The primary duty of this officer is to serve as the student coordinator for all University committees. In this capacity, this individual recommends to the ASOSU Executive officers, and when necessary, the ASOSU Senate, the names of individuals to serve on over 40 different student-faculty University committees. Everyone who is sincere in their desire to serve on these committees are encouraged to apply at the Student Government Offices. Though most of the openings are filled by the late Spring, there are some positions available throughout the year.

A complete list of University Student-Faculty Committees may be found in a later discussion of this committee system.

The Second Vice-President also serves as a liaison between ASOSU Senate and the various committees. This position gives the student representatives the opportunity to keep up with the various committee activities on campus. Other duties include chairing the University Student Activities Committee and representing the OSU students on the OSU Bookstore's Board of Directors and the ASOSU Insurance Committee.

This is the student leader to contact if you should want to become involved with the committee system on the University level. Student input is very critical at this stage because of the power and influence which many of these committees possess. If this sounds interesting and challenging to you, come into the Student Government offices and talk—there is something for you to do.

ASOSU TREASURER

Peggy Sato
ASOSU Treasurer

The primary duty of this officer is to keep a running record of all ASOSU expenditures, funds and transactions. As a non-voting member of ASOSU Senate, this officer presents a financial report at every meeting. This individual is available to the general student body to help answer any questions concerning how student money is being allocated and where it is being spent. One final duty involves serving on the Student Fees Committee which plays an important part in determining the budgets funded by student fees during the year.

Senate

The Student Senate, which represents student needs and concerns, is the legislative body of ASOSU. Senators are elected every Spring term from the various academic schools, one Senator per 500 students. Every school is entitled to at least one Senator. For example, the College of Liberal Arts has approximately 2,690 students enrolled and therefore is entitled to five Senate positions. However, the School of Pharmacy has only about 480 students and therefore merits only one Senate position.

Senators are elected only by the constituents of their respective schools. With a representative from the Memorial Union, the ASOSU Second Vice-President and the Senators from the 11 academic schools, the representative body of 30 members is created.

Senate sessions are held every other Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. in the Memorial Union, with additional meetings being held as needed. These meetings are open to all students, and all people are invited to attend. The duration of the meetings may be as long as four hours, depending on the number of items on the agenda to be resolved. If you should have any questions about a particular meeting, do not hesitate to contact the ASOSU First Vice-President.

The types of issues discussed and acted upon by the ASOSU Senate vary from meeting to meeting. Issues are introduced for ASOSU Senate consideration by the Senators at the request of their fellow students. If you should ever want an issue to be considered by ASOSU Senate, contact your Senator(s). If you do not know who your Senators are, contact the Student Government offices in the MU Activities Center or call 754-2101, and you will be put in touch with them. Senators also receive some excellent feedback for better representation through their respective School Councils.

After a bill has been introduced into the Student Senate, it is sent to the appropriate ASOSU Committee for research and public hearings. These committees (Student Activities, Physical Operations, Academic Affairs, Student Government, Education Activities, Elections) are comprised of ASOSU Senators and students selected at large. A resolution may be held in committee for only four weeks—it then must be brought back to the Senate Floor for action.

Another major area of ASOSU Senate and student concern involves the approval of the budgets funded by student fees. The majority of the work takes place in Spring term and involves many hours of work. Under existing Student Fee guidelines, the ASOSU Senate has the power to approve or reject all the major budgets—a total amount of more than $819,000. The entire process involves a tremendous amount of responsibility. The Student Senate is forced to decide whether the budgets as prepared and revised by the various groups are representative of the priorities and in the best interests of Oregon State University students.

It is not uncommon for the ASOSU Senate to reject some of the major budgets. When this happens, the budgets are sent back to the Student Fees Committee with the ASOSU Senate's specific objections and compromise is then reached. Students are becoming more and more aware that it makes a big difference as to where their money is being allocated—after all, $819,000 is no small sum. For this reason, budget time is quite a challenge.

Through all of this, it is very important to realize Student Government is not the paragon of all power. Limitations must be realized. But without it, student interests would suffer tremendously from the very strong need for representation in the many aspects of this University. The University exists for the advancement of education and to meet the needs of its community. Without student input, the job would never be done.

School Councils

The various school councils offer one of the best ways for ASOSU Senators to receive the necessary feedback from their constituencies. The formation of the councils resulted from two sources. Some schools took it upon themselves to select various students from their departments to form a representative body. When this is not done, the respective ASOSU Senator(s), as one of their duties, must organize a school council.

These Councils are established primarily to involve students at this level of the University system. Their main concerns are generally with school policies, problems and projects (i.e., teacher-course evaluation and student counseling).

Because the ASOSU Senators generally work quite closely with the councils, a channel for communication is created to allow students to voice their concerns to their Senators. Many of the resolutions introduced into the ASOSU Senate originated at the School Council level. The Senators will also report back to their Councils about pending Senate business so, as elected representatives, they may more accurately reflect the wishes of their respective constituencies when resolutions come to the Senate floor for a vote.

Most of the Councils are organized in the early Fall, but there are open positions all year long. If you are interested in this form of involvement, contact your ASOSU Senator(s) or the Student Government Offices in the MU Activities Center or call 754-2101.

STUDENT FEES

At the beginning of each term, OSU students pay an Incidental Fee as part of their total fee cost. As stated in Oregon law, these fees are to be used to provide, "for cultural and physical development of the students at Oregon State University." The State Board of Higher Education has also mandated the amount assessed per student must be between $16-$26.50. The current payment of OSU students amounts to about $19.50 per term. The money collected supports the following 1973-74 major budgets—included is the approximate cost per student per term and the total amount of revenue generated by such assessment over the academic period (Fall, Winter and Spring terms):

Memorial Union	$7.80	322,944
Educational Activities	3.65	149,480
Physical Recreation Activities	2.40	99,616
Intercollegiate Athletics	4.85	200,000
Contingency Fund	.80	43,893

Each of the major budgets, except Intercollegiate Athletics, is further broken down into minor budgets which are submitted late in Winter term to their respective governing boards. For example, the ASOSU Legal Advising Committee submits their requested operational budget to Educational Activities Committee for review. Each major budget committee is then compelled by statute to hold open hearings on all minor budget items for the University student body. It is important to note that these review boards, again with the exception of Intercollegiate Athletics have a student majority.

