President's Message

HE purpose of the College is threefold: To acquaint its students with the principles and methods of science that will enable them to become economically independent through control of the natural and industrial forces around them; to imbue them, through familiarity with the enduring sources of learning and culture by which mankind has climbed from savagery to civilization, with an inquiring spirit and a congenial sense of being at home as a citizen of an aspiring world; and to establish in terms of habit such ideals of industry, honor, and service as will prove, through life, a touchstone of achievement and character.

The College is widely recognized for its constructive work in applying science to industry. Through years of devoted service on the part of its staff, it has succeeded in building up an organization for conserving and developing the natural resources and productive enterprises of the state. The careers of its graduates and former students, moreover, more than half of whom have been out of college only eight years or less, are convincing evidence that the training they received is vocationally effective. The great majority of them have made substantial progress in the fields for which they trained, and many have already attained distinction.

But the College, while primarily vocational and technical, includes in its curricula not only the practical training that helps its graduates to make a living, but such additional and liberal training as helps them also to make that living abundant, purposeful and significant. Hence the thorough training in all the basic arts and sciences, and in English, modern languages, history, government, economics, physical education and music.

ics, physical education and music. Thus the College meets the modern obligation of a state institution of higher learning by providing for the student, and the constituency he represents, specialized scientific service. It fulfills also the age-old obligation of giving him such breadth of training as will free his mind, unrestricted by prejudice or ignorance, to range with confidence among the problems that confront the industries and professions of today. Finally, through a faculty of highly trained specialists, animated by a spirit of service as well as of research, and holding themselves true friends and companions of the students, it offers that most priceless opportunity of a higher education—bringing the student and the teacher into intellectual and spiritual partnership.

U. G. DUBACH, Dean of Men

Dean Dubach's Message

FONE could do what he most de-sires as Dean of Men, he would want ability to help young men find themselves; to advise well on the choice of life work; on the selection of courses to meet the demands in the chosen field; on the choice and degree of indulgence in social and student activities, to guarantee well-rounded development; on the care of the body, to insure capacity to carry out the chosen program; on the maintenance of confidence with parents, that there might be complete understanding with the home; and to think in the spiritual realm, so as to be able to grapple with the vital problems facing young men. Only mutual confidence between advisees and adviser makes possible even an approach to minimum results in these and many other problems confronting every adviser of young men.

KATE JAMESON, Dean of Women

Dean Jameson's Message

T is said of Edmund Burke that he replied to a message by George III, "It is the best of messages to the best of people from the best of kings." So, in a way, could Volume XXIII of the Beaver be characterized. It is a message from the Oregon State college to parents and friends of the student body. Herein students have set forth, through word and picture, the beauties of the campus, the various academic activities and also the lighter side of college life. As we know the students, the institution and the state of Oregon, surely we too can use the words of the great English statesman and say of this Beaver, "It is the best of messages to the best of people from the best of workers.'

Departmental Heads

F pleasing personality and ability to understand all student problems, Mrs. Lorna C. Jessup, as assistant to the dean of women, is loved and respected by all college students. During her two years of association here she has achived a prominent place in college life.

W. A. Jensen, executive secretary, has the power to comprehend a difficult situation with ease and facility. In this capacity he serves with that efficiency and natural discernment which are the essentials of a good executive.

Lucy M. Lewis, librarian, received training in Pomona college and the University of Illinois. She came here first in 1911 and in 1927 toured Europe during a leave of absence. Miss Lewis, with a staff of competent workers, has made the library a valuable source of knowledge.

As college registrar, E. B. Lemon shows great resourcefulness in coping with the multitude of problems presented to him. It is under his direction that statistical information of attendance is compiled and complete records of all students are kept.

In his position as editor of the many campus pamphlets, booklets, bulletins and catalogs, E. T. Reed displays remarkable ability in his attention to details as well as the larger tasks connected with such work. He is also nationally known as a poet.

As superintendent of the college press, E. C. Hobbs has proved himself a master in his department. Under his supervision all college pamphlets, catalogs, stationery and numerous miscellaneous material is published.

E. M. Smith is manager of the business office and head of the financial system, which is a necessity in any complex organization. He is responsible for the efficient manner in which all college funds are received and disbursed.

SCHOOL OF COMMERCE

HE school of commerce was organized in 1908, although courses in business were offered as early as 1868. As now organized, it consists of five departments: economics and sociology, finance and administration, political science, secretarial training and a cooperative department of commercial education. Each of these departments offers one or more majors toward the bachelor's degree. The master's degree is offered in agricultural economics and rural sociology and also in commercial education. In point of attendance and also as to buildings and facilities of instruction, the Oregon State school of commerce is third largest institution of its kind west of Chicago. Aside from its regular resident instruction the school of commerce is endeavoring to raise the standard of business practice in every walk of life.

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING

NGINEERING work was begun at Oregon State college in 1889 and was continued with a gradual growth until 1908, at which time the school of engineering and mechanical arts was established. The gradual growth continued until a very marked development occurred in 1918. Today, the school of engineering is second in size on the Pacific coast, and stands in the upper ten per cent of the schools in the United States. Its laboratories are well equipped and conveniently arranged. Its staff is actively identified with engineering and educational developments. The graduates have attained wide recognition by winning scholarships and industrial appointments in keen competition and by high standing in engineering examinations.

SCHOOL OF HOME ECONOMICS

'HE school of home economics of Oregon State college, one of the first divisions of home economics in the United States, was established in 1889. Since that time it has served thouestablished in 1889. Since that time it has served thou-sands of students and granted degrees to nearly 1500. It now has an enrollment of 450 undergraduate major stu-dents, an increasing graduate enrollment and serves hundreds of students enrolled in other schools on the campus. These students and graduates represent many states and foreign countries. The primary objective of this school is to give training and establish standards for a higher type of home-making with special emphasis for a higher type of home-making with special emphasis on training for parenthood; also, to train for the many wage earning occupations open to home economic graduates. The future of the world lies in the hands of its parents.

SCHOOL OF VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

HE school of vocational education conceives its function to be that of carrying to the state at large those things for which the college stands. This can be done only by means of teachers who will do in our schools, as best they can, what the college specialists do on the campus. More than 500 students were registered in this school last year, and large numbers from other schools took sufficient work in education to be certificated. This, the largest school of its kind in the West, gives to Oregon the opportunity to have the various vocational subjects taught to practically all its boys and girls. It gives annually to its scores of graduates the opportunity to teach their specialties in the larger towns and cities of more than onefifth of the territory of the United States.

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE

HE first course in agriculture on the Pacific coast was taught in Corvallis college, later the Oregon State Agricultural college, in 1869-70. The school of agriculture, organized in 1907, now includes 11 departments with staffs totaling 50 persons. Work leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Science and of Master of Science is given in agricultural bacteriology, agricultural chemistry, agricultural economics, agricultural education, agricultural engineering, animal husbandry, botany and plant pathology, dairy husbandry, entomology, farm crops, farm management, pomology, vegetable gardening, landscape architecture, horticultural products, poultry husbandry, soils and zoology.

On the basis of the number of students registered in agriculture per 1000 farms in its state the Oregon State Agricultural college ranks third in the United States.

SCHOOL OF BASIC ARTS AND SCIENCES

HE school of basic arts and sciences, as its name implies, embraces the departments of art, bacteriology, botany, chemistry, English, entomology, history, mathematics, modern languages, physics, public speaking and dramatics and zoology, in which work fundamental to an education in the various technical schools of the institution may be pursued. These departments were first brought together into an administrative unit in September, 1918. The school of basic arts and sciences registers no students and grants no degrees. It provides for students registered in the technical schools the foundation in science indispensable to technical achievement and an opportunity in art, literature and history to develop a point of view, a scale of values and a method of thinking.

SCHOOL OF PHARMACY

HE school of pharmacy was established in 1898 to meet the demand for thorough practical and theoretical training in pharmacy and related branches of science. It has grown steadily and now has the best equipment and the largest attendance of any state supported school of pharmacy on the Pacific coast. The scope of work offered not only prepares for efficient service as a pharmacist but also for advanced work in the profession of medicine. Oregon State school of pharmacy has many progressive features such as a complete model drug store, a drug laboratory, a student loan fund and excellent facilities for graduate work and research on topics that vitally concern public health. These features are the result of cooperation with the druggists of the state who established the school.

SCHOOL OF FORESTRY

HE principal purpose of the school of forestry is to aid in the perpetuation of one of Oregon's major industries—an industry which normally employs 47,000 men, which meets 65 per cent of the state's industrial payroll and which produces annually more than $150,000,000 in wealth. Keeping 23,000,000 acres of forest land busy growing crops of timber trees is a man-sized job. The accomplishment of this objective means prosperous communities, happy homes. The trained forester, the logging engineer and the lumber manufacturer have a worth while field of service. The school of forestry at the Oregon State college has done and is doing splendid work. With the close cooperation of students, faculty and alumni its field of usefulness can be further extended.

SCHOOL OF MINES

NSTRUCTION in mining at Oregon State college was initiated in 1900, but the present school of mines was organized in 1913. Work for the B.S. degree is given in geology, mineralogy, mining engineering and metallurgy. General science and cultural courses are offered also for students in other schools of the college. The enrollment of students majoring in this work is about the same as for similar groups at the University of Washington and Washington State college. The mineral resources of the United States are among its most essential assets. Exploration for and the economic recovery of this mineral wealth, either in Oregon or elsewhere, is a worthy challenge to the highest integrity and intelligence of our American youth.

Check RECTED for the service and inspiration of the living and to the memory of our immortal dead, the Memorial Union is well on its way towards fulfilling its purpose in spite of the fact that it was not ready for the opening of the school year. It is rapidly becoming the social and business center of student and alumni life. The Union provides facilities for all classes of campus activities including social rooms, banquet rooms of all sizes, dance floors, smoking rooms, conference rooms and offices. In addition to these features specially arranged for groups of students, the individual student has free access to the individual service of the dining-rooms. The big lounges lend themselves admiraby to the entertainment of out of town visitors and already a number of state conventions have been held in the building. The alumni are proud of this wonderful campus home and the present student body is exceedingly fortunate to be the first to use it.

NUCLEUS of 6226 graduates plus a group of close to 200,000 ex-students, which is being increased by more than 500 graduates each June, forms the basis for the Oregon State college Alumni association. Year by year Oregon State trained men and women are ever broadening the field of their endeavors in the various professions and industries, at present being engaged in 350 different kinds of work.

Alumni clubs are scattered throughout the United States and territories with a total of 38 organizations now functioning. The betterment of themselves and the college and keeping alive of the Beaver spirit are the motives that actuate these groups. The Alumni association was organized in 1875, five years after the first class was graduated from the college. The central organization with its headquarters on the campus acts as a hub around which the club and general alumni affairs of the year revolve.

A cross section view of Oregon State alumni reveals them in leading roles in home economics, engineering, forestry, mining, teaching, agriculture, business, as authors, public officials, bankers, journalists, athletes, physicians, attorneys, managers, manufacturers and the like. The ratio of men to women among the graduates is 2 to 1, there being 4165 men and 2061 women. The women have made their mark in the world bringing their share of glory to the Alma Mater.

Homecoming Alumni dance in Memorial Union Ballroom

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

The two major general alumni projects each year—homecoming in the fall and reunion in the spring—bring the Oregon Staters back to the campus. Meetings of the alumni board are held at these times and at other dates to determine general policies for the association and to act on affairs affecting the budget. The alumni board of directors is composed of five members, each of whom serves for five years, one being elected each year. The present membership includes Cyril G. Brownell, '07, president of the association; Mark D. McCallister, '05, vice-president;

Jeannette Cramer, '22, treasurer; Harry L. Holgate, '86; and C. A. Dunn, '11. The alumni secretary, whose tenure of office is for no set period, is appointed by the board. E. C. Allworth is the present incumbent.

The association is also represented on the board of control, the Memorial Union board of governors, and the Memorial Union board of directors. The official publication of the Alumni association is the Alumnus which is published monthly from October to July, inclusive.

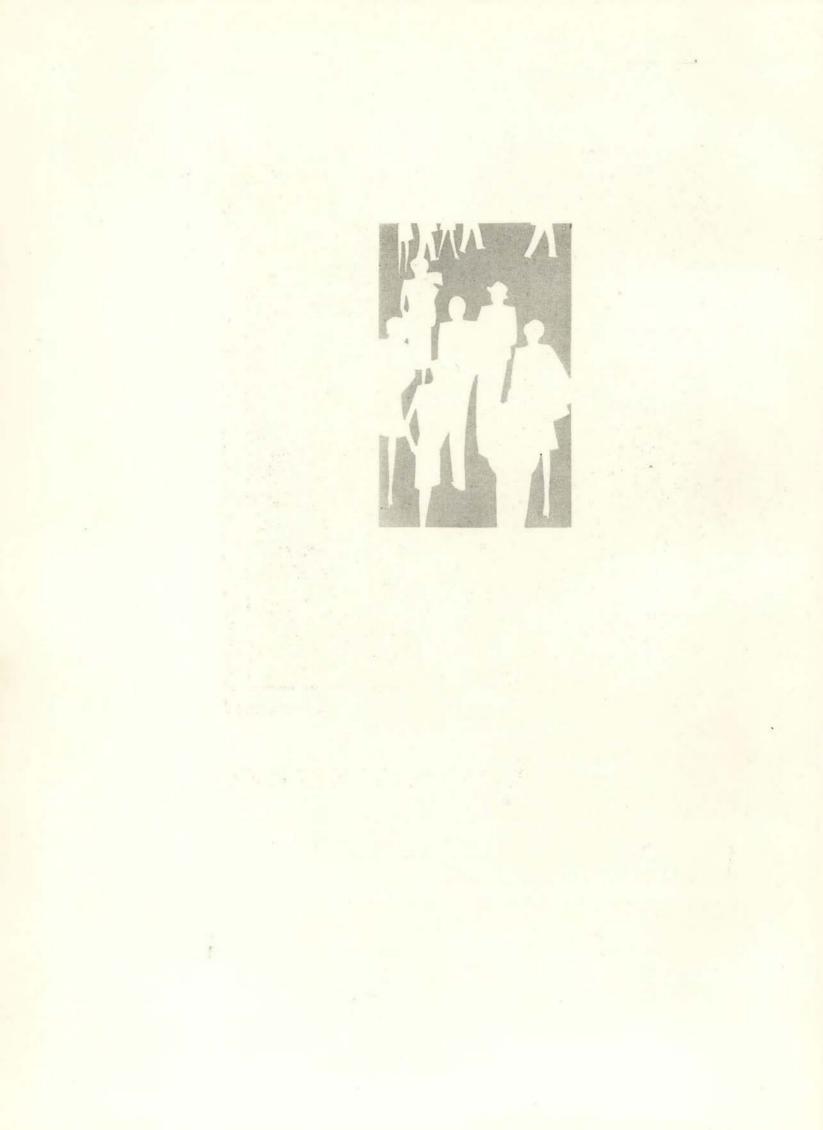

Service to state and nation as well as to self and Alma Mater is the guiding principle of the Alumni association. The fact that this may best be furthered by keeping in touch with and working in cooperation with the college is recognized and used as the basis for regulating the alumni program. Close cooperation between the central office and various clubs is essential.

ORE than 1500 enthusiastic freshmen entered Oregon State college in September, 1925, imbued with the idea of making the class of '29 a marked success. Led by George Lauder, president, the traditional activities were participated in and appreciated only as a freshman class can appreciate them. The annual Olympics, tug-o-war, rook dance, building of the bonfire, bag-rush, and burning of the green made the first year pass quickly.

Bergen Bellville led the class through its second year of college life. The men's gymnasium was transformed into a beautiful Alaskan night for the sophomore cotillion. Once more the class of '29 held the center of the stage in inter-class contests.

Successfully the class reached its third year and, under the leadership of William Kirk, became an integral part of the college. "An Evening in Leyden" was the theme of the Junior Prom. The Dutch setting was carried throughout the whole plan of the dance and proved most interesting as the large attendance indicated.

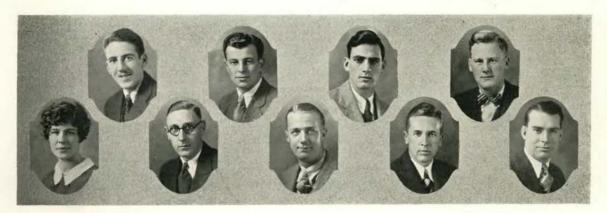

The last year has been the most outstanding. Ably represented by Hugh Fitzgerald, the class entered activities with a greater vim than ever before. The Senior Ball, "busts," class day and the trip to Newport, followed by baccalaureate services on June 2, and the conferring of degrees on June 3, concluded the functions.

The men of the class built their Homecoming bonfire in record timefour hours. Two informal dances were given with Irene Blaesing as chairman.

The sophomore officers were Leroy Grote, president; Arleta Loop, vice-president; Elayne Searing, secretary; and Eldon Winkley, treasurer. The Sophomore Cotillion, January 28, was the first formal function given by the class. Oriental decorations and an unusual feature, a slave dance, aided in making the Cotillion a success. Charles Baskerville was chairman of the Olympics committee. The insignia committee chose a red sweater as the official sophomore insignia.

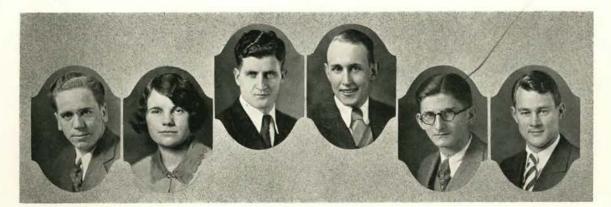

In the third year of its organization, the class was led by Ransom Meinke, president; Lucille Porter, vice-president; Elayne Searing, secretary; and Floyd Grabill, treasurer. The class chose as its insignia a dark blue slip-on sweater. Elaborate plans, well carried out, were responsible for the success of the Junior Prom. Curtis Tigard was chairman of the committee. The decorations represented a jungle scene. Campus Weekend, in charge of Ted Drake, was the climax of a most successful year for the class.

SOPHOMORES

RGANIZED September 28, 1927, the class of '31 began its career after a busy week of being introduced into college life. Officers elected were Mark Grayson, president; Virginia Jones, vice-president; Hester Davis, secretary; Harold Peake, treasurer; and George Knutsen, yell-leader.

