Improvement Of Undergraduate Education Told As Mission

"It's time we picked up our share of the load," the chairman of the institutional student committee on higher education, ASOSU, said in a meeting Tuesday to Eugene to battle the state's education.

provement of undergraduate education," Saddler said. He continued to say that committees such as this have been attempted in the past, but have ended primarily because the students did not have the knowledge.

Saddler said this has changed and students are becoming more knowledgeable of the big business and politics involved in higher education. This summer, Saddler, a graduate student at the University of Oregon who has worked previously with the Board of Higher Education as a journalist, met with ASOSU President Paul Schaber and University of Oregon Student Body President, Scott Farleigh, to develop this committee to hopefully represent all nine state supported institutions to the State Board of Higher Education.

The State Board was approached and Saddler was given recognition as a representative of the students governments and will thus receive all communications of the Board and the privilege of speech if his request is met. Saddler was quick to point out the nature of his position on the Board of Higher Education. "The whole game is a two way street. They are willing to listen to us and it is our obligation to listen to them," he said.

Saddler listed his objectives for this first year of the committee and explained that there would be no sweeping changes. "First I want to get accepted. If we can get the group a viable and on-going, organization, we will have accomplished something," Saddler emphasized.

Communication with the developing community colleges, student initiated academic programs, the parking situation on the campuses were several areas Saddler mentioned.

He also stressed that improving the voting population of the needs of higher education was not only a task for the state system, but also a responsibility of the students, the direct beneficiaries of the system.

"We are going to get less money or we are going to educate the public," Saddler explained.

Saddler is directing an inter-institutional student committee on higher education which will consist of the elected student body president one vice-president and one appointed student from each institution.

Oregon State University students on the committee include ASOSU President Paul Schaber, first vice-president, Jim Hueghl and Charlie Adams, OSU junior and member of the Public Affairs committee. Presently Saddler is in the process of seeking the official approval of all the states supported schools. As of Tuesday evening he has received the approval of the three largest institutions, Oregon State, the University of Oregon and Portland State College.

This year Saddler is being paid $75 most of which goes to traveling expenses. He wants to get this salary to become truly inter-institutional within the year. In talking of the future of the committee, Saddler said that every effort was being made to deal with the turnover of personnel.

He stated that his graduate standing was not a liability as he has two years of grad work to complete and if approved by the committee would continue as chairman.

He also stated that he was the only graduate student on the committee and that future representatives would undoubtedly come from the undergraduate ranks but that this initial year has necessarily been an exception.

EM - Twenty-three Marion County public health nurses stayed home from work for the second day Wednesday and may be out of jobs. Dist. Atty. Gary Gortmaker said the nurses' walkout constitutes a strike, which is in violation of Civil Service rules. The county commissioners had said that if the nurses didn't return Wednesday, they could consider themselves fired.

Brye To Lead Program For Music Education

Joseph Brye, Professor of Music and Head of the Oregon State University Center of the State for Music in Community Education, OSU is one of 31 colleges and universities in the United States that has been selected to participate in this endeavor. Brye will conduct workshops in comprehensive musicianship as it applies to the private music teacher. On the university level there will be several minor changes in the basic theory course. There will be more stress put on composition and analysis, rather than the traditional four-part harmony method. The music studied will also be broadened by studying Twentieth Century music as well as earlier music. This is a one year project, and OSU is one of five universities in the Northwest participating in the program.

Lost Hunter Found Safe

Dave Parks, 19, 719 East 19th, Albany, became lost during a hunting trip near the Old Peak Road five miles west of Highway 30 Tuesday and was the object of a three-hour search by a party of 25. Parks and his companions Benny Lee Moore, Albany, and Larry Moore, 616 N. Third, began hunting on Old Peak Road southwest of Philomath at 4:30 p.m. Parks wandered away from the other two and had not returned to the car by 9:30 p.m. Benton County sheriff's officers were called and they alerted the Explorer Scout Post 170 search and rescue unit who were at the scene by midnight. Parks was found about 3 a.m. near a campfire he had built to await daylight. He told police he became lost just before dark and after dark he was completely disoriented.

