China Notes Birthday

By JOHN RODERICK
 TOKYO (AP) — Communist China celebrated its 15th birthday today with the defiant cry that "revolution is the locomotive of history." It apparently did not choose to mark the occasion by touching off an atom bomb.

Peking's Mayor Peng Chen sounded the revolutionary keynote, reiterating the tough policy which Moscow deplors, before thousands of Chinese and foreign dignitaries massed in the Square of Celestial Peace in the Chinese capital.

Though there had been lively speculation that the Chinese might cap the day's festivities with an announcement that they had fired their first nuclear device, neither Peng nor President Liu Shao-chi even mentioned the word nuclear in anniversary addresses.

The subject also was avoided in lengthy anniversary editorials in the official Peking People's Daily and the theoretical party journal Red Flag.

Informal Rush

An informal Fall Rush Mass Meeting will be held Tuesday, October 6 at 12 noon in MU 212. Eligible girls must have a 2.5 high school grade point average, or a 2.3 college grade point.

Mancini Show, Parade Slated

What's a Hoosier? Oregon State University alumni will return to campus November 7 when the Indiana Hoosiers challenge the Beavers in the 1964 annual Homecoming football game.

"Hoosier's Fate at Oregon State," this year's Homecoming theme, suggests an ominous outcome for Indiana. The Hoosiers descend on Corvallis representing the first Big Ten University to play on the OSU Beavers home ground.

Plans are well under way for this year's Homecoming activities. Scheduled for the weekend are the noise parade, Rook bonfire, and the Menry Mancini concert on Friday night. Saturday's activities include the Indiana-OSU game, student talent show, and the Homecoming dance.

The house signs for this year's Homecoming will follow the theme, "Who's Your Hoosier?" Awards include four first-place trophies and two sweepstakes prizes.

Talent is still needed for a well-rounded student talent show Saturday night. And talent — from yodelers to bagpipe players — is encouraged. Applicants may sign up at the Student Activities Center in the MU Ballroom. Tryouts will be held November 14 at 7:30 in the MU Ballroom. Here's the chance to begin a career!

Coeds interested in trying their wings as a queen are urged to consider applying for an interview with the Homecoming committee.

Applications should be turned into the Activity Center as soon as possible. Interviews with the candidates will be held soon, and a list of quarter-finalists will be announced thereafter. Candidates are judged on personality, poise, and appearance.

The Queen's Tour of Portland, prior to Homecoming Week-end, includes a parade in downtown Portland, a meeting with the Mayor, and lunch at Lloyd's Center.

Several television and radio appearances will highlight the trip, followed by a luncheon with the Beaver Huddle Group, a Portland area alum organization, at the Memorial Coliseum.

Special H&SS Voting Slated

Special election for Humanities and Social Science Senator will be held Oct. 23 in conjunction with Freshman Class Elections, announces Steve Hogan, Senate Service and Elections Chairman.

The vacancy occurred when Jim Thurber, recently elected Senator, transferred to Portland State College.

Applications for candidacy will be available in the Activity Center next Monday. Deadline for applicants will be Friday, Oct. 9.

If need arises for a primary it will be held Oct. 19. This also would be in conjunction with the freshman primary.

Further questions concerning H & SS Senator or Freshman Class elections should be directed to Hogan, PL 3-7373.

Hootenanny Practice

The Ties, John Wagner, Lois Hochenauer, and Veeder South, practice for the all-school Hootenanny this Sunday evening. The Hootenanny will be in the MU Ballroom from 7 to 10. It is being sponsored by the MU Music Committee.

Candidates Fair To Give Voters Election Preview

Candidates for congressional, state, county and city offices will speak here Tuesday, Oct. 6, at the Candidates' Fair in the Coliseum.

The Fair, sponsored by the League of Women Voters and other Corvallis organizations, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Prior to that, candidates will be in the Coliseum to meet visitors informally. The Corvallis High School band, directed by Harvey Brooks, will play before the program.