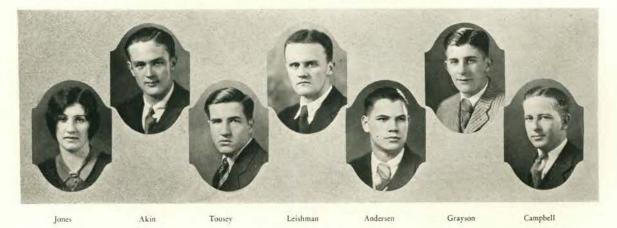

Establishing a new tradition at Oregon State, the class occupied seats of honor at convocation and were pledged to their Alma Mater.

As the social event of the class, the rook dance was a great success. Following came the annual bonfire at Homecoming—the largest bonfire in the history of the college. In the rook-sophomore olympics, the rooks emerged victorious, with honors due Clarence White, chairman. The annual tug-o'-war was also won by the freshmen.

The following year, as sophomores, the class elected George Knutsen, president; Ruella Morgan, vice-president; Mildred Carleton, secretary; Gordon Winks, sergeantat-arms; and Leon Ray, student council.

The Sophomore Cotillion, January 26, 1929, was the first formal function given by the class. Decorations gave the Memorial Union ballroom an Oriental appearance.

Following the tug-o'-war, the campus became alive with new "cords," the wearers determined to dirty them as quickly as possible, for sophomores had become juniors.

HE class of '32 met for the first time September 29, 1928, and elected Clarke Henkle, president; Helen Reid, vice-president; Marjorie Reynolds, secretary; George Reese, treasurer; Gilbert Bergeson, sergeant-at-arms; and Robert Burke, yell-leader.

Following tradition, the class occupied seats of honor at their first convocation and were formally pledged to Oregon State.

Homecoming found the rooks hard at work on the bonfire. In the annual Olympics, the class lost every event to the sophomores despite the efforts of Ted Elkins, chairman. Among the important committees of the class were social, headed by Helen Reid; and bonfire, led by Tom Bruce.

On January 12, the first freshman dance ever given in the Memorial Union ballroom proved to be the leading social event of the class. Clever decorations were due to the efforts of the committee headed by John Poorman, chairman. The class feels that the pep and cooperation characteristic of all activities was due largely to the efforts and interests of Dr. U. G. Dubach, dean of men.

In athletics, the freshman teams which represented Oregon State showed to an advantage the resources which will be available for the varsity in future years.

Campus Life

ONE of the last photos taken of our Lady before she was reduced to ruins. Waldo hall, home of the homeless. Women's physical education building, one of the finest in the west. Student Memorial—need more be said? The grand old administration building where funds are departed with quarterly. Birds' eye view of several campus buildings. Students between classes. Chem shack in all glory. Campus gets surveyed for the tenthousandth time.

This group of interiors of the Memorial Union building prove its construction inside is as beautiful, if not more so, than the outside. The furniture, drapes and other fixtures are excellent in quality and design. The main corridor with its arched ceiling enhances the entire structure, while the main lounge, women's lounge and men's smoking room give opportunities for student gatherings. The dome and cluster of lights in the main entrance are essential parts to the beauty of this new and magnificent building.

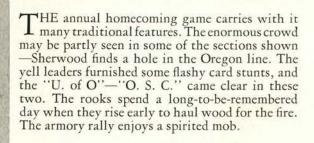

WELCOME HOME GRADE

OREGON State, 25—New York, 13! How well that looks in print—how well that day is to be remembered. The gym is packed for the football trophy award, and packed again when Jim Dixon tells of the game. Two pictures of the game itself show the Violets attempting an aggressive attack. The huge trophy was awarded by Portland business men to the school. A coach, a mayor, and smiling Howard, at his best, with the award.

THE honor societies do come in for a little publicity. Cap and Gown, minus their caps and gowns, are shown prettily dressed at initiation time. Phi Kappa Phi throws an annual feed for the select and elite group of brain developers. Sigma Delta Chi came through this year with the national efficiency cup, which Al Bates, chapter president, proudly produces. The Beaver Knights hand out their usual rough stuff to initiates.

THESE swinging mallets and flying hoofs depict perfectly the action and interest in varsity polo. The big gun firing its salute each year, acts as a starter for the military tournament. Horses taking the high hurdles with military precision. Clowns entertain crowd with boxing tournament. Students show visitors the way to build bridges in war time. Cadets stand retreat, and a push-ball contest on horses is hotly staged. Officers receive final orders.

FOREST OUN OF PLENT

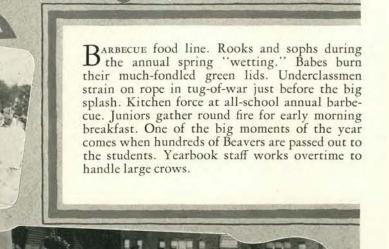

THE four "big women," one from each class, are eager for any number of pictures, it seems. Anyway, they deserve it, having won in that election. Moving properties is no joke, but these fellows smile under the load. Now, boys, would you believe it—an ensemble of the "11:30 watchmen." Other sights of interest include the snow lady, and to leave the Electric Lunch out of this volume entirely would be as much of a mistake as our campus politics are.

AND for massed occasions, the rally dance after sending the team off to New York takes all prizes. "Hey-days" for the rooks come when their weekly duty at the table rolls around. Don Long asked everyone to remain quiet in the Electric Lunch for this one, and they did—not. Smoking during the to-minute period between classes behind the Commerce shack draws its usual crowd. Everything from political situations to tough examinations are cussed and discussed at this time.

Student Administration

THE BEAVERS YEAR BOOKS OF THE OREGONISTATE COLLEGE

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

TUDENT government in actual fact as well as in theory is the aim and ultimate goal of the Oregon State student body. In order that the ideal may be realized to the fullest extent, it is necessary that every student accept his full share of responsibility. He must appreciate the fact that he is an integral part of the whole and that he must take an active interest in everything which pertains to student selfgovernment.

To this end the Associated Students cooperate with each other, with their leaders and with vitally interested student counselors.

GRANT MCMILLAN, President

The executive committee is composed of the president, first vice-president, second vice-president, third vice-president and secretary. Other officers are the editor and manager of the Beaver, and editor and manager of the Oregon State Daily Barometer. All elections are held annually in the spring quarter, with the exception of the Beaver editor, who gains office in a mid-year election.

Close integration between the Associated Students and other executive bodies on the campus is a necessity. The problems of the Student Interest committee, the Board of Control and the Student Council are those also of the Student Body. Since, in the main, the personnel of each body differs, a wide representation of the entire campus is afforded, and concordant consideration of the problems of the whole group is assured.

BOARD OF CONTROL

TUDENT activities, which are supported entirely or in part by student-body funds, come under the supervision of the Board of Control. Receipts from athletic contests, "student body" fees and sundry other sources contribute to these funds, which are distributed by the board in response to the demands made upon it.

Among the varied and intricate duties to which the board attends are these: employment of the graduate manager and all coaches of inter-collegiate sports, awarding of athletic and other emblems, preparation and adoption of budgets for expenditures of student body funds, appointment of managers of all student activities and arranging conference athletic schedules.

Publication managers are appointed by the board of control after consideration of petitions submitted by the applicants. These petitions carry recommendations and other pertinent data, from which an evaluation of the fitness and ability of the candidate is determined.

The personnel of the board is made up of three faculty members, appointed by the president of the college who is also a member ex-officio, one alumnus appointed by the board of directors of the alumni association, the president, the first vice-president and the secretary of the associated students, and two members elected by the student body, one each from the sophomore and the junior classes.

Constructive control of the Memorial Union is vested in two boards. The board of governors, which has charge of finances and construction, is composed of four alumni, one regent, and two student members. The board of directors, composed of four students, one member of the faculty, one alumni member, and the graduate manager of the Associated Students. Members of the board of directors are Robert Cahill, Grant McMillan, Robert Kist, Ruth Morrison; J. T. Jardine, faculty representative; Carl A. Lodell, graduate manager; and E. C. Student Council

The Student Council is empowered to take action upon disciplinary problems, its decisions being subject to the approval of the president of the college, before punishment is meted out to an offender. The council is composed of the president and first vice-president of the Associated Students, the editor of the Oregon State Daily Barometer, the presidents of the three upper classes and one senior, two juniors and one sophomore, who are elected from their respective classes. Such other officers as are deemed necessary may be elected by members of the group.

STUDENT INTERESTS COMMITTEE

N a group of approximately 3500 students, with diversified activities, a constantly recurring problem is the coordination of interests. Adjusting these to the ultimate advantage of each organization and of the college at large is the function of the Student Interests committee. It is made up of the president of the Associated Students, editor of the Barometer, dean of men, dean of women, presidents of the Associated Women Students, Interfraternity council, Pan-Hellenic council and Independent Student council and the chairmen of the scholarshipand housing committees.

GREATER O. S. C. COMMITTEE

The Greater Oregon State Committee might be compared to a beneficent octopus, stretching out its many arms to draw within its grasp all persons eligible for college entrance. Some of the arms are committee workers who reach every part of the state. Some are pamphlets, model courses and other literature, setting forth the benefits and opportunities offered by a college education at Oregon State. Others are social affairs sponsored by the committee for the purpose of becoming acquainted with the high school students. The work is under the supervision of chairmen who appoint workers in each town of the state.

HONOR COUNCIL

LTHOUGH the most generally recognized function of the Honor Council is to determine the guilt or innocence of offenders against the honor code, it has a more far-reaching purpose. Its real problem is that of educating the entire student body in the tenets and meaning of the code to a point where there will be no further need of executive and judicial action.

"So live that you will not be ashamed to have fellow students, faculty or parents know of your every act," are the words of the code.

Beaver Knights

White sweaters, with knightly visors of black and orange, take the place of the chain armor of old in the insignia of the Beaver Knights, honorary fraternity for sophomore men. Primarily organized for the purpose of instilling campus traditions and Beaver spirit into entering freshmen and of teaching them the college songs and yells, the organization has assumed many duties. The Beaver mascot draws its bodyguard from their ranks. Visitors are received and entertained by them, and they supply ushers for student gatherings.

SPURS

o win the confidence of freshmen women and to break away from the idea of an organization of campus policewomen has been, this year, the purpose of Spurs, national honorary fraternity for sophomore women. "At your service," was chosen as a new motto to be made the basis of the activities of the organization. The group continues, however, to sponsor campus traditions. Spurs, which corresponds to Beaver Knights for men, selects its active members from sophomore women who have shown interest in maintaining the highest traditions of the campus.

HOMECOMING WEEK END

HE hospitality of the Memorial Union building, just completed, and the lighting of the lower campus and of the Lady of the Fountain, gave to Homecoming Week End a gayly festive air in keeping with the spirit in which the Homecoming committee and the college each year welcome back the graduates. Increased accommodations made it possible, for the first time, to hold the alumni banquet on the campus. Another new feature was the rowing event which replaced the smaller events of former years. Other traditional features were continued.

EDUCATIONAL EXPOSITION

Year, the Educational exposition, February 22 and 23, demonstrated the fact that interest in vocational work and vocational guidance is increasing steadily in the high schools of Oregon.

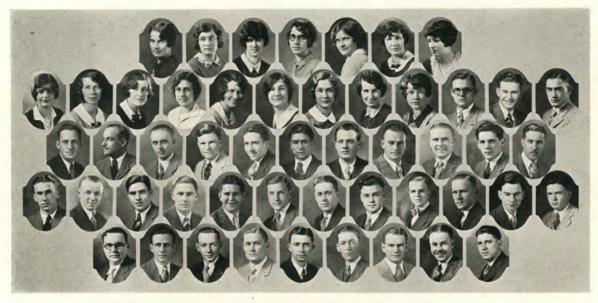

The guidance program is offered yearly for the purpose of acquainting the high school student not only with the courses offered at Oregon State but with enough of the field to permit him to make wise choice of a future occupation.

R. ALLAN RINEHART, Editor change from cap and gown dress of the seniors to the formal appearances now given was made with the idea that the former did not depict of our college life and was merely a tradition at best. The representative section for both women and men was installed as an award and honor to those who have been fairly selected as representative of the classes.

The managerial staff of the Beaver has experienced a most successful year. Advertisers have supported the annual as in past years and a few names have been added to the list. Printing and engraving costs have been watched closely, saving the staff many unnecessary expenses. Of most interest to the student body and to the managerial staff was the circulation drive. The membership of every living organization was listed and sixty salesmen were each assigned a group of names for which they were responsible. The campaign lasted only one week during which time the major part of the sales were made. More than 2000 sales resulted from a student body which claimed to be "flat broke" at the beginning of the cam-paign. Twelve organizations went over 100 per cent in subscriptions and were given free books. Particular care has been taken in the selection of staff members. Awarding Beaver pins for three years service on the staff and shingles for the first two years increases the honor of being recognized as a member of the Beaver staff. Living groups are complimented for their cooperation with the staff.

The Volume XXIII Beaver

I JITHIN this Volume XXIII Beaver, it has been our intent and distinct aim to bring forth every phase of activities of Oregon State college for the year 1928–29. Our theme has been built around these activities, keeping it in conjunction with the spirit of today, and the motif is one which we hope is truly modern and representative of the period. Each organization and department on the campus has been given space relative to its importance, but the arrangement of chapters was not intended to give the earlier ones more importance. The living groups are arranged alphabetically, for in our minds, this gives no chosen preference to any group. In our efforts to show the purpose and functions of the schools of the college, we have awarded a full page to each one. The change from cap and gown dress of the seniors to

Volume XXIII Beaver

The Volume XXIII Beaver graphically records the high lights of the college year. Pictures of every event, both athletic and social, appear in this book, and it is hoped that they will tell a true story of the year's events.

A complete and efficient organization was worked out to make this Beaver worthy of representing Oregon State college. Department editors were graded weekly on the efficiency of work done by them and their staffs.

Several new features were included in this volume. A representative section with a full page picture of the most popular man and woman of each class and a page of pictures of representative upperclassmen, adds much to the interest of the book. The contest winners were chosen by students at a regular Beaver election. Another interesting innovation was that of having the senior pictures taken in formal dress instead of in cap and gown.

The manager, Marian Conklin, played an important part in producing this annual, as her staff managed the financial side of the publication. Revenue was obtained from the sale of space to organizations, sale of books and from advertisers.

Oregon State Daily Barometer

7 1 )<sup>1TH</sup> the passing of the amendment to the constitution of the Associated Students, Utaking the selection of Barometer editor out of the campus politics, begins a new era in the history of the publication. The saying, to the larger party-the important offices, will apply only to purely executive offices from now on, positions where previous experience is not a requisite. The Barometer took the initiative in this measure and as a result the publication will go down with the other Pacific coast college papers in the annals of modern selection of editors. The Barometer this year, for the first time in its history, has been receiving its copy "raw," that is, directly from the reporters before having had it corrected by the journalism department instructors. Although we find it more difficult for the day and night editors, we have also found it to be vastly more interesting and containing much more practical experience value. Other progressive measures are attempted from time to time with the hope of making the Barometer as modern as possible, keeping to the conservative make-up and down-style policy.

BEGINNING this year of 1928–29 in entirely new surroundings, has in itself, led to new improvements in the system of staff organization, accounting, record keeping and service work. Accurate and permanent records are now kept of the amount of advertising space used daily, both by local and national advertisers. A budget system of expenditures and income is definitely planned at the beginning of the school year, which tends to curtail extravagant expenditures by over-ambitious managers and editors. An entirely new service, established this year, is that of carefully searching each day's issue for items of special interest to the parents of students registered in school, and sending a marked copy of the issue to them free of charge, accompanied by a letter explaining the purpose of the service. A lively interest is kept up among the staff and assistants, by the opportunities offered for personal contact with problems as they are met in everyday life. The staff is promoted from year to year, the more deserving workers getting the higher positions. Excellent opportunities are offered in this work for business experience.

Daily Barometer

The Oregon State Daily Barometer is a seven-column, four-page paper and is the official organ of the Associated Students. This paper, which is published daily except Sunday and Monday, reflects the campus life and spirit of the students. On special occasions extras have been on the campus a few minutes after important events.

Practical experience may be gained by students registered in journalism as they are given an opportunity to work on the paper. Beats are assigned to these students so that no story, no matter how small, is overlooked. Important stories are assigned to special writers.

The manager, who handles the finances, advertising and circulation, is selected from the staff by the board of control. A separate day and night staff works on each issue.

The Barometer is a member of the Pacific Intercollegiate Press association. Its offices are located in the Memorial Union building, and all except the final work and printing is done here. It goes to press some time after midnight. The Barometer ranks high among similiar college publications on the coast.

The Oregon State Monthly

71)ITH the thought of evolving a publication that will serve students, alumni and all schools of the institution alike, a project for an all-school magazine is being worked out with the cooperation of the Alumni association. Planning along this line the Alumni association about the middle of the year changed the name of its publication from "The O. A. C. Alumnus" to "Oregon State Monthly." In order to give some indication of what the plan embodied the association issued a sample magazine, which although restricted by a limited budget was worked out as nearly as possible along the all-college line. Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity, volunteered to do the major portion of the departmental copy preparation, individual members editing the various sections and supervising the collection of material, with the Alumni association as publishers. While the Oregon State Monthly is at present in the experimental stage, the hope is that it may eventually be able to serve as a summarizing monthly, an outlet for campus and non-campus Oregon State expression.

The set of the advertising pressure that will likely be entailed eventually when the various schools on the Oregon State campus seek through individual publications for avenues of expression is offered by means of the Oregon State Monthly. If this publication can ultimately be worked into an all-school magazine, Corvallis merchants as well as national advertisers will be given opportunity to select their advertising space in a single publication, one that will have a greater and more diversified subscription list than a number of special periodicals could expect. Also, these advertisers will not be continually importuned to buy advertising space in numerous campus magazines as would be the case were each school to put out an individual publication. Alpha Delta Sigma, national professional advertising fraternity, has offered to assist the manager of the Oregon State Monthly in getting advertisements and preparing the copy for ads, thereby enabling students to have a practical laboratory in advertising. Advertising in the Oregon State Monthly will reach a wide range of prospective purchasers.

The Oregon State Monthly

Newton

Pickett

The Oregon State Monthly, published by the Oregon State College Alumni association, is a reorganization of the former monthly publication of the association, the O. A. C. Alumnus. Recognizing the growing need on the campus for a monthly publication as a means of student, faculty and alumni expression the Alumni association took the first step to make this possible by broadening the scope of its publication. A magazine solely designed for alumni or for any other restricted group could not hope to tie up the interests of the three branches of collegiate life—students, faculty and alumni. The Oregon State Monthly, as the various groups seek an outlet, stands ready to serve.