OSU's Parker Stadium Sees Summer Growth

Someone from the Agriculture Department must have been experimenting with a new fertilizer around Parker Stadium last summer, because the stands on the west side have put on some new growth. When the Beaver rooters on that side want to run down to the field and tear down the goal posts, they will have to negotiate 82 rows of seats to do it. On the other hand, if they like to do things the fast way, they can take one big 120-foot step over the back of their seat to the ground. And that big orange structure on the top isn't an ear of corn, it's the new press box. If the newsmen and reporters get restless during a game, they can sprint up and down the 40-yard hallway. There are four radio booths, with room for a six-man crew in each, two 23-foot and two 11-foot long television and photographer's booths, and space for 88 pressmen in other smaller rooms. Last year's freshman class president, Becky Hemphill, will preside over the assembly. Voting for freshman class officers will begin tomorrow, Oct. 13, with the primary elections. The polls will be open from 8:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. Freshmen will need their student body ID cards and the current fee receipt to vote according to Senate Elections and Services committee chairman, John Siebs. Polls will be set up at seven locations around campus. They include Snell Hall, Jefferson and 14th by Callahan, Jefferson and Campus Way by Fairbanks Hall, the middle of the MU quad, Bexel Hall and the east and west sides of the Home Economics building. According to Siebs, a candidate who acquires 50 per cent of the vote will win the election. Office where no one candidate receives half the votes will be limited to the top two contenders. Final elections will be held next Friday, Oct. 20. The turf is being conditioned for the first home game of the

'Scholarship Meel' Planned For Today

Help is here for all women scholarship chairmen who are planning and organizing their scholarship programs for the coming year. The Associated Women Students will hold a Scholarship Workshop for all women scholarship chairmen, Thursday noon in MU 206. The Workshop, part of AWS Scholarship Week, has been planned to help living organizations solve study problems which have already risen and to prepare for others which are likely to come later in the year. Pamphlets and fliers on study aids and good scholarship habits will be distributed. Girls are asked to bring their own sack lunches. AWS Scholarship Week will end Friday night with a hootenanny in the MU Ballroom from 8 p.m. to 10:30. Everyone is invited to attend.

Wasn't Fertilizer

Actually, that wasn't fertilizer that was flying around this summer, it was $600,000 green American dollars. Which brings up the cost of the Parker Stadium to a modest $1 million, a very reasonable price to pay for 41,000 seats. The new construction was financed by large personal donations engineered by Charles Parker of Portland and athletic department reserve funds. Another Addition Due Athletic business director Comm Hennessy says the new addition is just one more step in the planned expansion of the stadium. In about five years, when the expected enrollment at OSU will be 18,000, the east side will sprout another 9,000 seats. The turf is being conditioned for the first home game of the

Adolph Lecture Set Tonight On Impressions Of Viet Nam

By JAN JESSUP Staff Writer

"The United States may be at a very crucial moment - we seem bent on relying on military power in our foreign policy and police power to meet our domestic problems. Frankly, these are the basic ingredients of a police state," commented Dr. Leonard Adolph, professor of history, who will speak on his impressions of Vietnam tonight, Oct. 12, at 8 in the Home Ec auditorium.

Dr. Adolph spent eight months in Vietnam from Sept. 15, 1966 to May 15, 1967, teaching American Civilization as a Fulbright Professor at the University of Saigon, the Buddhist University at Van Hanh and at the Catholic University at Dalat. He will talk on the country, the people, the sanitary conditions, politics and our involvement in the war.

Mistaken Assumptions According to Dr. Adolph, the American people - particularly the great middle class - have a mistaken assumption: that the solution to Communism is a military one; but the military cannot alleviate the desperation, poverty and disease one finds in Vietnam. "War is not an honorable thing," said Dr. Adolph. "Where is the glory in the biggest power in the world annihilating one of the poorest peasant countries?"

He pointed out that before the bombing of North Vietnam started, the height of their industrial production was probably less than half that of the state of Oregon. "The bombing is not destroying their industrial economy - they never had one anyway."

To those who think Red China is the real threat, Dr. Adolph says, "Eighty-five per cent of North Vietnamese guns and ammunition come from Russia. At the moment, China's industrial production is a little over that of Belgium. Quite honestly, I find it difficult to get hysterical over a nation with the industrial output of Belgium and twice as far away."