These budgets, totaling over $819,000, are then forwarded to the Student Fees Committee for its action. This committee, again the majority of its members being students, includes the ASOSU President and Treasurer, Memorial Union President and Treasurer, two students elected at large during the Spring term elections, and three University Administrators (Dean of Students, Dean of Administration and a University Budget Officer). The Student Fees Committee then attempts to put the budget requests in perspective and makes necessary adjustments. Open hearings on the major budgets for OSU students are again conducted with OSU Student Fee Committee statutes. After this action, the major budgets are forwarded to the ASOSU Senate.

According to the Student Fees guidelines, the ASOSU Senate may accept or reject each major budget. Because this is the last formal public hearing in which the OSU community may participate to effect change in the budgets, the politicking and debate usually becomes quite extensive. For those groups which are unsatisfied with the treatment their budgets have received thus far, this meeting is their last chance to attempt a change.

In the event ASOSU rejects a major budget, it will be sent back to the Student Fees Committee with the Senate's specific objections. An ASOSU

Executive Committee will then meet in a joint session with the Student Fees Committee to develop a compromise agreement.

Such a system insures that all parties concerned are given an adequate hearing period and provides the protection that students have a majority voice in deciding just where their fee money goes. Following this final appellate procedure, the now-final fees budget goes to the University President.

Any questions concerning this procedure should be directed to the Student Government offices, in the Memorial Union Activities Center (754-2101).

Student - Faculty Committees

Students at this University have a great opportunity to initiate change at many levels of the campus administration. By serving on University Student - Faculty committees, a student has the opportunity to help the University help the student. University student - faculty committees are responsible for formulating policies in various areas of campus administration, and serve as the official means by which students and faculty participate in the governance of the University.

Some brief examples:

Anti-Discrimination—hears and adjudicates complaints on discrimination, whether it be by origin, religion, race or sex.

Campus Planning—advises on campus development.

Curriculum—recommends introduction of new educational programs and recommends major curricular changes.

Intercollegiate Athletics—formulates athletic policies and procedures.

Student Traffic Court—Student traffic violations city by the campus Security may be appealed to this court.

University Discipline—is the original jurisdictional body for disciplinary cases.

There are many more committees of interest explained in short summary form in the Oregon State University Student Handbook. Any student that is a full time student, not on probation, may serve on any student - faculty committee. Applications may be found in the Student Activities Center, to be filled midway through Spring term. Also, questions concerning specific student - faculty committees may be answered at the Student Government offices in the Activities Center.

The following is a list of student - faculty committees. Check in the Barometer, the student newspaper, for notices of committee openings throughout the year.

FEMINIST MOVEMENT

The Feminist Movement at OSU is largely based in several consciousness raising groups which have begun from the experimental college and continued on their own. Women have grouped together to work on special interest projects such as job discrimination and non-sexist child raising. A woman's speakers bureau has also been formed. This bureau is set up to go to local schools and have speakers attend classes to talk about the women's movement. There has also been a group of faculty women meeting regularly. They have been active in helping to establish classes for and about women through the liberal studies program.

FOREIGN STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

At Oregon State University, the large number of foreign students from all parts of the world have become an integral part of the campus life. This provides an excellent opportunity to obtain a great educational experience for both American and foreign students by getting acquainted with other nations' way of life.

The Foreign Students Association at the University has been formed for the purpose of providing the foreign students with an opportunity to come together and bring the student body and the University community their voice and opinion. The Foreign Students Association also promotes better understanding between foreign students and the University community.

At the present time there are nearly 650 foreign students coming from 67 different countries to attend OSU; all of these students are members of F.S.A. Through various activities such as international events, national festivals, cultural exchanges and other programs, this association helps to promote a closer relationship between American and foreign students. Additional information may be found by calling 754-3006.

Student Associations

CHICANO STUDENT UNION

The Chicano Student Union was formed to encourage Chicano student enrollment and to provide and promote Chicano culture, including ethnic values, Chicano unity, and general welfare of Chicano students on the University campus and members of the community.

The following activities, sponsored throughout the school year, to work toward promotion of the Chicano culture: Sponsoring the Mexican dinners to raise funds for the annual "La Fiesta del Cinco de Mayo" celebration during the first week of May; "La Fiesta del Cinco de Mayo", is an annual event to sensitize the Chicano community and the white majority societies to which the extent of racial persecution has existed in the U.S.A. for more than a century.

BLACK STUDENT UNION

The objectives of the Black Student Union, is to reflect a desire on the part of its members to develop black consciousness. At the same time, the BSU will seek to be instrumental in making the educational experiences of black students at OSU more relevant to their needs.

NATIVE AMERICAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION

The purpose of the Native American Student Association is to further Indian education. To this end, the Association works to develop programs which will preserve Indian culture and Indian identity. Such efforts will help make this university experience more meaningful and will provide services to Indian students while they attend Oregon State University.

ASOSU Services

ASOSU CITY AFFAIRS

The City Affairs office is composed of concerned and responsible students who have represented and served the student body in several capacities. It is totally unique to Oregon State University and to Corvallis, in that no other organization of its kind exists in the United States.

Students in related fields of expertise represent ASOSU on the City Council Standing Committees and other administrative boards and commissions throughout the City, such as the City Parks and Recreation Board and the Planning Commission. Representatives from the campus media (Barometer and KBVR-FM) have functioned as consultants to direct and advise City Affairs in matters regarding communication.

