HEAD COACH JIM TURPIN

OSU RECORD: 84-25
YEAR AT OSU: Seventh
BIRTHDATE: February 13, 1949
BIRTHPLACE: San Mateo, California
ALMA MATER: San Jose State, 1971

Jim Turpin begins his seventh season as head coach of the Oregon State gymnastics team. Turpin came to Corvallis with one goal in mind - winning a national championship. During his six seasons at OSU, Turpin's teams have made steady progress towards a championship title. Just last season, the Beavers claimed fourth place honors at the NCAA Championships, matching their best finish in school history.

Oregon State gymnastics fans have witnessed the building of a national powerhouse in Corvallis and in doing so, have had the opportunity to see some of the top competition in the country. Through Turpin's efforts, Oregon State has been selected to host several major gymnastics events, including the 1990 and 1993 NCAA Championships. In 1991, the Beavers hosted the NCAA Western Regionals for the seventh time in 19 years and the World University Game trials following the regular season.

Since Turpin took over the Oregon State program, the Beavers have made five appearances at the NCAA Championships. Oregon State finished fourth at the NCAA's last season and seventh the three previous years. Also last season, the Beavers claimed their first ever Pacific-10 Conference title and took first at the NCAA Regionals for the seventh time.

Turpin was named Pac-10 Coach of the Year in 1991 for the second time in six years. His team also produced the third All-American since Turpin came to Corvallis - freshman sensation Chari Knight. Knight earned three-time All-America status at Nationals while senior Joy Selig added two All-America accolades to her name to become a seventh-time recipient.

In just his third season at the helm, two of Turpin's gymnasts became All-Americans; Joy Selig and Jami Sherman. That same year, Turpin received Pac-10 Conference Coach of the Year honors. Selig, a sophomore, repeated the honor twice in 1989 including a share of the balance beam title as OSU matched its seventh place finish of the year prior. In 1990, Selig again took All-America honors, both at balance beam and floor exercise to lead the Beavers to a third straight seventh place showing.

Turpin's arrival in 1985 sparked the beginning of a new era in Oregon State gymnastics. He arrived in Corvallis from the Almaden Valley Gymnastics Club in San Jose, Calif., where he served as head coach and director.

His extensive experience on the national, international, club and collegiate levels gives Oregon State one of the most respected names in the sport. His long list of accomplishments includes coaching four USA teams to international competitions. He has also coached at the National Sports Festival and was formerly on the USA National Coaching Staff for Women. In July of 1991, Turpin traveled to Sheffield, England as head coach of the U.S. squad at the World University Games.

A former All-America gymnast at San Jose State, Turpin was the world champion on the double mini-trampoline in 1974. He graduated from SJSU with a B.S. degree in physical education and speech communication in 1971.

Among his many gymnastics achievements are several national and international meet directorships, including the Elite Nationals (1979 and 1982), the China/USA Exhibition in San Francisco (1981) and the Pacific Alliance International Competition (1984). He has served as Regional Elite Development Director for the United States Gymnastics Federation (U.S.G.F.) and also as a member of the Women's International Program Committee for the U.S.G.F. Just recently, Turpin was selected NCAA Western Regional Committee Chairman for the 1992, '93 and '94 meets. His coaching record at Almaden Valley included 43 individual and several team state champions in California and four Class I National Champions. Turpin coached Elite gymnasts to Championships of the USA every year from 1980 until his arrival at OSU in 1985. Twenty-one of his club performers advanced to earn scholarships and compete at the collegiate level.

Turpin and his wife, Jill, have two children, Lucas (14) and Kimberly (12).

World University Games

Oregon State University was well represented at the 1991 World University Games in Sheffield, England this past July. OSU gymnastics coach Jim Turpin headed the United States six-member squad which included Beaver gymnasts Chari Knight, Amy Durham and Joy Selig. The United States team made history by winning a silver medal in team competition, just behind gold medal winner Peoples Republic of Korea. The U.S. squad finished ahead of the Soviet Union for the first time in any women's competition including the Olympics, World University Games, World Championships and junior 'B' team high school meets.

OSU's Chari Knight was one of two U.S. gymnasts to earn a medal in the individual event finals. Knight placed third on uneven bars to take the bronze medal while University of Utah's Kristen Kenoyer won third place honors on floor. Oregon State hosted the World University Games Trials last spring. The top six all-around finishers of the 14 collegiate and club participants qualified for the World University Games.

Oregon State Academics

The Oregon State gymnastics team claimed the 1991 national academic championship title, according to the National Association of Collegiate Gymnastics Coaches for Women.

The Beavers ranked number-one academically with a combined grade point average of 3.611. The NACGC recognized 144 women as All-America scholar athletes which requires a GPA of 3.50 or better. A record nine of the 144 gymnasts were from Oregon State. The nine OSU gymnasts earning a 3.50 GPA or better were Kelly Baker, Traci Crover, Amy Durham, Leslie Hammond, Charl Knight, Donna Linder, Linda Pierce, Joy Selig and Wendy Smith.

Oregon State was one of only two schools to rank among the top 20 academically that participated in the 1991 NCAA Championships. Seventeenth-ranked Utah State also qualified for nationals in '91.

Gymnastics and strong academics have always gone hand-in-hand at Oregon State. The Beavers have produced 11 NACGC Academic All-Americans since 1984 and two CoSida/GTE Academic All-Americans.

In 1991, Coach Jim Turpin's squad boasted a 3.73 GPA after two quarters, including gymnasts Charl Knight, Joy Selig, Linda Pierce, Kelly Baker and Wendy Smith with perfect 4.00's. Knight maintained a 4.00 for the entire year.