Rook Hopefuls To Talk Today

Freshmen will meet the candidates for rook class officer in an assembly to be held today from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Memorial Union Ballroom. Each of the 29 candidates will present a campaign speech. The presidential candidates will be limited to two minutes and the other candidates will have a minute and a half to give a speech. Last year's freshman class president, Becky Hemphill, will preside over the assembly. Voting for freshman class officers will begin tomorrow, Oct. 13, with the primary elections. The polls will be open from 8:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. Freshmen will need their student body ID cards and the current fee receipt to vote according to Senate Elections and Services committee chairman, John Siebs. administration can be organized that the people will support? Extremely Pessimistic On the basis of what he saw, Dr. Adolph does not believe that North Vietnam will negotiate. "The pattern of the war is established and I am extremely pessimistic," he stated.

By next year we'll probably start destroying Hanoi and Haiphong, then begin annihilating the cities and cutting down the population. Next summer, perhaps we'll bomb the dikes and this can destroy up to six million people. If none of this works, we'll probably invade, which won't work either. We can't even control the war as it is with half the territory," said Dr. Adolph.

How Wonderful! "And when we are done, we'll have made a quivering pulp of the people and the country; we'll throw in a government and a flag and say, 'How wonderful that we have freed these pitiful people from Communism!'"

"You know, the Vietnamese people have an amazing warmth and humanness about them, despite the ravages of the war," reminisced Dr. Adolph. "The men seem battered and torn, but the girls are the most lovely creatures ever conceived. And Vietnam is a beautiful country - like a great tropical garden. I am truly concerned about my country. Is America willing to go to any extreme in the name of anti-Communism? Human life is just too precious."

Capitol Tour Includes 107

One hundred seven Oregon State University foreign students visited the Oregon State capitol in Salem Monday. The group was welcomed by Gov. Tom McCall. They were given a tour of the governor's office, the senate and representative rooms, and finally went to the top of the capitol building. "One could see camera's clicking like crazy," one student remarked. The students, were from the Far East, Mid East, South America, Canada and Europe.

Two Education Majors Named To Court

Tina Floberg, Kappa Kappa Gamma, plans to teach fourth grade in the Beaverton school district after graduation. She is a recent recipient of the Phi Delta Theta award for her major campus activities. Tina is an education major.

Karen McCurdy, Delta Upsilon, is a member of the Beaverton Belles. This summer, Karen attended summer school and presently is working on training table, helping to serve the football team their meals.

Commenting on the method of selection for this year, Karen said, "In the past years, it has almost been like selecting a fraternity court where only a few people have a say. The students did not really get to see the girls and make up their minds from this observation. It was almost based on who you knew or who you are. This year it seems the students are really going to get to see the girls!"

To Karen, the homecoming queen "represents a college coed who in the opinion of the OSU students possess that needed something that they want to be represented by. She need not be a real beauty queen but she should know how to react to different situations that may come up whether it be a formal dinner or Homecoming bonfire. Above all she should care about OSU and how she would represent it."

"The amount of the score does not matter to me just so OSU comes out on top, commented Karen on the game with WSU.

Defining quality, Karen says, "Quality to me is a group of different characteristics such as a fine character, personality, poise and many other attributes that when these are assembled together in a person, they determine the worthiness of one's value in friendship."

Dickinson On Board

Dr. E. M. Dickinson, head of the Department of Veterinary Medicine, at Oregon State University has been appointed as a member of the Construction of Schools of Veterinary Medicine Review Committee in the Bureau of Health Manpower, U.S. Public Health Service.

The Health Professions Educational Assistance Act, Public Law 88-129, provides for assistance grants for construction of new educational facilities or modernization of existing facilities to increase the supply of professional health personnel.

The committee will meet several times a year to make a preliminary review of construction grant applications from Schools of Veterinary Medicine and provide advice and recommendations regarding such applications.

Part of the assistance provided for in this act is designed to help universities increase their capability in training a greater number of students in the profession of Veterinary Medicine.

Counseling Center Increases Staff; To Maintain High-Level Service

Although no increase in staff was authorized for the present school year, the Counseling Center will be able to maintain a high level of service through additional staff education.

Dr. Robert Dyer has completed his doctoral degree in counseling psychology at the University of Oregon. Dr. Dan McKinnon has a degree in counseling from Arizona State University and Dr. Raymond Sanders is from Michigan State with a doctorate in clinical psychology. A third new staff member, Mr. William Venema, has completed his work for the doctorate in counseling at Washington State and is waiting for his final oral exam. Mrs. Karen Becker, another counseling staff replacement, has completed her Master's degree in counseling and guidance at New York University.

