College Heads Give Stand To Stall Company Request For Campus Switchboard

A disinterested reply was given to the OSC cooperative managers telephone committee by the administration in an answer to the request for the College to state its stand on the phone issue for organized living groups. The question was asked whether the College would permit the local houses to connect with the campus switchboard.

E. B. Lemon, dean of administration, answered the committee with the statement that a decision has not yet been fully considered, but some serious obstacles can readily be recognized, including possible legal difficulties. "Certainly, it is not the desire of the institution to go into the telephone business."

Music Students Plan Recitals

There will be 14 recitals given by the music students during the 1952 winter-spring season, according to a schedule released this week by Prof. Robert B. Walls, head of the music department.

Five will be "closed" recitals, open only to music students. The rest will be open to the public with no admission charge.

The public recital schedule is as follows:

March 12, Wednesday, 8 p.m., Ed Terriere, baritone, Janice Herigstad, pianist.

March 16, Sunday, 3:30 p.m., off-campus students.

April 14, Monday, 8 p.m. (mixed).

April 20, Sunday, 3:30 p.m., Betty Patterson, soprano, Virginia Corrie, pianist.

April 24, Thursday, 8 p.m., Helen Kern, soprano, Shirley Powell, pianist.

May 4, Sunday, 3:30 p.m., Mary Adams, pianist, M.U. lounge.

May 11, Sunday, 3:30 p.m., Pebble De Sart, mezzo-soprano, Marybeth Edaburn, pianist.

May 19, Monday, 8 p.m., Larry Bails, tenor, Phyllis Sheeley, pianist.

May 23, Friday, 8 p.m., off-campus students.

All recitals, except the one noted above, are to be held in the Benton hall music center.

Blue Key and Thanés Plan Entertainment

Members of Blue Key and Thanés will meet Saturday night in a preliminary to the Bradley game. The game is scheduled to start at 6:45 and will last for 32 minutes.

Blue Key's roster, which according to a spokesman has been training for three weeks, includes Roy Rouse, Ken Harding, John Thomas, Karl Koster, Don Black, Tony Van Vliet, Doug Decker, Keith Osborn, Don Van Allsburg, Don Hays, Bill Maxwell, Taylor DeMun, Don MacKenzie, Byron Taylor, Bill Brown, Robert Wicks, Bob Ware, Norm Goetze, and Art Chiu. Dan Poling will coach Blue Key.

Thanés, according to player-coach Pete Melhuish, will start with Gary Lindell, Jim Nerman, Roy Strand, Ron Balfour, and Melhuish, with Erv Pearson, Don Pope, John Marshall, Herb Massinger, Rob Barkley, Noel Conway, Ed Maxwell, and Bill Rauber in reserve.

Additional Students Required for Class

In order that first aid classes may be continued, more students are needed. The class is taught by Mrs. Walter Adrian, of the county tuberculosis association, in room 120 of the women's building each Wednesday evening from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The classes review the Red Cross first aid manual. Special emphasis is placed on the proper application of bandages, splinting, artificial respiration, and other first aid techniques. Those students who complete the course are presented with a first aid certificate which is required of all civil defense and many other government workers.

Unless more students enroll in the classes it will be necessary to discontinue them as enrollment at present time is not sufficient to warrant the continuing of classes for the rest of the term.

Variety Show Dancer

PAT KASEBERG, '52, and Edna Manning, '54, watch Helen Troy, '53, as she practices the dance she will do in the Dads day variety show which will be held tonight in the Coliseum.

Variety Show Welcomes Dads

Visiting dads will be welcomed to the Oregon State college campus tonight with a free campus variety show in the coliseum at 8 p.m. The show has been designed to appeal to students as well as dads and other guests, said Don Barber, '53, chairman, so that everyone is invited to attend. "Bring your dad, your date, or just come with your friends," said chairman Barber.

The program will include numbers by the OSC concert band, the men's glee club, the men's physical education department, and a hula dance, a piano duet, and the Tri-Delt trio. John MacKenzie, '53, will act as master of ceremonies for the show.

The concert band will play the "Mexican Hat Dance," "Bet on Board," "March of the Spanish Soldier," and "The Storm King." Members of the men's physical education department will present fencing, boxing, and trampoline exhibitions. Helen Troy, '53, will do a hula dance in native costume, and the Tri-Delt trio will sing "I'll Never Be Free" and "Way Down Yonder."

Barber emphasized the fact that the two hour show will be a casual affair, no need to dress up unless the guests prefer to. Come on down to the coliseum from 8 to 10 tonight for something a little different in the way of Friday night entertainment, said Barber.

Delta Sig Initiates Help March of Dimes

New initiates of Delta Sigma Phi, national social fraternity, collected $100 for the March of Dimes campaign as a regular part of their initiation. The men campused a large part of the residential area of Corvallis.

Performing some helpful deed for the community was inaugurated this term to meet some of the anti-Greek publicity flowing to the public. It is hoped that all fraternities will join the fight to prove their merit. The new members received a quick response in contributions from persons contacted.

The 12 men initiated by Delta Sigma Phi were Bill Osborn, '52; Dick Griffith and Bob Stothers, both '53; Don DeBuse, Loren Gardner, Bob Miller, Don Sepich, Owen Tichnor, and Elwood Tracy, all '54; Boyd Brown, Mell Craven, and Rod Hensley, all '55.