At 7:30, program moderator, George Stevens, Memorial Union director, will introduce the candidates, giving each two minutes to speak on any subject he wishes.

The audience will be able to submit written questions which will be screened by Dr. Jean Mater, Republican representative; Harry Allan, Democrat representative; and Mrs. T. J. McClellan, League of Women Voters representative.

The question-and-answer period will last approximately 20 minutes, with ten minutes given to city and county candidates and ten to state and Congressional candidates.

Following the program, the candidates will again be available for informal questions and comments.

Free punch and cotton candy will be served, lending to the "fair" atmosphere.

Nearly all the candidates have indicated that they will attend the fair, according to Mrs. Arthur Biggs, general chairman of the event.

Those candidates who have been invited to participate are: Blaine Whipple, Dem., Wendell Wyatt, Rep. for U.S. Representative; Alfred H. They will include: "My Name is Ivan," a Russian drama of World War II; "The Trial," a French-German Kafka drama; "Forbidden Fruit," a French-Fernand Comedy; "Ashes and Diamonds," a Polish Drama; "Rules of the Game," "Loss of Innocence," a British movie from the book, "Greengate Summer".

Washington (AP) — With teen-agers returning to school, employment and unemployment in September both declined seasonally and just about as expected, the Department of Labor said today.

The unemployment rate was 5.2 per cent, compared to 5.1 in August and 5.5 in September of last year.

The total employed was 70.8 million, a decline of 1.3 million from August and approximately 1.3 million more than in September of last year.

The total unemployed in September of this year 3.3 million, down 350,000 from August and the lowest September level since 1959, the department said.

Approximately 1.7 million teen-agers left their summer jobs to return to school in September, while there was an increase of almost 500,000 in the employment of adult women, primarily as teachers and employees in schools.

Daisy Mae Catch You

OSU men will have an opportunity to meet the new rookesses and dance two dances tonight at the AWS Nickel Hops. Dance-hopping will begin at 8 p.m. and continue until 10:30.

Each women's living organization will be decorated with a Dogpatch theme and will provide music for dancing. Dress will be grubby.

Tickets will be sold at the door of each living group for five cents. A man may purchase two dances with the girl of his choosing for the nickel ticket. Girls must take the tickets from the guys before honoring the dance.

Men may stay in one living group as long as they like (and as long as the nickels last!) before moving on to the next woman's cooperative, residence hall or sorority.

"Daisy Mae Catch You," the theme for the Nickel Hops this year, is sponsored by the Associated Women Students as the organization's major money-raising project.

Trophies will be awarded to the men's living organization spending the most money on Nickel Hop dance tickets (and dancing with the most girls!) for the women's living group below and above 30 members receiving the most ticket money, and for the group with the best dance decorations. Members of the faculty will judge the winners.

Money from the hops is used to provide three scholarships for deserving OSU coeds and to sponsor AWS cultural and social activities.

Chairman of the Nickel Hops is Karen Kaser '66.

Working under the general chairman is Kay Shearer, posters; Cindy Reed, publicity; Mary Olson, tickets; Sharon DeYoung, award judging, and Margi Summers, skits.

Washington (AP) — The 68,838,000 votes cast four years ago is a record turnout for a presidential election.

The bureau's estimate is based on the number of persons of voting age, which is 21 in 46 states and the District of Columbia, 20 in Hawaii, 19 in Alaska, and 18 in Georgia and Kentucky.

In 1960, the number of age-qualified Americans was 109 million. Since then more than 10 million Americans have grown old enough to vote.

Students Help

Oregon State University fraternity men yesterday came to the assistance of the Corvallis library and moved about 2,500 books from the children's room in the basement to an annex on Jackson street more than a block away. Some 60 students from 33 fraternities formed the brigade, which moved the books in about an hour. The books were moved so that workmen can remodel the library basement in conjunction with the addition to be built to the library. The brigade was made possible through the cooperation of Assistant Dean of Men Richard E. Pahre, and was sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council headed by Bill Davison.

