doors to women students in 1867 very sober objections were raised to the policy of coeducation. It would never do, the objectors stated, because the girls, in going up or down stairs, might show their ankles. Shades of Victorian modesty! What would those objectors say if they had to face the scenery of a 1929 co-ed amphitheater, to say nothing of the Co-ed Follies or the Giocoso!

AGRICULTURE has been brought into its present deplorable condition by a state of overproduction," writes Dr. M. N. Nelson, head of economics and sociology, in an article "Farm Relief Legislation" in the Eggsaminer. "The leading proposals for farm relief legislation heretofore suggested have had in mind an artificial boosting of the prices of certain enumerated farm commodities. The benefits to the few farmers who would be directly helped by such legislation could only be temporary. The so-called administration plan of farm relief, sponsored by Secretary Jardine and recently introduced in the senate by Senator McNary, contemplates not price boosting but price stabilization. By this plan the farmer will be protected, the prices stabilized throughout the season."

Women's Section

Theta Sig Edits Women's Section

Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalistic honorary, has for one of its projects this year the handling of the Women's Section in the Oregon State Monthly. Jeannette Cramer '22, home economics editor of the Portland Oregonian, who edits the section, is a member of the local chapter of Theta Sigma Phi.

Officers of Theta Sigma Phi at Oregon State college for the coming year are Elayne Searing, senior in commerce, president; Dorothy Crawford, senior in home economics, vice-president; Dehlia Hawkins, junior in home economics, secretary; Imogene Hocken, senior in vocational education, keeper of the archives; Ella Day, senior in commerce, membership chairman; and Edith Bennett, junior in vocational education, entertainment chairman.

Sorority Rushing Rules Change With Times

"Times have changed and so have Panhellenic rushing rules," said the alumna of a number of years ago. "In my time the sororities each gave only three rushing parties for the new freshman girls the week after registration in the fall. The sorority members were allowed to call for rushees in taxis and to give their guests expensive favors. They could visit the freshman girls at the dormitories at any time."

The date book system of invitation to rushing parties is one of the changes embodied in the new rules, which have been used several years. The date book is a small folder, issued by Panhellenic, in which the sorority lists the rushing parties to be given. The sorority sends a date book to each rushee, who may signify her acceptance of a date by marking a cross before the date listed in the folder. The first date book, sent Thursday of freshman week, includes five engagements, Friday and Saturday lunch and dinner, and Sunday breakfast. The second date book, including Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday dinners for the next week, is delivered Sunday afternoon to the freshman girl by Panhellenic. Sororities usually send fewer second date books than first.

Thursday evening after the last sorority dinner date, invitations to a formal dinner to be given Friday evening by each sorority are delivered to the rushees at the halls of residence. Invitation to this dinner is practically a bid from the sorority and acceptance by the rushee indicates the group she prefers, hence the name "Preference night." The formal dinner is the only one at which favors or gifts may be given rushees. Orchestras and men waiters are permitted at this dinner, and the members of the group may call for and accompany rushees home.

Bidding is by the preference system, each girl being allowed two choices.

The names of the pledges are not printed in the Barometer or any other newspaper, but a list is kept in the office of the Dean of Women and in the records of the Panhellenic association. All rushing affairs are held in the chapter house, but sorority matters may not be discussed. Rushing with men is prohibited.

All engagements made with sorority women before the date books are issued are automatically cancelled by Panhellenic. Rushing other than that scheduled in the date book is prohibited, as is communication with rushees by telephone, letter, or telegram.

Freshman Week Helps Orient Newcomers

Faculty and students of the college gave the new freshman girls every possible assistance during Freshman week in starting them on the road to college success. Every student had a faculty adviser who answered her questions and was responsible for her attendance at all meetings of the week. A Big Sister from one of the upper classes was assigned to each freshman girl to help her become acquainted with the campus and its traditions. The Big Sister organization is a group under the Y. W. C. A. There were several informal Big-Little Sister parties in the halls. Trains and busses were met by Y. W. C. A. members who directed the new girls to the dormitories.

Convocations, meetings and social affairs crowded the week of September 23 to 28. One of the first events was the classificatory English examination, which all beginning students took Tuesday morning. The usual number of frightened freshmen took the psychological examination Wednesday morning after being cautioned to be calm and to think clearly. The results of the examination are secret but are the basis for statistics compiled by the school of vocational education. These results have no effect on the student's rating, but it would be hard to persuade the freshman that what he said in the examination would not be used against him. A thorough physical examination was given each freshman girl, and all who were found physically unfit for regular gymnasium class work were assigned to special corrective classes.

The most interesting social affair of the week was the reception with which Dr. W. J. Kerr, president of the college, and Mrs. Kerr entertained the beginners. Dr. and Mrs. Kerr met each of the new students personally on this occasion. The Y. M.-Y. W. picnic on Wednesday evening helped the rooks and rookesses to become better acquainted. Guests were assigned to small groups, each supervised by an upper-class member of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. A picnic supper was served to hundreds of hungry newcomers. Games were the diversion of the evening.

Lectures on college regulations, how to study, and student activities were features of the week. Budgeting money, time, strength and energy was the subject of a talk given by H. T. Vance, head of the department of secretarial training. A meeting of all freshman women on Thursday evening was a fitting close to the freshman girls' activities of the week.

A. W. S. to Assist M. U. Information Bureau

The Associated Women students will assist in the Memorial Union building office and information bureau located in the lobby, west of the new entrance. Plans have been made by which freshman girls will help in the office during the day. Grace Colborne, president of the Associated Women students, is in charge of the schedule and the selection of girls. Allegra McGreal, '24, who recently received her master's degree, is in charge of the building office.

The information bureau is for the convenience of everyone, according to E. C. Allworth, manager of the building. Questions about the school, the campus and the buildings will be answered.

A large sign, "Building Office Information," is placed where everyone will notice it. Ronald Johnson, president of the Memorial Union board, has his office next to the information bureau.

Kathleen McClintock, home economics junior

Kathleen McClintock, junior in home economics, had a "royal" time this summer. As Queen Kathleen I of the Pendleton round-up, she ruled for four days over as happy and picturesque, if less extensive a kingdom, as ever bowed before a queen's scepter.

A skilled and graceful horsewoman, with four attendants, Queen Kathleen led all the parades, while her wild western subjects bowed before her regal majesty. Her court was easily the most popular place in all the Oregon country.