Each school on the campus may have a department in the Oregon State Monthly. In this department items concerning students, faculty and alumni may be incorporated or small items relative to the particular work of that school may be used. In addition, from time to time, special articles dealing with the activities of the various schools are prepared. Special departments for humor, sports, editorials and the like are conducted. All of this departmental work including the special articles is under the direction of the students, with the journalistic fraternity, Sigma Delta Chi, handling much of it. General stories of interest to all Oregon Staters are also used. Each departmental editor selects a staff of students to work under him, from which staff future editors for the respective departments will be selected. The editor-in-chief of the publication devotes his full time to the magazine, heading the work of the various student sub-editors. Loring G. Hudson, '27, holds the position of editor-in-chief, which position he held on the O. A. C. Alumnus. Through this magazine it is hoped that the students will have a greater opportunity to see what the alumni are doing, and the alumni will be given a greater understanding of the college.

O. S. C. DIRECTORY

The Oregon State Directory, one of the most used reference books on the campus, is published by students of the school of commerce twice a year—at the beginning of the fall and winter terms. The editor is elected by the Chamber of Commerce and has charge of the general makeup of the magazine. The manager and other members of the general staff are appointed from commercial students.

Editing, financing, advertising and circulation give the students a chance to experience practical work in commercial lines.

The Directory includes names of the faculty and college staff, giving their addresses, phone numbers and offices. The students' names are listed with their class, home town, present address and phone number.

TECH RECORD

OW ORK on the Oregon State Technical Record, commonly termed the "Tech Record," is done by engineering students, faculty and contributors. It is the official bulletin of the Associated Engineers. Positions on the staff are filled by those students majoring in engineering who wish to practice in journalism.

Articles are not limited to campus questions as the publication goes into the practical field of problems confronting professional engineers. It is a member of the Engineering College Magazines Association, a national organization of 18 publications.

Starting first as the Northwest Journal of Engineering in 1909, it became the Student Engineer in 1911 and finally, through the work of the students, became a quarterly magazine in 1923. Circulation of the magazine has reached a total of 700 copies.

OREGON COUNTRYMAN

AKING the college to the country is the chief purpose of the Oregon Countryman, an illustrated monthly magazine published by the students of the school of agriculture. Material published gives the most approved findings of scientific agriculture and home economics, and gives the farmers and housewives a point of contact with the college. Sections are maintained for alumni news, campus news, humor and articles on current agricultural home-making questions. Advancing the work of the 4-H club is one of the services performed by the magazine—copies being sent to the headquarters of various clubs in the state.

Edward Douglass, editor, and Kenneth Courtney, manager, have maintained a useful and interesting publication through the year.

OSTERING cooperation among lumbermen, alumni and the school of forestry, the Annual Cruise is published each year by the Forestry club. This magazine covers material of technical, scientific and historical interest to foresters and logging operators. Under the directions of Theodore Herzog, editor, and Norman Hawley, manager, the annual has increased its usefulness this year by bringing a closer connection between the school of forestry and its alumni.

Writing the articles is not confined to students, as contributions are also made by instructors, professors, alumni, professional foresters and logging operators. Special sections are maintained for alumni news and directory. Each section maintains interest by illustrations, poetry and selections of songs by "Fern Hoppers."

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

RAPID development in the Conservatory of Music, under the direction of Professor Paul Petri, has been evident in the increased interest in musical activity on the campus. Music has also played an important part in the progress in radio work here.

This year Oregon State was again honored by having Donald Harris, sophomore optional in music, win the state Atwater Kent radio audition. He competed in San Francisco with the other nine winners from the western states. This is the second year that Oregon State has placed first in the radio audition. The music staff has had new members to help with the "carry on" idea to further the progress that Mr. and Mrs. Paul Petri have fostered on the campus. Mr. Petri was musical director of the annual operetta and went with the operetta cast on its tour of eastern Oregon. The band also made its annual tour during spring vacation. The music staff includes Paul Petri, director of the conservatory of music, professor of singing and conductor of choruses; Lillian Jeffreys Petri, professor of piano and musical theory; Marguerite MacManus, professor of stringed instruments and director of the orchestra; Byron D. Arnold, assistant professor of the organ, piano and history of music; Florence Bowden, assistant professor of violin and small strings; Ruby Breithaupt, instructor of piano; H. J. ### "CHIMES OF NORMANDY"

The Glee and Madrigal clubs presented the "Chimes of Normandy" March 8 and 9, under the musical direction of Paul Petri and stage direction of Mrs. E. L. Potter. The operetta was a mystery in which the old miser, Gaspard, was the center. He hides his unlawful wealth in an old castle, but is discovered by the Marquis De Corneville, who returns it to the rightful owner, Germaine.

The cast and directors left March 23, during spring vacation, to tour eastern Oregon, playing at The Dalles, Baker, LaGrande, Pendleton and Hood River. On March 29 and 30 they gave the operetta in Portland and Salem. Norman Adams managed the operetta and the tour, assisted by Merritt Wilson.

The cast was composed of Flora McCoy as Serpolette, the Good-for-Nothing; Helen Wood, Germaine, the lost Marchioness; Ted Gilbert, Henri, the Marquis of Corneville who is in exile; Ted Roy, Jean Grenicheux, a fisherman; Jack Handford, Gaspard, an old miser; Martha Jones as Gertrude, Betty Israel as Jeanne, Jessie Gibbs as Nanette and Thelma Davis as Suzanne were the village maidens; Fred Bentley, the Baili; Chester Bergey, the Registrar; Ralph Ciliax, the Assessor; and Tom Bruce as the Notary, completed the cast. This is the fourth operetta to be produced under the direction of Paul Petri. Some chosen members of the Oregon State orchestra accompanied the singers on the spring tour.

Campus Beauties in the "Junior Follies"

"JUNIOR FOLLIES"

HE "Junior Follies" was presented by the junior class May 18 and 19 at the Majestic theatre as a part of the junior week-end program. The cast for this production was composed entirely of men, thus making it the first all-men's play ever given on the Oregon State campus. The "Follies" was so successful and was met with such enthusiasm that it was decided to make it a traditional part of this week-end. It proved also a means of bringing men who are interested in this type of work together. John Watkins, student manager, successfully negotiated arrangements for the production.

The play was an adaptation of "The Campus" by Walter De Leon. It depicted the typical college life with its joys, sorrows and carefreeness. The names given to the characters adapted the play more than ever to Oregon State.

The cast included Irvin Carver, Johnny Smells, the campus policeman; Henry De Boest, Bobby Coffee, the yell leader;Grant Edwards, Fat Staples; DaveWilliams, Cotton Deadlock; Marrs Gist, Linty Boore; Francis Randall, Dean Cordial; Jerry Dunkelberger, Chester Cordial; Fred Mense, Larry; Harold Huntington, Eva Shakups; Richard Stalker, Mrs. Dressups; and Chester Wheeler, Betty Backamillion.

Miss Elizabeth Barnes directed the production. The music was provided by the little orchestra directed by Professor Paul Petri.

THE Oregon State chapter of National Collegiate Players presented "The Devil in the Cheese" by Tom Cushing, December 7 and 8, under the direction of D. Palmer Young, instructor in public speaking.

OTUDENTS from the advanced community drama classes presented Robert Emmet Sherwood's "The Queen's Husband," under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Barnes, associate professor of public speaking and dramatics, February 28 and March 1, in the Majestic theatre.

A mild yet firm and kind king who played checkers with the queen's butler while she was away was characterized by Robert Mathews. King Eric was the monarch of a mythical kingdom in the north sea. He married his daughter to his private secretary while a large congregation awaited her wedding at the cathedral to a neighboring prince who later turned out to be a villain.

The scenery for the production was designed by the class in scene designing, under the direction of Miss Eleanor Ridenour, instructor in art, and the class in stage construction under D. Palmer Young, instructor in public speaking.

December 14, the community drama students, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Barnes, associate professor of public speaking and dramatics, presented the last group of plays in the workshop theatre. The plays were "The Fourteenth Guest" by Clyde Barrett, "Tatters" by Richard Burton, and "Wurzel-Flummery" by A. A. Milne. "The Queen's Husband" by Robert E. Sherwood, a three-act comedy, was also presented by the community drama classes.

Regular class work and credits are given for students interested in community drama. The cast for the various one-act plays are chosen from the class enrollment.

VARSITY DEBATE

Debate Coaches

ROFESSOR C. B. Mitchell, coach of forensics and general head of all activities of the public speaking department, is chiefly responsible for building interest in forensics to the high peak it has reached on the campus. Paul X. Knoll, a former three-year varsity debater, is varsity debate coach. Although this is his first year in the department, his success with the debaters was immediate. Mr. Knoll will receive his doctor's degree here in the summer.

A. E. O'Konski, coach of oratory and freshman debate, is another new man on the teaching staff. By the quality of the professional and personal attention he gave his debaters and orators, this man has handled his share of the work with remarkable success. He is a graduate of Wisconsin State college, with graduate work from the University of Washington and the University of Iowa. E. W. Wells, who received the degree of Doctor of Jurisprudence from the University of Iowa last summer, is coach of extempore speaking. The success of his men this season testifies to his ability.

Donald Ford, general forensic manager, and Fred Greer, assistant manager, arranged all varsity debates and contests entered during the year. They were chosen for ability and experience. Martin Redding was intramural manager and Jack McCannell was manager of freshman debate.

VARSITY DEBATE

Control of an ambitious schedule of 22 debates, the men's varsity squad made an enviable showing this year. Fred Greer and Donald Ford, both veterans, opened the season with a tour into the north in which they won from Spokane university, and lost to Washington State by decision of a critic judge. On an audience decision the team lost to Idaho and finished the tour with a no decision debate with Whitman.

Elmer Larson and Vila Blake won from Linfield February 20 in a dual debate. Barnard Joy and Donald Gillanders debated Nevada on March 9, no decision. In a no decision dual debate with Pacific university March 19, Clarence Bitts, Fred Greer, Donald Ford and Vila Blake represented Oregon State. The next night Bitts and Greer lost to the University of Southern California. Later debates were Greer and Herbert Ewing with Arizona, Ford and Greer with U. C. L. A., both Oregon State victories.

Debates for the latter part of the season were Greer and Ewing, Larson and Blake with Willamette university; Ford and Greer with Wyoming; Grant McMillan and George Knutsen with Stanford; Gordon Winks and Harold Ewalt with Montana and Spokane university. In this year's work the Oregon system of debate was used for the first time by an Oregon State team.

WOMEN'S DEBATE

The Women's Varsity Debate Squad

The women's varsity debate squad, composed of 20 members, organized and began work early in October. Although there were only four experienced women on the squad, Coach P. X. Knoll has developed winning teams and is completing a successful season. The distinctive feature of the work this year has been that every woman completing the squad work has been given an opportunity to enter a contest.

The year's schedule consisted of 18 conference and non-conference debates, and included a trip to the College of Puget Sound and to three California colleges. The three questions debated were: "Resolved, That Mussolini has been a benefit to Italy;" "Resolved, That the plea of temporary insanity in defense of crime should be prohibited by law;" and "Resolved, That modern science tends on the whole to destroy theistic faith."

At the present time the squad has participated in 14 scheduled debates, losing only two decision contests, once to the Oregon State Normal school and to the College of Puget Sound.

Women who have done outstanding work on the squad are Opal Smith, Mamie Erickson, Elizabeth Vance, Siri-Ann Enegren, Frances-Ann Blake and Helen Woodward.

FRESHMAN DEBATE

F the 12 debates scheduled for the freshman squad, the teams won four and tied one. The rest of the debates were either no decision or debates late in the season. The organization of the squad was considerably changed this year, no man being picked for more than one contest. This arrangement gave nearly every man turning out for debate a chance to show what he could do in an intercollegiate match. The teams won both parts of a dual debate with Albany college, lost in a dual with Monmouth Normal, won from Weber college, Utah, tied Baylor university, Texas, won from Nazarene college, Idaho, and entered a dual, no decision debate with Linfield college. Other debates scheduled were with Ashland Normal and a dual with Willamette university. Men on the rook squad were Robert Luehrs, Clark Durham, Jack Friedel, Harvey Pease, Elmer Buckhorn, Walter Gnose, Richard Dunkleberger, Jack McConnell, Gilbert Erlandson, John Ritter, Edward Efteland, Howard Ireland, Edwin Enegren, Paul Shepard, Lloyd Burdick, Errol Platt, Robert Renner, Warren Coleman, William Given, Robert Schneider, Willard Ormsby, Walter Woodard, Nathen Weinstein, Charles Ernst, Harold Lidell, Alfred Widmark, and James Landye.

CONTEST SPEAKERS

ENVER S. Garner, although this is his first year in oratory, received second place representing Oregon State in the State Old Line contest this year. His oration, "Dogmatic Dragooning," was unusual in originality and material. It dealt with the folly of religious-faith doctors using the persuasive and suggestive element of fear in urging the adoption of blind faith. Garner again represented Oregon State in the National Peace contest, giving as his oration, "Education For Peace." The address was a clarion call to the schools to accept their due burden in striving for world peace. He is spoken of by his coaches and close followers of debate as an extremely natural orator with a philosophical mind. He will be available to support the college two more years.

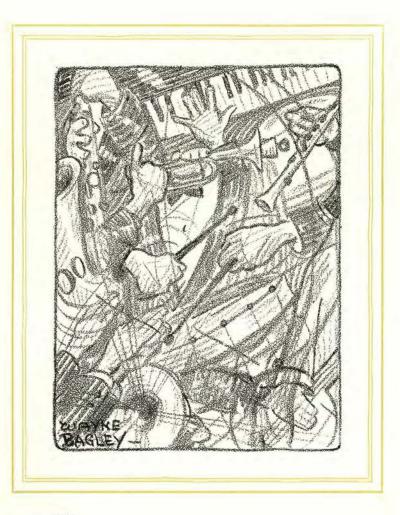

Daniel Bryant, winner of the Lions club contest last year, represented Oregon State in the Pacific Coast Oratorical contest at Moscow, Idaho, March 29. The contest is entered by the leading colleges and universities of the states of Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California and Arizona. Bryant's oration "An Ass Laden With Gold," won fourth place. It was a plea for a reorganization of our economic order in which he pointed out the injustice of the present status which allows a concentration of wealth at the expense of those who spend their last years as charity wards.

Barnard Joy, sophomore, represented the college in the Pacific Coast Extemporaneous Speaking contest at the University of Idaho March 29. The contest is sponsored by the Pacific Coast Forensic League. No general subject of discussion was named until one hour before the contest, at which time Joy was given the topic, "Individual Citizen And A Problem Of Crime." This is Joy's second year in extemporaneous speaking and debate.

Loren J. Smith represented Oregon State at Linfield college April 12 in the State Extempore Speaking contest, sponsored by the Extempore Speaking League of Oregon. The general subject for the contest was the Kellogg Peace Pact, on which subject the speakers were given some topic to develop. Smith, a junior, has been on the extempore speaking squad for two years and on the debate squad for one year. His work during this time justifies the confidence which was shown in his ability by selecting him to represent the college in this contest.

Informal Dances

VERYONE goes to the first student body dance. All of the freshmen go because it is their first social function in college and the upperclassmen go because there is a new class to be welcomed and inspected. Of course they all have a good time, and they return for the two or three more which are scheduled each term. Student body dances are among the most friendly get-togethers held on the campus.

One of the most outstanding general dances this year was the one given by the Pep committee in the Memorial Union building. Oregon State pennants and insignia of all kinds were displayed on those portions of the walls not occupied by Oregon State blankets. The football team was there en masse as guests of the committee. A really patriotic spirit was aroused among the dancers, quite in keeping with the decorations, and everyone had a good time.

The annual rook dance, during the first term, gave everyone a chance to become acquainted and has a feature all its own. Rook bibles are stamped at this time, which means that first year men not in attendance have a session with the Beaver Knights later in the week. Men not escorting women home from the dance are required to serenade the halls and sororities that night. The dance begins as a strictly non-fussing affair, and ends with nearly every rook at least on speaking terms with one rookess.

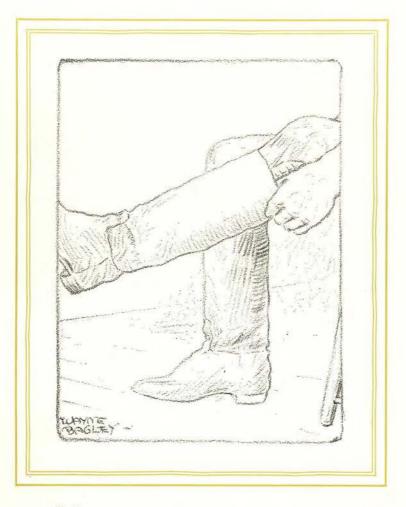

One of the busiest nights of the college year was the night of the Homecoming dance which gave the returned alumnus a taste of the old life. The Memorial Union building, used for the first time to entertain graduates, the women's building and the men's gymnasium were crowded with students and alumni. An overflow of pep and cordiality pervaded the dances this year while old acquaintances were being renewed.

The popular mode of transportation to the Ag-Home Ec Ball is a lumbering farm wagon. Blue "jeans," gingham aprons, and straw hats come to the dance bedecking campus belles and beau brummels. Not the least of the fun comes when the prizes for the wearers of the most striking costumes are announced. The women's old gymnasium was generously set off this year with all the "fixins" of a real farmyard.

The junior cord dance this year in the Hotel Benton brought together a group of disreputable nether garments which would have brought tears to the eyes of a rag man. The stimulus to the appearance of ancient cords was the prize offered for the owner of the dirtiest pair—a new pair of spotless ones. Much hilarity was the result of this friendly competition, and the cord dance will remain one of the outstanding informal entertainments of this year.

Commissioned Officers Staff of Instruction

MILITARY

The R. O. T. C. unit maintained at Oregon State college is recognized as one of the most efficient units of its kind in the United States. This year there are 1,366 students enrolled in military. The staff of commissioned officers of the regular army consists of graduates of leading military schools in the country who have supplemented this training with years of practical experience. Colonel G. W. Moses, U. S. army, (retired), is succeeded this year by Colonel H. R. Richmond, cavalry. He has had long experience in the conduct of military training, being a graduate of the cavalry school of our own army and also of that of the French army at Saumur, France. During the four years preceding our entrance into the World war he was senior instructor in the United States cavalry school at Fort Riley. Colonel Richmond came here from the headquarters of the Fifth Corps area at Columbus, Ohio, where he was on the staff of the commanding general as Officer in Charge of Organized Reserve Affairs.