Support Your Candidate

Just in case, in the isolation of our rustic campus, the student body has forgotten or failed to hear, this is the year of the Presidential election. Whether we are given a choice, an echo, or neither does not change the fact that the people of the United States have been called upon to decide who will direct our national destinies in the next four years.

The right to vote is not merely a gift, but implies a responsibility. There is no excuse for apathy in an age where the federal scope pervades almost every aspect of human activity from the launching of a missile to the seating arrangement in a bus.

In the two-party system, our chosen delegates select a party candidate from among representatives of our own party preference. We are then given the alternative of voting for one of two candidates. There is no excuse for apathy. While we may declaim the two party system for not providing the most qualified candidates, we are left with the realization that there is no place on the ballot for the negative vote. We must cast a positive vote for one of two candidates.

Whether we are choosing from the better of two goods or the lesser of two evils, we must make a responsible commitment on the ballot.

There has been a frequent rationalization among those under twenty-one who proclaim their apathy is excusable because they have not yet obtained the franchise. It should be pointed out that their age does not excuse them from living in the system—suffering from the errors and profiting by the achievements of our government.

There is work to be done by all. An individual can more than compensate for having no vote or "merely" one by actively informing and influencing others in the issues of the campaign. The most effective means of persuasion is attained by working from within the party system. The Benton County Republican and Democratic Committees have formed vast organizations for this purpose.

Both parties are in great need of volunteers to work in such activities as canvassing precincts, doing clerical and office work, designing posters, compiling statistics, poll watching, and providing transportation or baby sitting on election day. Many of the jobs are challenging; all are important in the outcome of the election.

The Democratic Headquarters is located at Second and Monroe or 2-2480. The Republican offices are at Second and Jackson and are reached at 2-6182. Both parties will welcome your support enthusiastically.

College students are a busy lot. Their extra time must be carefully budgeted. But with the wrong policy decisions in an age of domestic and foreign tensions, time may run out on our standard of life, our way of living, and even perhaps on humanity. Accept your responsibility by acting — Now!

Tradition With A Purpose

Tradition with a purpose characterizes the AWS Nickel Hops.

Thirty years ago dances were held several times a year and were known as "Hello Dances." Men were allowed to stay at living groups for 15 minutes for the price of 5 cents.

The dance has changed a good deal since 1934. Today the Nickel Hops are held only once a year at the beginning of fall term. Men still go from living group to living group but they can stay as long as they wish. Rather than paying for 15 minutes of dancing, a man can now buy 2 dances with his favorite girl for a nickel. (It is advisable for men to have a pocket full of nickels handy — they disappear awfully fast.)

Senate Leader Asks Nominees To Be Cautious

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., today urged President Johnson, Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater and their vice-presidential running mates to avoid risking their lives by imprudent mingling with campaign crowds.

With a grim reference to the Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the Senate Democratic leader urged all major candidates "to avoid exposing themselves unnecessarily to this danger."

"The Warren report underscores American political history in showing that the disaster of an assassination of a national figure not only can be, but is likely to be the work of a single warped mind," Mansfield told the Senate in prepared remarks.

He urged the candidates to comply with security safeguards of the Secret Service and other police officials and protectors.

"It is a matter of basic prudence and has nothing whatever to do with personal courage or confidence in the people of the United States," he said.

Mansfield noted that a national campaign requires that the major candidates present themselves in person throughout the nation.

THE MOVIE SCOOP — Burton Swaps Sword For Clergy's Collar

By Darrell Buttice

"May u guachi" — for you people who are not part of the Chinese race, it means "no sweat."

I suppose you are wondering what a half-sighted movie columnist would be doing with this sort of knowledge. Well I'll tell you. This was just one of the lines Ava Gardner blurted out in her role in Metro-Goldwyn Mayer's "The Night of the Iguana." I like the line so I threw it in for color.

Come to think of it "may u guachi" is a good way to explain John Huston's talent for producing some of Hollywood's finest flicks.