OREGON STATE UNIVERSITY

Oregon State University is Oregon's oldest state-assisted institution of higher education. Founded in 1868, OSU is internationally respected for teaching, research and public service and enjoys distinction as both a Land Grant and Sea Grant university.

Students come to OSU from every state in the nation and more than 100 countries to pursue undergraduate and graduate degrees in 227 distinct academic programs.

With an enrollment of more than 15,000, OSU prepares students to be innovators and leaders in business and industry, high technology, arts and cultural affairs, communications and science. Among University graduates is Dr. Linus Pauling, the only person to earn two unshared Nobel Prizes.

Teaching is OSU's top priority, with innovative programs in agricultural sciences, business, education, engineering, forestry, health and human performance, home economics, liberal arts, oceanography, pharmacy, science and veterinary medicine.

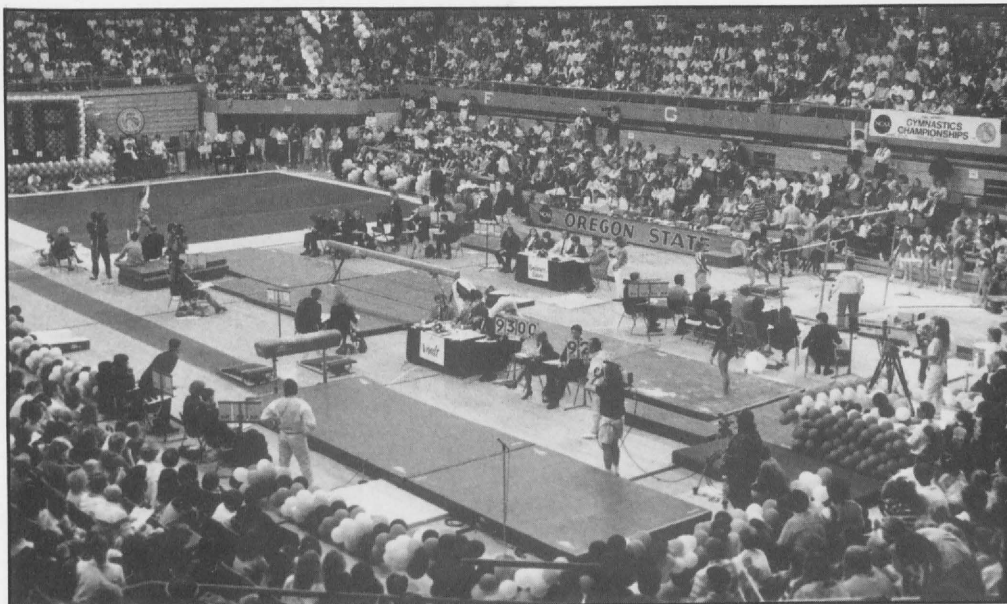

A distinguished faculty of more than 2,000 attracts nearly $70 million each year in research grants and brings new knowledge to students through research in such fields as biotechnology, computer and marine science, advanced materials, family studies, at-risk youth and environmental health. The OSU Extension Service, OSU Agricultural Experiment Station and Forest Research Laboratory provide unique public service to citizens in all 36 Oregon counties.

OSU has agreements, contracts and exchange programs with more than 75 foreign countries.

Unique facilities add to OSU's reputation. On campus are specialized research centers in environmental health, marine freshwater biomedical science, gene research, humanities, productivity and technology.

OSU's Hatfield Marine Science Center is world renowned for its scientific work. The University also has a seafoods laboratory and a fisheries culture station, operates 10 branch agricultural research and development stations, and manages two research forests.

The 419-acre main campus of Oregon State University is located in Corvallis, recently named one of America's most livable small cities. With nearby parks, shopping and recreation, Corvallis is accessible by bus, Amtrak and limousine service from air transportation in Eugene (45 miles south) and Portland (90 miles north). Interstate 5 connects OSU to major west coast centers while state highways link OSU to Oregon's mountain and ocean recreation areas.

Oregon State drew over 4,000 fans each night of the NCAA Championships as hosts of the event in 1990. The NCAA Championships return to Corvallis in 1993.

OSU's Charli Knight, Amy Durham and Joy Selig swept all-around honors at the 1991 NCAA Western Regionals in Corvallis

GILL COLISEUM . . . Home of OSU Gymnastics

Gill Coliseum has taken on a more versatile role as an athletic facility. Not only is it a basketball "showplace," but it is the home of OSU Gymnastics as well. The Beavers have hosted seven NCAA Western Regionals at Gill and in 1990 it was the site of the NCAA Gymnastics Championships. In 1991, OSU hosted the World University Game Trials and in 1989 Gill was the home to the Pacific-10 Conference Championships. In 1993, the Beavers will again host the NCAA Championships.

The first home gymnastics meet was held at Gill Coliseum in 1977 against Nevada-Reno before a crowd of 800. Since that time gymnastics enthusiasts in the Corvallis vicinity have grown with the nationally respected program to an average of 4,721 spectators in 1991. Last season, OSU gymnastics drew over 33,000 fans to Gill, including a season high crowd of 7,488 at the NCAA Western Regionals. In 1990, crowds of 8,245 and 8,501 fans were on hand for the two-day NCAA Championships.

Named after the late Slat Gill, who was OSU's head basketball coach for 36 years, the building is an excellent facility spanning one and one-third acres. The peak of the building is 83 feet above the floor, equivalent to a four-story building. Capacity has been expanded to 10,400 premium seats with unobstructed views, more than 9,000 of which are available for gymnastics competition.