Four units of military training are maintained at Oregon State: infantry, artillery, engineers and cavalry. The cavalry, however, is to be discontinued at the end of this year. Military training, especially the two years of advanced work, is considered valuable training in leadership. Students who elect to take four years of military must attend summer camp at Camp Lewis which comprises six weeks of intensive training.

THE BEAVERSYEAR BOOK OF THE OREGONISTATE COLLEGE

Cadet Officers

MILITARY

ENIORS in military are given commissions ranging from cadet second lieutenant to cadet colonel. A cadet colonel and staff is appointed to command the reserve officers corps unit as a whole. Each regiment of the unit also has a cadet colonel and staff; the engineer battalion is commanded by a cadet lieutenantcolonel. Scabbard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, is the goal of many of the students who elect to take the two years of advanced training.

The primary purpose of the R. O. T. C. is to provide reserve officers for the military forces of the United States. Students completing the four years of military training are given commissions as second lieutenants in the reserve corps. The R. O. T. C. is inspected annually by United States army officers detailed by the War department. Oregon State has successfully passed the requirements for a "Distinguished College" rating every year but one during the past 10 years.

By measuring up to the standards meriting the rating of a distinguished college, a limited number of students completing the course in one of the four units, who have military aptitudes and who desire to enter the permanent military establishment, are given special preference by the War department for appointment as second lieutenants in the regular army. The Military Ball is the annual social function sponsored by Scabbard and Blade.

INFANTRY

Infantry Unit

The infantry, having an enrollment of 575 students this year, is the largest unit of the R. O. T. C. It is especially proficient in the precision and accuracy of its drill, always being a strong contender for the honor of being the best drilled unit on the campus. Instruction in hygiene, sanitation and military law is given in the classroom. Field work consists of thorough training in minor tactics, topography, the use of the rifle, machine gun and bayonet. Qualities of leadership, discipline and precision are developed in students through drills and ceremonies.

CAVALRY

The cavalry unit, at the insistence of the War department and with the concurrence of President Kerr, is to be discontinued at Oregon State college at the end of this year. No freshmen were enrolled in the unit this year, and juniors and sophomores have been transferred to other units. Seniors in the cavalry unit, however, are being permitted to complete their course this year. With horses and riding equipment, cavalry has had a special place in the college, and its passing is regarded as more than an ordinary loss to the college and to the state.

Artillery Unit

ARTILLERY

The field artillery unit is one of the two largest units in the military department at Oregon State. The United States government has supplied the field artillery with a large amount of equipment such as guns, ranging in size from the light French 75 mm. drawn by horses, to the heavy 155 mm. rifle drawn by the caterpillar tractor. With the removal of the sophomores and juniors of the cavalry to other units more horses have been available for the field artillery, which enables this branch to give more training in horsemanship. Competition is keen in firing contests.

ENGINEERS

The engineering unit is an important branch of the army in modern warfare. It must go ahead of other divisions to construct bridges and fortified positions. Because of the technical nature of its courses, this branch of the R. O. T. C. limits its students to the school of engineering. Practical training is given students in actual construction of pontoons and suspension bridges over nearby rivers. In the classroom is given theoretical instruction in both war and peace-time duties of military engineers. They compete with the other units on the campus in drill.

The ninth corps area match, in which all colleges west of the Rocky mountains with R. O. T. C. units entered, was won for the seventh consecutive year. Oregon State won this contest by a 110 point margin over its nearest competitor. ## POLO

MITEREST in polo at Oregon State is increasing as the sport becomes more firmly established. More than 40 members of the Polo club tried out for the playing squads this year. Polo is recognized as a special military sport and monogrammed sweaters are awarded at the end of the year to members of the squad who have played more than six periods. The letter given in polo is a large block "O" with a mallet intersecting the "O."

Lieutenant Stockton has had considerable experience in the game, having played on such winning teams as Fort Leavenworth, Fort Brown and the Twelfth Cavalry team. Lettermen around whom Lieutenant Stockton has built his 1928-29 team are Preston Varney, captain; William McGinnis and Fred Sugnet. Other successful candidates were Dellis Cornutt, Cedric Boeseke, Alvin Ross, Philip McCormick, William McKinstray, Glenn Bohannon, Frank O'Connor and Lum Rhea.

Six indoor and six outdoor games are played annually. The indoor games are scheduled during the winter term and the outdoor games are played during the spring term after weather conditions become favorable. Oregon State won 10 out of 12 games played during the past year, losing one indoor game to Forest Hills of Portland and one outdoor game to the fast Stanford team. Trips made by the polo squad are comparable to those made by any of the teams in the major sports. The squad traveled as far east as Salt Lake City, but was unable to play because of unfavorable weather. The men then went south to Palo Alto where they played the Stanford university team. Although Stanford won the game at Palo Alto the Oregon State squad took them into camp with a much larger score in the return game. Oregon State entered the northwest tournament at Vancouver where they defeated the Vancouver team as well as the Douglass Lake team from Canada. Regular light cavalry ponies are used for polo mounts which are kept in condition through use in the riding classes.

Oregon State has been fortunate in obtaining military men well qualified as polo coaches. Teams have been turned out which have won recognition for the college as possessing one of the leading squads of the Pacific coast. Oregon State has excellent facilities for both outdoor and indoor practice. Several good fields are available for outdoor playing and the armory, equipped this year with five-foot knee boards for protection of the riders, furnishes one of the best riding halls in the country. Funds with which to carry on this activity are raised by the Polo club through such enterprises as the annual horse show, which is considered one of the outstanding functions of the year.

MILITARY INSPECTION

The two main events of the year for the R. O. T. C. are the inspection and tournament, both in the spring term. The R. O. T. C. is inspected by U. S. Army officers detailed from the War department at Washington, D. C. Cadets are given a thorough examination for neatness of dress, knowledge of military tactics, discipline, and precision and accuracy of drill. Each unit is inspected during class hours and a final inspection is given the entire R. O. T. C. on the lower campus. In this inspection, Oregon State competes with other colleges for the award of the distinguished service star. Oregon State has won this rating of distinguished college to of the past 12 years. The distinguished college rating allows a limited number of men completing the four years of training, who have exceptional military ability, special preference for appointments as second lieutenants in the regular army.

The military tournament in which all units take part, is staged near the close of the spring term. The tournament is the climax of the year's activities in military, showing the practical work done by the military department. More than 1300 cadets take part in the tourney besides co-eds and faculty members. The event is of state-wide interest, many coming long distances to view the feats. Various athletic contests are staged between the units which arouse keen competition for the prize offered the unit winning the most number of points. The unit presenting the best appearance in its drills is also given an award. Some of the events comprising the program are the mounted and dismounted tugs-of-war, skirmish races, barrel fights, Roman riding and jumping, machine gun contests, polo contests and relay squad races. Each unit is allotted a few minutes in which to present some of the most interesting features of its work and construction. At this time, the governor of the state personally awards reserve officer commissions to men completing their four years of military training.

VERY term at Oregon State college is a good term, but the summer term is the best. The beautiful, shaded campus, the uncrowded class rooms and laboratories, the personal contact, the enthusiastic students from many places all taking work because they want it and not because it is in a required curriculum—these create an atmosphere in which study, recreation, and good fellowship combine. Students of the regular session find time in the summer to work in subjects crowded out during the year—some English or history or music besides their technical specialties. Some plan to get ahead toward the Master's degree or others to shorten their course by using the summer. Most of all, they enjoy work with distinguished instructors from other institutions who could be reached in the regular session only by distant travel and at great expense.

Among the visitors during the coming summer are Miss Florence Jackson, of Wellesley, national authority on Vocational Guidance for women; Mr. J. R. Patterson, who will conduct on the campus a branch of "Parsons" famous School of Fine and Applied Arts with home offices in New York and Paris; Professor Rilla Evelyn Jackman, Syracuse university, author of "American Arts"; Dr. Caroline Hedger, of the Mc-Cormick Memorial Fund, (Child Development); Professor Belle Lowe, Iowa State college, (Nutrition); Harold H. In various phases of Vocational Education, basic or specialized, in Home Economics, Commerce, Industrial Arts, Industrial Education, Physical Education for men or for women, and in Art, Chemistry, English, History, Public Speaking and Dramatics, courses are offered by regular and visiting instructors. Director Paul Petri and his staff will make their customary splendid contributtion, both in courses offered and musical programs during the session.

Features of the summer session include a two-weeks intensive course for coaches of athletic sports, providing instruction between June 17 and July 5 in football, basketball, wrestling, boxing, track and athletic conditioning, the latter courses to be taught by Archie Hahn, Princeton coach and famous Michigan sprinter and Olympic champion. Professor C. C. Grover, assistant director of the Bureau of Curriculum Development, Oakland, Calif., public schools, will give interesting work in counseling, measurement, and curriculum construction. An exceptionally varied program is offered in Industrial Arts. Special programs are offered for Smith-Hughes teachers under the direction of the State Supervisor, Mr. O. D. Adams. The Gang That Smeared the New York Violets

FOOTBALL

T the beginning of the 1928 gridiron season, the Orange warriors were rated by fans and writers among the leading contenders for honors in Pacific coast conference football. With nearly a dozen veterans as a nucleus for the team, prospects for Oregon State were looking rather bright. During the season, however, Coach Paul Schissler's gridmen experienced many ups and downs, ending their schedule in noble style by defeating the renowned New York university eleven 25 to 13—a game which was considered the biggest upset of the year.

P. J. SCHISSLER, Coach

The season opened registration day with the California Aggie game which ended 14 to 0 in favor of the Orangemen. The Staters next tangled with the University of Southern California on the Trojan field and were defeated 19 to 0. Reversing the situation in a double-header with Columbia and Pacific, the Orangemen returned from Portland after downing these teams 41 to 0 and 46 to 0, respectively. The tide again turned when Washington State college trampled the team on its home field 9 to 7. In the next two contests of the season the Orangemen again found their stride, defeating Washington and Montana 29 to 0 and 44 to 0. Then when the Beavers matched their strength with the Webfeet gridmen in the annual Homecoming classic, the outcome was a story with a different ending-Oregon 12, Oregon State o. These same Beavers then crossed the continent and beat New York 25 to 13.

Early Fall Practice Drills Men in Fundamentals

FOOTBALL

HOUGH the team was not a leader in the Pacific coast conference, certain of the gridmen received as their just rewards positions on all-American and Pacific coast mythical elevens. Howard Maple, star quarterback of many grid contests, was selected as alternate for the position on the New York Sun's all-American team. For coast honors, Maple was placed on all-coast squads by Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, the Oregon Journal and the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Vernon Eilers, guard, was chosen on the Journal's first team and on the Post-Intelligencer's second team. Warner placed Russ Striff at end and Jule Carlson at guard on his second team and gave honorable mention to Melvin "Cotton" Whitlock, end.

Twenty-seven men were given sweater awards for the 1928 grid season. Seniors receiving letters were Eilers and Carlson, guards; Kirk, center; Luce, tackle; Whitlock, end; and Maple, quarterback. Two-year awards were given Striff, end; Geddes, center; Metten, halfback; Stout and Schell, tackles; Montgomery, quarterback; and Gilmore and Essman, fullbacks. Single stripers were Cochran, guard; Owen, Hughes, Kerr and Sherwood, halfbacks; Young, tackle; Buerke, quarterback; Thompson, fullback; and McKalip, end. Scott, guard, Twitchell, halfback, and Avrit, fullback, who were injured in early season practices were given awards. Carr and Peterson were awarded service letters.

CALIFORNIA AGGIE GAME

N September 29, the Beavers opened the 1928 grid season with the California Aggies on Bell field, beating them 14 to 0. The Davis eleven had hardly been on the field five minutes when the Orangemen shoved over their first touchdown. On a 40-yard pass from Maple to Striff the ball was put on the four-yard line; on the third try for the touchdown Hughes went through center for the score. The other touchdown was made soon after the beginning of the second half.

Few intricate plays were used in the game and Schissler uncovered no unnecessary plays to defeat the Mustangs, as scouts for the Cougars and the Trojans were in the press box. The Orangemen kept the ball in enemy territory practically the entire game. Four times, however, the ball was advanced to the 10-yard line, only to be lost on downs.

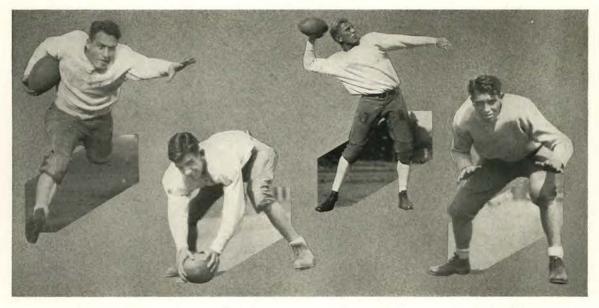

The Oregon State football team had little trouble in rolling up large scores in its double header with Columbia and Pacific on October 13. The scores were 41 to 0 and 46 to 0, respectively. The Orangemen averaged better than a point a minute in each game. Coach Schissler used nearly four squads in the two games and tried four different backfield combinations. The Beaver teams seemed able to score at will and lost the ball only twice on downs. Hughes, Drynan and Thompson showed up well.

TROJAN GAME

The Warning cry down on the U. S. C. campus was "Look out for Oregon State." The Trojan mentor, Howard Jones, was looking out. He was prepared against a duplication of the scare that was thrown into the Trojan warriors in the game last year when they just nosed out the Staters by a one-point win.

The Beavers came back from the Troy stronghold with the short end of a 19 to 0 score, but were far from being disheartened. Most important of the effects of the contest, however, were the injuries inflicted in the Orange ranks. Carl Metten, halfback, returned from the mix with a broken foot. loose and Howard Maple, quarterback and field captain in the contest, had an eye closed on the opening kickoff and two teeth knocked out during the second play.

Rowdy Kerr, halfback; Vern Eilers, guard; Carl Gilmore, fullback; and Roscoe Luce, tackle and line captain for the game, suffered injured knees and legs. Jule Carlson, guard, and Chuck Stout, tackle, also showed results of severe battering.

The Trojans played heads-up football, making the breaks and using them.

WASHINGTON STATE GAME

N the week-end following the victories over Columbia and Pacific, the Orangemen traveled to Pullman to play in Washington State's annual Homecoming classic. The Cougars, having probably the most powerful eleven ever to wear the crimson and gray in years, were considered the toughest of the remaining conference teams by Coach Paul J. Schissler. The resulting score, 9 to 7 in favor of the Cougars, in a manner proved his classification of the Washington State players.

Overcoming the Orangemen's lead in the fourth quarter, the Cougar team entered the Pacific Coast conference winning column. A long pass from Maple to Sherwood, who raced 55 yards to a touchdown, brought the only Beaver score. The dazzling passing offense of the Orangemen netted 87 yards in the first half.

Led by the brilliant work of Don Mc-Donald, half, the Cougars took the ball from the Orange 37-yard line to the goal, Hein pushing across for the tally. The kick failed. In the middle of the last period the Cougars marched to the Beaver's nine-yard line, when Lainhart replaced McDonald and sailed a beautiful place kick through the uprights, making the score 9 to 7.

Thus concluded the second conference tilt of the Oregon State men.

WASHINGTON GAME

ORE than a thousand cheering Oregon Staters sent the Beaver grid team off to Seattle to clash with the University of Washington Huskies on October 27. The 30 gridmen making the jaunt seemed immensely pleased with the support of the rooters and showed their appreciation by downing the Huskies 29 to 0. It was the first conference victory for them in three starts.

Led by Howard Maple, the Orangemen unleased an attack that Washington was powerless to stop. His leadership, passing and ball-toting were easily the features of the game. The Beavers' forward wall was a mass of strength that found little difficulty in opening huge holes in the Husky line. All the men in the Beaver backfield showed plenty of ability to make needed gains.

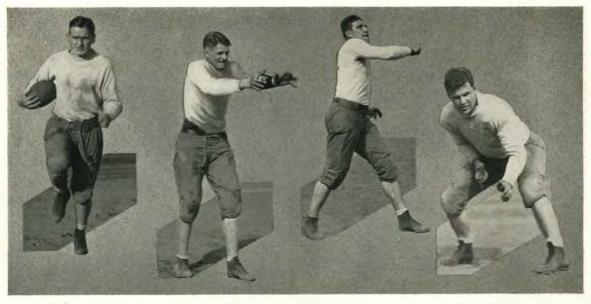

Orangemen smear Huskies

Washington's tower of strength was Chuck Carroll, half, who played brilliantly both on the offense and defense, tackling more than the majority of the Washington line. Though taking a severe drubbing, Carroll stayed in the battle until the final whistle.

The first touchdown came in the opening quarter after Hughes punted out of bounds on the one-yard line. Maple returned Carroll's kick for 22 yards; Hughes tore through for three; Sherwood added nine; the ball was then taken by Hughes for the touchdown.

MONTANA GAME

OTH teams being tuned to a high pitch, the Montana Grizzlies and the Oregon State Beavers met November 3 in the first conference game of the season on Bell field. For the first time during the season both teams were almost up to their real strength.

Using nearly three teams and a barrage of tricks, Coach Schissler sent the Orangemen to a 44 to 0 victory over Montana. The Orange boys romped at will through the Grizzly line making 21 first downs to their opponents none.

The entire first period of the contest was a kicking duel between Hughes and Thompson for the Beavers and Davis for the Grizzlies. In the second quarter the Staters started scoring when Maple passed the ball to McKalip who ran 24 yards for a touchdown. The second score came after Maple and Owen had run the ball down the field to Montana's seven-yard line where Owen went around left end to go over. Maple converted both times.

Maple crossed the line in the second half for the third touchdown after a drive down the field for five first downs by Sherwood, Twitchell, Maple and Thompson. A sensational 45-yard run by Sherwood gave the Orangemen their fourth score of the game.

The second team and part of the third team played the last quarter.

OREGON GAME

IX Oregon State gridmen entered the annual Homecoming clash with the University of Oregon on November 17 to play their last conference football game. These six veterans were Vern Eilers, Melvin Whitlock, Jule Carlson, Howard Maple, Ralph Twitchell and Roscoe Luce.

For the first time in three years the Beaver and Webfoot warriors were evenly matched for the traditional grid battle. Nevertheless the Lemon-Yellow men showed a superior brand of ball and scored two touchdowns in the first half without the Beavers once nearing the Webfoots' goal line. The final score was Oregon 12, Oregon State 0.

Johnny Kitzmiller, sophomore scoring ace of the Oregon squad, and Howard Maple, Oregon State's shifty quarter, gave the fans more than a thrill with their long passes, shifty running and return of punts. To witness the playing of these star ball-carriers, more than 23,000 fans had gathered in the Bell field stadium leaving standing room only.