Movie Recipe

I picture Huston as an exciting man, much like a woman is when she's baking her prize cake for the county fair. Yes, I can see it all now, old "hashin' Huston" must have used a recipe similar to this:

Start with a few thousand feet of colored film, toss in a large sum of money, compliment the mixture with the beautiful scenery of Southern Mexico, add the combined talents of Richard Burton, Ava Gardner, Deborah Kerr, and Cyril Delevanti, season with a pinch of sex and bring to a boil with a bundle of good reviews. Thus a success is born.

"The Night of the Iguana" is playing at the Oregon State Theater through next Friday. The film is based on Tennessee Williams' play which was acclaimed as the best of the 1961-62 season by New York critics.

Burton, who plays the role of a dejected clergyman, blunders his way through life until he finds himself, with the aid of a long piece of rope, a stiff drink and Deborah Kerr. And like all good stories there is an ending and everyone lives happily ever after.

Oh, by the way if you ladies are afraid of reptiles, see the show anyway, the Iguanas are kind of cute.

Doctor's "Cure-All"

"The New Interns" is showing at the White-side theater this week. It is packed with girl chasing, wild parties, and life and death drama that was a dominant factor in another doctor-nurse film, "The Interns," that had the younger generation a few years back wanting to be in the medical profession.

Michael Callan, Barbara Eden, Dean Jones, Stefanie Powers and Inger Stevens don the white uniforms to entertain viewers for the full two hours of the film. This Columbia presentation will be showing through Sunday.

Special Previews of Cultural TV To Be Shown on Channels 7 and 10

Special previews of general interest and cultural television to be presented this fall by Oregon Educational Broadcasting will be televised today on KOAC-TV, Channel 7, and KOAP-TV, Channel 10.

National Educational Television previews will be broadcast on the Portland and Corvallis stations during a half-hour program at 12:30 p.m. NET President John F. White will narrate and give the viewer a general outline of programs the Oregon station will be receiving from his organization.

Local productions of KOAC-TV and KOAP-TV will be previewed at 1:45 in another half-hour broadcast. Television Program Manager David Leonard narrates this glimpse of Oregon-accented programs scheduled for this fall.

These previews were first aired last Tuesday during three special press luncheons in Portland, La Grande and Corvallis. At this time certain policies and a brief history of educational broadcasting were also reviewed.

Of the many programs to be aired this fall one of the most interesting appears to be a locally produced series on the nature of Communism. Robert Frantz, social studies instructor and basketball coach at Parkrose High School, will host the eleven-week show, "Communism: Marx to Mao."

Frantz and special guests on his program will approach Communism from its philosophical beginning. An explanation of these ideas of Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels will lead into the rise and establishment of the Communist system.

Another local program, "You, Your Money and Government," is a project of the Division of Continuing Education and will be shown on Wednesday nights beginning Nov. 4.

A group of experts from Oregon's state campuses will explain the many facets of state taxes and budgets. The project is a "first" for the DCE since it simultaneously employs radio and television, DCE Continuation Centers around the state, and DCE's State Wide Services branch.

In communities served by DCE Continuation Centers, discussion programs will be organized around either the radio or television series. The DCE's State Wide Services will assist in this project by publishing and distributing a free Viewers Guide for the series. These will be available through local Continuation Centers or by writing the Office of Independent Study, 1250 Emerall, Eugene, 97403.

Robert Franz and his guests will explore the philosophical origins and history of the Communist political system in "Communism: Marx to Mao," a new series to be broadcast by KOAP-TV, Portland, and KOAC-TV, Corvallis. The series will be seen Thursdays at 8 p.m. beginning Oct. 8 and repeated at 2 p.m. each Friday.

Scholarship Awards Available to Women

Nine out of the 24 American students who are taking up their coveted Marshall Scholarship awards in Britain this September are girls. Every year the number of girl applicants and winners - of Marshalls increases as it becomes better realized that Marshalls are the finest opportunity for women to get to the top in education.

