U.S. NATIONAL TEAM

FORMER OSU ROWERS, HANSEN AND INMAN, GETTING IT DONE FOR NATIONAL TEAM

Oregon State has long been a powerhouse for men's rowing, providing 14 different athletes to the highest levels of rowing in the U.S. and over the past several years, a pair of former Beavers have represented America and the Oregon State rowing program particularly well.

OSU graduate Josh Inman ('03) earned 2005 USRowing Male Athlete of the Year after winning the 2005 World Rowing Championships with the U.S. National Team men's 8+. In addition, Inman's former teammate at OSU, Joey Hansen ('01) helped his boat to a gold medal at the 2004 Olympics in Athens.

On top of these impressive honors and accolades, Inman and Hansen have something else in common... neither had rowed prior to arriving at OSU.

Inman learned to row his first year at Oregon State after a successful cross country and track career at Hillsboro High School in Hillsboro, Ore. "I took the rowing class like a lot of freshman (at OSU)," he said. "By the time we got to our first racing season in the spring, I was hooked."

From the start, Inman showed remarkable talent, according to Matt Imes, Inman's freshman coach at OSU and current national team assistant. "The question was, did he have the drive to do what it takes to achieve his potential?" Imes said.

Inman put any doubts to rest in January 2004, when he began training with the U.S. National Team during the Olympic selection process.

"I think it opened up his eyes to the commitment and the sacrifice it takes to get there," Imes said. Inman didn't make an Olympic boat, but did win a seat in the coxed four that eventually won a bronze medal at the 2004 World Championships in Spain.

Inman says he takes his training one day at a time, but the 2008 Olympics in Beijing "has always been in the back of my mind."

Hansen has a similar story. He knew nothing about rowing prior to his freshman year at Oregon State, but at 6-foot-6 and 215 pounds, Hansen had the physical tools to succeed. What he needed was the technical expertise of the OSU coaches to begin to reach his potential.

"Our coaching staff really worked with me a lot on technique," Hansen said. "They just kept pushing me every single day. They'd say 'You've got to change this,' and finally, I changed some things ... and things started falling into place."

Mix the coaching with natural athletic ability and a relentless work ethic, and Hansen has proven that one can create success for oneself in rowing.

During the fall of his senior year, the Bakersfield, Calif., native recorded one of the fastest ergometer times in the country, even topping United States National Team rowers.

That feat only set the pace for the final stage of his career at Oregon State, as the three-time All-Pac-10 first-teamer led OSU to 10th place at nationals before graduating Oregon State. He then went on to become a three-time member of the U.S. National Team after earning one of eight seats in the country's most prestigious boat, the heavyweight eight, which took the gold medal at the 2004 Olympics in Greece.

"It's such an endurance sport," Hansen said. "It's a training sport. The more you train, the faster you are and the better you get. I've got an engineering degree from Oregon State, and that means a lot. The engineering school here is awesome."

Joey Hansen won Olympic gold in the United States' Heavyweight 8 in the 2004 Games

OREGON STATE HISTORY

In the fall of 1926, two rowing shells arrived in Corvallis by train with the California football team. They were a gift from the California Rowing Club and, at the time, they were stored in the basement of Fairbanks Hall. By 1929, the Oregon State Rowing Club (OSRC) was under way and won its first race against the University of Washington.

By 1935 the crew was traveling up and down the coast in search of competition. Crew was temporarily suspended during World War II, but received a tremendous boost in 1950 when the OSU business office purchased 160 acres of land on the east side of the Willamette River about a mile from campus. The new land would be developed into the Trysting Tree Golf Club and a waterfront facility that would become the home of Oregon State University rowing.

Throughout its history, rowing at Oregon State has been led by committed and visionary coaching. Ed Stevens, a former Harvard coach, took over the reins from Mechanical Engineering Professor J.P. Othis. Stevens guided the program from 1931 to 1949 and during this time the program gained recognition and respect as a highly competitive crew.

Karl Drlica took over from Coach Stevens and would lead the program for the next 30 years. One of Coach Drlica's first moves was to establish women as an integral part of the program when he started intramural competition in 1952. OSU was one of the first collegiate programs to support women's rowing.

The achievements of Coach Drlica and his crews were recognized in 1967 when the Board of Intercollegiate Athletics accepted the men's heavyweight crew as a varsity sport. Ten years later, Coach Drlica would orchestrate the elevation of women's and lightweight rowing to varsity status as well.

In 1983 the athletic department hired Dave Emigh to assist with the crew program and in 1985 he was named the head coach. Emigh spent 11 years at OSU and continued to develop the program with the same innovative styles of his predecessors.

Dave Reischman assumed the reigns at Oregon State in the fall of 1994. In his time at OSU he brought the Beavers into the national coaches polls and competed at the Intercollegiate Rowing Championships each of his nine years at OSU. Reischman led the Beavers to the best overall performance by an OSU crew in 2002 when his Varsity 8+ remained in the top 10 of the polls throughout the year and finished off the year by finishing 4th at the IRA National Championship.

In 2002 Kjell Oswald, the former freshman coach for Reischman, moved up to take over the head coach position. Oswald helped to continue OSU's recent national success with two top 10 finishes in 2003 and 2004. Fred Honebein, a 1996 US Olympian and 1994 World Champion, came to Corvallis from the University of Washington in the fall of 2004 to guide the program. Honebein led the Beavers to their third straight top 10 finish and their eighth top 10 finish in ten years.

Former OSU head coach, Steve Todd, succeeded Honebein following the 2006 IRA Championships following four seasons as the novice coach for the Beavers. Todd's first order of business after taking over the helm at Oregon State was an overseas trip to the Czech Republic. Under Todd's direction, OSU's Varsity 8+ and Varsity 4+ boats earned impressive victories over the Czech's best crews at the country's national championships.

Todd led the Beavers to IRA Championships berths in each of his first four seasons including a 10th place finish in 2007. After missing the IRA's two straight years, Todd directed the Beavers back to the postseason in 2013 and 2014.

After six years as the assistant coach at Oregon State, Gabe

Winkler was elevated to interim coach for the 2014-15 season and was officially appointed as the program's head coach in the summer of 2015. In his first seasons leading the Orange & Black, Winkler directed the Beavers to third place team finishes at Pac-12 Championships in 2015 and '17. In addition, Winkler's crews have qualified to IRA Championships in each of his four seasons at the helm with a 17th place finish for the Varsity 8 in 2016, the top finish of his tenure.