Dr. Sanders will be assisting Dr. Straumfjord, campus psychiatrist, at the Student Health Service on a part-time basis. Drs. Dyer, McKinnon and Sanders will hold joint appointments with the Psychology Department.

Other staff changes include Dr. Dale Simmons of the Psychology Department who will assist with the counseling; Mrs. Leanne Joyner Buscher, research assistant; and Miss Betty Woolley, the Center's receptionist. Mrs. Jean Lewis has rejoined the staff after a year's absence as the Center's secretary.

During the past year, over 1000 members of the campus community were seen by the Center's counselors and another 170 were members of groups run by Counseling Center staff. No appointment is necessary; one needs only come to the Center in Room 308 Education Hall to talk with a counselor. There is no fee for the counseling service.

'Vietnam Today' Topic For TGIF

"Vietnam Today" will be the topic of an informal discussion at TGIF Friday noon in the West Ballroom of the Memorial Union.

Leonard E. Adolph, Oregon State University professor of history, will speak. Recently returned from Vietnam on a one year Fulbright Grant, he anticipates reaction to the observations he has made.

Adolph will also speak Thursday night in the Home Ec Auditorium, and the TGIF discussion will consist mostly of a question-answer period.

Students and faculty are urged to bring their lunches and participate in this timely discussion.

Forestry Professor Travels To Sweden

Dr. Kim K. Ching, professor of forest genetics at Oregon State University, has received a Fulbright grant for a year's residence in Sweden where he will do research in forest genetics at the Royal College of Forestry in Stockholm.

His wife, Dr. Te May Ching, associate professor of seed physiology, will also conduct research while in Sweden on electron microscopy and cellular biology at the Wenner-Gren Institute, University of Stockholm.

During their stay, the OSU scientists will visit many laboratories and experiment stations in various parts of Europe.

Their daughter, Annabel, will accompany them and will enroll in a Swedish high school as a special student.

Traffic Court Installs Two

Two members of the student Traffic Court were installed at the ASOSU Senate meeting held Tuesday evening.

John Collins '69 and Mark Murray '70 took an oath given by ASOSU Senate Chairman, first vice-president, Jim Huegli.

As members of the all-student Traffic court, the two will judge and handle all appeals concerning traffic violations made on campus.

Other members of the committee include James Blake, Dave Zier, '69 and Mike Clark, '68.

Dr. Whaley Chosen As Textbook Editor

Dr. Russell F. Whaley, Oregon State University associate professor of hygiene and health education, has been selected as editor of a new elementary health textbook series to be published by J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia.

The series will be designed for children from kindergarten through the sixth grade. This will be Lippincott's first venture into the health field for this age group, Whaley indicated.

The series will be a "handbook" for growing up. It will be directed to the growth and developmental levels of the children, and will emphasize the "why" of health practices. Main sections will deal with health, safety practices in the home and school, and the physical, mental and social processes of growing up.

Dr. Whaley joined the OSU staff last year after serving on the faculty of the University of British Columbia. He is a fellow of the American School Health Association and is associate editor of the American Journal of School Health.

Beaver Memo

S.O.E.A. Student Oregon Education Association is having an open house Thursday, Oct. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in MU 206. The speaker will be Dr. Keith Goldhammer, Dean of Education. Red Sox Recover Power; Explode For Tying Victory

BOSTON (AP)—The fighting Boston Red Sox squared the World Series Wednesday by outpitching the St. Louis Cardinals, leading 12-11 in the sixth game 8-4 in a wild, gripping brawl.

Rico Petrocelli hit two into the screen atop the Green Monster wall in left field and Carl Yastrzemski and Reggie Smith each hit one homer for the Red Sox. Lou Brock hammered a two-run 440-foot blast into the Cardinals' bullpen.

A record total of 11 pitchers, led by the groggy Cardinals, were used by two clubs, setting a dream game duel for Thursday's seventh game between Boston's Jim Lonborg and St. Louis' Bob Gibson, both two-game winners.

Ten Red Sox went to bat in an amazing seventh-inning rally by the desperate Red Sox, who had seen their 4-2 lead melt away on Brock's tremendous homer off John Wyatt. Before the inning was over, four runs had scored on Joe Roy's double, five singles and a sacrifice fly.