Shaw's 'Born Yesterday' Resembles Pygmalion, Ancient Greek Legend

George Bernard Shaw wrote a play, based on the ancient Greek how a person's personality is changed through education. Pygmalion was a Greek sculptor who fell in love with his statue of Galetia, and then asked the Greek goddess Aphrodite to give it life. This old theme is used once again by Garson Kanin in his play of a modern Pygmalion, "Born Yesterday," which will be produced at the Oregon State college playhouse February 6, 7, and 8. Much in the manner of Galetia,

Pictures for Beaver To Be Taken Today

Beaver pictures to be taken today and Monday in Memorial Union lounge are as follows:
Today—11:50 a.m., B and T club; 12:15 p.m., Euterpe; 12:30 p.m., co-resident women's board of trustees; 12:45 p.m., collegiate Future Farmers of America.

Monday—12:15 p.m., Dairy club; 12:30 p.m., engineering student council; 12:45 p.m., Farm Crops club; 5 p.m., 4-H club; 5:15 p.m., Future Teachers of America; 5:30 p.m., Institute of Aeronautical Sciences; 5:45 p.m., Xi Sigma Pi.

Cosmo Club Plans Program

Gordon Marker, '54, general chairman of International week, and Allison Logan, '52, program chairman of the same event, will speak tonight to Cosmopolitan club members and guests at 8 o'clock in M.U. 208. They will discuss the theme and program of the week, which begins February 17. After the discussion, a social period with dancing and refreshments will be held.

Ayele Moltotal, '52, of Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, was elected president of Cosmopolitan club at a regular meeting last Friday night. Moltotal is a sophomore at OSC after having previously attended school in the United States at Greenville college, Illinois. Also elected at the meeting was George Varseveld, graduate student from Canada, as vice president.

National Honorary Elects Officers

Glen Dillon, '53, has been elected president of Sigma Tau, national engineering honorary fraternity. Others elected to office are Sterling Ditsworth, vice president; LaVerne Marsters, recording secretary; Vic Bringle, corresponding secretary; Fred Tinker, treasurer; and Tom Lindberg, historian, all '55. M. R. Haith, assistant professor of general engineering, is the faculty adviser.

Job Interviews For OSC People To Be Arranged

Representatives of seven business groups will interview students for jobs next week. Alumni and faculty will also be offered job opportunities. Jobs will be available for all types of engineers, chemists, physicists, mathematicians, and business and technology students. Interviews may be arranged in Dearborn 109.

Chemical engineers, chemists, mathematicians, and business and technology students will be interviewed for the Hanford works by Tom Marshall of General Electric company. Stan Martz will interview physicists and mechanical and electrical engineers for General Electric's Schenectady plant. There will be a group meeting Tuesday, February 5, at 4 p.m. in Dearborn 301.

Tom Marshall, a graduate of Oregon State college, was the former director of engineering placement at OSC before he went to work for General Electric. Thursday and Friday M. S. Hodge of Proctor and Gamble manufacturing company will interview mechanical, electrical, civil, chemical, and industrial engineers.

Representatives of the naval research laboratories and the National Bureau of Standards' research laboratories will be on the campus Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday to interview graduating seniors, graduate students, and alumni. Definite offers of employment will be made to those fulfilling the requirements of mechanical, electronic, electrical, and aeronautical engineering, and in physics. Some openings exist in other engineering fields and also in chemistry and mathematics.

A film showing the research facilities and activities of the laboratories, including the development and testing of guided missiles and improved rockets, will be shown at a group meeting Monday, February 4, at 4 p.m. in Dearborn 301.

The following groups of the naval research laboratories of California that will be represented are U. S. Navy electronics laboratory, San Diego; U. S. naval ordnance test station, Pasadena; U. S. naval ordnance test station, Inyokern; U. S. naval air missile test center, Point Mugu; U. S. naval

Student Peace Group Hears Talk on UMT

Implications of universal military training were discussed by Rev. Robert D. Bulkeley of the Federated churches at a regular meeting of the student peace council Tuesday night in the Memorial Union.

Rev. Bulkeley emphasized that the universal military training bill should be fully discussed by the people and should not be hurried through Congress before they learn of the broad demands the bill requires of them.

Some of the measures included in the bill were discussed. A general discussion following Rev. Bulkeley's talk found active support both for and against the bill.

Four Initiated, Chi Phi

Chi Phi, national social fraternity, recently initiated Robert J. Wright, '53, Edwin Rolfness, '54, John S. Ferguson, '54, and David Jabusch, '55, according to Ray Schmidt, chapter president.

Bloodmobile Plans Stop at Corvallis

The Bloodmobile will be in Corvallis, at the Elks lodge, Tuesday, February 5, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., not from 1:30 to 9:30 p.m. as was stated in yesterday's issue. Dad's weekend will be an opportune time for you prospective blood donors, under 21, to get the parent release slip signed for your next donation. They may be obtained on the counter of the east day.

OSC Graduate To Speak Here

Robert V. Kerley, of the aircraft fuel division of the Ethyl corporation, will speak on "Recent Developments in the Fields of Aircraft and Automotive Fuels" this evening at 7:30 in Dearborn 301. Kerley graduated from Oregon State college in 1929. He was in charge of aviation fuel testing at the NACA laboratories for about 15 years. He is now in the aircraft fuel division of the Ethyl corporation research laboratories and is nationally recognized as an authority on aircraft fuels.

Kerley was one of the group of distinguished mechanical engineering graduates offered honorary membership in the chapter of Pi Tau Sigma installed at Oregon State in 1941. At that time he could not be present at the initiation and now will be initiated at a special ceremony during his visit to the campus.

Food Tech Gets New Equipment

The pilot plant of the food technology building is being filled with equipment used to seal cans. This equipment has been sent by the American Can company, whose specialists will conduct the double seaming course held during canners' and freezers' school beginning next Monday.