Queen Kathleen is a Sigma Kappa. Her home is in Pendleton, where she spent her summer, prior to her succession to the round-up throne, assisting in playground work.

Dorothy Steimle, '29, is employed as statistician in the inspection engineering division of the Bell Laboratories in New York. She is also doing correspondence work in Columbia university, and reports that she is heartily enjoying both her work and her contacts with the great metropolis, where she spent her first week as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. David Hogmer. She is now in an apartment at 610 Riverside Drive. "I hope to return to Oregon in another two years," she writes, "with a master of arts degree and some valuable business training."

HOME ECONOMICS NOTES

Margaret Morehouse, former assistant professor of clothing and related arts, has accepted a position as clothing specialist at Cornell.

Louise Struve, former assistant professor of clothing and related arts, will teach in a school for girls at Kamehameha, Honolulu.

Elsie Jacobson, '24, who took her masters degree at Columbia, will teach in the clothing and textiles department here.

Mrs. Sarah V. Case, '14, took her masters degree in '29 and is doing home demonstration work in California.

Mrs. Minerva V. Grace, '28, has charge of the home management house at the University of Missouri. She took her masters degree at Oregon State last year.

Helen Leighton has charge of the home management house at the University of Nebraska.

Fern Kelley, '29, HE, is taking Edna Hocken's place in Dean Milam's office.

Olga Brucher, '24, who taught here three years ago, is doing research work for a frigidaire corporation at Dayton, Ohio.

Estelle Calkins, who graduated in '25, has charge of the home management house here. She is a fellow in household administration.

Frances Clinton '29 is a fellow in the foods and nutrition department.

Marjorie Kirby, '29 HE, is assistant to Georgia Bibee, supervisor in the Memorial Union building.

Wilma Anderson, '27 HE, is an instructor in institution economics department.

Gertrude Strickland, back after two years in New York, will instruct in the clothing and textiles department.

Anna Price, instructor in clothing and textiles, is working for her masters degree at the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Jessamine Williams is on sabbatical leave at Columbia university.

The following '29 graduates in home economics will teach outside the state of Oregon: Marion Gibbon, Vancouver, B. C.; Gerta Woodruff, Polytechnic High, San Francisco; Susan D. Woodworth, Kelowna, B. C.; Lydia Tarrant, University of Vermont; Edith Pugh, Corning, Cal.; Gladys Powell, Azusa, Cal.; Mary Peters, Hilmar, Cal.; Ruth Miller, Twin Bridges, Mont.; Hallie Large, Hunter, N. D.; Laura Johnston, Glendale, Cal.; and Merlaine Bryan, Skykomish, Wash.

Agnes Kolshorn comes this year as assistant professor in foods and nutrition.

James Russell Patterson, nationally known authority in interior decorating who spent the summer term here, will return as an associate professor at the third term next year and continue his courses in the department of clothing and textiles.

Jessie Palmiter, junior in home economics, was elected president for 1929-30 of Omicron Nu, professional honorary in home economics. Other officers are Agnes Robinson, senior, vice president; Ruth Nomura, senior, secretary; Lorena Jack, junior, treasurer; and Marion Gunn, senior, reporter. Membership is based on scholarship, qualities of leadership and professional interest in home economics.

Sports

A program involving 43 conference events in the four major sports offers a tempting looking year for both Oregon State athletes and fans. Five football, 16 basketball, 16 baseball and six track events are billed with conference opponents. Four additional football games are included on the schedule which with the non-conference basketball and baseball contests as well as the numerous other sports events will keep the Orangemen fairly busy for the year.

In general the coaching staff will remain unchanged this year. Director of Athletics, Paul J. Schissler, is in his sixth season as head football coach; Slat Gill '24 is head basketball mentor; Dick Newman is track coach. In addition Ralph O. Coleman '18 who has been at Columbia university in New York studying on leave of absence will be back to handle the baseball team. Newman is freshman football and basketball coach while Gill handles freshman baseball.

The enlarged basketball schedule in which Oregon State meets each of five opponents four different times resulted when Montana was dropped from the hoop schedule—as previously from the baseball.

As far as home games go in the four major divisions the Orange has four football, eight basketball, eight baseball, and two track.

Basketball, baseball and track schedules are:

Bill will handle the physical education program which is being started this year for the first time.

Joe Kasberger '22 A, who has been assistant coach at Wilamette university, is now coaching at Southern Oregon State Normal school. Joe was an outstanding athlete and student at Oregon State. He played on all four major sports teams, being named all-coast half in 1921. He was director of athletics at Mt. Angel college until that institution burned down in 1926.

Three Oregon State athletes of other days cut a neat figure in the Pacific Coast baseball league this summer. Loris Baker '26 C, has developed into one of the most valuable infielders on the San Francisco team. He plays mostly shortstop but has been switched around in general utility service all over the inside of the diamond. Ed Coleman ex-'27 C, brother of Ralph Coleman, is also with the Seals. His heavy hitting helped materially. At one time he was among the half dozen leading hitters in the league. While formerly a pitcher he is now working in the outfield. Wes Schulmerich '26 C in his second year with the Los Angeles club has continued his heavy hitting and crack fielding. He hit well up in the .300 class all season. Sports critics point to him as a big league prospect.

William A. Burr '28 VE former Oregon State basketball captain and star who handled the intramural athletic program last year is coaching the four major sports at Sedro-Woolley (Wash.) high school this year. The school has an approximate enrollment of 500 students. In addition to coaching,

Three Oregon State students shot their way to places on the Ninth corps rifle team that participated in the National Rifle association matches for 1929 at Camp Perry, Ohio, during August and September. [Continued on page 60.]

Oregon Staters in the News of the Month

Mark V. Weatherford '07 C

FRED STEIWER '02 ME, United States senator from Oregon, has been placed on the Republican campaign committee. Senator Steiwer actively defends the interests of Oregon and the Pacific northwest. He emphatically condemned the senate finance committee's action in putting lumber and shingles on the free list of the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill. He has asserted his approval of President Hoover's suggestion for the transfer of surface rights in the remaining public domain to the states in which the lands are located.

Senator Steiwer's home is in Pendleton where he had a law practice prior to his election to the Senate.

Fred Steiwer '02 ME

MARK V. WEATHERFORD '07 C of Albany has been elected chairman of the Democratic central committee for the state of Oregon. Mark is a member of the firm Weatherford and Wyatt, attorneys in Albany.

