HOME OF THE BEAVERS GILL COLISEUM

Oregon State uses Gill Coliseum for all of its home wrestling meets. Gill Coliseum is located at 26th Street and Washington Way on the southwest end of campus.

Gill Coliseum first opened its doors in the winter of 1949. Recently completed construction in the building has added an extra 400 seats, making the capacity 10,400. Along with the many athletic events that take place in the building during the year, it also is host to a number of concerts and other activities, like student registration.

Named after the late Slats Gill, who was head basketball coach at OSU for 36 years and later the school's athletic director, the building is perfect for wrestling. It is not a fieldhouse. There are no posts.

Gill Coliseum was the site of the 1961 and 1980 NCAA Wrestling Championships and the 1987 Pacific-10 Conference Wrestling Championships. It also served as the site of the 1977 and 1979 East-West All-Star Classic.

Gill Coliseum covers one and one-third acre of ground. Peak of the building is 83 feet above the floor, equivalent to a four-story building. Framework of the structure consists of 12 fabricated steel arches. In all, there are 1,000 tons of structural steel in the building, and 85 percent of the seats are on the sides.

Some 14,000 cubic yards of concrete, which amounts to 70,000 sacks of cement went into the structure. In addition, more than 100,000 pumice blocks have been used inside for partitions and finishing work.

1988-89 WRESTLING OUTLOOK

The 1989-90 Oregon State wrestling team is headed by more upper-classmen and fewer freshmen to yield for a more experienced and a predictably improved season over last year.

The Beavers compiled a dual meet record of 10-13-1 and placed eighth in the Pacific-10 Conference last season.

"Everyone but one wrestler is back this year, so that gives us a lot more experience than we had last year," said Dr. Dale Thomas, the nation's winningest coach with over 600 career dual wrestling wins. "We have a better team this year because we are more experienced."

The Beavers return six wrestlers who saw considerable action last season. Two sophomores who had great freshman seasons are Trent Flack (158) and Matt Willhite (230). Flack is one of the best hitters, and Willhite saw a lot of action last season. Juniors Neil Russo (142) and Michael Simons (177) are back and ready to roll, as Russo has been a steady performer for the Beavers, and Simons had the best dual meet record for the team last year.

Heading the list for the seniors are Steve Lander (167) and Fred King (190). Lander should be the leading senior, as he compiled a 22-14-2 record last season. King, who placed second at the Pac-10 last year, is the only Beaver that placed in the league.

A strong freshman recruiting class is predicted to see some action this season. Bill Johnston, wrestling at 134 and 142 pounds this season, is from Puyallup, Washington and is a three-time South Puget Sound champion. Brian Nissen, a 118-pounder from Redmond, Oregon, was the captain of his high school team, and 126-pound David Graham from Elma, Washington is a three-time state champion.

With a new practice facility, coach Thomas is aiming for nothing short of a great season. "We are really excited about our new facility," said Thomas. "Our goals are to have a better league record, and to do as well as we did last year in the conference and the nationals."

Matt Willhite, a heavyweight from Spokane, Washington.

[★] Dual meet average is net points divided by total number of dual meet matches wrestled. Net points are points from wins minus points from losses. Decisions by seven or fewer points are worth three team points, a major decision (8-11) is worth four points, and a superior decision (12 and over) is worth five. Matches won or lost by a pin (P) are worth six team points, as are forfeits (F) defaults and disqualifications (D). Draws don't affect the net point figure, but do count in the number of dual meet matches.
