OSU OLYMPIANS

In recent years, the Oregon State women's rowing program has sent several alums to various national teams around the world including Ame Hicks (Canada), Devery Karz (United States) and Chen Oshri (Israel).

Karz, who lettered for OSU 2009-11, became the second OSU women's rower to race at the Olympic Games. Karz helped qualify US women's lightweight double sculls (LW2x) last April. She went on to secure her seat in the LW2x qualifying to the Games in August. Her boat finished 10th overall in Rio de Janeiro.

Karz followed in the footsteps of Amy Martin (1994-96), who spent three years on the US National Team before racing in the US women's eight to a sixth place finish at the 2000 Sydney Games.

The duo, although separated by more than a decade share a common story. Neither had rowed prior to arriving at Oregon State.

Martin, a native of Sherman County, Ore., showed up in Corvallis possessing many of the physical qualities that coaches look for in a rower, but most importantly, she was motivated, tough and competitive.

For Karz, who hails from Park City, Utah, it is a similar story. She discovered rowing as a sophomore joining nearly 80 other women who had turned out for the first day of tryouts.

"Amy Martin and I were given a chance at something with the Oregon State women's rowing program," Karz said. "It was hard work and determination that got us to the Olympic level, but I may have never made it there if OSU rowing hadn't given me a place to start."

OREGON STATE HISTORY

In the fall of 1926, two rowing shells arrived in Corvallis by train with the California football team. They were a gift from the California Rowing Club and, at the time, they were stored in the basement of Fairbanks Hall. By 1929, the Oregon State Rowing Club (OSRC) was under way and won its first race against the University of Washington.

By 1935 the crew was traveling up and down the coast in search of competition. Crew was temporarily suspended during World War II, but received a tremendous boost in 1950 when the OSU business office purchased 160 acres of land on the east side of the Willamette River about a mile from campus. The new land would be developed into the Trysting Tree Golf Club and a waterfront facility that would become the home of Oregon State University rowing.

Throughout its history, rowing at Oregon State has been led by committed and visionary coaching. Ed Stevens, a former Harvard coach, took over the reins from Mechanical Engineering Professor J.P. Othis. Stevens guided the program from 1931 to 1949 and during this time the program gained recognition and respect as a highly competitive crew.

Karl Drlica took over from Coach Stevens and would lead the program for the next 30 years. One of Coach Drlica's first moves was to establish women as an integral part of the program when he started intramural competition in 1952. OSU was one of the first collegiate programs to support women's rowing.

The achievements of Coach Drlica and his crews were recognized in 1967 when the Board of Intercollegiate Athletics accepted the men's heavyweight crew as a varsity sport. Ten years later, Coach Drlica would orchestrate the elevation of women's and lightweight rowing to varsity status as well.

In 1983 the athletic department hired Dave Emigh to assist with the crew program and in 1985 he was named the head coach. Emigh spent 11 years at OSU and continued to develop the program with the same innovative styles of his predecessors.

In 1991 Charlie Owen joined the Oregon State rowing program as an assistant coach. In the fall of 1993 Owen was named the first official women's head coach at Oregon State making the men's and women's teams separate programs for the first time.

During Owen's 15 year coaching career with the women's crew, he consistently generated competitive crews in a conference that ranks among the best in the nation. He brought growth and stability to the program that reached the NCAA Championships three times under his tutelage.

Emily Ford took over the women's team leading the Beavers to back-to-back top 20 finishes at No. 16 and 17 respectively in 2007 and '08 while just missing out on NCAA Championship invitations.

In 2009, Ford led the Beavers to their first NCAA berth since 2000 where OSU's Varsity 8 finished 15th overall.

In the summer of 2017, Kate Maxim was named head coach leading the Beavers' V8 to a sixth place finish at Pac-12 Championships for the second straight season. The V8 was also named as the 'Breakout Boat' at the Clemson Invitational in 2018.