Mark in his undergraduate days at Oregon State followed oratory and debate in his student activities. He was engaged in farming for a time but later abandoned John Deere and McCormick for Blackstone and Demosthenes.

LESTON LOVE '23 A has been appointed high school counsellor for Oregon State college with the title assistant professor of educational and vocational guidance. He received his master's degree at Oregon State in vocational education in June.

He is a member of Alpha Zeta, Gamma Sigma Delta and Kappa Delta Pi honor fraternities. He has taught Smith-Hughes agriculture and coached football at Seaside (Ore.) for two years. He was principal of schools at Halfway (Ore.) for three years. He is married and has three children. Mrs. Love was formerly Greta Weatherpoon, ex-'25 VE.

Mr. Love is doing field work in guidance for the high schools over the state. The Educational exposition at the college and the one-day guidance schools conducted by Dean Jewell together with the guidance bureau work in Portland have led to repeated calls from high school principals over the state for more complete guidance work among the high school pupils. It is this that Mr. Love has been selected to carry on as his guidance work in Portland last spring was very successful.

Roy Cannon '21 A

ROY CANNON '21 A has been re-elected secretary of the Oregon County School Superintendents' association for the coming year. He is superintendent of Multnomah county, having been selected for this position last year. In his position as secretary he presides over various cases of athletic disputes between schools.

When at Oregon State he was enrolled in agriculture. In addition to his school work he coached the freshman baseball team. He has taken work at the University of Oregon and at Valparaiso (Ind.) normal school. He taught in Indiana and later was Benton county school superintendent in Oregon.

Percy Bell '27 ChE

JEANNETTE CRAMER '22 HE who is home economics editor of the Oregon (Portland) was recently appointed by KGW, Oregonian broadcasting station, to conduct a daily home economics discussion. Jeannette is regarded as an authority in her field. She is a graduate of the Oregon Normal school as well as O. S. C. and has taught school in Grants Pass, her childhood home.

During her college days Jeannette was very prominent in student activities, particularly in journalistic and forensic lines. As home economics editor she supervises the annual Oregonian cooking school. She has been active in the Alumni association being vice-president this year.

Jeannette Cramer '22 HE

PERCY BELL '27 ChE passed through Corvallis this summer on his way to the Malay peninsula where he will teach science in a boys' school and work with the older boys in church work. He is located in Singapore, his address being 4 Ft. Canning Road.

Percy, who was a member of the famous four-mile relay team of Oregon State, that set a record in the mid-western relays, and who ran the two-mile on the Orange track team, studied in the Biblical institute at Evanston, Ill., last year. He was gym instructor in Chicago at the same time.

Percy sailed for Singapore on the S. S. Van Buren. He and his partner won the finals in the deck tennis tournament and did passably in the bridge tournament. Stops allowed visits at Honolulu, T. H.; Kobe, Japan; Shanghai and Hongkong, China; and Manila, P. I.

ALLEGRA MCGREAL '24 HE, '29 MS HE has been appointed to the position of secretary in charge of the building office in the Memorial Union. She will act as assistant to Manager Ed Allworth '16 and will supervise the information bureau of the building.

Scheduling of rooms for meetings and dances and the like will be made through Miss McGreal. Banquets and luncheons, however, will be scheduled through the tea room service.

Miss McGreal received her degree in professional home economics having specialized in clothing and textiles. She was connected with the Portland Telegram home economics department as assistant to Florence Gradon '24 HE for a while. She received her master's degree in home economics last year, her thesis being "Symbolism and Its Application to Textile Design."

During her undergraduate days, Miss McGreal was active in journalistic work. She was a day editor on the Barometer in 1924 and was elected to Scribe, journalistic honor fraternity for women that later became Theta Sigma Phi.

Ralph O. Coleman '18 A

RALPH COLEMAN '18 A has returned to Oregon State to resume his position of director of intramural athletics after a year spent on leave of absence. During the past year he obtained his master's degree in physical education studying at Columbia university (New York) and also taking work in the middle west.

Ralph has built up the Oregon State intramural program to its present high standard and hopes to get even better results. He is also varsity baseball coach having turned out some excellent championship teams and developed players that are making good in the Pacific coast and other leagues. He himself played professional ball with the Portland club. In school he was prominent in sports particularly baseball and track and student activities. He received a degree in agriculture. He is married and has one child, a daughter. Mrs. Coleman was formerly Eleanor Flynn, ex-'22 VE.

Notes From the Schools

PHARMACY

Dr. H. M. Burlage, for the past two years director of the Oregon State Board of Pharmacy drug laboratory and associate professor of pharmaceutical analysis in the school of pharmacy, has accepted a position with Purdue University School of Pharmacy and will begin work at the opening of the next session.

The various lines of business in which the graduates of pharmacy are engaged are as follows: drug clerks, 45%; proprietors, 21%; physicians, 4.4%; medical students, 2.3%; traveling salesmen, 3.4%; instructors in colleges and high schools, 3.3%; miscellaneous, 10%; housewives, 8.3%; deceased, 2.3%.

Dean Ziefe delivered a series of 25 lectures on principles of first aid to 700 boys and girls of the Oregon 4-H Boys' and Girls' Clubs who were in attendance at the college for two weeks summer session, and 135 children from the Children's Farm Home near Corvallis.

Harold E. Huntington, '29, and Alfred M. Girard, a junior in Pharmacy, were members of an orchestra that played on board the steamship "President Taft" that left Seattle June 15 for a trip to the Orient, and returned August 7. The orchestra was made up entirely of O. S. C. students who have earned their way through school by playing in orchestras.

At Corvallis Rotary club election, Dean Ziefe was elected vice-president, editor of the weekly bulletin, and chairman of the program committee.

Of the 34 students who took the June examinations of the Oregon Board of Pharmacy, 2 failed. One of these students completed his strictly pharmacy courses in a southern institution two years ago. Lawrence Dickson made the highest average of any Oregon student at the June examinations of the State Board of Pharmacy.

Harold Schooley Ingle '28 is a fellow in pharmacy this year.

The Pharmaceutical Era, a professional magazine published in New York, devoted its leading article in June, 1929, issue to Dean Adolph Ziefe, head of the school of pharmacy of the Oregon State college, giving two full pages to a story of his life and work, and including his portrait.