During the unbelievable inning, Brock made an unsuccessful leap for Foy's drive that went for a double, driving in the tie-breaking run. Shortstop Dal Maxvill broke the wrong way on a doubleplay ball that bounced through for a single by George Scott and Smith's fly ball fell among Brock, Curt Flood and Maxvill for another single. This was a complete switch in a series that has been dominated by the fine pitching

Oregon State Favored Over Brigham Young

Despite the loss to Washington, Oregon State is back in the favorite's role this Saturday against Brigham Young.

The Beavers, underdogs the past two weeks against Iowa and Washington, have been listed as six-point picks by national oddsmakers to defeat the Cougars at Parker Stadium.

In the big game at South Bend, Ind., top-rated USC is a surprising 12-point underdog to once-beaten Notre Dame.

Oregon is a 12-point underdog at home against Washington while UCLA is picked by 20 points over California. Stanford is tabbed by 10 points over Washington State.

Purdue, OSU's next opponent after BYU, is a six-point choice over Ohio State.

Cornell, quarterbacked by ex-Corvallis high star Bill Robertson, is a slim three-point choice over Princeton in a key Ivy League game.

Beavers Join Pac-8 Grid Elite

By RANDY HAMMERICKSEN
Assistant Sports Editor

The hot bed of collegiate football on the Pacific Coast throughout its history has traditionally been located in the state of California with its four major universities, California, Stanford, UCLA, and USC.

If you add to this list the more recent efforts of the Washington Huskies, you get a total of five schools that have completely ruled the roost as far as producing winners in this neck of the woods.

Face Savers
The "big four" from California and Washington's Huskies actually have partaken in the role of "saving face" for not just the Pacific Coast, but the entire West for many years. All five have been throughout most of their histories, top notch football schools, sporting rich football heritages.

In the last 15 years, two of these five traditionally powerful teams have fallen by the wayside and another has been added to make the total now stand at four.

New Addition
Stanford university and the university of California each have seen their football prowess falter basically because of stifled entrance requirements. It is a very rare occasion that you find an outstanding athlete that performs equally well in the classroom, more less a whole team of them.

The new addition that joined with the elite ranks of USC, UCLA, and Washington was a school in Corvallis, Oregon whose football team wore black jerseys, and had a new coach named Tommy Prothro.

Prothro Takes Over
In 1955 Tommy Prothro took over the head coaching job at Oregon State replacing Kip Taylor. It was at this point in its football history that people began asking where Corvallis, Oregon was.

While at the helm, Prothro boosted OSU football fortunes upward and for the first time, big time football had arrived at OSU.

During Prothro's ten-year era at Oregon State he compiled a glittering 63 won, 37 loss, and three-tie mark, which produced two Rose Bowl representatives.

Come Long Way
The OSC and OSU Beavers have come a long way since they trounced Albany College 62-0 in the first football clash in the school's history played in, you guessed it, 1893.

In the years that followed they took on some real rock-em sock-em football teams, to the likes of the Catholic Y.M.C.A. and the Chemawa Indians. They even managed a few tustles with the Oregon Ducks.

"Big Change at OSU"
OSU publicity director Johnny Eggers recalls Tommy

In 1957 the Beavers met a tough University of Iowa squad in the Rose Bowl. In this picture wingback, Sterling Hammack snares a touchdown pass from aerial ace and tailback Jue Francis. It was a 7-2-1 season for the Beavers, and marked the beginning of better things to come at Oregon State.

OSU Rushing VS. BYU Passing

It's the nation's fourth best rushing team against the fifth best passing attack here Saturday at Parker Stadium.

Latest NCAA statistics show Oregon State listed No. 4 in ground gaining among major colleges with an average of 252.3 yards per game.

Brigham Young, Saturday's Beaver foe in the Parker Stadium opener this year, is fifth in passing with a 251.3 yards-per-game average. The Cougars also share the lead in rushing with 209 yards, the fourth best passing attack, 255.3 yards a game and the seventh best offensive attack, 397.3 yards a contest.

Defensively, the Cougars are fifth in defense against the rush, allowing only 46.3 yards a contest.

Phil Odle, BYU split end, is third in pass receiving with 26 catches for 380 yards and three touchdowns. OSU's Steve Preece is tied for ninth in scoring with 30 points. Team-mate Gary Houser is 11th in punting at 42.8 while Bill Enyart ranks, 23rd in rushing with 289 yards.