Oregon scored the first touchdown in the latter part of the first quarter after a punting duel between Hughes and Kitzmiller. Taking the ball on the 36-yard line the Webfoots marched down the field, Kitzmiller finally going over left guard for the first touchdown.

NEW YORK GAME

November 22, just one week before they were scheduled to clash with the powerful New York university grid eleven in an intersectional turkey day classic, 30 determined Beaver gridsters started their 3000-mile journey to the eastern metropolis. Arriving in the city just one day before Thanksgiving, the Staters were given a workout, shown a part of the city, and put to bed.

Though half sick with the "flu" and rated as the underdogs of the contest, the Orange warriors entered the tilt determined to win, if to win was possible. Soon after the start of the game the New Yorkers crashed through the Beaver defense for a touchdown and started to further clinch their claim to football supremacy.

Yorkers some real football. Touchdown after touchdown resulted from the Beaver attack. New York's forward wall that had until now been invincible, seemed nothing to the Orange backs to penetrate. Using an aerial attack, the equal of which New York had never dreamed of seeing, the Beavers advanced down the field at will. The result was the much-heralded 25 to 13 defeat of Chick Meehan's Violets.

Many eastern people learned much of this state from the publicity gained in this big game.

It was not long, however, before the Orangemen "got going" to give the New

The 1928-29 Varsity Basketball Squad

BASKETBALL

HEN Robert H. Hager, varsity basketball coach for six years, resigned at the close of the 1927-28 school year, one man was outstanding as his successor. He was so highly qualified for the position that Oregon State athletic officials unhesitatingly turned over the destiny of the Beaver hoopsters to him and felt assured they had made no mistake. Amory T. 'Slats' Gill was their choice and his feat of developing the greenest material in the northern division of the Pacific coast conference into a smooth-working quintet that surprised basketball fans by winning four and losing six games to place higher than the University of Oregon in the final standings is ample proof that the right man was chosen.

Coach Gill, a star basketeer for three years at Oregon State and twice named on all-coast selections, was rook hoopball coach for two years during which time the Orange babes won 26 and lost only eight games. They downed the Oregon frosh seven times out of eight starts under his coaching.

Gill learned the percentage system under Hager and appreciates its many good points; but when he began getting his squad ready for the 1928-29 season he dispensed with any set style and drilled the players in a fast-breaking game that differed greatly from Hager's method. The men developed considerably under the new style, and the experience will be of huge benefits next season.

BASKETBALL

Gill began the pre-season training grind by taking his hoopsters on a journey to Portland and Tacoma. The Orangemen defeated the Multnomah clubmen easily in the first tilt, won from the Coliseum Checkerboards and the College of Puget Sound and lost to the fast Sciots of Tacoma. The Beavers displayed only mediocre teamwork in these games as Gill had not yet found a smooth-functioning combination. The Staters broke even with the clever Willamette university five in their first two frays and then won the third one. Victories over the Gonzaga Bulldogs and the Multnomah quintet on the local court concluded the Orange pre-season battles. Though winning seven of the nine games, Gill's proteges looked anything but conference caliber and coast hoopball fans predicted Oregon State's entrants would be lucky to win a single game.

The Beavers had two captains this year, Frank Patterson, leader on the home floor, and Frank Wascher, pilot in road games. Patterson, who earned three varsity basketball letters, and Wascher, twice-winner of the coveted monogram, played their last season under the Orange banner. These men, drilled in percentage basketball, had difficulty getting into the swing of the fast-breaking style, but both wound up their hoop careers in a first-class manner. However, they gave way to the sophomores in many of the games.

Construction of the second period without scoring. Then, hopelessly trailing, they threw in an entirely new team that started a rally which was halted by the Cougars a few minutes before the final gun. Ballard and O'Bryan, with two field goals each, led the losers' scoring.

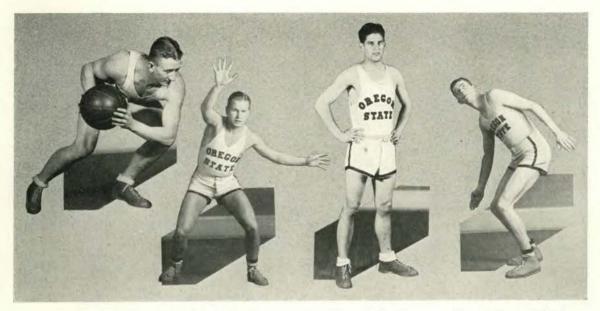

The Orangemen evened up their conference standing by winning their second start, 23 to 22, after a torrid struggle with the Idaho Vandals at Moscow. A whirlwind finish enabled the Staters to snatch an unexpected victory. Just before the gun, Ballard, sophomore forward, took a long shot and gave the Beavers a one-point lead. Wascher, veteran Orange guard, led his teammates with six points.

Rod Ballard played the leading role in Oregon State's victory over the Montana Grizzlies at Missoula when he looped seven field goals and one free throw to help the Beavers win, 29 to 25. After trailing through the first half the Grizzlies succeeded in keeping within a few points through the second period, but near the end of the tilt Ballard sunk two field goals to establish the victory.

HE Beavers lost the second game of their northern road trip when the Washington Huskies downed them 35 to 24 in Seattle. The Huskies jumped into a 9 to 2 lead in the first five minutes by sinking long shots and several free throws. In an effort to stem the Purple tide Gill sent in numerous substitutes and changed his line-up frequently, but the winners were never in danger. The Beavers were outplayed in every phase of the game, especially in shooting ability. Ballard again was high-scorer of the Orange five with eight tallies to his credit. Frank Patterson, Beaver guard, scored seven points.

After losing all its four games in the northern loop, the Oregon Webfoot basketeers invaded Corvallis and with two sophomores in its revamped line-up defeated the Staters, 30 to 21. The Lemon-Yellow warriors took an early lead by scoring 10 counters before the locals could locate the basket. Bud Wascher, State guard, was the only one of his team to connect with the hoop consistently.

The fighting Orangemen climbed back to the .500 mark again by winning their next game from Montana, 28 to 26, in the most gruelling and exciting fray thus far. Brilliant work by Ballard and Mark Grayson in the last minutes of play was responsible for the victory. Ballard connected for 12 and Grayson for 8 points.

NABILITY to sink free throws cost the Beavers their second game with the Oregon Webfoots, who converted 15 points from the gift line to win, 35 to 26. The scoring was practically even during the first half with both sides displaying good teamwork and fair ability at connecting with the hoop. The Eugene quintet led at the end of the first period, 19 to 14. The Staters came back strong in the last session when Whitlock and Torson added a basket each to put their team within one point of the Webfoots. Then the Lemon-Yellow's scoring combination of Eberhardt and Ridings started sinking goals until the score was 29 to 20 before the Orange team looped any points. The tilt was featured by hard fighting on both sides. Epps and Horner of Oregon went out of the game on personal fouls. Ballard again was high-point man with 14 markers.

The Washington State Cougars invaded Corvallis and set the locals farther down in the percentage column by drubbing them 35 to 26. Endslow, lanky Cougar center, tossed five field goals, two free throws and got a majority of the tipoffs to aid his team. The W. S. C. lads had a lead of 20 to 7 at the half.

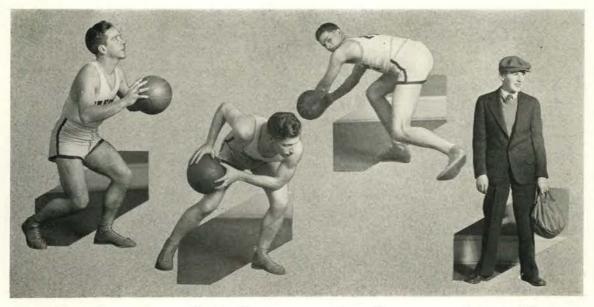

Bud Wascher looped six points for the Orangemen to lead their scoring. At this juncture in the conference race, the Staters were next to the bottom with three wins and five losses.

REJUVENATED Orange quintet, strengthened by the addition of Grayson and Ralph Callahan, sophomore reserves, played the best brand of ball during the season when it downed the fast Idaho Vandals at Corvallis, 44 to 39. Gene O'Bryan, Beaver reserve guard, was also given a berth in Gill's line-up and he scored 12 points to lead his teammates in offensive attack. Grayson with 10 tallies was next. The Staters looped enough baskets in the first few minutes of play to dazzle the invaders and by the time the Potato-pickers recovered and rallied the locals had a 25 to 12 advantage.

The Vandals started the second period with their customary fire and began to pepper the basket consistently. Grayson's stellar work of guarding McMillan, scoring ace of the northern division at that time, held the Vandals to a lone field goal until Grayson was replaced in the second half.

The Orangemen closed their conference competition against the champion Washington Huskies at Corvallis by losing a hard-fought game, 37 to 28, after battling the Purple five on even terms until the final three minutes of play.

Ballard, with 10, and Grayson, with six, did most of the scoring for Oregon State. The Huskies presented the smoothest working team seen here this season.

Fast Breaking Play Requires Speedy Offense

BASKETBALL

The most satisfying feature of the 1928-29 hoop season was the uncovering of several relatively unknown players who are expected to put Oregon State near the top next year. Four sophomores, Ballard, Grayson, Callahan and R. Drager, displayed enough all-around ability to rate berths on the varsity squad, and with the conference experience gained this year, they will be far more dangerous in the race for the 1929-30 championship. Ballard finished in a tie for fourth place in northern division scoring with 83 points. He was the only sophomore in that section to place within the first 10 men.

Gill will lose Patterson and Wascher, Carl Aase, who showed much improvement and played excellently this season, and Oramel Shreeve, four of his five lettermen.

Callahan Loops One

James Torson, the other monogram wearer, will be eligible for another year. Torson made a good record this season, but gave way to the younger men as did other veterans.

Melvin Whitlock, alternating at center and guard, performed in a highly creditable manner. His fire won him a place on the first squad. He fits well into the team work and is expected to be a big cog in the Orange hoop machine next year. O'Bryan is also expected to aid materially. Most of the home games were attended by capacity crowds.

Gill, developed a quintet this year that hung up one of the most impressive records in Oregon State's history. His proteges defeated all but two of the 13 teams they met.

The combination of Fagans and Merrill, forwards; Lyman, center, and Duffey and Heartwell, guards, started a majority of the games and had little trouble defeating its opponents. The first four men were the leading rook scorers. Ashby, Keighley, Gustafson, Lyons, Kirk and McCain were the outstanding reserves.

The Orange freshmen won their first five tilts by decisive margins before falling before the Washington frosh at Seattle. The rooks then won two more prior to losing to the Oregon frosh on the local court. Newman's men, however, had sweet revenge when they trounced the Lemon-Yellow youngsters in the two conflicts at Eugene.

VARSITY BASEBALL

The Oregon State varsity baseball nine, under the guidance of Coach Ralph Coleman, rolled through the 1928 season with eight wins and six defeats, five of the defeats being conference games. Although the team ended at the bottom of the conference, Coleman developed a fast and fighting group of players.

In the six years that Coach Coleman has been coaching at Oregon State he has nearly always had a winning team or runner-up for the championship. For the 1928 season the coach had few seasoned men back and fewer real varsity prospects. In the six seasons that "Coley" has been baseball coach he has won 61 out of 95 games played for a percentage of .642. Oregon State college holds the record on the coast for sending men into professional ball. From the 1927 aggregation Wesley Schulmerich and "Red" Bouton went to the Coast and Three I leagues.

Six lettermen returned to college last spring and around these veterans Coleman had to develop a team. Among the lettermen there was not a single pitcher and no real promising candidates were available from the rook squad. It was Coley's job to find men to fill the places of such hurlers as Ford, Winters and Hodgen. The pitchers selected started limbering up their arms about the first of February in the men's gymnasium. Outside work began March 15 when more than 30 men answered Coach Coleman's call. Wet weather and a muddy field hindered practices until April.

VARSITY BASEBALL

APTAIN Bernard "Hap" Hafenfeld, who wrenched his knee in spring football practice, was not in the line-up all season. Hap, who covered the second bag and helped in double plays in 1927, limped around the diamond and aided in coaching last spring. He will be back in a suit this year.

Captain-elect Howard Maple, star catcher, was one of the mainstays of the team. Maple, in his second year behind the bat, batted .370. He should have another big season and has prospects for breaking into professional ball.

Bergan Belleville, playing his second year in center field, was a speedy and colorful player. He hit .313 for the season and has still another year of varsity competition. Harvey Boultinghouse developed into a wonderful twirler during the season and was one of the main cogs in winning several games. Boultinghouse was playing his first year of varsity ball. Harvey had tough luck in several games and lost on team errors.

James "Mush" Torson, outfielder, was the big stickwielder of the team batting .500. In his first season of varsity ball "Mush" displayed plenty of ability. He has two more years of competition and in that time will probably develop into one of the leading players on the Orange nine.

Orlo Bagley and Carlton Wood divided honors in holding down the third sack. Art Remmel and Russell McKennon shared second base with each man getting Johnny Logan, outfielder, played his last year of varsity ball in left field and many times Johnny stretched out and caught what looked like a sure hit. Kenneth "Buck" Hammer, playing his first season on the varsity, looks like a real comer. He hit for an average of .428. Bill Cloyes, last year's first sacker, whom Coley developed into a pitcher, and Ashley Paust hurled good ball for the Orange team. Charles "Chuck" Marett held down the initial sack for the Beavers.

In the season opener with Columbia university of Portland the Orangemen were defeated by Coach Murphy's team 11 to 9. Errors were many for both teams with the Beavers making eight. The score at the sixth inning was tied at 9 all, but several bunched hits by the Irishmen sent two tallies across the plate. In the second game the Beavers played a better brand of ball and trimmed the Cliffdwellers 10 to 5. After this game the Beavers found their stride.

In the conference game with the University of Washington, Bill Cloyes twirled the Beavers to a 13 to 3 victory. Five errors by the Huskies together with the heavy batting of the Beavers clinched the game. Mush Torson slammed out a homer with two men on and Buck Hammer got a three-bagger and four singles in five times up. Two errors at an inopportune time cost Coley's men the second game of the series. The pitching of Nevins and Boultinghouse was the feature of the game. The final score was 5 to 4 with the ragged second inning deciding the tilt in favor of the Huskies. In a practice game with Linfield the Beavers rolled up a score of 11 to 1.

The Oregon State nine was leading the league with two wins and one defeat when it went into the second series with Washington on the home field. In the first tilt the Beavers played a tight game and won from the Huskies 5 to 4 after stopping a desperate rally in the fifth. Bostock was sent to the mound in the fifth with the bases

In the second game of the Washington series Coach "Tubby" Graves' fighting nine won 11 to 3. Eight errors by the Beavers and some erratic pitching lost the game. The loss of this game by the Beavers caused a three-way conference tie at .500.

Cotter Gould pinched-hit for the Webfoot team and poled out a triple with two on. Epps and MacDonald each slammed out a homer for Oregon. Oregon took the conference lead after winning this game.

The Webfoot team played superior ball in the second game of the series and ran up a score of 10 to 4. MacDonald of Oregon twirled an air-tight game. Edwards of Oregon hit a homer to help boost the score. Each team made five errors but the Lemon-Yellow team took better advantage of the slams.

Coach Ralph Coleman used four pitchers in the third game with Oregon, but all to no avail as the Lemon-Yellow team found its hitting stride and batted out 16 runs to the Beavers' 7. The Webfoot team seemed to take a liking to hitting homers, collecting three more in this game. Dave Mason, Oregon left fielder, connected for a long one with three men on. Three of the Beaver moundsmen were used in the first five innings and in that time the Oregon batsmen got 15 bingles. Paust entered the game in the sixth and held the opposing team to one hit the rest of the game. The Beavers made seven errors in this contest.

With only a handfull of veterans back Coach Coleman developed a strong team. Six of the regulars batted over .300 while the winning U. of O. team had only five men with averages better than .300. Mush Torson was third highest in the conference, batting .533. Buck Hammer was one of the top men hitting .428.

Varsity 'O' sweaters were awarded the following men for baseball: Willard Cloyes, Ashley Paust, Harvey Boultinghouse, pitchers; Howard Maple, catcher; Charles Marett, first base; Russell McKennon and Arthur Remmel, second base; Laurence "Billy" Quayle, shortstop; Orlo Bagley and Carlton Wood, third base; John Logan, Bergan Belleville, James Torson, Kenneth Hammer, outfielders.

Several seasons ago officials decided to divide the northern division of the coast conference into two groups, eastern and western, to avoid so much traveling by the players. Under this plan each team played a four-game series against each of two opponents, making a total of eight conference games.

Interest in the national sport seemed to decrease, however, with the new arrangement. This year each team in the Pacific Coast conference is scheduled to compete against four squads. With this decision, each team is assured of playing 16 games during the season, the first half of the games to be played at home.

The 1928 Freshmen Baseball Squad

FRESHMEN BASEBALL

OACH Amory T. Gill, rook baseball mentor, sent his squad through one of the most successful seasons in several years, winning eight out of ten games and developing some promising material for the varsity. Thirty-five men turned out at Coach Gill's first call, and among these men he found many good players. The only games lost during the season were one each to Columbia university and the Oregon frosh. Three rook twirlers, Miller, Nightengale and Brown look like good material for the varsity. The rooks won three out of four games with the Oregon frosh in the "little series."

Numerals were awarded the following men: Virgil Miller, Floyd Rister, Albert Brown, Norman Brown, Fred Nightengale, James Calderwood, Coquelle Thompson, Eino Bofto, Mark Grayson, Robert Cronin, Wendell Monroe, Paul Mahoney, Sam Cohen, Albert Weinel, Shelby Venable, Richard Herzel, Charles Troyer, Roderic Ballard and Kenneth Bridge.

The 1928 Varsity Track Squad

VARSITY TRACK

The Oregon State track and field team went through one of its best seasons of recent years last spring under the guidance of Coach Paul J. Schissler. The 1927-28 squad upheld the record set by the many teams of former years under the supervision of "Dad" Butler, who was called to the University of Detroit to act in the capacity of head track coach.