His early training, the article shows, taught him self reliance and gave him his first impetus toward research in pharmacy. He worked as a grocery clerk and assistant baker before his three years job as drug clerk prepared him for entrance to the College of Pharmacy at the University of Michigan. He worked his way through college, giving his entire summer to the Cushing drug store of Ann Arbor. When he graduated in pharmacy in 1904, he was taken on the staff of the College of Pharmacy as an assistant and remained in the work three years.

It was in this work that he got his start as a drug analyst, a new thing in those days, when the several states were experimenting with various laws to curb prevailing frauds in foods and drugs. In 1907 he took a step upward by becoming assistant professor of pharmacy at the University of Kansas and drug chemist for the State Board of Health. Here he had an opportunity to put his analytical work to the crucial test before the public and the courts, and while it involved both adventure and grief, he came out of the experience so successfully, that North Dakota, then the hot bed of conflict between the new laws and the fakirs, called him in 1909 as head of its school of pharmacy. Dr. Ladd, champion of the pure food laws of North Dakota at that time, made him drug analyst for the State Pure Food and Drug Commission, and gave him further occasion to try his mettle before the public.

In 1914 Dr. Kerr brought him to Oregon to head the pharmacy department of the state college, and in 1917 made the department a school with Professor Ziefe its dean.

MINES

T. M. Bains, associate professor of mining at the Colorado School of Mines for the last five years, has been appointed associate professor of geology at Oregon State college. He succeeds Professor D. C. Livingston, who resigned, effective September 1, to enter private work.

Professor Bains has had wide practical experience in mining and geological work, having taken part in exploration expeditions in Cuba, Mexico and British Columbia. Besides this he has been employed in mining work in Tennessee, Arizona, Idaho, Montana, California, New Mexico, Missouri and Oregon.

ENGINEERING

Robert D. Carruthers, freshman in engineering last year, was killed August 28 when his motorcycle crashed into an automobile on the Roosevelt highway near the Lewis and Clark river bridge.

Dr. W. Weniger of the college department of physics, now on leave of absence, has accepted the invitation of the Smithsonian institute to assist in a research problem of determining the effect of the sun's radiation on plant growth.

A novel letter in the form of a phonograph record was received by Mrs. Iva B. Mitchell of Salem, Ore., from her son Burrell M. Mitchell '29 EE who is working for the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y.

The letter was on a glazed cardboard record slightly smaller in diameter than an ordinary phonograph record. The voice was as distinct as any reproduction from the regular records. Mitchell made the record in a few spare moments from his work in the sound reproduction laboratories.

When he first went to General Electric in June, Mitchell was testing radios before release to retailers. Recently he has been in sound reproduction laboratories and television work. He expects to specialize in transmission of light waves with sound waves through the medium of radio waves.

Herbert Veltum, mechanical engineering junior, was fatally injured at Waldport, Ore., this summer when the automobile he was driving struck loose gravel on the beach and overturned.

J. R. Griffith, formerly on the staff of Armour institute, has accepted a professorship in the school of engineering and will be in charge of the hydraulics courses.

George W. Gleeson '28 is instructor in mechanics and materials. R. H. Johnson '29 is a fellow in the engineering experiment station.

COMMERCE

Leroy Malmsten, commerce junior, as a member of the R. O. T. C. team representing Oregon and other states of the Ninth Corps area at the national rifle and pistol matches this summer, attracted considerable attention with his accurate shooting. He is a member of the O. S. C. rifle team.

Edwin E. Wilson and George S. Sulerud have been named associate professors in economics and sociology. New instructors in the school of commerce are Lilly Nordgren '24, secretarial training; Harry K. Roberts '28, finance and administration; Vivia B. Gambero '29, finance and administration; Martha J. Jones '29, secretarial training; Maybelle Rardin, secretarial administration.

Sun dial which stands in front of the commerce building. Presented to the college by the chamber of commerce. The sun dial was completed this spring.

BASIC ARTS AND SCIENCES

Professor John B. Horner, head of the college history department, visited La Grande this summer and recalled some of his early days. He came to Oregon from Texas in a train in the spring of 1862 via California. He found the La Grande country so filled with water that he went to Walla Walla until fall. He chopped cord wood to be burned to charcoal in a blacksmith shop. Since 1891 Dr. Horner has been connected with the college.

Ralph Colby, professor in English at Oregon State, and Violet Marie Peterson were married in the east this summer. They took their wedding trip along the north shore of Lake Superior before returning to Corvallis. Both are graduates of Minnesota.

Research leading toward plans for eradication of the nematode, commonly known as the eel worm, was the summer work of Wilbur D. Courtney, associate professor of geology at Oregon State college. He was located at Woods Hole, Mass., the most important biological station in the United States. The nematode caused a great deal of concern last year in the Willamette Valley because of its attack upon field crops and fruit.

Fourteen changes have been made in the staff of the school of basic arts and sciences. Dr. Willis G. Swartz from Iowa State college and Clarke university has been named assistant professor in history succeeding J. W. Eshelman, resigned.

Four instructors and two fellows have been named in chemistry. Elzie Reed; Henry G. Ruppel, Montana and Cornell; Morris Hoffman, Colorado Agricultural college and University of Colorado; Eugene Huffman, Colorado and Washington; are the instructors. R. C. Thielke '28 and Ralph Garman ex-'20 are the fellows.

In the English department the four new instructors are V. J. Kane, Hamilton and Columbia; Franz Montgomery, Indiana; J. C. McCloskey, Columbia college (Iowa) and Iowa; H. Glenn Brown, Colorado. David B. Charlton, former assistant city bacteriologist, has been appointed instructor in bacteriology. In mathematics Ralph Weese, Michigan, and W. J. Kirkham are new instructors. James Morris '28 and W. R. Varner '12 are new instructors in physics and Ben Harris '29 teaching fellow in physics.

Melissa Martin '15 has returned after a year of study abroad to her position in the modern languages department. W. A. Dahlberg has returned to the public speaking staff after a year's absence.

Dr. W. V. Halverson, associate professor of bacteriology and associate bacteriologist of the experiment station, Oregon State college, has resigned to accept the position as head of the department of bacteriology at University of Idaho.

Dr. Halverson came here in the fall of 1919 and was reappointed later after spending a year at Iowa State college where he obtained his doctorate. In his work with the experiment station he has made important contributions in the field of soil bacteriology and is credited with a number of scientific developments of first importance in soil science.

AGRICULTURE

H. D. Scudder, chief in farm management at Oregon State, was chosen president of the Western Farm Economics association for the coming year.