Subjects chosen for courses by this year's winners of Marshalls range from race relations to applied mathematics. Each of the winners will study for two to three years at the university of their choice in Britain. Each Scholarship is worth $2,240 a year (plus round-trip travel) and is awarded not simply for academic brilliance but rather for all-round excellence.

Deadline for applications this year is October 22.

Unlike the Rhodes Scholarships, which are tenable only by men at Oxford University, the Marshalls are open to both sexes and can lead to any of the 27 universities in Britain.

Three of this year's winners came from California.

The Marshalls are given by the British Government and people in gratitude for Marshall Plan Aid. At least three places are guaranteed for students from the Western States.

Application forms may be obtained from any University office or from the British Consulate - General, 343, Sansome Street, San Francisco. (Tel: YU 1-3030)

Sharon Lasater

Sharon Lasater, freshman in home economics from Eastside, Oregon, was recently selected as majorette to accompany Oregon State University's football band.

As Women Say . . .

By ALICE PITNEY
AWS Vice President

Perhaps the two most popular spots on campus, in terms of student numbers, are the Library and the Commons. And quite rightly so - for college ought to be a balance between the so-called "intellectual" and the "social" side of life.

Often the young coed tends to bury her nose in a book and seldom comes up for air or to see what the rest of the campus is doing; or she becomes so dazzled with college freedom and extra time that she concentrates on the popular OSU male-female ratio. When she does this, she is not using her college education to its fullest advantage.

Do spend some time over a cup of coffee in the Commons. What better place to discuss politics and religion, get to know an international student, or just observe human mass behavior!

But also attend something on the cultural side. Many musical, dramatic, artistic and literary programs are offered free each term, and provide an excellent opportunity to broaden the often-narrow college Fine Art experience.

Of course the "absorption process" cannot be ignored, and time must be devoted to class preparation and research projects.

But even with time already divided three ways (not counting necessary physical functions or that "quiet time" when every college student needs to be alone) there is still room for another addition to the schedule - a very important addition - an activity not purely for self-benefit.

It is through work on committees or participation in a group organized for a service function that college life approximates later life and is prevented from becoming mundane, routine and stuffy.

Activities provide an opportunity to get to know faculty, other students, the community and the campus personnel.

Miss Sharon Lasater, the 1963 national strut champion, has been chosen as majorette for the Oregon State University football band this fall, according to Ted Mesang, band director.

Miss Lasater, a freshman in home economics from Eastside, Oregon, is a graduate of Marshfield high school.

She qualified for the position after competition with four other aspirants, including Nancy Cook, last year's OSU band majorette. Miss Cook was a close second in the qualifying. Others in the competition included Carol Ryder, Baker; Jean Matten, Springfield, and Becky Gaines, Salem.

The Oregon State University band, along with Miss Lasater, will make their premier showing Saturday afternoon, October 10, at the OSU - Washington football game in Portland. Although Mesang was pleased at the opening turnout for this fall's band, he has positions still open as he is hoping for a 112-piece football band this fall.

Miss Lasater's honors include the 1962 Miss Thunderbird Stutter, second place in the 16-year-old strut division at the Seattle World's Fair; first in the Oregon Day Strut at the World's Fair Parade of Contest; runner-up as Miss Thunderbird Congeniality in 1962 and 1963; Senior Intermediate Oregon State Winner in 1963; 1963 Oregon Senior Strut Champion; 1963 Oregon Sweepstakes Strut Champion, and the big title of them all, 1963 Grand National Strut Champion.

Attorney Formulates Plan To Save Millions in Taxes

By KATHIE DIBELL
BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Leonard Kerpelman, an attorney, says he wants to save American taxpayers millions of dollars.

He is trying to outlaw state and federal tax exemptions for church properties and church-owned businesses.

Kerpelman, 39, says he believes the suits eventually will reach the Supreme Court and become a milestone in church-state relationships in the United States.