The primary function of City Affairs is to serve as a communications link between the city and county governments and the student body of OSU, as well as with the business community. While serving in this capacity, City Affairs has engaged in levying constructive criticism and creating public policy, has served as an information collection and dissemination source, and has generally promoted the interests and well-being of students as citizens of Corvallis.

City Affairs invites you to accept the challenge and participate. For information, students may call the Student Government offices in the MU Activities Center, 754-2101.

-Student Fees Allocation: $200.

Bob Kingzett
ASOSU City Affairs

ASOSU PUBLIC AFFAIRS

The ASOSU Public Affairs office serves the dual function of Public Relations and Public Affairs.

The first function of this office is to promote greater student interest in ASOSU by informing the OSU student about ASOSU. This will be attempted to be done by the publication of the brochure "Inside ASOSU" and the ASOSU Student Government newspaper. The brochure will attempt to explain the role of Student Government and its' activities. The newspaper will be printed one or two times per term and will explain what Student Government has done during the term.

The second function of Public Affairs is to sponsor and promote speakers, forums, panels and information that is of interest to the OSU students.

The Public Affairs office is located in the Student Government offices in the MU Activities Center on the upper level.

student fee allocation: $2,500.

Jenni Shanks
ASOSU Public Affairs

ASOSU ACADEMIC AFFAIRS

The Academic Affairs office studies and evaluates Academic policies, regulations, curriculum and programs in an effort to measure the University's effectiveness in responding to educational needs. Academic Affairs initiates academic proposals and student programs, as well, as attempting to improve the educational climate at OSU from the student's perspective.

The primary objective to the office is to provide a student channel to coordinate student involvement in the initiation of educational change within OSU.

Academic Affairs also has among its duties the reporting of academic information to the ASOSU Senate and the administering of the National Student Exchange.

The Academic Affairs office has its office in the MU Activities Center on the lower level.

Student Fee Allocation: $250.

STATE AFFAIRS

Every odd-numbered year, the Oregon Legislature meets in Salem to decide which laws to retain, abolish, or amend, so to bring them up to date. During this six-month session, it is fair to assume that something within the State System of Higher Education will be affected, if not altogether changed. In past sessions, Oregon State University has had its opinions expressed through an administrator who adopts the role of a legislative advocate. Now, for the first time, the students (the very reason the University exists) are having their views put forth by their own peers: ASOSU State Affairs.

This office is made up of 5-10 students, whose job it is to speak on the issues of student concern to the legislators. The primary job that State Affairs faces is in pouring over all the bills that are introduced daily and deciding which ones will affect the student population to the largest extent. Once this is done, then it is a matter of researching the bill. This includes not only compiling information about the bill, but conducting surveys to find out how students feel about a particular issue. This is an important aspect, since the surveys are the chief means by which State Affairs finds out student opinion. The follow-up of all this is speaking to the individual legislators and testifying at committee hearings.

The State Affairs Office will also be working very closely with the established interim committees, of the Legislature, particularly those committees which deal with higher education in the State of Oregon.

If you have a personal interest in ASOSU State Affairs, or would just like some more information, contact the State Affairs office in the Student Government Offices in the MU Activities Center, 754-2101.

ECO-ALLIANCE

Eco-Alliance is an OSU recognized student organization with its primary concern being the promotion of environmental awareness and the new environmental ethic. Originally, Eco-Alliance was formed out of an honors colloquium on the environment in the Fall of 1969. Eco-Alliance produced a week-long program for Earth Week during April of 1970, featuring nationally and internationally prominent speakers on environment, pollution, population and other related subjects. An environmental art show and movie festival were other attractions.

Since that time Eco-Alliance has organized on a task-force basis. In this basis any student can come to Eco-Alliance with some project or particular area of environmental concern in mind, and put his or her interests to work in either an existing task force or create a new one tailored to the student's own design. In the past, in addition to Earth Week 1970, Eco-Alliance activities have included setting up an environmental speakers bureau, an abortion referral service, movie program, debates and forums, general dissemination of environmental awareness information and a recycling project.

The recycling project is the largest single project currently in progress. It is dedicated to the promotion of an anti-waste ethic through re-use and recycling. This section of Eco-Alliance functions not only at the University level, but in the greater Corvallis community, Mid-Willamette Valley region and at the State level as well.

Eco-Alliance Recycling is a well-known and established segment of the local area providing a community recycling service for two years. Its reputation for expertise in this field is wide-spread. Eco-Alliance members serve on a Regional Solid Waste Model Plan Committee that is drawing up plans for the future handling of solid waste in the Mid-Willamette Valley. The Eco-Alliance Recycling Project is one of the most developed in the State and has assisted other projects throughout the state and answered letters requesting advice from recycling groups in such places as Hawaii, California and Washington.

Eco-Alliance is open to all, young and old, student and non-students, to develop and express their ideas and concern for protecting and improving our environment. Additional information is available by contacting Eco-Alliance at the Student Activities Center in the MU, phone 754-2101.

MINORITIES COUNCIL

The Minorities Council was established at OSU in the Spring of 1972. The need to establish an effective means of communication among the minorities and between ASOSU was recognized, and this need is being partially met with the Council's establishment.

The Council has six specific purposes: 1) serve as a student-Student Government link for minorities; 2) help provide minority tutoring; 3) establish a system of student-to-student counseling; 4) work with the University in recruitment programs; 5) help develop minority oriented programs and 6) to provide for minority social involvement. Under the council's auspices a concert will be held at OSU to raise additional funds for further council involvement in OSU. The council members, including two Blacks, two Chicanos and two American Indians are involved in promoting minority concerns at OSU. Efforts by the council are also being made to satisfy these Minority cultural center facilities are being sought and an extensive student-to-student recruitment program in Oregon and Washington is being proposed, both operations being an integral part of the ASOSU-Minority Council efforts to assist minorities on campus.

Such coordinated efforts have proven their worth, as well. A $3,900 scholarship program, with $1,300 accruing to each minority group, was initiated by ASOSU last year at the cooperative urgings of OSU's minority groups. This singular effort has provided the impetus for those purposes and projects of the council outlined above.