The attendance at this year's double seaming class, according to E. H. Wiegand, head of food technology at Oregon State college, is expected to be one of the largest so far. Men from California processing plants will attend the class along with men from Oregon and Washington. Preliminary estimates by Professor Wiegand indicate that over 100 men will attend this section of the school.

The double seam, used to seal food cans, is formed on high speed machines that close cans at the rate of 12,000 an hour. Watchlike precision is required because the tolerance is just .002 of an inch, less than the thickness of a sheet of notebook paper.

Food Tech Dedication Will Be Held Monday

Dr. R. V. Wilson, director of research for the Continental Can company of Chicago, will arrive in Corvallis Monday for the dedication ceremonies of the food technology building.

He will speak Friday, February 8, on the subject of "Recent Developments in Canning." The talk will be based upon his experiences as director of research for the Continental Can company, which is one of the two largest can companies in the United States.

Myatt to Instruct At Summer Session

Wilfred G. Myatt, associate professor of geography, will be guest instructor of geography for the 1952 summer session at the Portland extension center.

Professor Myatt will teach three classes which will include political geography, geography of North America, and geography of Africa.

ATO Initiates Eleven

Arthur Avritt, Blair Finlay, John Berg, Bob Belknap, all '54, and Harry Joy, Douglas Souvignier, Bob Simons, Randy Egerton, Gordon Aune, Kurt Boettger, and Stanley Green, all '55, were recently initiated into Alpha Tau Omega, national social fraternity, announced Doug Decker, '51, chapter president.

Mortar Board Ball Committees Picked

Girls Reveal Honored Guest List for Dance; Decorations, Plans Progress for Feb. 9

The list of honored guests to the annual Mortar Board ball has been released. This year's ball is scheduled for February 9 from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. in the Memorial Union ballroom. The dance is sponsored by Mortar Board, senior women's honor society.

President and Mrs. A. L. Strand head the list, which includes Dean and Mrs. E. B. Lemon, Dean Mary I. Bash, Miss Martha Morton, Dean Dan Poling, L. E. Darlington, and the deans of the schools on the campus.

Patrons and patronesses will be Melissa M. Martin, professor of modern languages; Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Mockmore; and Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Peterson. Mortar Board advisers are Miss Morton, assistant dean of women; Miss Marie Diedesch, associate professor of clothing; and Dr. C. K. Smith, professor of history.

Committees headed by members of Mortar Board have been working on various phases of the ball under the direction of Janet Schadewitz, '52, general chairman of the ball.

Women to Repay Men
The Mortar Board ball is the one event of the year when the women pay the expenses and repay the men for dates during the rest of the year. Among the unusual features of the dance are the corsages which co-eds make for their dates. Often these corsages are made to fit the date's particular interests.

Dinners at the various women's living groups usually begin the festivities. Women traditionally assume the dominant role for this one night. They perform the little acts of chivalry for which they often look in vain the rest of the year.

Committee chairmen under Miss Schadewitz are Arlene Thompson, finance; Mary Ann Cushman, Joyce Gettinger, Carolyn Kach, and Mary Adams, decorations; Bev Kendall Marker, tickets; Normita Ellis, programs; Masako Endo and Cheri Knox, guests; Gina Johnson, Lou Seibert, and Sally Shideler, publicity; Claralyn Lee and Jane Cline, plaster board; Janet Lekas and Carol George, refreshments; Norma Miller Andrews, clean-up; and Janet Rutherford, band.

Annual Ag Banquet Picks Top Speaker

Colonel T. H. Lipscomb, Portland army engineer, will be the main speaker at the annual agriculture banquet February 14 in the Memorial Union ballroom, announced F. E. Price, dean of agriculture at Oregon State college, yesterday. Colonel Lipscomb will discuss "Power Development and Flood Control in the Northwest."

Colonel Lipscomb became district engineer in the Portland area June 1, 1951, before which he was assistant division engineer of the North Pacific division in Portland. Following World War II, Colonel Lipscomb supervised construction work in Greenland, and spent two and one-half years in Turkey, where he acted as engineer for the American mission in reorganizing and equipping the Turkish army and air force engineers and helped develop plans for improvements of the Turkish airfield network and roads important to the Turkish army.

Dean Price commented that "The supply of water for irrigation in this area is low and in the future there will be an increasing shortage of water because of greater industrial development and population increases."

OSC Student Wins Soldier of Week Title

A former Oregon State college student recently took top honors from among three other finalists in his battalion as the "Soldier of the Week."

Private First Class Lester Hill, stationed in Berlin, Germany, was selected on his soldierly appearance, good conduct, proficiency in military duties, and knowledge of current affairs. Private Hill is an ammunition bearer in the battalion.

Engineers Show Light Display

Ancient and modern lighting equipment was displayed before more than 100 students, faculty, and businessmen at a recent joint meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers.

The program was prepared by the Oregon section of the Illuminating Engineering society. Many special types of lights were demonstrated including colored fluorescent lamps, infra-red heat lamps, ultra-violet "black light" lamps, germicidal lamps and many others.

Program chairman was Jerry Collins of the Portland General Electric company. Other speakers were Ellsworth Fletcher of the Portland General Electric company and chairman of Illuminating Engineering society, Walter Potter of the General Electric lamp division, and Robert E. Lange of Eoff Electric company.

University Offers Women Scholarships

Six graduate assistantships for women in counseling and guidance are being offered by the Ohio Wesleyan university. Women between the ages of 20 and 30 who have earned a bachelor's degree with distinction are eligible. Personal qualities and demonstrated ability to work with people are given major consideration.

While taking courses toward her M. A. degree, the candidates serve as assistant to the resident counselor in a dormitory. A minimum of 12 months will be needed to acquire the 30 semester hours required for the degree. The service schedule of a counseling assistant includes 21 hours a week of scheduled time, plus a weekly staff meeting and occasional committee work.