He estimates that in Baltimore alone, taxation of church buildings would add $76 million to annual tax income. His clients in the suits are the Free Thought Society and the group's president, Lemoin Cree. The society pays Kerpelman a $10,000 retainer fee.

Many states, including Maryland, allow property tax exemptions for church buildings. Kerpelman already has presented opening arguments in Baltimore Superior Court against the Maryland exemptions, contending they violate the constitutional provisions against establishment of a religion.

He says all taxpayers are forced to contribute involuntarily to the support of churches because the churches use public money for such services as streets and police and fire protection.

In another suit, Kerpelman is attacking federal income tax regulations which allow churches from businesses they own, including hotels, service stations and publishing houses.

Some churches voluntarily pay the taxes, but Kerpelman says exemptions run into millions of dollars.

These exemptions also are unconstitutional because they violate the constitutional provision of the separation of church and state, he maintains.

Since he filed the church property suit, Kerpelman says, "Many of my Jewish friends are giving me the cold stare."

They're getting an edifice complex.

"However, there's no place in the Bible that says churches have to spend this much money looking good," he said.

"Only money is involved. It's not a question of freedom of conscience."

Kerpelman says he is an Orthodox Jew, although he and his family attend synagogue irregularly.

He explains his orthodoxy ironically: "I'm the only one who's Orthodox. Every man is his own theologian."

Tuning the TV Tiring? Signal of Middle Age

NEW YORK (AP) — Here are some more ways to tell if you are middle-aged:

The most fun you have all day is taking off your shoes when you come home from the office.

You don't like to see movies that have a sad ending.

The dentist tells you that seeing him twice a year isn't enough.

You don't have to let out your belt another notch, but you feel more comfortable if you do.

Everytime you buy anything in a men's store you give the salesman a long lecture on how much more expensive things are now than they used to be.

You spend more time visiting sick friends in the hospital and going to funerals.

When you break a shoelace, instead of throwing it away you tie it together and go on using it.

The fellows around the office water cooler always seem to have newer jokes than you do.

You begin to notice how much older everybody else looks.

It used to take you 20 minutes to get a haircut. Now you can get one in 10.

You get a little winded when you have to bend down to tune the television set.

You'd rather watch the baseball game on the home screen than go out to the park. Who needs all that fresh air anyway? It takes longer to wake up in the morning, and longer to fall asleep at night.

Your medicine chest gets more crowded. You also read the medical column in your paper daily, even if it discusses a disease you don't have. Who knows? You may get it later.

Instead of complaining when your wife is slow in getting dressed for an evening out, you just stretch out on the sofa and take a nap.

When you meet the big boss, he calls you by your first name and then inquires how you're feeling.

You give up your weekly night out with the boys, as your old poker pals seem to be getting kind of dull.

You'd rather break your leg than go dancing.

The doctor tells you if you got a little more exercise, you'd have more pep. But you and he both know that if you have to get pep the hard way you'd just as soon do without it.

At vacation time you'd rather sit in your own back yard than go on a trip.

Whenever you start reminiscing about your war experiences, some smart aleck always pipes up, "Which war was that, Pop?"

That's middle age.

With this in mind, the Beavers concentrated on pass defense in practice drills this week. The offensive unit, which began to come into its own against Colorado Saturday, also continued to receive special attention.

Oregon State's "mad dog" defensive team continues to give every indication that it is going to be very stubborn. OSU leads Pacific Athletic Conference teams in total defense, giving up 219 yards per game in two games.

The Beavers are second in the PAC in rushing defense, giving up an average of 137 yards a game; and second in passing defense with an average of 82 yards per game.

Joe Francis, who scouted Baylor, says the Bears will throw the ball at least 20 times a game, and perhaps as many as 40. Against Washington they completed 20 of 42 passes.

Francis noted that the Bears have tremendously fast backs and ends. He also warned the Beaver camp about Elkins. "If they could have hit him with passes as often as he got into the open against Washington, it would have been a different game."

Elkins plays flanker-back and was the Bears' consensus all-American in 1963. He resists

The Crosley Field consensus he would tell newsmen he had signed for his eighth season as manager of the Pirates.