The Minority Council Office is located in the Upper Activities Center.

Student Fee Allocation: $1,400

Y-ROUND TABLE

The Y-Round Table is a campus YM-YWCA, as well as being a recognized student organization at OSU. The purpose is to increase social awareness through volunteer projects. Many projects have been in conjunction with the Experimental College such as the "court watching" project, involves volunteers observing local municipal court proceedings, to see how justice is administered in Corvallis, and the cultural awareness class which is designed for Education majors. Other activities include fund raising projects such as selling UNICEF cards.

The office is staffed by one full-time professional and one part-time person as well as having work study people, Neighborhood Youth Corps, plus volunteer help.

One of the new programs is a limited Day Care Center, funded by student fees (3,200) which operates nine hours each week. The center has four professional staff workers as well as volunteer help for approximately thirty children each term. The center has children enrolled from ages nine months to five years. The children are divided into two groups and there is a program developed for each group.

Another of our programs is the Abortion and VD information phone. The phone information referral provides medically accurate information and where and how a person can get treatment for VD, and information about abortions.

Some of our other programs include Big Brother-Big Sister, College Friend, day care volunteers, Physically Handicapped and Mentally Retarded Swimming, adult Mentally Retarded tutors, tutors for junior and senior high students, and a Senior Citizens Program.

People who would like more information about these programs can contact the Y-Round Table in the lower Activities Center or call 754-3041.

Student Fee Allocation: $1,200

IUS

The Interinstitutional Union of Students (IUS) is organized to represent students from the State system at the various meetings of the Oregon State Board of Higher Education. Their primary responsibility is to monitor all student related issues which the Board considers and obtain the necessary input from the student governments of the respective institutions.

The following schools belong to IUS: Oregon State University, University of Oregon, Portland State University, Oregon College of Education, Oregon Technical Institute, Southern Oregon College and Eastern Oregon State College.

The purpose of IUS is to provide a channel for the exchange of plans, development, failures and successes of the student government programs within the State system. IUS is also available to coordinate joint efforts between the institutions particularly as they relate to the Oregon State Board of Higher Education.

For further information, contact the Student Government offices in the MU Activities Center (754-2101).

student Fee Allocation: $600.

ASOSU LEGAL COUNSELING

The ASOSU Legal Counseling Service is available to Oregon State University students who are currently enrolled at the University for advice on his or her legal problem. The legal counselors and secretary are employed out of ASOSU funds and there is no fee to the student utilizing the service. Information related to the counselors is privileged and is kept confidential.

The purpose of the Legal Counseling Service is two-fold: counseling and referral. The legal counselors counsel the student of his or her legal rights or duties or what he or she should do or not do in a particular situation. They do not represent the student in court or in administrative proceedings or prepare legal documents. In addition, the legal counselors assist the student in referral to a specialist, where necessary, to a private attorney, to an appropriate regulatory or other governmental agency, or to an appropriate University body in order to pursue a University-oriented grievance.

The student must confer with the counselors in person. Although a student may "drop in" to see if a counselor is available, appointments are encouraged in order to avoid waiting. Appointments may be made by dialing 754-1165 or 754-2101, or come in personally at the Legal Counseling office located at the base of steps near the west entrance to the bookstore and across from the Student Activities desk in the Memorial Union.

Student Fee Allocation: $19,790.

MILITARY INFORMATION

ASOSU established the Military Information Center (formerly known as the Draft Information Center) in 1971 to provide answers to student questions concerning the Military. The Center provides free counseling and free literature on deferments, conscientious objection, military obligation and laws regarding the draft. The Center is operated by students knowledgeable about the selective service system and are sympathetic to draft-age problems.

The Center is provided as a free student service. Although there are currently fewer questions about the military, now that the draft is over, the Center has shifted its primary function to meet this new student need. The Center now provides information concerning military and veteran counseling and distributes Student Fee Allocation: $200.

OSPIRG

The Oregon Student Public Interest Research Group, OSPIRG, is a state-wide organization of college students interested in investigating consumer and environmental problems. Using student funds, OSPIRG hires a professional staff to work with and guide students on research in these areas. It's a new answer to an old problem: students are deeply concerned about societal problems, yet often do not have the time (being full-time students) or the expertise to effectively deal with these problems. OSPIRG offers a way around this difficulty.

The State Board, made up of student representatives from each campus, hires the staff and establishes the policy and direction of the corporation. The staff, extensively, helps students with research, organizing, and coordinating projects approved by the State Board.

At Oregon State University, students have participated in a wide variety or projects. Investigations of dangerous toys, research into Oregon's predator control program, a study of Oregon's policies governing recreation, a survey of student attitudes toward off-campus housing, and an investigation of the construction qualities of one of OSU's dorms, are examples of some of the projects. OSPIRG maintains a list of over 60 projects students may work on through classes or as individuals. New ideas are OSPIRG has proven to be extremely successful. For every professional staff person hired, there is a number of students willing to lend their time and energy for creating and carrying out projects of concern to students and the Oregon public. The educational value and effectiveness of OSPIRG will grow exponentially in relation to the number of students and professional staff involved.

The OSPIRG office is located in the Lower Activity Center, telephone 754-3600 or 754-2101.

Student Fee Allocation: $30,000.

NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE

Students who are interested in international programs should contact the International Programs Office at the University of Michigan.

The International Programs Office is located in the East Hall, Room 1000, and is open during the regular business hours of the University.

For more information on international programs, please contact the International Programs Office at the University of Michigan.

Educational Programs

NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE

The National student Exchange (NSE) was first initiated in the Fall of 1972 at Oregon State University. Study of and application to the NSE had begun in 1971. Currently, NSE is an association of 23 United States universities and colleges located throughout the country. The purpose of NSE is to provide an Intra-American Exchange avenue for students, while circumventing out-of-state tuition costs. Schools within the NSE exchange students on a one-to-one basis, causing transportation to be the only additional cost incurred by the student during an exchange.