The Beaver schedule after BYU offers some interesting challenges:

—Purdue boasts Mike Phipps, third in total offense with 828 yards in three games and 12th in passing with 41 to 93; Leroy Keyes, ninth in pass catching with 20 receptions and tied for ninth in scoring with 30 points; the fourth best passing attack, 255.3 yards a game and the seventh best offensive attack, 397.3 yards a contest.

—Purdue boasts Mike Phipps, third in total offense with 828 yards in three games and 12th in passing with 41 to 93; Leroy Keyes, ninth in pass catching with 20 receptions and tied for ninth in scoring with 30 points; the fourth best passing attack, 255.3 yards a game and the seventh best offensive attack, 397.3 yards a contest.

Co-ed Bowling Opens

Students interested in joining the co-ed bowling league at OSU may sign up now at the Activity Center. Single or team applications are welcome, and there is a charge of $5 a person or $10 a couple. League meetings are on Monday and Thursday 3 to 5 p.m., or Sunday 1 to 4 p.m.

Three Bowl Visits
If that isn't enough, just remember OSU bowl appearances in say, the last ten years. We find two trips to Pasadena in 1957 and 1962 taking on Iowa and Michigan, respectively, in the Rose Bowl, and a 6-0 victory over Villanova in the Liberty Bowl on a 99 yard TD gallop by a guy named Terry Baker.

Finally, a look at the new and enlarged Parker Stadium with a seating capacity of 41,000 certainly reflects a big time football flavor.

"Big Dee" Takes Over
Tommy Prothro is not the only man that deserves credit for bringing the Beavers from the depths as far as football prowess is concerned, right up to the top.

A very likable gentleman by the name of Dee Andros certainly rates praise. Dee came to the Beaver camp from the University of Idaho, and has kept the winning tradition alive in the state of Oregon. We still tried to get some good out of stater, but generally speaking, we first were looking in the state of Oregon," notes Eggers.

Oregon State football has certainly come a long way since 1893. Let's hope it goes as far in the next 74 years. With guys like Tommy Prothro and Dee Andros around it seems a cinch.

However, when Dee Andros came on the scene three years ago, he recruited more heavily in the state of Oregon. We still tried to get some good out of stater, but generally speaking, we first were looking in the state of Oregon," notes Eggers.

OSU publicity director Johnny Eggers recalls Tommy Prothro's first year at Oregon State. "When Tommy Prothro came to OSU in 1955, Beaver football suddenly took a big change. Instead of a doormat, Oregon State was a championship contender, almost overnight.

"That first season under Prothro in 1955 resulted in a 6-3 season, and 2nd place PCC finish. The next year, Oregon State was in the Rose Bowl and from that point on, the Beavers have more than held their own against everybody in the league."

The SHAKE-A-PUDDIN Revolution!

WHAT IS ITS SIGNIFICANCE?

Beverly Basic, Dept. of Anthropology
Archetypical. The ritual of the Midnight Pudding Snack is well established in primitive societies. Since Shake-A Puddin' does not require refrigeration, it lends itself to use in dormitories (surely one of the most primitive societies), thereby fulfilling this basic, instinctual human drive at the precise moment it arises.

Harry Holesome, Dept. of Health Education
The American Dream come true. Shake-A Puddin' combines healthful nutrition, bracing exercise and, above all, Good Clean Fun. An essential part of the Physical Fitness Program.

Sylvia Cimbill, Dept. of Psychology
Truly Freudian. Powder and water are mixed in a cup, an obviously mammalian formation, seen on a deeper level as Mother. One shakes the cup, in a desperate but futile attempt to shake off the inhibiting Superego and ree the primitive id.

Michael Media, Dept. of Sociology
A true product of the Electric Age. Shake-A Puddin' has transformed a fragmented, time-consuming, mechanical task into an almost instantaneous, totally involving experience. Definitely "cool." Although equally good at room temperature.

Francine Factor, Dept. of History
Of tremendous historical significance. Had Shake-A Puddin' been discovered in the 18th Century, the French Revolution would probably never have taken place when it did. Marie Antoinette's famous remark, "Let 'em eat cake," would no doubt have been transformed to "Let 'em eat puddin'," thereby appeasing the masses for at least another century.

Shake-A Puddin', the new instant dessert mix from Royal.
Just put water and powder in the cup, snap the lid, shake for 30 seconds and let it set. In Chocolate, Vanilla, Butterscotch or Banana. Each package complete with four puddings, spoons, lids, and throwaway shakers.