Each assistant occupies a single room in the dormitory and receives board, room, and tuition. Appointments are made for the academic year, from the opening of dormitories in September through commencement in June. Applications should be made no later than May 15, by addressing Miss Audrey M. Parker, dean of women, Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, Ohio.

Interview Recorded By OSC Graduate

An interview recorded in Germany with Walter Schroeder, Oregon State college graduate, will be broadcast tonight at 9:30 over station KSLM, Salem.

Schroeder, former county 4-H extension agent in Coos county, is stationed with the army in Germany. He entered the service in September, 1950. The recording was made by Dave Hoss, KSLM program director.

Hoss was previously in Korea and is now in Germany preparing radio recordings with Oregon men in the service.

Newman Club to Eat

A breakfast of pancakes and coffee has been planned for all Catholic students and their fathers Sunday after the student mass at Newman hall.

The first four pews on each side of the church will be saved for club members and their fathers as this is Newman club communion Sunday.

Spirit Needs Face Lifting

Dads day is coming (tomorrow to be exact) and Oregon State is staging a basketball game with Bradley. Hopes have been expressed that perhaps it will be the best of the season, at least as far as school spirit and cooperation is concerned.

Dad may have gone to school many, many years ago. At any rate they had spirit in those days. Schools were smaller but the noise was bigger, or so we've been told. People went to games to let off steam and enjoy themselves, not to sit sober faced, smiling with every score and moaning or booing with every bad break. Everyone was behind the team and the team knew it. Let's be "old fashioned" this Saturday night and really give off with the spirit.

signed to interest students willing to cooperate with the yell squad and increase school spirit. It's a fine idea and has had noticeable results, but that is not enough. It takes more than the spectators sitting in the few rows of the balcony to be heard on the floor and across the floor (where many dads will be sitting).

The Corvallis Gazette-Times printed a short editorial column Monday night comparing the spirit of Corvallis high school with Oregon State rooters. A pretty sad story! To be compared with this younger group is bad enough, but to be outweighed in the community's opinion is too much. Let's exert some energy Saturday night and erase the accusation that Oregon State college has no school spirit. We do! Let's show it and help our team be on the winning side. (B.G.)

Criticism has been voiced against those students who are members of campus organizations who have been given the privilege of special seating during basketball season. They are still members of the student body and should abide by Oregon State customs. All students and interested parties ALWAYS stay and stand for the Alma Mater after athletic contests, win, lose, or draw.

"He'll be the only guy in history to laugh his way to a college degree."

Got a Date?

The low murmurs heard in the hallowed halls of living groups, over the tables in Eiler's, and under the skylights of the Memorial Union are the wails of the dateless. And they have good reason.

Friday and Saturday nights, February 22 and 23, will see a great number of social functions going on at the Oregon State college campus—44, to be exact.

Forty-four social events. A gayer whirl could never be. A festival in Venice could never match the merriment and music to be heard in Corvallis three weeks hence. Why, the old cow-town will be prancing as wild as ever was seen within the precincts of our more sophisticated sister to the south, Eugene.

Of course, there will be difficulties. Hiring 44 bands is impossible and hiring half that number is next to it. The Benton Printers, the Franklin Press, the OSC Co-op, Cascade, and all the other print shops in town will be running night and day turning out tens and hundreds of brightly-hued programs to be written in, handed over, and hung on walls for years to come.

Refreshments will be hard to get. Decoration supplies will be sold out. The cleaning shops will throw up their hands at the arm-fuls of tuxes, dark blue suits, and delicate formalists that will come in the week before. Yes, it will be a merry time.

Forty-four houses wouldn't have to have their dances on the same nights. They wouldn't, if they would schedule them early in the term. But everybody is too busy to plan and discuss and do the many little things necessary to stage a dance. So they wait, and they wait, and they wait until they have time.

The trouble is that the big dances compete, and basketball games compete, and finals show up to kill the fun. The scheduling committee could do something. They could allot so many dances for each weekend. After the quota was set—no others. But then the cry would go up "Dictatorship!" "Who's running us, anyway?" "Off with their heads!"

The committee is sitting back, tending its duties. It's trying to save big dances from financial loss, trying to pep up a lagging school spirit, trying to keep up the school standards. The abuse it's received makes it hesitant to extend more control.

Forty-four dances are set for one week-end. Will you get a date? (T.P.)

Church Notes Has College Generation Lost Grasp of Religion?

—By Andy Salmins

The silent college generation, recently sensationally described by "Time" magazine, probably really lost its tongue for at least one previously well-liked subject . . . religion.

Good companionship is one of the essential qualities of a student church group, nobody will deny the value of good recreational fun, but it is not all the church group can give to you. How many students who like to participate in the social activities of the group ever actually take part in the discussions and forums? How often do they listen attentively but remain merely silent?

And yet the church groups offer most of the few opportunities for students to participate in a real debate about the issues which sooner or later will become important to every human being. Why not refute the calumnies "Time" propounds by action?

Wesley Foundation
"Voyage to Rome," a movie on the last part of St. Paul's life, will be shown Sunday at 6:30 p.m. Rod Royce, '54, will present a brief sketch of Paul's life before the movie. The program will be concluded in time for the SVM panel.

Wesminster House
Open house will be held Friday night. The breakfast class will discuss "Life Meaning" by Henry Van Dusen at 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

Deseret Club
A fireside has been planned for Sunday at 9 p.m., following evening services at the LDS chapel. The club will meet Tuesday at 5 p.m. in Memorial Union council room for a social hour.

Canterbury House
Religious music of Handel and Bach will be discussed by Robert Walls, professor of music, following the evening prayer and supper at Parish hall Sunday at 6 p.m.