Coach Schissler had had a background of seven years of successful track coaching in the middle west. Last year was his first as Beaver track mentor. During his three years at Lombard college, his track teams never ranked below third in competition with 26 colleges. Schissler inaugurated a new program for the track team in which the policy of sending larger teams to meets close at home and fewer men to contests back east will be carried out. He believes that big squads are more effective in Pacific coast meets, and a few individual specialists in those farther away. Jim Dixon, holder of the northwest intercollegiate shot-put record, and field event star for Oregon State, was Coach Schissler's chief assistant. R. W. Newman, freshman football coach, handled the track and field coaching until Schissler had finished spring football training. R. L. Perry, professor in agricultural engineering, ex-University of Wisconsin track star, aided Schissler, Dixon and Newman in putting the Orange cinder pounders through their paces.

MAYARD Sisson, former Franklin high school track star in Portland, captained the Beaver track squad and upheld his record with more outstanding performances. He is, without doubt, one of the greatest all-round track men ever to wear the orange and black colors. He has won honors in the sprints, middle distances, long distances and field events. He was a member of the famous Orange fourmile relay team which won fame in the Kansas and Drake relays in recent years. Sisson was already a two-stripe letterman in track. During his junior year, he upset track dope by beating Jimmy Charteris, University of Washington middle distance ace, to the tape in the final lap of the relay at the northern division Pacific coast track meet. This was the first time the Washington captain had ever been headed in intercollegiate competition.

Outstanding men whom the coaches had to start the season with were Melvin Whitlock, Logan Carter, Harlan Striff and Sisson. Whitlock holds the northwest javelin record with a heave of 190 feet 4 inches. He later bettered this record when he tossed the spear 193 feet in the Kansas relays. Carter, from the rook team, was the best high jumper on a rook squad in many years. Striff had broad-jumped 23 feet and onehalf inch.

The team was handicapped during the first month of practice by cold and rainy weather.

APTAIN Sisson was the only member of the four-mile team left, around which Coach Schissler molded his squad. Luce, shot-put and discus; Smith, pole vault; Ritter, Joos, Martin, Fleetwood, Peterson and Twitchell, distance and sprints, were on hand at the start of the season.

The varsity tracksters started their season with a dual meet against the rooks, defeating the yearlings by a score of 117 1/2 to 25 1/2. The first year men failed to take a single first place. Striff, broad-jump star, broke the Oregon State record by hopping 22 feet 10 inches. Hansen, varsity miler, and Garrett, ex-Hood River distance man, ran neck and neck to the tape in the mile run, Hansen winning by a small margin.

The Orangemen opened their official track season by overwhelming the Lemon and Green relay track team by a score of 6 to 3 at Eugene, April 27. Sisson received the biggest hand of the day when he cut down a 30-yard lead in the final lap of the mile relay, and Oregon won by only a 2-yard margin.

Schissler took 15 Beaver track men to Seattle May 5, for the University of Washington relay carnival. First places were the goals of the contestants. The always popular mile relay was won by Wood, Ritter, Joos and Sisson in 3:23, breaking the record set by the University of Southern California in 1927.

Young, Gilmore, Wolfe and Hansen comprised the four-mile relay team which took second place. The Beavers took third place in the 440-yard relay. Sisson, Fleetwood, Striff and Doty carried the baton for the Staters. Ritter, Doty, Striff and Joos came third in the 880-yard relay as did Gilmore, Hansen, Young and Sisson in the twomile event. Doty captured fourth place in the 100-yard dash.

The Orange cinder men bowed to the University of Washington track squad by a score of 81 to 50, May 19 in Seattle. Steve Anderson, Husky sprinter, broke the alltime record when he stepped over the low hurdles in 24.1 seconds. Logan Carter took first place in the high jump for Oregon State with a leap of 6 feet. Ritter won the 440yard dash, breasting the tape in 51.3 seconds. Striff took first place when he broadjumped 23 feet 73/4 inches. The Beavers took two other first places in the mile relay, with Woods, Ritter, Joos and Sisson running, and the javelin throw, in which Whitlock hurled the spear 175 feet 11 inches.

By taking ten first places, the Oregon State cinder artists won their big meet of the year against Oregon by a  $2.4 \frac{1}{3}$ point margin, the final score being 77  $\frac{2}{3}$ to 53  $\frac{1}{3}$ . Hansen was high point man, taking first in the mile and half mile. Striff and Whitlock counted next highest with a first and second each. Oregon started with a seven-point lead by winning first and second places in the 100-yard dash. First places in the pole vault, the mile run, the 220-yard dash, high hurdles, 440-yard dash, two-mile, half-mile, broad jump, low hurdles and relay were taken by the Orangemen. Striff set a new record for Bell field by leaping 22 feet 8 3/8 inches.

Jim De Mers, Eugene high school athlete, thrilled the crowd by tossing the javelin 218 feet 3 1/2 inches in an exhibition throw. No meet record fell, but Smith, Oregon pole vaulter, set a new Oregon State record of 12 feet 3 inches. Wetzel of Oregon upset the dope by throwing the spear 9 1/2 inches farther than Whitlock, northwest record holder.

Oregon State took second place in the Pacific coast conference meet at Missoula

June 1 and 2, piling up a score of 33<sup>1/2</sup> points to 42<sup>1/4</sup> for the University of Washington. The Beavers had the honor of taking five first place victories, the highest number in the meet. Hansen ran the mile in 4 minutes 23.1 seconds for first place. Sisson was timed in the 440yard dash at 49.1 seconds. Carter highjumped 5 feet 11<sup>1/2</sup> inches which was the best showing made. First place in the broad jump went to Striff with a hop of 23 feet 8<sup>1/2</sup> inches. Wood, Ritter, Joos and Sisson out-distanced the other relay teams with the fast time of 3:23.

Captain Bayard Sisson, Hansen and Striff represented Oregon State in the National Intercollegiate track meet in Chicago, June 9. Hansen placed third in the mile and Striff took third place in the broad jump. These men competed against the best athletes of the country from 79 colleges and universities. The 12 points garnered by the Orangemen were considered commendable, as only two other western schools placed higher.

Varsity track awards were made to Bayard Sisson, William Joos, Clyde Ritter, Paul Young, Lee Hansen, Edgar Wolfe, Vernon Gilmore, Ralph Twitchell, Logan Carter, Neal Smith, Harlan Striff, Melvin Whitlock, Charles Webb, Ivan Martin, William Wood and Wendell Doty.

ROWING

Geo HEN on October 13, 1927, the two rowing shells, a gift from the University of California crew, were christened the "Beaver" and "Orange Owl" and launched, the sixteen gleaming blades took water for the first time under Oregon State colors. This sport was then sent into the infancy of what was to be one of the most popular interclass sports ever adopted by the college.

As a class sport it will be short-lived, in the opinion of James C. Othus, rowing coach and former member of Cornell university crew. It is believed that rowing will soon rank as a major sport, with teams capable of meeting the University of Washington and California.

On Saturday, February 4, the new $850 training barge was christened with due ceremony "Rho Dammit Rho," opening a training season for the 150 members of the Oregon State Rowing club. Officers elected last spring include Robert Young, president; Bruce Crandall, vice-president; John Steward, secretary; Randall Sinclair, treasurer; and Charles Hoffman, manager. Interclass rowing was given its impetus on February 21, 1928. A 3-mile course was mapped out on the Willamette river and "Ready All!" became a familiar call on its banks.

The peak of Oregon State rowing activity was reached campus week end, May 18-19, when the four classes competed before hundreds of spectators as the feature of a water regatta.

ROWING

ONES rowed against sophomores the first day in what was a battle to the finish. By a great home-stretch spurt, the sophomore crew was able to take the lead and win the race by 15 feet from the freshmen who led all the way. Junior oarsmen beat the seniors on the mile-and-a-half course, winning by two and one-half lengths with a time of 6:44.

Juniors won the championship race against the sophomores May 19 by two lengths, earning the right to meet the Portland Rowing club. Seniors defeated the rooks in a consolation race that day. The junior shellmen surprised an eager student body by cruising over the line four and one-half lengths ahead of the Portland club shell on the Willamette river in Portland, as a grand finale to Oregon State's first rowing year. The championship junior class crew included Robert Young, stroke; Philip Lundstrom, 7; William Crowston, 6; George Gayer, 5; Kenneth Beach, 4; Donald Long, 3; Bruce Crandall, 2; Rube Thielke, bow; and Peedee Smith, coxswain.

Rowing took a speedy start this year as practice orders were issued when college opened. The donation of a light barge by the University of Washington oarsmen served to better equip the Rowing club in preparation for a greater rowing year. Regular gym classes are conducted each term by the coach for those students who are eager to develop into varsity material.

HEN the training season opened for tennis aspirants April 1 last year, a dull outlook was faced by Dr. B. T. Simms, tennis coach. Pre-season dope showed that competition in the northwest tennis conference would be keener than ever. The turnout of varsity and rook tennis candidates was not large, and experienced material was not abundant.

Captain George Speros, Dick McGrew and Sidney Klahn were the lettermen who returned to form the nucleus of the 1928 squad. Harold Ayers, Burlin King and Ralph

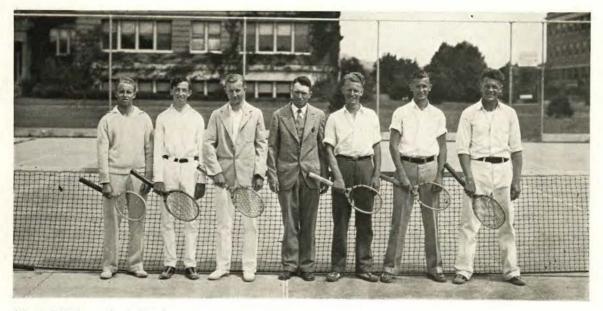

B. T. SIMMS, Coach

Bailey were prospects from the 1927 freshmen squad. Dr. Simms, coaching for the tenth consecutive year, despite erratic weather conditions, moulded a wellbalanced varsity team which won three out of five contests, losing only to the University of Oregon netmen. Willamette university racket-wielders were defeated twice, while Reed college suffered the loss of one contest at the hands of the Orangemen.

George Speros, a two-year letterman, proved himself an exceptional player, holding down number 1 position all season. Harold Ayers and Sidney Klahn, captain of the 1929 varsity, alternated at positions 2 and 3, performing as tennis players of merit. Dick McGrew, Burlin King and Ralph Bailey played in a manner that made them real contenders in any match. Harold Wood, a newcomer, played well in several matches and will likely be near the top this year.

Reed college fell before Beaver racket men the next day, the Orange wielders taking all six matches. Willamette was swamped again on May 5 on the Salem courts by another 5 to 2 score.

The varsity's first defeat was at Eugene, May 12, when they lost all six matches to the University of Oregon, giving the lemon-yellow the championship of the northern section of the Pacific coast conference. Captain George Speros, Burlin King and Coach Simms traveled to Seattle for the Pacific coast conference meet, May 18-19, only to be eliminated in the first round by the national champions. Oregon took another victory on the Beaver courts in the last games of the season.

Rook tennis exponents lost two matches to the Webfoot babes, the first by a 1 to 5 score at Eugene and the second by a 3 to 4 tally at Corvallis. Rook players last spring were George Bixler, Fred Winters, Frank Lutz, Ralph Elle, Bert Sjoblom, Howard Bertsch and Dudley Smith. The yearlings defeated Ashland high school 5 matches to 1.

Not a letterman was on the campus last fall, but Klahn, Ayres and King were expected to return for the spring season. Speros and McGrew were lost by graduation. Wood, Bertsch, Smith and Bailey returned.

OLF received a new impetus last year when an Oregon State golf club was organized, March 8. It was handicapped, however, in that the game was not recognized as a minor sport until late in the spring. Walter Manville, a two-year veteran, was elected president; Hugh Fitzgerald, secretary; and Katherine McGinnis, treasurer. Coach "Tony" Sottovia, golf instructor and former professional at the Eastmoreland country club of Portland, worked faithfully to develop the sport on the campus and to produce an able group of men and women players.

TONY SOTTOVIA, Coach

The Corvallis country club golf links were used by the club members for practice and tournaments whenever the weather permitted. The wooden practice shed was in constant use during the winter. Beginners and advanced classes were organized and tournaments were planned. Enthusiastic golfers practiced daily preparing for the intercollegiate matches and for the enjoyment of the sport. Regular classes in golf fundamentals are given by the coach each term.

More than 26 students took part in a mixed two-ball foursome golf tournament at the country club, March 31. An all-college tournament was conducted in April with 20 stellar players competing. Hugh Fitzgerald and Robert Taylor survived to play for the championship on Saturday, May 12. Taylor won the 36-hole match six up and five to play. He played with skill and steadiness rarely seen in collegiate golf competition.

SWIMMING

Ew impetus and spirit displaced a gloomy outlook for Oregon State swimming this year with the arrival on January 16 of John E. Kenney of Stanford as coach. Coach Kenney came with a record as diving and water polo star and was student assistant coach at Stanford for three years. Even though handicapped by lack of material and a late start, the coach built around Lee Hover, captain and the only letterman to return, a well-balanced aquatic team that competed against sparkling competition in three dual and two championship meets.

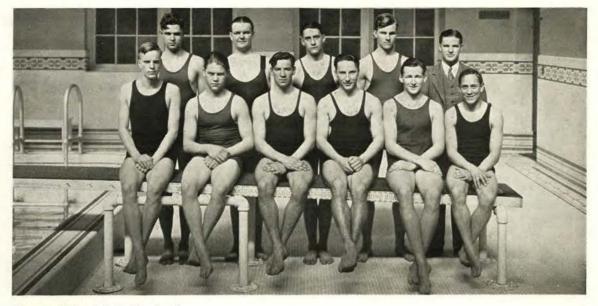

JOHN E. KENNEY, Coach

Hover took the only Beaver first place against the University of Oregon paddlers at Eugene February 9, when the Orangemen were sunk under a 52 to 15 score. The mid-western championship Northwestern university swimming team ducked the Oregon State splashers 43 to 24 here February 11, while bettering four coast records. The Webfoot squad had greater trouble defeating the Orange paddlers 40 to 28 in the return tilt here March 5. Two titles were won in the state swimming championships in the Multnomah club tank March 9 by Carl Johnson in the 200-yard breast stroke and Kenneth MacLean in the 200-yard novice free style events. George Jubitz and Lee Hover added to the Beaver total of 14 points with a second and third respectively. Coach Kenney's plans were to enter a strong Oregon State team late in March in the Pacific National Amateur championships.

SWIMMING

ROSPECTS for a great 1930 team were voiced by the coach with only Captain Lee Hover lost by graduation. Those who should be sure point-winners next season are Kenneth MacLean, Wayne Griffin, Raymond MacMahon, sprints; George Jubitz, Herbert Disbrow, Ronald Harvey, backstroke; Ed Sherman, William Grafton, dives; Carl Johnson, William McClung, breast stroke; and Stuart George, Edward Wilson, Austin Harper, distance.

One win and one loss was the record of the rook swimmers. With no material to speak of, Coach Kenney developed a fairly strong squad that gave the versatile University of Oregon frosh team a good battle in losing 38 to 25 here February 16. Salem high school was sunk under a 43 to 15 score March 1 in the local tank. Of the rook swimmers, those who displayed good form last season and should be varsity prospects are Walter Sanborn, Edward Ralston, Lloyd Lillie, Frank Miller, sprints; Don Dunham, distance; Carl Wilson, backstroke; and Chris Siegenthaler, Galen Chetelat, Charles Bockman, dives.

With the start of the spring term came the organization of an Oregon State water polo team by Coach Kenney. Water polo, in its infancy here this year, is expected to be popular as well as a valuable source for developing swimmers in future seasons, with teams competing in coast and other circles.

NLY once in the past nine years has an Oregon cross-country team defeated the Oregon State squad. The distance men were good for a 98 to 75 victory for the Beavers in the annual meet before the Homecoming football game here November 17. Most of the first 10 places were taken by Beaver runners. Ronald Johnson of Oregon State led the string of 20 runners until the last quarter mile where he was passed by Hill of Oregon who won with a time of 10:51—slow because of the extremely muddy condition of the course. finish, running his third and last race against Oregon, raced in 20 yards behind Hill. Other Orangemen to splash into leading positions were Paul Young, third; Captain Vernon Gilmore, fifth; Johnson, sixth; and Richard Cyphers, ninth.

Abundant material presented itself when some 150 intramural runners started training early in October for the group championship and for the annualTurkeyday run. Four of the five lettermen who helped defeat Oregon by 152 points in 1927, when the Beavers took 14 of the first 18 places, were back as well as 2 lettermen from the 1926 squad. Coach Dick Newman, who took over mentor duties in the absence of Ralph O. Coleman, had little trouble picking a ten-mile team. Wolfe, Young, Gilmore, Johnson and Cyphers are the men who received minor sport letters for cross-country this year.

The fast commerce junior basketball team took the measure of the commerce sophomores in the final game 27 to 20 to win the inter-school championship. Led by Bob Geddes, who scored 10 points and was high point man for the game, the juniors set an offensive pace that was too much for the sophomores.

In the semi-finals, the commerce sophomores defeated the vocational education seniors in an overtime game 27 to 26, while the commerce juniors beat the agriculture rooks 27 to 21. The sophomore commerce team and the vocational education seniors played on even terms, ending the second half with the score tied at 23 all. In the five-minute overtime period the sophomores were able to ring up four counters to three for the senior basketeers. Only in the first half was the junior commerce team able to carry the game to the agriculture rooks.

The commerce junior team received medals as the reward for winning the interschool championship. The commerce sophomores, the vocational education seniors, and the agriculture rooks received numerals.

Sigma Pi Cross Country Champions

CROSS COUNTRY

GIGMA PI nosed out their old rivals, Theta Chi, by one point to win the college intramural cross-country title. Last year these two houses wound up the season in a tie for first place. By rolling up a new record of 368 points, Sigma Pi holds the all-college and national championships. Cauthorn hall gathered in 340 points to take the Independent loop and place third in the college competition. The scoring column of the local fraternities was topped by Omega Upsilon with Tau Delta in second place. Ronald Johnson of Theta Chi turned in the best time of the season.

TURKEY RUN

Y winning the annual turkey run Sigma Pi cinched their claim to the all-around cross-country title. The Sigma Pi runners gathered 524 points to take the First National Bank cup and the first prize turkey. Cauthorn hall was next with 482 markers while Alpha Gamma Rho took 415 points to finish third. Other leading scorers were Theta Chi and Beta Kappa. Ronald Johnson of Theta Chi was the first to finish, coming in out of the fog far in advance of the Sigma Pi runners, Leonard Carroll and Dick Jones. His time for the course was 9 minutes and 48 seconds.