Instead, after a grueling four-hour game in which the sixth-place Pirates beat the Reds 1-0 with a 16th-inning squeeze bunt and knocked them out of the National League lead, Murtaugh told a few newsmen in the rubbing room of the visitors' clubhouse:

"I am resigning because of my health."

"My health has not been up to par," the 47-year-old former infielder added. "The whole Murtaugh family helped me make the decision."

"I have spent seven pleasant years as manager of the Pittsburgh team."

The resignation becomes effective with the end of the season, but Murtaugh indicated he may not accompany the team to Milwaukee later this week.

Neither he nor General Manager Joe L. Brown would say who will take Murtaugh's place if he does not go.

There was also no word on who would succeed him.

Brown said Murtaugh will stay on with the Pirates in an administrative capacity. He will do some scouting, work with the Pittsburgh farm club organization and help out in the front office.

Murtaugh became manager of the Pirates in 1957, succeeding Bobby Bragan, and led Pittsburgh to the 1960 pennant and a world championship.

Lopez signed a second successive two-year contract Wednesday for his ninth and 10th White Sox managerial seasons extending through 1966.

The genial 56-year-old Lopez, hinting money was no object, had his salary upped to an estimated $50,800 annually.

He reportedly got $40,000 per year for 1963 and the current season, in which only an apparent miracle can enable the Sox to wrest the pennant from the Yankees.

General Manager Ed Short said at signing ceremony Lopez got a "well-deserved" pay hike. The amount was not disclosed. "I didn't even read the financial terms," said Lopez.

Beaver Vern Burke's all-time NCAA pass reception record, with 70 catches.

Oregon State will fly out of Corvallis this morning, for Waco, Tex. Game time Saturday night is 7 p.m., Pacific Daylight Time. The game will be broadcast over Bob Blackburn's Oregon State Beaver Sports network, beginning at 6:35 p.m.

The team will return to Corvallis late Sunday afternoon.

Pitt Manager To Retire At End Of Season

CINCINNATI (AP) — When the Pittsburgh Pirates announced at the start of the game with Cincinnati Wednesday night that Danny Murtaugh would have an announcement afterwards, no one was very excited.

The Crosley Field consensus he would tell newsmen he had signed for his eighth season as manager of the Pirates.

Instead, after a grueling four-hour game in which the sixth-place Pirates beat the Reds 1-0 with a 16th-inning squeeze bunt and knocked them out of the National League lead, Murtaugh told a few newsmen in the rubbing room of the visitors' clubhouse:

By SCOTT THOMPSON

West Coast football is back on the top of the heap nationally . . . think not? Well if you are doubtful take a look at what the eight members of the Pacific Athletic Conference (formerly the AAUW) have done so far this season. UCLA sports a fine 2-0 record with wins over the two Pennsylvania powers, Penn State and Pittsburgh. Not to be out done, UCLA's cross-town rival, USC, also holds an equally impressive record, downing both Colorado and Oklahoma.

To go on down the list, Oregon's Ducks have yet to lose in their two outings, edging BYU and Pittsburgh, while the rest of the loop members sport 1-1 marks. The University of California (1-1) almost dropped Big Ten title hopeful, Illinois, and a week earlier did edge Missouri, one of the elevens picked to battle for the Big Eight lead.

Ohio State Keeps Moving

How does this compare with the rest of the major league colleges . . . not bad my friend, not bad. Of the Eastern powers, only Syracuse has so much as won a game, and when you take a look at the Big Ten, they're not much better off than we are here on the coast. Iowa had a rough time beating "poor" little Idaho, and as mentioned before Illinois was lucky to get by Cal. Only Ohio State seems to be moving along at the usual "win most big, lose few" pace.

Now for this year's first attempt at Scott's peerless picks. We sure can't do much worse than the rest of the pigskin forecasters around the land.