Christian House
Barn party at Plymouth community center has been scheduled for Friday night. Transportation will be furnished at 7:30 p.m. Glenn A. Bakkum, head of the sociology department, will speak about church in Egypt Sunday at 6 p.m.

Delta Gamma Initiates
Thirteen pledges were recently initiated into Delta Gamma, social sorority. They include Jo Ford, Nonie Gates, Janet Cochran, Sharon Duffy, Sandra Schaff, Kathy Paulson, Martha Lohland, Janet Hise, Mary Weber, Nancy Loftus, Marilyn Neil, Mildred Patton, and Bonnie Johnson, according to Mary Ann Cushman, '52, chapter president.

Campus Comment Pi Phi's Initiate Ten; New Officers Elected

A Plea for Blood

In the Barometer you have noticed many pleas that people are needed to give blood next Tuesday at the Corvallis Elks lodge at Third and Monroe. The response has been nil.

A mother who has an only son, one of my best friends, fighting on the front in Korea, wrote me a letter asking for help.

"Have heard nothing since. I want to quote part of it to you and ask your help. Jim says, 'There's one thing I'd like to impress on you and have you pass on to your friends and that is the crying need for blood over here. The extreme importance of this can't be minimized. It means, simply, the difference whether or not I ever tread the walks of 62nd again. Blunt, yes, but at a time like this that's the only way.'"

Mother Urges Donation

"Mac, will you, as his friend and mine, give your pint and get all the fellows in the house and elsewhere that you can to do likewise? You are all young and healthy and are leading easy lives and doing very little compared to the boys over there. People are so apathetic until it comes home to them, and I ask you to give that much time and effort for us in return for what we have done for you."

"I am very worried and very nervous tonight. I wish that you were here.

Love,
Margaret."

Make an Appointment

I would like to ask you as a personal favor to call 3-6628 and make an appointment for next Tuesday between 9:30 and 1:30 to give a pint of your blood. You can still give again in May when the Blood Bank comes here to the campus as the proper time will have elapsed.

It requires so little of your time, but means so much to them. What is an hour of your time compared to a friend's life?

A ROBERTS BROS. STORE

January 31, 1952 brings to a close this fiscal year . . . and the end of our 40th year in the hardware business in Corvallis.

It also brings an announcement of our retirement from ownership and management of the hardware store through which we have so long and earnestly made our effort to serve you and your hardware needs.

If we have attained some measure of success as a retail hardware store, we know to whom the credit should go . . . it is to you. And it is you that we now want to thank . . . for your patronage, for your friendship, for your co-operation with us in making Corvallis a better and better shopping center.

We feel that the new management will carry on and continue to improve the store and its services in keeping with the changes and growing requirements of our trade area. We wish them success and a happy association as an integral part of our community.

The Appliance Center, having been operated for the past two years as a separate business with Bob Stenerson as a partner and active manager, is not affected by the sale of the hardware store and will continue its service to you in the appliance, radio and phonograph field.

Many Groups Discuss Military Training Act

By ANDY SALMINS
Barometer Staff Writer
The universal military training act, which is being considered in congress at present, is the subject of controversy among different groups and persons on campus. Recent discussions conducted by Round Table and Student Peace council brought out a number of conflicting opinions held by persons interested in the bill.

Main objections to the bill were that it would bring a number of 18-year-olds under direct influence of the military, which would result in "indoctrination" and bad morals, according to one speaker. Others said that military training and army life would train the young people to teamwork and better discipline. It might result in preparedness for actual fighting and thus save the lives of the soldiers.

These claims, however, have not been justified by experiences in fighting. The act should be deferred until the relaxation of military tensions would let it be examined with less haste, argued the opposers of the bill. The other side replied that the present world situation is probably not going to relax in foreseeable time. "The threat of armed conflict is the main justification for the passage of the act," said one student.

A veteran objected to the bill since he spent seven years in the army and has experienced military life in all its harshness. Another declared that the training would be a valuable experience to the young boys.

A number of people considered the plan as more democratic than the present selective service system, since it would draft everyone except a small number of medicine and engineering students, who would be only deferred for the duration of their studies. However, a number of countries in which dictatorships exist used the same system (Nazie Germany and Communist Russia), according to others.

Seven Groups Plan Student Interviews

National Bureau of Standards' laboratories in California are Corona laboratories, Corona, and the Institute for Numerical Analysis in Los Angeles. These laboratories offer their scientific and engineering employees an excellent opportunity to make contributions to science and to progress in their field, reported the Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners for scientists and engineers. The board also said the research facilities are ranked among the finest in the world.

Standard Oil company of California is interested in all types of engineers and in chemists and physicists at the M.S. and Ph.D. level. H. W. Gaunce, chief engineer of the Richmond refinery, and K. J. Mortsof of the personnel department will interview those interested in jobs Monday and Tuesday.

Local Theatre Shows Oregon's Own Movie
By Kirby Brumfield

"Bend of the River," Oregon-filmed saga of early pioneer days in 1847, made its Corvallis debut last night at the White-side theater. Despite the enthusiasm generated by the Hollywood-styled world premier staged in Portland, this picture has all the action, intrigue, and beautiful scenery that goes for good western entertainment.

Although Jimmy Stewart, Julia Adams and Arthur Kennedy play the leading roles, the star of the picture should be Oregon. There is rarely a scene which does not feature Mount Hood, the Columbia or the Sandy river. The technicolor camera has captured these scenic spots in their vivid color and used them as the setting for the action which arises in the picture.

The story depicts Stewart as a reformed renegade who guides a party of Midwestern farmers to Oregon. A former outlaw acquaintance of Stewart's and villain of the picture is played by Arthur Kennedy.