The Oregon prune, from tree to consumer, is the subject matter of an official two-reel educational motion picture begun in this state late in September.

ber by the federal bureau of agricultural economics working in cooperation with the Oregon State college extension service.

The picture, to be shown throughout the United States and abroad, is based on a scenario originally prepared by George O. Gatlin, extension marketing specialist, and William A. Schoenfeld, regional representative of the federal bureau for Portland.

A public service patent which assigns "to the citizens of the United States" all rights to the processes of removal of spray residue from fruit as perfected by R. H. Robinson and Henry Hartman, chemist and pomologist of the Oregon experiment station, has been received here from the United States patent office.

This patent is estimated to be worth to the citizens of Oregon alone at least $75,000 a year and more than $225,000 to the northwest fruit industry in the savings on royalties alone over the minimum charge likely to be exacted were it held by private individuals.

Because of high cost of production, the survey of the Oregon poultry industry which was conducted by the college, showed that about half of the commercial egg men are not making a profit above labor and interest cost.

The average total cost for producing a dozen eggs on the 229 farms listed in the survey, which included family labor and interest on investment was 28.1 cents per dozen while average price was 28.7 cent per dozen.

H. C. Seymour, state boys' and girls' club leader, has returned to Corvallis after an absence of a year at Cornell university taking advanced study. Mr. Seymour visited many colleges of the New England states following the completion of his studies before returning to the Pacific coast.

Dr. W. P. Duruz from the University of California school of agriculture, will be a new professor of pomology in the department of horticulture.

E. R. Jackman '20 is a new associate professor in farm crops. Dr. Fonsoe Bolin has been named assistant professor in experiment station veterinary medicine. Instructors in the school of agriculture are Harold E. Fulscher, animal husbandry, and Herbert R. Sinner, horticulture. Fellows are F. L. Rygg, horticulture; O. F. Bartholomew '28, soils; A. S. King '28, soils; A. W. Cole and F. D. Wilson, dairy husbandry; Bruce Sifton, animal husbandry; O. J. Dowd, horticulture; Fred Meikle '29, experiment station.

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

Because Oregon offers a larger and better assortment of "type" towns, in the opinion of the general education board of the Rockefeller Foundation, than any other geographical area in the United States, the state has been selected for an exhaustive study on the connection of high school curricula with work of students after graduation.

N. M. Irby, professor of education has been granted a year's leave of absence by Oregon State college to accept the Rockefeller Foundation's fellowship to carry on this study. Professor Irby has been awarded the fellowship twice previously and is the only person ever to have been accorded this distinctive honor for the third successive time. He will complete advanced work for a doctor's degree at Peabody college along with his research work.

The school of vocational education has moved its headquarters from the forestry building to the second floor of Shepard hall. Eventually all education classes will probably be held in classrooms near Shepard hall. The journalism department has moved its classrooms from the basement of the commerce building into the forestry building in the section vacated by vocational education.

O. R. Chambers has been appointed professor of vocational education, Frank W. Parr will be an associate in the same school, and Leston L. Love '23, '29 MS, an assistant professor and guidance specialist. Dorothy Whitehead '28 will be an instructor in vocational education. Carl W. Salser, formerly with Kansas State Teachers' college, comes as head of the new placement bureau.

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

A survey of stream pollution in the Willamette valley was conducted by the college during the summer. Results showed that the Willamette river as far down as Salem is remarkably free from pollution.

GENERAL

Prof. Paul Petri, head of the music department, was seriously ill from rheumatism this summer. He was brought from Oceanside where he was stricken to Corvallis in an ambulance. Mrs. Petri was in New York at the time.

Charles D. Byrne, formerly head of the department of printing and rural journalism at South Dakota State college, heads the college department of industrial journalism succeeding Maynard W. Brown who is now in the middle west. F. L. Snow, for many years connected with the department of journalism, has gone into newspaper work in California, his place being taken by Fred M. Shideler, formerly located in Kansas.

Professor Byrne's career, starting on a farm home in Wisconsin, has included both training and experience in technical journalism, daily newspaper work, publicity and teaching. He holds both bachelor and master's degrees from the University of Wisconsin where he won student honors in agriculture, journalism and scholarship. He formerly was agricultural editor at Pennsylvania State college and also editor of a national dairy breed journal.

Frank L. Snow, formerly head of the college journalism department, is now editor and publisher of The El Segundo Herald, a daily paper published in El Segundo, Cal.

Committee chairman appointments for this school year by President Ransom Meinke are widely distributed among the schools. Irene Griggs, home economics junior, and George Castner, commerce senior, are co-chairmen of the Pep committee. Henry De Boest, pharmacy senior, heads the social committee; Fred Greer, commerce senior, is chairman of the Memorial Union board of governors; Lyle Williams, engineering senior, is point chairman.

In the extension service Arthur King '28 is district county agent for Baker, Union and Wallowa; R. J. Maaske is club agent in Portland; Gertrude Skow '28 is home demonstration agent in Lane county; Audrey Wiencken '28 is district club agent for Benton, Polk

Daly Fund Students at O. S. C.

Eleven 1929 high school graduates from Lake county, Oregon, will attend Oregon State this year through aid from the Dr. Bernard Daly educational fund. At present 59 students in various Oregon institutions are taking advantage of the fund and 84 have done so in the past.

Average expenses for Daly students at Oregon State were $561 last year. At the state university the average expense was slightly higher, $570.71 being expended by each; while at the normal schools the expenditure average dropped down around $411. A maximum of $600 a year is allowed. The fund now totals $678,895.

New Daly fund students at Oregon State are: Mae Hotchkiss, Hazel Vernon, Alice Peterson, Viola Crump, Venita Bryan, Marie Peterson, Charles Perry, Harold Venator, Robert Adams, Lyle Bradley and John Stein.

The 1930 session of the United Presbyterian church synod of the Columbia will be held on the Oregon State campus. Most suitable accommodations available here is given as the reason for the return of the synod for the fifth consecutive time.

SEATTLE STATERS TO MEET FOR RADIO GRID RETURNS

The Seattle Oregon State club plans to meet during October and November on the Saturday afternoons of Oregon State games and listen to returns by radio. The regular monthly meetings will be dispensed with.

DANCE AFTER O.S.C. STANFORD GRID MIX

Golden Gaters Select Palace Hotel in San Francisco for Scene of Coming Celebration

The night of October 19 following the Oregon State-Stanford football game at Palo Alto the Golden Gate Oregon State club will hold a dance. The affair will take place in the Palace hotel in San Francisco. The Palace is an Intercollegiate Alumni Hotel.