The NSE program is co-ordinated by the Dean of Undergraduate Studies Office and ASOSU Academic Affairs. The program office is located in the ASOSU First Vic-President's office in the MU Activities Center.

EXPERIMENTAL COLLEGE

The Experimental College was established at OSU in 1970 to expand the educational environment. The idea for this type of educational experiment was generated by the 1968-69 ASOSU Senate with the hope of providing a more personal and involved learning experience. The college stresses the active participation of the entire University community, including students, faculty, administrators, and Corvallis residents. All participants perform an instructional function by contributing their individual thoughts and opinions.

Four main goals have been outlined to indicate the general aims of the Experimental College. The first goal is to create a situation in which members of the University community have the opportunity to initiate instruction in areas of their particular interest which may currently not be available to them.

The second goal is to offer classes through the Experimental College which will differ significantly from regular University classes in that they will utilize various experimental educational methods. Other classes, particularly the workshops, will be designed to develop individual talents and interests.

The third goal is to provide a testing field for possible additions to the regular course offerings in the University curriculum. In this aspect, the Experimental College has the potential to serve as a mechanism through which the University curriculum may be reviewed and revised.

The fourth goal, and perhaps the most important, is to dedicate the Experimental College to providing an opportunity for the entire University community to come together, i.e., to facilitate personal interaction among students, faculty members, administrators, and Corvallis residents with the hope that a high degree of communication be established.

Yet, the Experimental College is unique at OSU in a number of other ways. The College is totally administered by students and offers in excess of 80 courses per term. Offerings range from craft skills to esoteric involvement. All classes are non-credit, no grade programs, and only a cost for materials is charged for participating.

Student Fee Allocation: $14,000

CONVOCATIONS AND LECTURES

Convocations and Lectures is a University committee which selects speakers and makes arrangements for the all-campus programs. Convocation speakers are of national or international reputation which appeal to the entire campus community, and appear in Gill Coliseum. Some the speakers the University has had the opportunity of presenting include Dick Gregory, Bernadette Devlin, and Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. University Lectures are those with a more specialized appeal and are presented in the Home Economics auditorium.

The committee works with an annual budget of $9,800, $5,300 of which comes as a special grant from the University President's office and $4,500 which comes from Student Fees. Members in the committee consists of eight voting faculty, six voting students and the manager of Public Affairs as ex-officio and non-voting.

Further questions may be answered by calling Student Publications and Public Events, 754-3374.

Student Fee Allocation: $4,500.

MODEL UNITED NATIONS

Model United Nations is a cocurricular activity sponsored and financed by ASOSU, the Political Science and Speech Departments. Academic credit may be earned by participation in various conferences. The main objective of M.U.N. is to create a better understanding of the problems that occur in the world and allows the student an opportunity to initiate solutions.

M.U.N. is an activity class facilitated by students in which each student acts as a representative for one of the various nations which are members of the real United Nations. As representatives, the students research the actual policies of the country they represent, and present these views in model sessions of the various U.N. committees.

The University M.U.N. attends two conferences during the school year at Lewis Clark College, in which vital issues are discussed before a model committee of the Security Council. OSU also attends a Regional Conference with approximately 25 other universities in the Northwest, in which all aspects of the actual U.N. are simulated.

An annual conference is attended by the OSU M.U.N. chapter, which lasts four days and occurs during Spring term. Approximately 100 universities and 1,200 students from the Far Western states join together to conduct a model session of the United Nations. This year OSU M.U.N. will host the Far West Conference. During all the conferences the M.U.N. chapter attends, the objectives are to meet other students from other universities, to get a better understanding of the serious problems confronting the world today, and join together in trying to create solutions for a better tomorrow.

For further information call 754-3144 or stop by Social Science Hall 304.

Student Fee Allocation: $2,634.

INDEPENDENT STUDY PROGRAM

For students who are interested in a particular subject, but find it is not offered at OSU, independent study may be the area they are looking for.

Independent study may entail studying environmental problems and ethics; conducting scientific research with a sponsoring faculty member in any one of a number of fields such as psychology or science; studying Greek folkdance, music and art; living on the ocean; or woodcraft, etc. It is whatever the student wants to make it. Anyone willing to learn something new can do independent study.

The Independent Study Steering Committee may be able to help the student find a faculty member who shares his interests and will aid him to get academic credit for his work. The Committee can also direct the individual to financial support which could cover project costs. If we can help you, come and see Dr. Dale Simmons in the Psychology Department for more information.

Student Fee Allocation; $400.

FORENSICS PROGRAM

The OSU Forensics program, sponsored by the Department of Speech Communication and ASOSU, offers opportunities for participation in the following activities:

1. Tournament competition. Emphasis is this aspect of the program is placed on the development of research, thinking, and speaking skills. Speakers interested in competition may participate in debate and a variety of individual events.

The OSU Forensics Squad travels to tournaments in the Northwest, California, and the Rocky Mountain States. Previous experience, while desirable, is not required for participation in these activities.

2. Inter-university competition. Each year OSU students compete with students from the University of Oregon in the 'Hugo Black Memorial Debate. This event is designed to honor the memory of Justice Black, one of the foremost defenders of civil liberties ever to serve on the Supreme Court. The debate is conducted at OSU every other year. Distinguished Oregonians serve as judges for this event. Participation is open to all OSU students.

3. Campus and community speaking. This program consists of presentations to campus, club, and high school audiences. Emphasis is placed on the ability to develop and articulate a position on a general topic of current interest. These programs include a question-answer session which allows participating students to improve their ability to defend their positions and to gain an understanding of attitudes which exist in non-competitive speaking situations.

Academic credit for participation in forensic activities is available through the Department of Speech Communication. Participation is open to all regularly enrolled students. For further information contact the Department of Speech Communication, Shepard Hall, 754-2461.

Student Fee Allocation: $3,250.