Heroine is Julia Adams, who not only photographs beautifully, but does a fine job of acting. She engages in light romance, typically western style, with both Stewart and Kennedy.

Rock Hudson, as the gambler, and beautiful Lori Nelson provide the secondary romance. These two stars, with Julia Adams, visited Corvallis two weeks ago on their tour of the Northwest previous to the world premier. The cast is rounded out by numerous other well-known character actors, including Stepin Fetchit, Jay C. Flippen and Henry Morgan.

In the words of the Motion Picture Daily, "Bend of the River" easily belongs among the best of the out-of-doors action films in recent years.

"I am for the bill. I have to go in the army, so I wish that everyone else would go too," declared a student who had a 1-A classification.

Campus Comment
College Must Progress

TO THE EDITOR:
Upon reading Mr. Pease and Mr. Woodcock's article in the Barometer column of January 24, several conclusions were immediately arrived at.

First, it seems to be a common policy for those who do not take part in the formulation of a new policy, a new plan, or a new idea, to criticize anyone else who does try to formulate something new. Admittedly the social calendar was not in the best of order, that some campus elections were not organized and carried out in the best of electioneering practice and that not all people are perfect, but nothing is ever going to get done unless someone tries something new. We would like to remind Mr. Pease and Mr. Woodcock that we would still be using horse and buggies if it had not been for the pioneering spirit of some men of another era.

Mr. Pease and Mr. Woodcock seem to delight in using that "big bad wolf" technique in trying to explain why there is supposedly a lack of school spirit. Aren't you boys afraid the "big bad wolf" will get you for the article you wrote in the Barometer of January 24?

It would be interesting to find out how Mr. Pease and Mr. Woodcock define school spirit. Is it that kind that comes from a bottle? Hmm, or is it that type of spirit that one associates with dynamite?

Alpha Gams Initiate

Alpha Gamma Delta, international social sorority, initiated six members last weekend. The new members are Carmen Craft, '52; Nadine Harmsen, '54, and Joyce Graves, Nancy Swan, Barbara Larson, and Mary Lewis, all '55, announced Marilyn Smith, '52, chapter president.

miting football fields and other public property, or is it that spirit we associate with some of the older institutions of learning such as Ol' Eli, Eton, Harrow, and Harvard? If it is, perhaps one should analyze what each of these schools are, their physical and cultural make up.

First it will be noted that they are all liberal art universities; they are among the oldest institutions of learning in their respective countries; they are wealthy, compared with other universities. They are about the best universities of their type in the world; they number some of the world's wealthiest and greatest men as their graduates. What about Oregon State college? It possesses almost none of these qualities.

Speech Prof Invited To Describe Oregon To Bradley Fans

Harold Livingston, assistant professor of speech, received an invitation to appear on the Oregon State-Bradley basketball game half-time program from his hometown's NBC radio station, WEEK, at Peoria, Ill., Saturday night.

Radio station WEEK follows the Bradley team and carries a play by play description of the action by play description of the action by play description of the action originally from Peoria tell about items of interest in the visited area.

Livingston was born and reared in Peoria and won his first national oratorical contest in high school. He started his radio career and coordinated the radio education program for Peoria schools while teaching Woodruff high school. In 1946 he began instructing speech at Oregon State college.

Livingston said "this is a complete surprise, though pleasant, and will be a nice birthday present." He will be speaking on his birthday.

High-Scoring Bradley Five Makes Only NW Showing

Bradley university and the Oregon State Beavers will continue a basketball rivalry that dates back to 1941 when the two teams meet tonight at Portland. The game will be played at the Pacific International pavilion. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Peoria, Ill., team will be making their only Northwest appearance of the season. Tomorrow night the scene will shift from Portland to Gill coliseum where the two quintets will match abilities before a Dads day crowd.

Orange Coach Slats Gill plans to match Bradley's speed with a starting lineup consisting of Danny Johnston and Jim Padgett, forwards; Tex Whiteman, center; and Ron Fundingsland and Bill Toole, guards.

Fundingsland has broken into the starting lineup for the first time in his college career. The sophomore guard is noted for his basketball savvy. He has been a dominant factor in the Jayvees' success this season. Fuds was twice selected as an all-stater when playing for Jefferson high of Portland, and was the Rose city's high scorer during one season.

Johnston, who usually operates from a guard position, has an 11.1 point average per game and is the Beavers' highest scorer. He is also the most accurate foul thrower on the coast, boasting an average of 88.5 percent accuracy.

Bradley first met the Orange-men in December of 1941, with the Braves barely edging out the Beavers, 47 to 46. One year later, another close contest was held, with the Peoria team taking the win, 42 to 41.

Most lopsided game of the series came last March in Honolulu when the Beavers turned the tables on the Braves for a 75-to-45 tournament winning game. Earlier in the year, Bradley had beaten the Beavers 77 to 74.

Running true to form, this year's Bradley machine is a high scoring outfit, averaging 66 points. Guard Bob Carney is the principal point getter.

Tonight's contest will be preceded by a J.V.-Portland Air Base contest which starts at 6:30.

Cindermen Progress In Winter Session, Await Spring Term

Track workouts are now getting into full swing after the recent announcement of the appointment of Hal Moe as head track coach. The sprinters have been working out under the supervision of George Fullerton and Rudy Ruppe since January 8. The cindermen are preparing for spring term meets.

Sixty-six men have turned out since the first call with several due to report soon. At present, these aspirants are undergoing rugged conditioning drills. Moe declares he will "have them in top condition before the first meet."