Members of the Golden Gate club have been working out details of the dance for the past month. Information about the dance may be had from Percy Locey at the Olympic club in San Francisco or from O. W. Irwin, phone Montrose 2743.

If there isn't a club in your district send in to the alumni office at the college for particulars on organizing one.

Oregon State College Alums at Ames, Iowa, Round Out Session with Hilarious Picnic

Oregon State alumni at Ames, Iowa, managed to elude Old Jupe and hold a picnic before they scattered for the summer. At that it was a compromise for the picnic was held indoors in the home of Vic Hessler '26 and Ava Hamlin Hessler '25.

Later in the summer a group of 28 Oregon Staters got together and had a real outdoors affair. Bill Oglesby '28 says that the credit for this meeting goes to Zelta Feike Rodenwold '19 and Ben Rodenwold whom Bill claims were the standpatters of the regular school year.

They had a ball game in which the aforementioned Bill starred heroically as the lone outfielder. Food followed and then a feature event in which Pete Peterson's ('28) "mustn't touchit" was assaulted. Ice cream served for lather and Burt Oderkirk's (ex-'23) knife was the razor. It all hinged on the razor and Burt hadn't sharpened his since he left Oregon State so Pete went home with his manly beauty unscathed.

Those present were:

W. H. Martin and family, O. S. C.; Mrs. Dolly Bruce, Rockwell, Iowa; Lucille Goresline '26; Mrs. C. R. Donham, O. S. C.; Allene Bell, Andalusia, Ala.; Harry E. Goresline '26, assistant bacteriologist in engineering experiment station; Burt Oderkirk ex-'23, dairy husbandry department; E. Nadine Dreher, Iowa State; Mary L. Collines, Ames, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Glenn and Margaret, O. S. C.; Bill Oglesby '28; G. E. Brandt, mathematics, Iowa State; John Peterson '28; John E. Smith '02; Mrs. John E. ALUMNI IN NEW YORK HAVE BANQUET MEET

E. R. Leibner '11 Elected President of Club; Dave Hogmer Ex-'26
Named Secretary

The Alumni of New York City and vicinity held a reunion and banquet on June 5, 1929 at the Imperial hotel in that city. The reunion spirit was plainly visible as soon as the first alumni began gathering at 7 p.m. A half hour later everybody was seated at the banquet table where all enjoyed a delightful dinner.

The gathering proved a real reunion as was brought out by Edward R. Leibner '11, who acted as Toast Master when he stated that 17 classes were represented by the 29 guests present. The first person called upon was Mrs. C. T. McDevitt (nee Carrie Danneman '01) who responded with enthusiastic praises for Oregon State. Mrs. McDevitt was visiting her niece Mrs. Harold Kelly of New York. Mr. Kelly was formerly an instructor in the chemistry department at Oregon State. Some of the others who responded with appropriate remarks and boosts for Oregon State were Kirby A. MacLean '02, Jesse C. Clark '04 and Edwin W. Wallace '10, Miss Bertha Edwards '10, Fred E. Ewart '10.

Prominent ex-athletes included David Friedman '17 member of the basketball team and Edwin Wallace, captain of the 1909 football team as well as a member of the Pacific coast championship Oregon State football team of 1907. Ralph Coleman '18, who is on the coaching staff at O. S. C. praised the alumni for the loyal support they gave the football team at the game with New York University last November 1928. He was taking postgraduate work at Columbia university the past year. A number of other alumni who were taking postgraduate work at Columbia were also present.

Coleman and Leibner then brought out that the alumni of the east and middle west will have another opportunity to support their Alma Mater at the football game this fall when Oregon State plays Detroit university at Detroit on November 23.

The alumni group elected Edward R. Leibner '11 president of the club. He expressed the hope that this banquet be the beginning of similar occasions of this kind. He also stated that the club will endeavor to hold regular meetings in October, December, February and April, and that these meetings should be the means of bringing alumni in New York City and vicinity

Alumni Association Sponsors Broadcasts of O.S.C. Grid Tilts

Broadcasts of the Oregon State home football games and the Eugene and Portland games are being sponsored by the O. S. C. Alumni association. The association is working with Wallace Kadderly '16 in arranging for the alumni to get returns of the games over KOAC, college broadcasting station. Returns of the games away from home are brought to the campus by telegraph for the scoreboard play by play reproduction of the game and are thence broadcast over KOAC.

Big Pre-School Dance Sponsored by Portland

Club Entertains High School Grads and O. S. C. Alumni at Event

The Portland Oregon State club working with the Greater Oregon State committee held the annual pre-school dance in Portland at Christensen's hall the latter part of September. Invitations were sent out to 350 high school grads who planned to enter Oregon State.

The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of Elayne Searing, chairman, Marjorie Gabriel, Eloise Bilyeu, Annabelle Grant and Thaye Musgrave.

in closer contact. He invited other alumni to send in their addresses when coming to New York City, and that they should by all means come to his office where the door will be open to welcome them and get acquainted with alumni in New York City. David Hogmer ex-'26 was elected secretary.

Those present at the banquet were: Jeses C. Clark '04, Mrs. J. C. Clark (nee Julia Fuller '06), Benjamin B. Cohen '17, Mrs. Anne Cohen, Ralph Coleman '18, Frank Ding '19, Mrs. Rose Lum Ding, Bertha B. Edwards '10, Fred E. Ewart '10, David Friedman '17, Mrs. David Friedman, David S. Hogmer ex-'26, Mrs. David Hogmer (nee Oneatta Van Cleve) ex-'28, Elsie Jacobson '24, M. Reynold Koontz '27, Edward R. Leibner '11, Mrs. Edward R. Leibner, Kirby A. MacLean '02, Mrs. C. T. McDevitt (nee Carrie Danneman) '01, Dr. Helen Miller '17, Mrs. W. J. Kocken (nee Helen McFadden, ex-'12), Emanuel H. Reichart, '16, Mrs. E. H. ALUMS IN SEATTLE HOLD ANNUAL OUTING

Picnic and Swim at Mt. Washington;
Husband-Calling Contest
Among Day's Events

A beach on Lake Washington with beautiful Mount Rainier reflected across the blue waters of the lake was the background for the annual outing of the Washington O. S. C. Club at Seattle recently. There was a good turn-out and between swims games were played and a picnic lunch was eaten beneath the madrona trees, supplemented by liquid refreshments from the old lemonade barrel. The usual picnic "track meet" was held and one of the unique features of the contest was a "husband calling" contest in which it seemed most of the feminine members of the picnic had plenty of experience judging from the lusty "O-H! H-E-N-R-Y's!!" that were sounded upon the air.