DRAMA

The OSU Drama Department, a part of the University's Speech Department, allows students to pursue their interests in the theatre, while earning Speech credit.

Each season, the Drama Department presents seven major plays and groups of one-act plays in Mitchell Playhouse.

The University Theatre has presented such plays in the past as "Celebration", "Lion in Winter," and Thornton Wilders' play "Our Town." The OSU summer Stock is nationally known, and during the 1973 summer season, actors and Directors from throughout the nation presented such plays as "Harvey," "Royal Gambit," and the musical "You're a Good Man Charley Brown."

The plays are presented Wednesday thru Saturday evenings in Mitchell Playhouse, with curtain time at 8:00 p.m. For further information contact the Mitchell Playhouse Box Office (754-2784).

Student Fee Allocation: $4,000.

KBVR-TV

KBVR-TV offers on-the-job experience to any student interested in broadcasting and related areas.

KBVR-TV is a student managed and staffed television station operating from the second floor of Shepard Hall. Its programs are created, produced, directed, and staffed by students.

The shows students produce are seen by a combined campus and community audience, over cable Channel 11, four nights a week, with sports broadcasts on weekends. Programming is designed to please both audiences.

KBVR-TV is receptive and open to all suggestions and comments concerning programs either on the air or not on the air.

For additional information, please call 754-2008.

Student Fee Allocation; $6,000.

KBVR-FM

Oregon State University's radio station, KBVR-FM, offers experience to those interested in broadcasting and affiliated areas. The two main purposes of the station are to offer on-the-job training and present to the campus and surrounding community a public service of music, sports and news reports, and various other public service programs. KBVR encourages all suggestions students may have to improve the station's programming.

KBVR-FM is an educational station, authorized by the Federal Communications Commission, and is not allowed to advertise or in any other way gain funds for subsistence. As a non-profit making student organization, it is essential for student funding to maintain and purchase all equipment.

If you have any questions or are interested in the program please contact Shepard Hall, 754-3522.

Student Fee Allocation: $4,700.

EDUCATIONAL AIDS

ASOSU, through the Educational Activities Committee, and Student Incidental Fees, supplies the monetary backing for Oregon State's student tutorial program.

The program, run during the nine month academic year and coordinated by the Dean of Students Office is an invaluable service to students of all disciplines at OSU. Tutoring programs are generally held during the evenings and are operated by paid graduate students.

Additional information may be acquired by calling 754-2131.

Student Fee Allocation: $3,500.

BAROMETER

The Barometer is a student run newspaper published Monday through Friday by the Associated Students of Oregon State University.

It operates on an annual budget of approximately $110,000, of which $26,800 comes from student subscriptions. The subscriptions are assessed through incidental fees.

The Barometer's major objective is to publish a newspaper that gives the most thorough coverage possible within the limits of its budget. The paper's coverage is primarily the University, with added coverage given to local and state events that the editors feel are of interest to students. The Barometer also gives daily capsulized coverage of national and international events through the services of United Press International.

All students are welcome to work for the Barometer, regardless of journalistic background. Interested persons are encouraged to go to the Barometer offices in MU 204 or call 754-2231.

Student Fee Allocation: $26,800

BEAVER

The BEAVER is not just another book...it is your book.

Put together by some of your friends, it will help you remember OSU the concerts, people, sports, politics and just a whole lot of things that are typical of OSU.

You can buy the BEAVER at registration or in the BEAVER office. The book is distributed Spring Term.

Cash grants and up to 12 hours of journalism credit can be arranged for working on the BEAVER. Staff interviews are held spring term.

If you are interested in your book, either to work or just see how it is put together, stop by the office - Ag. Hall 228, or call 754-3501.

PRISM

The OSU PRISM is a student operated, student funded publication which seeks to promote the fine arts and all types of creative thought on the OSU campus. PRISM publishes student poetry, fiction, non-fiction articles, artwork, and photography once each term during the regular school year. The magazine offers a chance for all students, staff and faculty to have an outlet for their creative work, and also the chance to gain practical experience in publishing procedure through work on its editorial and business staffs.

PRISM is a University wide publication funded by ASOSU as an educational activity. Participation is this activity is not restricted to students of any specific department or school on campus.

The PRISM office is in Ag. Hall 409.

Student Fee Allocation: $2,075.

Cultural Programs

CORVALLIS - OSU MUSIC ASSOCIATION

The Corvallis - OSU Music Association probably represents the best bargain students get at the University. For an allocation of 75 cents per student per year from Incidental Fee money every OSU student is a member of the music association and is entitled to go to all the concerts presented each year. Faculty and townspeople pay $8 for season tickets in the spring or $10 there after.

Outstanding artists and groups are scheduled by the association. The attractions are selected by a talent selection committee, which includes four voting students. World famous soloists such as the London Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, Stockholm University Choir and Ukrainian Dancers have performed for the association.

Additional information on the program may be obtained by calling 754-3374.

Student Fee Allocation: $11,500.

SMALL CONCERT COMMITTEE

The Encore Small Concert Committee is a committee comprising of Encore Committee members and MU Program Council members, that sponsors just small concerts. Their goal is to bring a variety of music for the enjoyment of the student body.

By keeping the concerts small, they may provide a variety of musical offerings at a low price to the student, in surroundings that eliminate mass audience pressures.

ENCORE COMMITTEE

The Encore Committee, a standing ASOSU committee, was formed to put on all contemporary music concerts on campus. The committee tries to sponsor two to three concerts per term in Gill Coliseum for crowds numbering 6,000 to 10,000.

Concerts in the past have offered Rare Earth, Stephen Stills and Manassas, Jesus Christ Superstar, America, Fifth Dimension, John Denver and many more.

OSU-CORVALLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

This group represents one of the major musical organizations of the University. Comprised, generally, of 85 to 90 players, it is open to all qualified instrumentalists and has in its ranks each year a large number of students from many different departments. In order to accommodate as many interested participants as possible, rehearsals are generally held only one evening per week so as to avoid conflict with regular class activities. Regular concerts of the "heavy" classics are presented in the Memorial Union, as well as in other places both on and off campus.