Five returning lettermen provide the foundation on which Moe will build his team. They are Duane Eby, shot put; Merv Brock, star sprinter; Lyle Dickey, pole vault; Jack Peterson, 440 yard run; Ralph Sutton, javelin. The Beavers were hit hard, losing Captain Joe Fisher, Royal Delaney, George Fullerton, Jerry McCarty, and Danny Miller, lettermen on last year's squad.

Probable Underdogs
Oregon State will probably be in the underdog role in the northern division this season, Moe reports. Besides the few returning lettermen, they lack depth in most positions. Many promising newcomers are expected to partially overcome this, however.

Workouts are now being held in the army until later in the term. The Orangemen's first meet will be with the Willamette University relays early in April, but several intra-squad meets will be held prior to this.

Sigma Pi, and Dick Elters, Phi Kappa, each scored 8 points. PKA Stops Phi Psi Team
Byron Madden, Phi Kappa Alpha, helped his team to drop Phi Kappa Psi with his 10 points. Dick Spray also tallied 10 points for the losers.

The Half-Shots proved themselves the victor with a 25-24 win over IVCF in league A-F.

A one-point margin decided the winner between Delta Sigma Phi and Delta Chi, 22-21. Tom Kasberger, Delta Chi, scored 9 points for the losers to grab high point honors.

The only "B" league game scheduled was taken by Sigma Nu in a forfeit from Phi Kappa Phi.

In league "C," Sigma Nu doubled Pi Kappa Phi in a 26-13 ball game. Don Thompson bucketed 8 points for the winners.

Poling hall was wallopped by Phi Sigma Kappa 30-15. John Miller was too much for Poling with his 12 points.

The final game in league C-Z was given to Sigma Phi Epsilon on a forfeit from Peavy hall.

The Forest Service has adapted an extensive avalanche prevention program by establishing a number of avalanche research stations in the western part of the country. Thus far there are two research centers established, one at Alta, Utah, while the other one is located at Berthoud Pass, Colorado. Their primary purpose is to observe the critical snow conditions which result in an avalanche as well as safety measures required to prevent same from coming down at an inopportune time. Also the methods for avalanche rescue work will receive additional attention.

At the present it is a standard operation to blast or shoot a slope which represents an avalanche hazard, thusly bringing down the avalanche prematurely before it has the opportunity to build up to dangerous proportions. Notably at Alta, Utah, this is a matter of operational procedure. The Utah National Guard maintains a 155 mm howitzer and a 75 mm recoilless rifle in the ski area, and whenever conditions warrant it, they are used to shoot dangerous slopes so as to bring down an avalanche. On ridges not accessible to artillery fire, present dynamite charges are detonated to achieve the same result.

According to the Forest Service survey, skiing is very rapidly becoming a major winter sport in the nation. At the present there are over four million skiers who partake in the sport with variant degree of frequency and skill. As the result of this new ski areas are constantly being developed, and in each, avalanche threats must be dealt with. For it is not only the steep slopes which are subject to avalanche danger. Practice has shown conclusively that any slope of over 20 degrees may come down under proper conditions.

For Better, For Worse...
At the present, due to a regrettable incident in the past, the school does not have a ski team. Last year repeated efforts to form a ski team proved futile, and a number of competent skiers participated in various ski meets on individual basis. This was not due to lack of varsity caliber skiers at the school, but rather to their inability to function as a team unit under guidance and assistance of a faculty member who would act as a supervisor and a coach.

This year, indicative of the interest in skiing present on the campus, a large number of hopeful skiers attended a series of meetings designed to further the cause of a school sponsored ski team. While this season is still under way they plan to have a series of workouts both to increase their individual skill and further team cooperation. Cross country slalom and downhill practice will be held at frequent intervals at Hoodoo, while jumping will be restricted mostly to Hood. Thus, next year only pending the recognition and support of the athletic department, OSC will have an efficient, smoothly functioning ski team.

The majority of potential ski team members are underclassmen, and this will serve as an assurance that the spontaneous interest evidenced now in a ski team is here to stay.

New snow is expected over mountain passes, and more coming down in the immediate future. Chains, while not a matter of necessity, might prove very handy on going either to Mt. Hood or Hoodoo. There has been eight inches of new snow at Santiam Pass and approximately the same amount at Hood. The newly fallen snow is mostly powdery, due to prevailing cold weather.

Dick Schwaegerl of Yakima, Washington, the new Pacific Northwest Ski association combined champion, won the meet with a large majority of points. He won three of the four events, being beaten only in jumping. Joe Lisac of Portland followed in the second berth, edging Jerry McClellan of Ketchum by a bare two tenths of a point.

Undeclared J.V.'s Will Meet Airmen Tonight in Prelim

The undefeated Oregon State junior varsity will be after win number eight tonight against Portland Air Base. Coach Paul Valenti's quint has run up big scores in beating seven straight opponents this year.

Fresh from an upset win over McChord field, the Pilots will be out to avenge the defeat handed them by the Beaver juniors last week.

Ex-Beaver Absent
Absent from the fliers' lineup will be ex-Beaver hoop star Jack Detour, who played three years under Slats Gill before graduating in 1949.

Coach Valenti's starting lineup will be altered somewhat by the loss of Ron Fundingsland to the varsity. A sparkplug all season long, "Fuds" was the junior varsity's second high scorer with 57 points.

Frantz to Lead
Sophomore Bob Frantz will lead the team from his guard post. Frantz, who started several games for the varsity, is the leading scorer for the J.V.'s with 72 points in six games, a 12 point average.

At the other guard post will be Johnny Jarboe, a freshman from Franklin high in Portland. This is the first starting assignment for Jarboe, who has collected 29 points.

Art to Start
Six-foot nine-inch Art Henriksen will draw the starting nod at center. The Long Beach freshman has been improving greatly according to Valenti. Henriksen has scored 45 points in five games.