Among those present were C. W. Leihy '26, Henry W. Fish '21, Neta McKillop Smith '25, L. L. Smith '22, Jo Bolger Hickox ex-'26, A. M. Hickox, Florence Dixon, Ellis Dixon '24, Ellis Dixon Jr., Beth Soden ex-'24, H. E. Soden '23, Bobby and Dale Soden, John Gray '23, Dutch Faulhaber '26, Maryon Edsen, Mrs. Leander, Kenneth Joy '22, Jeanne Brown ex-'27, Isabel Weaver, W. C. Wing '27, Della Graff, Evelyn Leander ex-'25, D. M. McGahey, E. C. Buchanan '09, Babe Atchison, Dorothy Walker Bevens ex-'23, Bell Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Rankin '25, John DuPriest, '24, H. J. Salem Club Plans Scholarship Fund For H.S. Graduates

The Salem Oregon State club plans to award a scholarship each year to a Salem high school student. Last year a $100 scholarship was awarded to Wesley Heise by the club.

Benefit teas and bridge parties are conducted to raise funds for the scholarship loan fund. Several such were conducted during the summer, the alumnae conducting the affairs.

The annual picnic of the club was held the latter part of June at the Harry L. Percy '16 A place near Woodland.

New Education Board Assumes Control

The newly created state board of higher education took over the control of the state college, state university and state normal schools July 1 and the individual boards of regents of the various institutions ceased to exist.

C. L. Starr of Portland was elected president of the board and Aubrey Watzek, also of Portland, temporary secretary. A permanent secretary, whose duties it was decided would be to carry out the instructions of the board, will be selected.

Volunteer Messenger

Here is what President Wilson said was the best negro war yarn he had heard during his stay in Paris. It is quoted by J. F. Essary in "Covering Washington." A group of negro soldiers were in a front line trench on the eve of an attack. A white officer approached one of them and asked:

"What would you do, Jim, if you suddenly saw the whole German cavalry coming straight at you?"

"What would I do, boss?" repeated Jim. "Why, I sure would spread the news through France."

The only reservation placed on the cup is that it remain in possession of the winner for one year. Three successive wins will give a team permanent possession. The name of the winning team is engraved on the cup. Dunn was quite some player in his days at Oregon State and he still has a keen interest in the game. He is a member of the firm of Dunn and Baker of Klamath Falls.

Art Taaffe '26 CE, director of athletic news at Oregon State, has stepped in the publisher class by issuing a football score book. This venture into a little charted field seems well on the way to success as all who have examined the book have pronounced it a genuine time and trouble saver. Various attempts have been made at evolving a football score book but these have resulted in affairs that the inventor only could use.

The Taaffe Football Scorebook takes into consideration all possible events in the game and arranges so that all may be simply recorded. As Ken Binns ex-'24 C, sports editor of the Portland Telegram says, "Art has solved the complexities of football reporting."

Three sheets are allowed for each game—one for the home team, one for the visiting team, and the third on which to place the tabulated results of the game. The sheets are perforated so they may be taken out of the book if the user does not wish to carry the book itself, which is about 11 inches high by 18 inches wide, to each contest.

Several one-time Oregon State athletes are scattered around the San Francisco Bay district. Oscar Arnberg who is still imbibing knowledge at O. S. C. tells of a few he saw this fall.

Lee Bissett ex-'18 A is coaching Oakland Tech high, which is right in the running for honors in its league, Oscar says. Lee sits in the grandstand during games as he is innovating a system of letting the captains run the team during the game, stating that it is a boy's game and that it is not a game between coaches. This idea has been worked with success in the east but is new to the coast. Hugh McKenna '23 C who is coaching Damon high school which used to be called Potter high school and is in the Academic Athletic association of San Francisco, refereed Tech high's opening game this year. Cac Hubbard '21 P was head linesman. Roy Richert '27 is coaching Fremont high of the Oakland league.

Lockley, Fred, ex-'93 ME, the well-known "Journal Man," in one of his "impressions and observations" this summer harked back to his college days at Oregon State and interviewed Harvey McAlister, '97 A, somewhat as follows:

While in Lexington recently, I ran across Harvey L. McAllister. We were schoolmates at O. A. C. in 1889 and '90. When I knew Harvey he was 6 feet tall and weighed 160 pounds. He is still 6 feet tall, but now weighs 260 pounds, and that doesn't mean he is fat, either, for he is hard as a nail. He used to play center on the O. A. C. football team. He went through opposing teams like a steamroller.

"I came to Oregon in 1882," he said. "I was born in Iowa on June 17, 1869. My father's brother had a place in Dry hollow, near Weston, so we moved up there. In 1883 we moved to Umatilla county, near what is now Lexington. In those days this was a part of Umatilla county. Father took up a homestead, a preemption and a timber culture claim. My two brothers Roy and Marshall, and myself worked on father's farm. Roy lives here in Lexington, and Marshall works for the Columbia Steel company of Portland. You and he met in France. John Fulton '91, '92, and Charlie Johnson, '92, both of whom were at O. A. C. when you and I were there, are still in O. A. C. John is at the head of the chemistry department and Charlie of the department of mathematics. Lois Stewart, who was also there at that time, went to Alaska to teach school after graduating from O. A. C., and in 1899 went over to the Philippine Islands as a teacher and has been there ever since. She has been in China and Japan and India, and pretty well all over the world. She married John Osborn, head of the schools in Manila. Fred Caples, '95 M, another of our schoolmates, spent about 20 years up in Alaska, prospecting and mining and serving as pilot on steamboats on the Yukon and other Alaskan rivers.

I was four years on the O. A. C. football team. I graduated in the spring of 1897, and next April I enlisted in Company A of the Second Oregon regiment under Captain H. L. Heath of McMinnville. Our company was a consolidation of Company A and Company M. We arrived at Manila on June 30, and I was assigned to the quartermaster's department and had charge of transportation. On August 13, when the Filipinos attacked our troops, I was returned to my company and served as corporal. We put in a rather strenuous year in the islands. After my return here I herded sheep, worked in the harvest fields and have always done hard work.