Student Fee Allocation: $2,500.

CHAMBER MUSIC a la CARTE

This is an exclusive group at Oregon State University among the major universities. It is the highly popular series of regular Thursday noon informal concerts, now in its third year in the Memorial Union Lounge.

Intended primarily for the student who would not normally be inclined to attend serious music programs, the series is supported jointly by the University Music Department, the Memorial Union Program Council, ASOSU, and the OSU Foundation.

Concerts have included a Bamboo Flute player from Bombay, India; a renaissance music group several harpsichord concerts and a Bach Festival.

Student Fee Allocation: $1,250.

OSU BANDS

The Oregon State University bands consist of several performing organizations and numerous smaller ensembles in which some 200 students participate. All undergraduate and graduate students enrolled in the university are eligible for membership and may receive credit in the humanities towards graduation.

The Marching Band, one hundred fifty strong, has received many favorable comments from throughout the country for its performances on national television.

The Symphonic Band of approximately eighty-five consists of the most skilled and advanced players on campus. Repertoire ranges from Sousa marches and the classics to works by such renowned composers as Schuman, Mennin, Persichetti, and Nelhybel.

The Wind Ensemble is composed of the top chair players in the Symphonic Band and performs the most serious and challenging literature for appropriate occasions.

The Varsity Band is open to all students on campus with no audition required. It also serves as a training unit for the Symphonic Band.

The Pep Band is open to male member of the Symphonic and Varsity bands. Its purpose is to furnish music and entertainment for rallies and basketball games.

The Stage Band is open to all students on campus who qualify.

Student Fee Allocation: $2,900

FRIENDS OF CHAMBER MUSIC

The Friends of Chamber Music Committee of the College of Liberal Arts brings each year four or more outstanding chamber music concerts to the OSU campus community. Leading chamber ensembles from around the world thus bring the very best of the musical literature to Corvallis. Admission is by season ticket, or by presentation of the ASOSU Student Body Card.

Student Fee Allocation: $550

MADRIGAL SINGERS

The singers devote themselves to making every effort to capture the mood, style and music of the 14th through 16th centuries. Music is sung in four, five and six parts, not only in English but German, French and Italian as well. Three local concerts are sung a year plus numerous engagements for banquets and other informal gatherings.

Student Fee Allocation: $500.

CHORALAIRES

The Choralaires (concert choir), the University chorus and the Women's Chorus are open to all students in the University, subject to audition.

The choruses combine to present some concerts, notably the one during the Christmas season, and each appears frequently during the year, in its own right.

The Choralaires give several out of town concerts annually. In the summer of 1973 they toured Europe.

Interested students should contact R.B. Walls, Benton Hall 304D.

Student Fee Allocation: $2,700.

Recreational Programs

INTRAMURAL ACTIVITIES

The Office of Intramural-Extramural Sports and Recreational Activity, Division of Physical Education, provides the undergraduate with a variety of organized and spontaneous physical recreation. The student may select from over thirty individual (badminton, tennis, judo, handball, archery, etc.) or team (flag football, basketball, volleyball, softball, water-polo, soccer, swimming, etc.) sports supervised by the men's-women's intramural departments. Co-recreational volleyball, softball, swimming, badminton, and tennis stress the objectives of social contact and worthy use of leisure time.

Intramural handbooks and supplementary information relative to men's and women's intramurals, co-recreational activity, extramural sports for women and unstructured recreation may be obtained from 125 Men's Gymnasium, 754-1083 or 120 Women's Building, 754-3015.
Student Fee Allocation: $21,400.

(for scheduling information contact the Department of Intramural Sports,

McALEXANDER FIELDHOUSE

The fieldhouse (former Armory) is located adjacent to the Administrative Services Building. The old Armory was converted into a recreation center by the combined efforts of Incidental Fee monies and matching Athletic Department funds. Inclusive in the fieldhouse are: four basketball courts and-or tennis courts, volleyball courts, badminton courts, and weight machine station. There are no facilities for showers or dressing rooms. Students should bring everything they need, including equipment. However, some equipment is available and can be checked out by showing a student I.D. card.

It is open seven days a week from 8:00 am-12:00 midnight. Student use is determined on a first come, first serve basis; there are no reservations or holding courts. During peak times, students are limited to one hour playing time.

Administrative responsibility and facility management of the fieldhouse has been assigned to the Memorial Union Student Activities. Policies for student use of the facility have been and are currently being developed by the Recreational Sports Committee is a University Student-Faculty committee (five students and five faculty).

Further information can be provided by phoning 754-2626 or 754-2101.
Student Fee Allocation: $13,435.-

UNIVERSITY HANDBALL COURTS

Two handball courts are available for student and faculty use. They are located underneath the southwest side of Parker Stadium. Any student or faculty member can use the facility by placing their name on the sign-up sheets available at the Activities Center. There is a dressing area available. However, any equipment needed must be furnished by the participants.

The facility is administered by the Memorial Union Student Activities. Policies for student use of the facility are administered by the Recreational Sports Committee. Both courts are open seven days a week from 8:00 am - 12 midnight.

Call the student Activities Center (754-2101) for any further information.
Student Fee Allocation $2,455.

PHYSICAL RECREATION BUILDING

The design of the new Physical Recreation Building was determined by a University-wide student-faculty task force, appointed by the President of OSU, during the 1971-72 school year. The Recreation Task Force, after an extensive survey of student recreational needs and existing University facilities, outlined the specific recreational need areas, the new building would accommodate.

The construction of the Physical Recreation Building is to be financed from the Student Building Fee Fund. The departments of the Memorial Union and Educational Activities will administer the facility. Operational and program costs are to be provided through Student Fees. The University Board of Physical Recreation

The Physical Recreation Building has been designed so that it can be made available for student leisure use for extended periods of time at minimal financial cost. Student casual use, intramural activities and recreational sports clubs are to receive top priority for use of the building's facilities. However, it is anticipated that at appropriate times physical education classes and faculty-staff use of the facilities will also be accommodated, since some of the staffing and program support for intramurals is provided by that department.