BASKETBALL

HI Sigma Kappa went through the intramural basketball season undefeated to take the all-college title. In the final tourney of the season, they nosed out Omega Upsilon, undefeated local champions, 16 to 13, with Kenneth Fagans of Phi Sigma Kappa high point man with 11 tallies. Theta Chi, champions last year, lost the national title to Phi Sigma Kappa 16 to 7, while Tau Delta and Sigma Gamma tied for second in the local league. Alphee were defeated by Omega Upsilon 32 to 13. Dick Lyman of Omega Upsilon won all-college honors with 106 points.

HANDBALL

HI Sigma Kappa fought its way to the top of the handball race by trimming the Tri-V squad 21-5 and 21-11 in final competition. Paul Mahoney and Harold Scritzmier carried the Phi Sigma Kappa colors undefeated to win the all-college and national titles. Arthur and Fred Burelbach of Tri-V copped the independent championship by defeating Poling hall 21-8 and 21-19. Theta Delta Nu, represented by Henry Williamson and Ted Stirnweis, won the local plaque from Tau Delta 21-9 in two games, only to fall before the Tri-V duo 13-21, 21-18 and 16-21.

Intramural Managers

INTRAMURAL MANAGERS

New manager system for intramural sports was inaugurated at the beginning of winter term by William Burr, director of intramural athletics. Under this new system, there are three junior managers and six sophomore managers. At the beginning of next year two senior managers will be chosen from the juniors, taking charge of all intramural sports for one-half year each. Seniors will be given sweaters for their services.

Managers this year were Ralph Hayes, Lester Peters, and Erskine Sandys.

INTRAMURAL TRACK RELAYS

GIGMA Alpha Epsilon led Omega Upsilon to the tape by 100 yards to cinch the all-school intramural relay championship in 1:36.3. The fastest time of the eliminations was made by the Sigma Alpha Epsilon squad in the finals of the national fraternity league when they ran the loop in 1:34.4 to win from Phi Delta Theta. Omega Upsilon triumphed in the local league with Tau Delta a close second, while Alphee club copped the title from Cauthorn hall club for the independents. Theta Chi was nosed out of the national championship 13 to 12 in a hotly contested final game with the Phi Deltas. Alphee club was runner-up in the independent league, being sunk by one run in an 11 to 10 tangle with the Orion club team. Kappa Delta Rho swamped Theta Delta Nu 23 to 3 to win first honors in the local fraternity division. Interest in the "twilight" leagues last spring was far above normal.

TRACK

ORE than 500 intramural athletes took part in the four meets of the allschool track schedule this spring. Three preliminary meets were held for the independent, national and local fraternity leagues and the final meet for the all-school championship and the silver loving cup. Placques were awarded for the champions of the two fraternity leagues, while the independents received individual medals.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

HYSICAL education and health at Oregon State, under a new director, Dr. Clair V. Langton, advanced to a place among the best colleges in the United States during the past year. Dr. Langton is a firm believer in the old department slogan "Every man in athletics," and is making special efforts to maintain the existing athletic standards.

Paul J. Schissler, as director of intercollegiate athletics, has done his bit for Oregon State in scheduling intersectional contests in the various sports. He arranged several contests with difficult teams from eastern colleges during the season. By moulding a football team that gloriously defeated the famous New York university eleven 25 to 13 in the Yankee Stadium, Coach Schissler accomplished a record worth millions to Oregon State college, the state of Oregon, and even the entire west. The schedule for next year is on a par with this season.

The aim of the large coaching and training staff at the college has been to interest and draw as many students as possible into some form of athletics. As 95 per cent of all men that are physically fit are engaged in some form of athletics, a large staff is necessary to supervise the work. The remaining part of the staff includes Ralph Coleman, now on leave of absence, Amory T. Gill, Grant Swan, Richard Newman, Alonzo Stiner, Roy Lamb, James Dixon, O. C. Mauthe and John Kenney.

YELL LEADING STAFF

AVE Williams, varsity yell leader, assisted by Jerry Clark and Bob Christiansen, succeeded in producing one of the peppiest bunch of Oregon State rooters in several years. Whether the team was winning or losing, the student body was never lacking in support, turning out for rallies and games in a noteworthy manner. Student spirit was so great at the end of the conference season, even though the Staters were not at the top of the list, that the team was able to trounce the New York University Violets by a convincing score after the long trip east.

As a reward for his services, the yell leader is given a black sweater upon which is mounted a yell leading emblem.

Two years ago, Al Serpa, former yell leader, organized a class in yell leading, which has become very popular with the students and serves as a method of selecting assistant yell leaders. Its purpose is to instruct freshmen leaders in the fundamentals of cheer leading. By this plan, a group of the six best freshmen leaders is automatically placed on the ballot at the spring elections. Two of these are elected assistant yell leaders for the following year. Besides those placed on the ballot, others are given a chance to show their skill at basketball games and other contests where pep is needed. Before being placed on the ballot, aspirants may try out before the student body at a meeting preceding spring elections.

STUDENT ATHLETIC MANAGERS

STUDENT managerial staff assists Carl Lodell, graduate manager, in handling all major intercollegiate sports during the college year. Each major sport is under the charge of a senior manager who is assisted by a group of aspiring managers. Each senior manager is awarded a sweater with the managerial monogram.

"Wes" Taft was at the helm during the 1928 football season. His job was to see that all necessary equipment and uniforms were properly packed and cared for on the long trips taken by the team. He was one of the busiest fellows on the squad during the trip to New York.

Bruce Galloway, though small like Taft, was able to fill the big job of basketball manager. It was up to him to see that all basketballs were filled with air and to keep the suits laundered.

Don Giesy, as track manager, kept the cinder-path artists equipped with suits and shoes during the 1929 season. He had the task of seeing that all equipment necessary for a meet was in proper condition for each contest on the local track.

George Macoubray was in charge of running down the lost balls during the 1929 baseball season. It was up to him to see that all bats and other baseball equipment were present and in good condition during trips to other colleges.

PEP COMMITTEE

The Oregon State Pep committee is the group responsible for the scheduling and directing of all pep rallies during the college year. Under the leadership of Chester Hubbard, pep chairman, the committee succeeded in keeping the student body back of the athletic teams at all times, win or lose. Students serving on the committee were Hubbard, chairman; Hufford, Hazlett, Emigh, Wing, Williams, Drake, Glade, Castner and Kornahrens.

BEAVER GUARD

wo years ago the Pep committee organized the Beaver Guardsmen to guard the huge Beaver mascot of the college. The mascot is a large, gold-painted Beaver, constructed of wood, and mounted on an automobile chassis. The mascot depicts a beaver that has just been chewing on a fallen log and is looking up in a defiant, challenging manner. When drawn upon the field by the Guardsmen, it brings a cheer from the stands, instilling pep and fight into the rooters and the team.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

The Associated Women Students is an organization of all the women registered in the college. It is a chapter of the National Federation of Associated Women Students which is represented by chapters in all large colleges and universities in the United States. The purpose of A. W. S. is to unify the work of all organized groups of women students.

A. W. S. sponsors during the year several major activities for women. The Women's Stunt show given spring term is participated in by sorority and hall groups. Each organization gives a short skit of pantomime, dancing, or singing, which is judged for prize according to originality, artistic ability, talent and finish.

In the spring the A. W. S. sponsors the Mothers' week end. Mothers of all students are invited to visit the campus at this time and special arrangements are made for their entertainment. They are shown about the campus, entertained at luncheons, banquets and convocations. A May fete is also arranged for their special benefit.

Assemblies for women students are called regularly to discuss business of the organization. A. W. S. also sponsors convocations at which women's honors are awarded and pledges announced. Officers were: Clara Fay Park, president; Nancy McNaught, vice-president; Mildred Kremer, secretary; Martha Hilands, treasurer; and Grace Colborne, sergeant-at-arms.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION

O-EDS for three years have been happy in the splendid supervision of Miss Ruth B. Glassow, director of women's physical education. Her youthful spirit and personality make the co-eds feel that she is one of them. She has brought many new ideas of organization and sportsmanship from the University of Wisconsin and Columbia university to the Oregon State campus. Golf, canoeing and riding are the new sports introduced under the direction of Miss Glassow which are proving exceedingly popular with the women students on the campus.

Instructors assisting Miss Glassow in the department are Madge Burt, hockey, basketball and tennis; Laura McAllister, special activities; Josephine Garvin, practice teaching; Elsie Jacobsen, tumbling, basketball and baseball; Betty Thompson, dancing and clogging; Mildred Greenberg, volleyball, golf and archery; and Helen Jamieson, swimming and canoeing. The last two are new members of the physical education staff, coming to us this year from the University of Minnesota and Columbia, respectively.

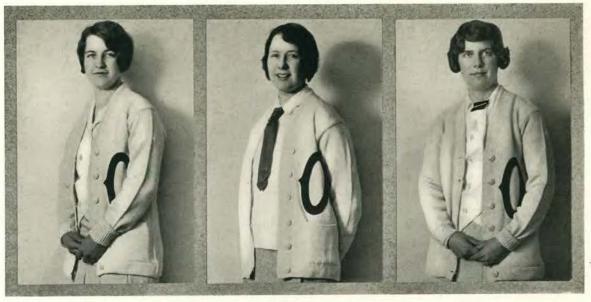

Every woman who graduates needs be well equipped with physical skills for the department requires that every candidate for graduation shall have one and a half credits in each of the following classes of activities: team games, swimming, individual sports and dancing. Development of teamwork and sportsmanship are dominant objectives in the program.

ORANGE "O" ASSOCIATION

The winning of an orange "O" sweater is the greatest award which may be offered for accomplishment in women's athletics. Women so honored this year were Bertha Kohlhagen, Fay Clark and Marie Lane. A sweater may be earned by any junior or senior woman belonging to the Women's Athletic association who has earned 1000 points by taking part in campus athletic activities. These activities include the team sports—hockey, basketball, baseball and volleyball. Individual sports included are rifle, dancing, swimming, tennis and track. A girl may participate in only one team and one individual sport each term.

The following requirements must also be fulfilled: She must have a scholarship average of 84; she is judged on leadership in other campus activities and sportsmanship in relation to association with fellow students. She must show her interest in sports by serving on class teams or by taking part in special recitals or programs sponsored by the department. She must also take an active interest in W. A. A.

A special committee acts each year to determine the awarding of sweaters to eligible girls. This committee consists of the head of the physical education department, a faculty member elected each year, the president of W. A. A., the president of the Physical Education club, and one member from the junior and senior classes.

Each sport is managed by a girl who is particularly interested and efficient in that line. By successful management she may earn 100 points toward a sweater.

A minor "O" is awarded to girls earning 500 points. This is done to encourage interest in team work and other women's athletics on the campus though a student may not wish to major in physical education.

The Women's Athletic association is a national organization and accepts points earned in other large institutions.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

GIRL for every team and a team for every girl" is the motto of the Women's Athletic association. To carry out this aim it sponsors sports which will be L useful after graduation as well as in college. Sports under its supervision are carried on for the recreational value and "the fun of the thing" rather than on a mere competitive basis. Membership is open to any girl having 50 points in any of the W. A. A. sports.

Officers for 1928–29 are Fay Clark, president; Pearl Horning, vice-president; Martha Pocklington, secretary; Roberta O'Rourke, treasurer; Elizabeth Hubbard, custodian; and Barbara Burtis, publicity manager. Sport managers are Leome Thordarson, hiking; Elda Aasen, baseball; Chloe Burge, basketball; Ruth Elliott, riflery; and Mary Bennett, tennis.

The first award a girl may receive is the class numeral, awarded to each member of every championship team. The second award is the minor "O" given when 500 points are earned. The next award is the Orange "O" sweater. Women elected to Orange "O" membership are those who have earned 1000 points in sports, have shown leadership, sportsmanship, service to W. A. A., interest in sports, high scholarship and good posture. The highest honor any member of W. A. A. may receive is to have her name placed on a bronze plaque on the fireplace mantel in the lobby of the women's building. To receive this award she must be selected as the outstanding girl in W. A. A., one who has progressed most in ideals of womanhood and service to W. A. A. during her-college career. Rowena Beach was chosen last year by the dean of women, W. A. A. executive council, and the physical education faculty, for this honor.

The Women's Building

The four other new college buildings this year, the women's building still remains an outstandingly beautiful spot on the campus. Its graceful arches and wide, sweeping entrance are inviting to visitors and faculty as well as students. The freshman minors won from the freshman non-minor team for second honors.

BASEBALL

The diamond sport is a popular one with Oregon State co-eds. Every spring a series of interclass games are played. To enter the finals a team must play through a definite series of games. By defeating the seniors the freshmen tied with the sophomores for the championship this year.

The championship game between freshmen and sophomores showed fast playing and excellent teamwork. The score was tied twice, and two extra innings were played, the game ending in a victory for the freshmen with a score of 14 to 10.

DANCING

ANCING has been a center of great interest to the girls of the college this year. Enrollment in regular classes far exceeded that of past years, and members worked with much pep and enthusiasm. W. A. A. credit, given to those girls participating in recitals and special programs, enabled them to gain more points toward Orange "O" sweaters through a greater variety of activities.

The physical education department was honored in March by the visit of Miss Margaret H'Doubler, professor of physical education at the University of Wisconsin.

TENNIS

ENNIS is the chief co-ed activity in the spring, and very keen competition is developed between members representing different classes. The freshman coed team won the tennis class championship in both singles and doubles in the final round matches in June, 1928. Mildred Heater, freshman in vocational education, defeated Katherine Murphy, senior in vocational education, in three sets.

The freshman doubles team composed of Mary Bennett and Geraldine Klahn, easily defeated the seniors, Irma Coulter and Edna Blomstrom, in two straight sets.

Riding Class in Columns of Two

RIDING

O<sup>0-ED</sup> riding classes were a new venture of the physical education department this year, which proved distinctly popular in both fall and winter terms. Due to orders from the ninth corps area headquarters in California, the classes were discontinued spring term, as well as the faculty riding classes, which had been organized for several years.

Riding classes were conducted in the armory under the direction of Lieutenant M. L. Stockton, associate professor of military science and tactics.

SWIMMING

In the annual swimming meet the sophomore class won first place with a total of 35 points, while the freshmen were second with 29 points. Events of the meet included diving for form, crawl and back stroke for form, medley relay, free style relay, 25, 50 and 100-yard free style, 25-yard side stroke, 25-yard back stroke, the 10-mile swim and the two-mile swim.

ARCHERY

RCHERY, a spring sport, is one of the most pleasing forms of athletics for co-eds. Under supervision of Miss Betty Thompson, instructor in physical education, class teams are chosen and interclass tournaments waged. The final score of the interclass archery tournament resulted in a victory for the freshmen with an average of 100. The juniors placed second with an average of 90, seniors third with a score of 85 and sophomores finishing with a score of 62. The honor team was composed of Ruby Owsley, Alma Taylor, Marie Lane and Camilla Freel.

GOLF

OLF, one of the newer sports for co-eds, has grown steadily in favor during the last year. Regular classes are held in the cages erected in the old gymnasium, with classes out-of-doors and on the course in clear weather under the supervision of Miss Mildred Greenberg, instructor in physical education. Golf was formerly given only during spring term, but it is now offered all three quarters.

Representative Students

a committee consisting of the officers of each class chose the students who, in their estimation, were the most representative of their respective classes. The senior and junior officers selected 20 students each, while the sophomore and freshmen elected four each.

The four lists of names compiled in this manner were put to a student vote in the midyear student body elections, and each class selected its most representative man and woman to appear in the Representative section of this, the Volume XXIII Beaver. The selection was based upon personality, college activities and general popularity among the students.

やくやくやくやくやくやくやくやいやいやくやくやくやいやいやいやいやいや

Evelyn Jacobs and Howard Maple, seniors, proved to be representative of their class in this election. Both have served their college well and are deserving of this honor. Dorothy Crawford and Ransom Meinke, juniors, polled the highest vote to win distinction in their class. Betty Robley and George Knutsen were triumphant in the sophomore class, while Helen Reid and Clarke Henkle were outstanding among the freshmen.

A "Who's Who" page, which appears this year to give recognition to all of the seniors and juniors selected by the class committees, may be found following each of the class sections, pages 78 and 82, respectively.

This contest and its results was not intended to give great praise to a few, but to place an honor upon those of the class who have proved themselves to be the most deserving and popular among his or her classmates. The selection was based upon the will of the class and its officers, and therefore, the representativeness of the winners could not be obtained in a more fair way. In some cases, the class officers did not include their names with the students selected, and the liberty was taken by the Beaver staff to add them to the list.

The national forestry honor fraternity, Xi Sigma Pi, was established at Oregon State college in 1921. Its purpose is to secure and maintain a high standard of scholarship in schools of forestry, to promote fraternal relations between workers in the field of forestry, and to build up the profession of forestry. Election to membership in this fraternity is based on forest experience, scholarship, character, and leadership in campus and forestry activities.

Delta Delta Delta's Winning Stunt

WOMEN'S STUNT SHOW

N Case You Don't Know How,'' a clever stunt by Delta Delta Delta on the makings of a combination salad, was awarded the Associated Women student's silver loving cup and $20 in gold, donated by the Benton County bank, at the annual women's stunt show in the Majestic theater, April 5 and 6. Girls representing vegetables made up the salad while clever lines by three harmonious cooks and a sweet-smelling onion furnished the humor.

A crazy billboard that took life and danced on four legs and then turned into a cow brought the second prize of $20 in gold from the Miller Mercantile company to Alpha Omicron Pi. The dainty "Fantasy" of the Alpha Delta Pi's was awarded a $10 prize from Ball's studio for third place. Awards were made by Mrs. I. L. Patterson of Salem.

The greater hall council, composed of the officers of the three women's dormitories, acts upon mutual hall problems and campus interests. The social program includes weekly exchange dinners among the halls and an annual formal tea. Major functions, such as dances, faculty banquets, and annual parties, are planned by the council and club members. Other means of entertainment are planned to make more interesting the life of the co-ed in the hall.

THE men's dorm central council is the governing body and determines matters D of general policy of the men's dormitory. It cooperates with the college in formulating and administering the rules. Each hall club is represented in the central council by the president and three elected members. The president of the dormitory is elected by all the clubs together in a general election. Other officers are elected by and from the council. The social chairman is elected at-large by the council.

The New Men's Dormitory

MEN'S DORMITORY

OW I'TH the opening of the new men's dorm last September came the fulfillment of a long felt need for a suitable men's dormitory. The building was constructed at a cost of slightly more than $450,000, which includes construction and furnishings. Funds were raised by a bond issue which will be gradually retired over a period of years from income derived from the building itself.