Big Bud Shirliff will start at forward. In six games he has countered 53 points. His backboard work this season has been excellent, Valenti said.

Varsity letterman Cub Houck will open at the other forward position. Houck's 46 points is third high for the junior varsity. Slated to see action also are Wes Ediger, Ron Johnson, Don Thompson, and Bob Simpson.

Beaver Mermen Host Duck Team Saturday
Oregon State's varsity swimming team will launch its northern division season against the Oregon Webfoots in the men's gym pool here Saturday at 2 p.m.

Probable performers for OSC are Ernie Madsen, Burt Lavack, Al Irwin, Ron Naab and Bill Knapp, free stylers; Dave Paine and Wilfred Loggan, breast stroke; Don Baker, Dick Spight and Bill Rock, back stroke; and Bob Steinsler and Pat Williams, divers.

Cinder Meeting Called For All Track Men
Hal Moe, newly appointed track coach, has called a meeting of all track men for tomorrow at 10 a.m. in the varsity track room located in the basement of the coliseum.

Those who have been turning out as well as all others interested in track and field, are requested to attend. Freshmen are especially invited to attend this meeting.

OSC Varsity Wrestlers Meet MAC Tomorrow

Olympic rules will be in effect when the Beaver wrestlers meet Multnomah Athletic club in Portland tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the MAC gym. Coaches of both teams agreed on the change because both will compete at Pullman in March at the Northwest Olympic tryouts.

Under the Olympic rules, points for takedowns, escapes, and near falls vary from the collegiate system. The bouts will consist of four rounds, one four-minute and three two-minute rounds. Falls will be scored whenever both shoulders touch the mat rather than when the shoulders are held on the mat for two seconds. No change is made in meet scoring.

Zielinski vs. Buhler
The Saturday afternoon meeting between MAC and the Beavers promises to be a donnybrook. Several old rivals will meet again on the mat. Rod Zielinski will tangle with his bitterest foe, Paul Buhler. Buhler was coast champion and mat captain in his senior year at Oregon State. The two light-heavyweights split a pair of meetings last season.

Another hard-fought go looms in the 167-pound class when Beaver captain, Bill Mosby, will be matched with Don Whitbeck, amateur coach of the Vanport wrestling squad that tied OSC last weekend. The two have never met before, but have long contemplated the coming match. Whitbeck and Mosby are both defending AAU champions of the Northwest in their divisions.

MAC Claims Ebert
Far western champion, Page Ebert, has moved to MAC from the Olympic club in San Francisco. Ebert would have been matched with Dick French had French not been called into the air force. Either Harlan Buhl or Don Taylor will be assigned to the task of defeating Ebert.

Grand finale of what will be a hotly contested, dog-eat-dog afternoon of wrestling, according to all indications, will be the much-discussed meeting of Herb Habermach, MAC, and John Witte, great freshman heavyweight. Both camps predict victories for their men.

Norbert Leopold of SAE fared no better as he lost both sets 21 to 9 to Charles Heinrich of Lambda Chi Alpha. Warren Kan of TKE bested Bob Keller of LCA, 21-12 and 21-8. Herb Messinger of Alpha Tau Omega clobbered Era Smith, Sigma Pi, 21-6 and 21-14.

George Allison lost the first set, 21 to 4, but he at least gave Don Lindquist, Acadia, a scare in taking a 21 to 18 loss. Toni Syriotis didn't stand a chance against Ed Dey of Phi Kappa Tau. Tony Van Wilt of Kappa Sigma and Bill North played the most crucial game of the night. Van Wilt edged North 21 to 18 and 21 to 15.

Glen Dillon of SPE wallopped Dick Moulton, Jefferson hall, 21-8, 21-11. Clare Taylor of ATO and Chuck Johnson of Campus club won their games by a forfeit.

Jake Leight to Quit
THE DALLES, Ore. (UP)—Jake Leight, headof football coach at The Dalles high school, said Thursday he would quit his post at the end of the current school year.

Leight, former Oregon star, said he had no plans for the future right now and was not sure whether he would stay in the coaching field.

Phi Kaps, DU's Win In Handball Contest

Phi Kappa mauled Kappa Delta Rho in a league A-D intramural handball encounter Wednesday night in the men's gym. The combination of David Wagner and Carlo Rollando, Phi Kappa, proved to be too much for Irvin Hill and Vern Yaden of KDR as they lost both sets 21 to 7 and 21 to 11.

In the class C-Z league Don Steimer and Norman Hutchins of Delta Upsilon slaughtered the Kappa Delta Rho pair, 21 to 4 in both sets. Hank Rupperecht and Jim Huskey played for KDR.

Deadline Wednesday For Mural Wrestling

All students wishing to participate in intramural, team, and individual wrestling, were urged yesterday by Chuck Dailey, intramural sports director, to file their entries in the intramural office in the men's gym before the deadline Wednesday.

Matches are set to start Tuesday night, February 12, and all entries must be in so schedules can be made up. Weighing in will be in the afternoon of the same day.

Each living organization will be allowed to enter up to 15 men in the single elimination tournament. There is no limit on the number of entries allowed in each weight division.

The eight weight-classifications or limits are 125 pounds, 135, 145, 155, 165, 175, 185, and heavyweight or unlimited. Each individual will be allowed three pounds overweight before he will be raised to the next group.

Matches will be held two at a time in the Varsity wrestling room in the men's gym. Each bout will be three minutes in length.

Dolan hall, champion for the last two years, is again a strong contender for the title. Delta Chi is another perennial contender.

Last year's individual champions were Dick Asai, Dolan, 125; Jack