The new Physical Recreation Building will be located facing west onto 26th Street south of the Men's Gym. Construction is scheduled to begin at the end of Spring Term, 1973, with an anticipated completion date during Fall Term 1974.

A variety of co-education, men's and women's recreational opportunities, will be provided in the new building. This recreation center has been designed so that most of the recreation areas within the building are visible from the main entry floor level. Also, a central building communications-control area will be on the entry level for quick building use and recreation activity information.

The recreation facilities to be included in the building are: a large gym area containing basketball, volleyball, badminton and archery facilities; handball and squash courts; slim-nastic, combative sports and weight training rooms; plus an activities room for table tennis and fencing. Also, included are men's and women's sauna, with appropriate shower facilities.

RECREATIONAL SPORTS PROGRAM

The Recreational Sports Program is comprised of 24 student "club sport" level. This student-initiated sports program has as its primary emphasis on participation, rather than winning.

Adviser-coaches are selected by the club members and serve without salary, the exception being the women's clubs, which also function, at times, as the Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Program.

The Recreational Sports Committee governs the program. The committee is a University-wide student-faculty committee. Its membership is comprised of six students and five faculty. Most of the program's teams compete in league competition in the Northwest.

At present the program includes the following women's men's and coeducational sports:

Women's Bowling
Women's Rowing
Women's Field Hockey
Men's Bowling
Women's Track and Field
Coed Rifle
Men's Rugby
Coed Ski
Men's Soccer
Coed Pistol
Women's Tennis
Women's Basketball
Women's Volleyball
Women's Gymnastics
Women's Softball
Coed Judo
Men's Volleyball
Coed Rodeo
Coed Fencing
Women's Swimming
Women's Pac-8 Tennis
Men's Lightweight Cre
Men's Waterpolo
Coed Table Tennis
Student Fee Allocation: $30,500.

OUTDOOR RECREATION

The Outdoor Recreation Center, formerly known as the Outdoor Program, was started three years ago in the form of an Experimental College course. The following year it was implemented into the Memorial Union Program Council. Presently, the structure is arranged so the Memorial Union Student Activities has administrative responsibility and the MU Program Council is concerned with the program of events.

The primary aid is to get everyone with an interest in the outdoors and ecology involved. Participation in any outdoor program activity is not limited to students, faculty, or staff of the University. Friends and residents of the community are encouraged to attend outdoor outings. Participants may use the program at their leisure, according to the own skill level, at the times they choose, and learn outdoor skills at their own skill level. Briefly, the Outdoor Program through recreation and education, seeks to help educate all on the critical necessity of conservation and preservation of our natural resources.

The program is housed in the quonset hut behind the Men's Gym and the Old Forestry Building. The basic purpose of this facility is to provide a central location where educational and recreational activities related to the outdoors may transpire. This is accomplished in five separate, but overlapping ways.

1. Trip coordination
 2. Equipment repair shop
 3. Equipment rental
 4. Lounge, library, maps and catalogues
 5. Educational Service
- Student Fee Allocation: $8,422.

BOARD OF RECREATIONAL PROGRAMS

Physical recreation programs and facilities at Oregon State University are coordinated by the Board of Physical Recreation. The Board of Physical Recreation is the University-wide committee which is responsible for:

1. The Student Fee funding of physical recreation programs and facilities.
2. Programs budget-formulating in conjunction with established Incidental Fee budgeting procedures.
3. Review of existing facilities, both buildings and playing fields, for modification and improvements on use.
4. Review of existing programs and activities which includes the intercollegiate athletic program for women.
5. Long-range planning for physical recreation programs facilities and appropriate funding.
6. Submit an annual report to the President of the University, Student Senate and Administrative units concerned with providing physical recreation services, i.e., Dean of Students, Director of Health and Physical Education, and Director of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The Board of Physical Recreation is composed of six student and four faculty members. The student members are appointed by the President of ASOSU, with the consent of the Senate.

The faculty members are composed of one each designated by the Dean of Students, Director of the Division of Health & Physical Education, Director of Intercollegiate Athletics and one appointed by the University President to represent the University faculty and staff.

The funding of Physical Recreation Programs is basically through Student Fees. The established University Incidental Fee funding procedures are used to determine the level of support each activity receives. For further information contact the Student Activities Center, 754-2101.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS FOR WOMEN

There are eleven active sports offered the women students on the campus of Oregon State University. Participants in each of these sports are involved on an intercollegiate level with teams from Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Canada. Each team is coached by a member of the Physical Education faculty and participants train during the term or season that coincides with the Northwest policies.

The Physical Education Department supplies facilities and some equipment for the programs, and the coaching time is provided by the women's physical education faculty. They receive one service class released time during the term of competition.

The future directions that may be implemented may follow one of the following patterns:

1. Establish a separate department for control of funds, facilities, equipment and procedures under the direction of the Physical Education Department.
2. Additional financial support under the existent structure.
3. Establish a Department of Varsity Athletics for Women with in the men's department.

Student Fee Allocation: $20,190.

Memorial Union

The Memorial Union Provides a facility and programs for use and enjoyment by all students and other members of the University community.

The Memorial Union Program Council is responsible for much of the University activities programming. Fifteen activities committees chairmen comprise the Program Council. Committees are Dance, Entertainment, Fine Arts, Forums, Games and Recreation, Hospitality, Movies, Outdoor Program, Performing Arts, Programming, Publications, Publicity, Public Relations, Special Events, and University events.

Ideas for MU programs are developed and implemented by students through the Program Council. The Council encourages student participation on committees and input from students regarding programs. The Board of Directors is the top governing body of the Union. Elected positions in the Union include a President, Vice president and Treasurer.

Student Fee Allocation: $322,944

Program Council: $22,700.