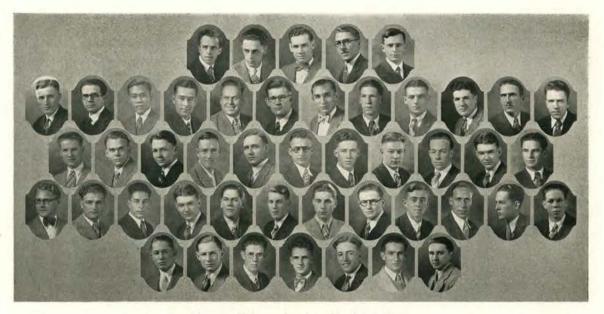

The new structure houses more than twice as many men as the old Poling hall, having a capacity for 344 men. The rooms, which are comfortable and homelike, are each arranged for two men. A large spacious sleeping room on each floor furnishes ample quarters for the men of each hall. Five halls, each separated from the others by fire walls through which there is no communication, make up the whole unit. Each of these units has a separate student government with central power vested in a central governing council.

Among the special features of the building are laundry rooms, elevators in each hall, a suite of rooms reserved in Poling hall for the manager-hostess, and a reception room.

Weatherford hall, the central tower, was named in honor of J. K. Weatherford, president of the board of regents. Adjoining Weatherford on the west is Cauthorn hall named in honor of Senator Thomas E. Cauthorn. The naming of this hall necessitated a change in the name of the women's hall formerly known as Cauthorn and which is now known as Kidder hall, honoring Ida A. Kidder, former librarian of the college. To the west of Cauthorn is Hawley hall, named for Curtis L. Hawley, a regent from 1909 until his death in 1923. To the east of Weatherford comes Poling hall, named for Dr. D. V. Poling, Y. M. C. A. secretary at Oregon State during the war, and Buxton, honoring Austin T. Buxton, '95, a regent from 1905 to 1909.

The Rosswood association is composed of the members of the five downtown independent clubs. This group forms the central governing body of the independent men not residing in the dormitories. The purpose of the association is to promote athletic, social and student activities among its members.

The association was formed in 1926 by Virgil Woodcock. The name was adopted in memory of the originator and Leland M. Ross, a staunch supporter.

The Scrollers club is a literary organization which has as its purpose the study of various writers, especially contemporary ones, and the encouragement of interest in literary work among students on the campus. It fosters in particular original work on the part of students. The club assists in the publication of the Manuscript, literary magazine. Members are chosen from those interested in literature and in writing, and those who have had college courses in this line of study.

Chamber of Commerce Reading Room

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Oregon State chamber of commerce has accomplished much this year. Several interesting speakers have been brought to the campus to speak before meetings of the organization. O. F. Tate, secretary of the Oregon Retail Merchants' association, and Dr. Stephen W. Gilman, former professor of Business Administration at the University of Wisconsin, were speakers.

Officers of the local chamber this year have been John Watkins, president; Robert Taylor, vice-president; Dorothy Steimle, secretary; Howard Hobson, treasurer; and Forrest Pickett, editor of the student directory.

Room 108, commerce building, was fitted out by members of the chamber as a reading room for commerce students. This room also serves as the office to Alpha Kappa Psi and Beta Alpha Psi, national commerce fraternities.

The college organization took complete charge of a successful meeting of the Corvallis chamber of commerce, furnishing the program of music and speeches.

AZE upon these two wane, wanton, waddling, Gwashed-out widgeons. It will be your last chance, for in a short time this noble pair of souls will be set loose to prey upon the world in general, aided and abetted by sheepskins.

Grant McMillan, erstwhile politician, handy-man and sportsman, gets the first call for no reason at all. Grant could tell all he knows in two minutes and it wouldn't take any longer to tell what he and from Portland and isn't any cripple on the campus, either. It is most amusing to see him take part in the Y. W. C. A. candle services. "Dubb" Spriggs has completed his article on "The Best Date on the Campus and Why I Am." We have checked up closely, however, in both L. A. and Corvallis and found that there isn't anything under those padded shoulders and the funny looking hat he sometimes wears. The one thing this big Phelps-Take-All man is accredited with is keeping the wolf away from the Theta door.

"Dubb" both know. "Upright-grievous" Grant is

I may be from way back in Maine Where the women aren't so hot, But this college rushing problem. Has taught me just a lot.

A dizzy bunch of D. Z's Then took me out to sup, But they seemed all buried With their noses sticking up.

A Diary Exposed

The first night I came to town The Kappas met me at the train; They talked of Francis Miller till— Well, I'll never go there again.

Then the K. D. marcel avenue-All jiggles, jags and jumps I can't remember the girls at all But I'll never forget the bumps.

Next morning out to breakfast— Miss Evelyn Combs surely did rush me, While the other girls just stood around So a Chi O I simply won't be.

I didn't go to Alpha Xi For I heard it said, "You bet That house way off to the right, there Will take anyone they can get.

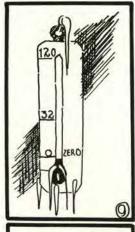

They "Aren't what they uster be"— Was a kind friend's advice, When to the Tri Delt's mansion They took me gladly thrice.

I never cared for lettuce— So of course I would fall When my professor said in class That Alpha Chi's eat it all.

[ 388 ]

A Diary Exposed

The Alpha Gams also I visited They did big pledging-a shock: Imported a truck load from Cal Ob, yes, it's called preferred stock.

The coldest meal I ever ate And yet those Thetas grew I simply couldn't love those dames Because they're frozen too.

At the Zeta Taus for dinner A man for his cords comes And Phyllis Chandler blushes-Am I really in the slums?

That reminds me of Sigma Kappa Who didn't get by very far At least, they had one thing If only Miss Falbe and her car.

To Pi Phi's country residence-There they dine in riding clothes And talk about horses, Then just sit and pose.

The one thing I really remember At the A. O. Pi's fancy ball, Is that I refused to pledge there So they couldn't see me at all.

I know I went to some others, Beta Phi and A. D. Pi, by name But I can't remember when-

The Gamma Phi, Miss Fletcher Deserted me again and again When rushing there in the "L" lunch Here interest seems more in men.

So, that's all I can say of this game. -A. C.

DON BLACK, the "D. H. B." of Barometer editorial fame, also wins a favored position in this group for his lack of weaknesses of any sort, because his editorials are not in the least foul or libelous, for his developed and highly polished personality, for his superior sense of humor, and for his Christianity and good will toward his less fortunate fellow students.

CHARLES WEBER, leader of Pi Kappa Phi, (a fraternity), is named in this issue for his failure to pass the buck and for his superhuman efficiency in his position as chairman of the Greater Oregon State committee, and for his willingness to work in the best interests of the college at all times. (Swell boy!)

RANSOM MEINKE wins the honor position among Oregon State's rarest specimens of perfect manhood for his utter lack of ego, for his excellent scholarship, for his great popularity among the real leaders of the student body, for his untainted and irreproachable political maneuvers, for his absolute unwillingness to slander anyone, and for his dancing ability as demonstrated at Albany "rat races." My, what a boy!

HERSCHEL HALL, Crony of the powers-that-be, is given prominence here for his direct responsibility for the eminence of the Rosswood association, because he is not egotistical, nor bullying, nor overbearing, nor conceited, nor unbalanced in his nature in any degree, and because there is nothing of the egregious in his character. Also because he is noted for his brains. Yeah!

CHARLES HALDORS, Theta Chi, senior hat boy and warrior par excellence, also wins a place here because he is not asinine in the least because he also is neither bullheaded nor dumb, and because he has brought untold fame to his fraternity.

Men I Have Met

Sneaking into Corvallis via Maty's river, I was able to avoid all the Greek high-pressure boys long enough to get all set for the turmoil that was to come when the boys learned that I was in town and ready to put on the old green bonnet.

Deciding to come out in the open for the start of the battle, I thoughtlessly put on my high school football sweater and walked down Madison street. Hadn't gone a block before I found myself surrounded by Betas, Phi Delts, Fee Jees, Kappa Sigs and S. A. E.'s. After losing consciousness for an hour I woke up in the basement of the Phi Delt house where the strong-arm boys were playing feedle-de-dum. They had their deans and coaches there for effect but the two factions didn't mix and while they were battling among themselves I slipped out and headed for the home of Beta Theta Pi of Podunkus, Tennessee, fame.

The Betas looked all in. Thought they, too, must've gone in for feedle-de-dum. They were all sapped out but they passed around a few snozzles brought from the sunny south by Peters. Kirk passed out in the phone booth talking to Holly, but Geddes, that clever lad, picked up the receiver and cooed and gooed for a while and she didn't know the difference. I scored the Betas one on versatility then and there, but I soon crossed them off my list when I got a good look at the assortment of wouldbe athletes and non-scholarly students loafing around. On to the farm, thought I.

So, moving on out Ninth street, to the landing field, I hired an aeroplane for the trip out to the Sleep and Eat estate. Maple met me at the door with open arms, for I was still wearing my high school sweater. He couldn't open 'em far, though, because he was packing two footballs, a baseball and a bat as symbols of his conquests. Guess those Sig Alphs make the most of what blasts they do get cuz close behind Maple was Tubby Dutfield, who was packing an album full of pictures of "prominent" S. A. E.'s on other campuses. Nothing like reflected glory, thought I, but I'll take mine at home—so I took a flyer for the Fee Jee dormitory.

Wading through mud a foot deep and picking up most of it on my shoes, I busted into the Fee Jee front-room, only to stumble over their prized tiger's head. When I picked myself up I found the tiger's mouth full of mud from my boots and Bailey, McEachern and Newcomer bawling like babies over the catastrophe. Of course I was embarrassed but that changed to anger when those would-be social hounds started quoting Emily Post on proper entries into society circles.

Being sorta late, I decided to make a night of it at Kappa Sigma. I hadn't anymore than got through the door and announced myself as an all-night possibility when Walt Manville and Bill Crowston pledged me to the Shifters and the Virgins club. Vern Eilers called me away from other attractions in order to tell me, along with the brothers, about his football conquests. The conversation soon turned to the Thetas, though, and the moonlit nights spent in their back yards in past years when they were neighbors. A night there was plenty.

I had met many Sigma Chi alumni including those jet black boys who shovel things for the Continued on page 394 city and warble the "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" with such skill, but I had never seen the inside of a chapter house until Irish Callahan, with yiddish beauty, invited me in to worship their one man is Drake, according to campus tradition, but the U. S. C. chapter, which handles all Sigma Chi rushing for the Pacific Coast, had sent up a few who might, with a lot of training, qualify as good men, so it wasn't as bad as I thought it might be. A rumor was flying around the chapter house there behind the commerce shack that Dean Doo-bach had obtained a special permit for the boys to give a dance, the reason being, it seemed, to avoid development of a homosexuality complex due to prolonged social probation. That later proved to be false and so my conclusions were that I'd better get in with another bunch.

It was really refreshing to find a bunch of men who were battling hard to live down an age-old reputation. That was my thought after talking to George Scott, guardian of Sigma Nu destinies. What conceit I might have had about my capacity vanished in thin air when I saw those boys bring to life the Sigma Nu traditions so forcefully told in their songs. I couldn't compete there so I headed for the Delta Upsilon home.

A funny looking fellow, or maybe it was a Pomeranian lap dog, met me at the D. U. door. I thought it was a hangout for musicians and piccolo players until I saw the long-haired curiosities with the foppish clothes lounging around. I saw a beautiful bear skin in the den, but imagine my astonishment when the thing got up and walked away. Noticed a fellow dragging on his sax instead of blowing, so, gathering my raccoon in my arms, I backed hurriedly out the front door.

Dropping down to the home of Pi Kappa Alpha, I tried out their davenport for an hour or so, finding it the most used bit of equipment the boys had. A career as a haberdasher, a dilapidated flivver and an abiding desire to do nothing I found to be requisites for membership there. Feeling unqualified to meet such tough requirements, I pulled my freight for the A. T. O. dwelling.

Swan and Macoubray of A. T. O. had succeeded in persuading the rest of the membership to allow them to work out an elaborate two-man rushing system, the principal feature being evening nature study from the south windows facing the Sigma Kappa political rendezvous. They had equipped each window with field glasses and soap boxes. At intervals they served coffee and sandwiches to their guests, who seemed to enjoy the program immensely. I nearly pledged A. T. O. on the strength of Swan-Macoubray rushing but my better nature got the upper hand finally, before it was too late.

It didn't matter much that I hadn't seen the rest of the Greek letter "fraternities" but I resolved to gather a little information about each either by questioning those who know or investigating personally. Here's what I found:

Kappa Delta Rho had nothing but a bunch of "Y" boys and Kay Olsen; Theta Chi was a home for cast-off athletes from the upper rushing group with Chuck Haldors to offset any advantages they might have by reason of a new but poorly put-together house; Alpha Chi Rho had just two men to offer for inspection— Rinehart and Watkins, et al, though Sanders and Heyman have possibilities; Tau Kappa Concluded on page 356

When I came to college I planned to get forever away from the farm element. Therefore, when I entered the Lambda Chi Alpha white house I had only to turn on my heel and walk out again to remain away from that element. But I was there long enough to watch the daily ceremony of adulation conducted about the person of King Whitlock, the one athlete boasted by that organization. Whitlock, they tell me, is not a bad sort and of course he has things soft around the boarding group but it seems a shame to have a bunch of unsophisticated lads bowing down before their mighty hero instead of developing their individual per-sonalities. But such is life. I found the same farm element across the street at the Alpha Gamma Rho barn but minus the hero-worship, there being none to adore. Ted Atkinson, having been sucked in on the honor council chairmanship, probably comes closest.

Hearing that automatic pull with the dean's office was to had by pledging Sigma Phi Epsilon,

I called at the door and asked for the house mother, whom I thought would offer the quickest entree to that organization. Calling in "her boys," she started a round of introduc-tions but the occasion was spoiled when she suddenly discovered one of her most trusted lads had forgotten to throw away his cigarette before entering the door. What followed was nobody's business, especially a rushee. After she cooled off with the aid of a little welldirected cold water, the scholars of Sig Ep escorted me through the underground library maintained at great expense by the chapter. The filing system they had devised for examination papers in all courses would make the designer of the Remington system ask ques-tions, I'll swear. I was next taken before the almighty of the tong, who was introduced as Don Ford, one of the most popular men on the campus. But they meant, 'most popular with the dean," I learned later, and that cooked their goose.

After seeing the rest of the Greek letter "fraternities" I decided the best thing to do would be flip a coin for the first few. And so I did.

LOOKING AHEAD!

That's what all you O. S. C. grads will be doing after you get your diploma, planning for the future—getting ready for what is to come and expecting to win out in whatever you undertake.

While you cannot predict the future you can prepare for it. Whether you enter business or professional life there is nothing that will count so much in your favor as a good solid savings account. You'll find that you will need ready money to enter business or to tide you over while waiting for professional success, and your savings will be a great help.

Start saving now. Keep at it regularly and systematically. Bank some part of your earnings just as soon as you get the cash. Later on you'll be glad you did so.

This bank can help you acquire and continue the savings habit. Call and let us tell you all about it.

JANET HUSTED

Away back in those happy days four years ago when "Brick" Whipps was on the campus were hey-days for Janet. She was just a rookess then, and as pure as a lily of the alley. But the Phi Gamms lived too close to the Fly Pies for nothing to happen. Those good old days are past but not Janet's love for red-heads. Our only hope is that this one turns out better than the last.

MAYSON Davenports and Easy Chairs

-are "Violet Wilters" when it comes to service and "bringing home the bacon." They are built like a Beaver football team—honestly, of good parts, sturdily put together and handsome to look at when in service.

He united the country with nails

EN FRANKLIN made the horseshoe nail a symbol of the importance of little things. "The kingdom was lost and all for the want of a horseshoe nail", goes one of his wise sayings. So when he became Postmaster General, he knew full well the need for proper horseshoeing as one step in punctual mail schedules. The care given to details can still make or break a great plan. In the telephone industry, for example, the development of compact paper insulation helped to make possible the small diameter cable and therefore the vast underground plant necessary to serve large cities.

A multiplicity of details, from the testing of long fibre cotton to the "voice with the smile", offer a continual challenge to the Bell System men who unite the nation with telephones.

EVELYNSIBLEY

THROW back the doors, guards, away back; here comes sweet little Evelyn tripping in lightly as a baby. Yes? She really is a good kid, though, worth her weight in gold anytime—if there is that much. Isn't it a blessing that Evelyn has good looking tonsils?

This Volume would not be a complete resume of the year's activities without at least a mention of another famous group of athletes. "Another famous group" is the terminology used since they are so conspicuous to all who pass their training field that they naturally have become famous. The sport referred to is that fascinating and learned game of pitching pennies, golf balls and what not into the mail box in front of the Electric Lunch. Of such intense interest is this game that it draws mostly from campus celebrities of the socially elite. When these ever-prominent athletes grow fatigued, they lounge about in a restful manner, urging their companions on while being "coosed and billed" over by an equally famous group of damsels. At least 8 hours per day are required to keep in practice. The students of Oregon State are proud of this selective ensemble. We mark you as leaders, for leaders you must be. Such airs of regality, self-importance and sophistication are not to be denied.

CAMPUS politics during the year at Oregon State college has been pronounced in its endeavors to prove more corrupt than ever before. The Volume XXIII Beaver takes this golden opportunity to mark down in history a few of the political maneuvers of the year—takes the opportunity in this section of the book since these events have been nothing more than satirical in nature.

The existing political parties originated a number of years ago under three distinct names. The fraternities and sororities split into two groups, namely the "Blues" and the "Reds." Independent clubs and societies organized together and called themselves "Independents."

The "Blues" controlled political matters until the student body elections in the spring of 1928. At this time, the "Reds" and "Independents" joined forces to win practically every position of importance and continued to do so up to the spring elections of 1929, which occurred just prior to the time of completion of this Volume. A number of the old so-called "Red" fraternities and sororities have moved over to the "Blue" side. This organization is now known as the "Associated Party" and stands primarily on the grounds that the best man should be in office.

However, considerable scandal was raised over the methods under which the election this year was conducted and a faculty committee, appointed by the president of the college, ordered the election void and a new election in order. Foul means to place unworthy candidates in office were resorted to and this occasioned a political battle, the like of which had never before been seen at the college of Oregon State.

The new election will take place after this Beaver goes to "bed." And it nears the completed stage with the assurance that the scandalous proceedings prior to this date are not to be seen again. The wish that this Volume XXIII Beaver carries with it into future years is that its college will again see the election of the best and most deserving students to fill its offices, from the most important down to the least.