McMillan, F. O., EE. An article in the July 20 Literary Digest describes the radio fish-screens designed by Professor McMillan of the electrical engineering department, which were the subject of an illustrated article in a recent issue of Science and Invention. The fish-screens, worked out by Professor McMillan at the Oregon State engineering experiment station in cooperation with the bureau of fisheries, have been found practical in keeping fish in the main streams from entering irrigation canals, ditches, mill races and other water courses where they will perish from lack of food supply. Fish swimming in a sea of radio currents, Professor McMillan found, have a sense of the direction of the danger and steer away from the pitfalls.

Locke, Ed, ChE, who has been doing graduate work at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio, has a few words to say for himself:

"I'll be here again next year as I have received a reappointment as graduate assistant. My graduate work is coming along nicely and I am progressing toward an advanced degree. Sometime during the next year I'll get my Master's. I haven't hurried with it because it will take me three years more to obtain a Ph.D. and that is, at present, my aim.

"This is a great school, and one of considerable size. There are about 10,000 students registered here each quarter. I wouldn't trade Oregon State for 10 schools such as this—too large. The four years at Corvallis were surely the happiest and most wonderful days of my life. I'm surely proud to be an alumnus of Oregon State.

"I'm very anxious to see the new Memorial Union building, but I don't see any chance whatsoever of getting out to that part of the country for several years, not until I have finished my work here. There is no place like the good old Pacific Northwest, though."

We have over thirty boats on the floor, representing all of the stock builders on Puget Sound, and such eastern concerns as Gar Wood, Ludington, and Alloy. My official connection with this organization is secretary of the Board of Directors, having about a one-third interest in the company. The other members of the corporation include about six of Seattle's outstanding business men, which gives us a dandy start."

Jack expects to return to Oregon State to complete his course.

Rice, James, C, has bought a service station in Pendleton and is planning to operate it himself.

Rice, Stephen, senior in electrical engineering has received notice of his appointment as an assistant instructor in mathematics at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Though assistantships at C. I. T. are seldom granted students until they have studied at that school at least one year, Rice's work was so highly praised by his professors that an exception was made. He plans to work for a doctor's degree in the institute and will then take up research work in mathematical physics.

Rice completed his sixth thesis course, three having been taken under S. H. Graf, '07 EE, professor of mathematics and materials, and three under F. O. McMillan, '12 EE, professor of electrical engineering. Experiments he and a fellow student conducted last year in the analogy of gas flow in mains to the flow of current in electric circuits netted the students $50 each. The work was carried on under the direction of Professor Graf for the Portland Gas and Coke company.

The California Institute of Technology is credited as being one of the best research schools along physical and chemical lines in this country. Rice will work under Dr. Robert A. Millikan, who is one of the leading scientists in the United States, and who received the Noble prize in physics in 1923.

Oregon's Yesterdays

A second of those delightful accounts of Oregon Land and its people, particularly early pioneers, by Fred Lockley ex-'93 ME, has been issued by the Knickerbocker Press. This volume, Oregon's Yesterdays, is in the same intimate style as "Oregon Folks," the first volume published by Fred Lockley. Those who have read and enjoyed (and who has not?) Fred's inimitable daily accounts in the Portland Journal under the heading of Observations of the Journal Man will appreciate Oregon's Yesterdays.

In the old days if anybody missed a stage coach he was content to wait two or three days for the next. Now he lets out a squawk if he misses one section of a revolving door.

In the "Family Advisor" of 1747 is found the following sage advice: To cure Baldness—rub the part morning and evening with onions, till it is red, and rub it afterwards with honey.

THE LITTLE GREY HOLE IN MY VEST

There's a little grey hole in my vest.
It happened the place that was best.
For a hole in the coat or a hole in the pants
Are both of the kind you can see at a glance,
But you always can button your coat,
And hide all defects in the vest.
So here's to the moth with such knowledge of cloth,
Such insight is rare in a pest.

—Yale Record.

Watching the antics of human beings through the bars of their cages all day is very distressing to the nerves of the monkeys, according to the magazine of the Zoological society. Every year, as summer crowds throng the primate house of the St. Louis, Mo., zoo, several of the more impressionable monkeys collapse and give way to all sorts of complexes and mental ills.

The victims are sent to a "rest house," where the only human beings they have to look at are the keepers who feed them. Once a year all the monkeys in the zoo take their vacations in the rest house.

Continued from page 44.] Parr in the school of vocational education attained his doctor's degree from an outstanding thesis in personnel work. Professor O. R. Chambers is an expert psychologist. With these two new appointees in the vocational education there is Dr. H. R. Laslett, another psychologist of note.

So if there is a student that is failing or that does not seem to get in step with the work these personnel men will be able to give tests and otherwise examine the case and be prepared to give helpful advice to remedy the situation. Personnel work is being more and more recognized as a vital force in colleges and universities and much care is being taken by institutions to assemble efficient personnel staffs for the benefit of students.

Smith—I hear that everything is to be electrical in your new home.

Jones—Yessir, I've even got an electric chair for my mother-in-law.

Official Fleet of The Intercollegiate Alumni

One hundred and three College and University alumni organizations have selected the United States Lines and American Merchant Lines as the official alumni transatlantic lane to Europe.

Your official fleet is composed of eleven splendid ships—LEVIATHAN, World's Largest Liner, and those superb cabin liners of the United States Lines... GEORGE WASHINGTON, AMERICA, REPUBLIC, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and PRESIDENT HARDING... plus that ever popular quintet sailing weekly from New York to London—AMERICAN BANKER, AMERICAN TRADER, AMERICAN MERCHANT, AMERICAN SHIPPER, and AMERICAN FARMER. Great ships... magnificent ships... ships of personality!

You can go first-class, second, cabin or tourist third... swiftly or leisurely... direct to England, Ireland, France or Germany... in staterooms that measure American ideas of spaciousness... with the finest American cuisine... with stewards who speak your own language... with sun-flooded decks that provide vast arenas for sports... play bridge and dance in salons and ballrooms as luxurious as those that ever played host to a junior or senior "prom."

For rates, sailings, etc., communicate with your local steamship agent or alumni secretary... he'll be pleased to serve you.

YOUR FLAGSHIP

THE AMERICA, 21,144 tons, renowned as the "Ship of Steadiness," has been chosen as the intercollegiate flagship for sailings on June 4, July 2 and July 30... 1930.