OSU 21, BAYLOR 15: Oregon State and Baylor are what might be called two complete opposites. The Beavers have shown a fine defense in rolling up a 1-1 record. In both of their starts the Orange-men held their foes to just one touchdown. On the other hand, the Baylor Bears rely entirely on their offensive prowess, and mainly on the passing arms of Roger Marshall and Ronnie Wilson. Last week in the Bears' 35-14 loss to the University of Washington, the men from Texas tossed the ball 42 times completing 20 of the aeriels.

It all boils down to which will be the best — OSU's defense or Baylor's passing. We think the Beaver defenders will win out, but not without some tense moments. Certainly the Orange secondary hasn't faced a test like this so far this season, but at the same time the Beaver offense probably hasn't tackled a foe with such a poor defense. Now the Paul Brothers has come of age and Doug McDougall is back off the injured list, the offensive unit should score enough to give "Mad Dog" O'Brien and his defensive mates the cushion they might need this time to preserve the OSU win.

Luck Runs Out

PENN STATE 21, OREGON 7: The Ducks have been darn lucky so far this season in rolling to wins over BYU and Pitt. Meanwhile, Penn State has been performing as if they're ready for the glue factory. The game is slated for State's home field and something has probably been done to jazz up the lackadical attitude. Bob Berry or no Bob Berry, Oregon's luck should run out this weekend when the Ducks meet a fired-up Penn State crew.

USC 20, MICHIGAN STATE 14: We saw the Trojans play Colorado several weeks ago and walked away feeling they wouldn't lose too many games. After their win over Oklahoma we're sure they won't, not even to Michigan State. USC's big problem here though could be a let-down after their big effort against the Sooners, still Mike Garrett is good enough to run rings around most any team . . . USC will win.

UCLA 28, STANFORD 10: UCLA is too good for the Indians . . . what more can we say. CALIFORNIA 21, MINNESOTA 17: Cal is on its way up, while the Gophers look to have only a so-so club. The game is being played in Berkeley, so we'll give the nod to the Bears.

Huskies To Win

WASHINGTON 35, IOWA 7: Iowa almost lost to Idaho; Washington isn't about to drop another contest; Bill Douglas is back at full strength for the Huskies . . . all this adds up to a Washington victory.

WSU 14, ARIZONA 7: We flipped a coin for this one!

Rook Wrestlers; Best in Years

Coach Dale Thomas landed three outstanding California Rook wrestlers to go along with a large group of Oregon prospects as the new crop of grapplers started preseason practice Monday.

One of this year's most promising Rooks is Van Smith from Porterville, California, who last season was the heavyweight Central Division CIF champion. Another lad who came to the Beaver state is Harold E. Parsons from Whittier, Calif., and who was the Southern Division CIF runnerup in the 123 pound weight division. Steve Niles, who hails from Placerville, Calif., was a runnerup in the 130 pound Northern Division CIF.

Thomas feels that Smith and Jeff Hartrath, heavyweight A-1 State Champ from Medford, Ore., and Steve Woods (115), are two of the best heavyweight Lebanon.

Harriers Begin Steady Workouts

A group of dedicated yet almost unheard of athletes have been working out since Monday and trying to get into top physical shape. Who are these young men? They are the cross-country runners; and every Fall spend between 3 and 4 hours each night running on the intramural field next to the tennis courts.

The Beavers' harriers average about 10 miles of running a night. In this sport one needs a minimum of physical ability but a maximum amount of desire and fortitude. They run independent of the weather — in fact, some enjoy it when the environment is trying to defeat them.

The cross-country season begins this year with a meet against a squad from Lewis and Clark College on Oct. 16. Then on Oct. 23, the harriers challenge the University of Portland in Portland and then run at home against arch-rival Oregon on the 30th of October.

Sam Bell, who coaches both track and cross-country, has departed for Tokyo and the Olympics, and in his absence Chuck McNeil will direct the Rook and varsity teams.

This year's team will be headed by junior Gary Baker from Sacramento, California. Last year Baker was one of the stable pillars on Bell's squad.
